WOMAN BEATEN TO DEATH IN HOME AT CEYLON, ONT.

Body of Mrs. Henry Love Was Discovered To-Day Under The House By Her Husband—Tragedy Occurred On Tuesday—Victim Was a Religious Woman

Flemington, Ont., Dec. 12.—One of the most gruesome murders that has occurred of recent years was perpetrated at Ceylon village, a mile and a half from here some time on Tuesday. It was not discovered until between twelve and one o'clock this morning.

The victim was Hannah Lucille, wife of Henry Love, aged 46. At an early hour to-day her body was discovered in an excavation under her home which formed a portion of what was intended to be a cellar. The house is a common frame structure in the form of an "L" with the main cellar under the front portion and only partially excavated under the rear. It was under this back part that the body was found. When taken out it presented a terrible spectacle, covered with blood, and with wounds on the neck and on the head.

The only evidence to be found upstairs were a few blood stains on the edge of the cellar way, leading down from the dining room, but these were covered by oilcloth which hid the trap door. At the bottom of the cellar door were other blood stains, but the body had evidently not lain there, but been dragged over the earth around the steps and thrown into the depression mentioned "under the rear of the house, where there was a great pool of blood. From all appearance the woman was struck down while in the kitchen, thrown down the cellar, then dragged up and over the earth obstructions and left where she was found.

Mrs. Love was married to Henry Love in 1900. She has one son, Arnold, who is attending school in Flemington, and a daughter, married to William Hand, of Lepey. The case is one of profound mystery. Mr. Love says that on Tuesday last he kissed his wife good-bye and drove a load of coal to Flemington. On the way back he met his son, who was on his way to school. When he got home his wife was not in the house. The son says his mother was at home when he left for school. The boy says he met a stranger about a quarter of a mile from his home, and describes him as wearing a striped suit under a black overcoat. When the lad came home after four o'clock his mother was not home.

Mr. Love says, he went down into the cellar for something, and made the ghastly discovery. He aroused the neighbors and the Coroner of Flemington was immediately telephoned for. A jury was empaneled and met in the house at 10 a.m. to-day. After viewing the remains, an adjournment was made until Monday next at 1 o'clock p.m.

WILL NOT PRODUCE DOCUMENTS UNTIL NAVY BILL IS PASSED

London, Dec. 12.—The Times' Ottawa correspondent represents Premier Borden as doubting the accuracy of Premier Asquith's reply to Arthur Lee "as called from London." The full answer is as follows: Premier Asquith: "Certain arrangements of a general character have been agreed to between the Admiralty and the Dominion Government regarding the transfer of certain battleships to the Royal Canadian Navy on police sufficient to allow for their replacement being given, and with regard to the placing by the Admiralty of orders for some light cruisers in Canada, the training of Canadian naval cadets and other minor matters. The papers on these subjects will be laid before the House when the bill now before the Dominion Parliament has received the royal assent."

CAN A UNITED STATES COURT DISSOLVE CANADIAN MARRIAGE?

Moore Jaw, Sask., Dec. 12.—Whether or not the United States has the power to dissolve a marriage made in Canada is one of the cases to be decided at Regina in the Supreme Court in the immediate future. Dan McKenchar, who has a farm near Milestone, and is well known here, has been arrested on a charge of bigamy, and the circumstances of his case have this international aspect. According to information received McKenchar was married in Canada but left for the States with another woman. He lived there long enough to become naturalized and then obtained a divorce from the woman whom he had left in Canada. It is alleged that while in the States he lived with, and afterwards married the woman with whom he eloped from Canada, and afterwards brought back to Canada.

DUDLEY SHOT HIMSELF WITHOUT RINGING BELL

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 12.—Crased by jealousy over a woman, B. C. Dudley, 33 years old, shot and killed Charles McGee, 19, shot and slightly wounded Duffy Sexton, aged 23, and then killed himself last night. Dudley and Sexton were guests at McGee's home. Without warning Dudley shot the other man and fled. After going a mile he came to a railroad crossing. "Why don't you flag me," he asked the flagman there. "You did not ring your bell," was the reply. "Well, I will then," said Dudley, as he drew a pistol and shot himself dead.

XMAS STAMPS ALLOWED USED CONDITIONALLY

Good News for Peterborough Health Association and Kindred Charities.

Yesterday Postmaster Edgar was in receipt of two communications, each of which bears glad tidings to the charitable disposed ladies of the Peterborough Health Association. It is known that the local press has intimated and correctly, that the Department had forbidden the sale of Christmas stamps sold by such institutions as noted above. The postmaster has received a letter from the Department, Toronto, stating that such stamps may be used on letters, provided they are attached to the back of the envelopes, so as to avoid distracting the attention of mail clerks at this busy season.

The directors of the National Sanitarium Association have learned that an impression was abroad in Peterborough that the sale of Christmas stamps issued in aid of the work of the Association was not to be carried on until the last day of school preceding the holidays, when the teachers are to deliver addresses to their pupils concerning the cure and prevention of tuberculosis. This impression is erroneous, as the stamps were released for sale several weeks ago. The directors also considered the fact that stamps were being sold in Peterborough in aid of a local institution, but on the advice of prominent Peterborough citizens who are members of the Christmas stamp committee, and who reported that there was room for the sale of both stamps, it was decided to proceed with the original plan of selling in the city, more particularly because of the fact that patients from Peterborough are now being cared for at the institutions maintained by the Association.

LAURIER ADVOCATES FLEET FOR BOTH CANADIAN SEAS

Liberal Leader Comes Out For Building of Two Super-Dreadnoughts, With Yards, Docks, and Building Plants in Canada—Direct Contributions Un-British

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—A Canadian fleet for each of Canada's coasts, with a super-dreadnought as the centre of each fleet; the establishment of yards in Canada, and the building of the ships as far as possible in Canada; the fleets to be manned as far as possible by Canadians, and to be maintained by Canada, ready to go to the aid of Britain in time of emergency, was announced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, this afternoon, as the proper policy for the Dominion and the Empire, and one which he would be prepared to enact if given the opportunity. The announcement created a profound impression. The Liberals cheered and cheered again.

Parliament and the public showed as great an interest in Sir Wilfrid's declaration as in the naval announcement made by Premier Borden. The galleries were jammed to suffocation, distinguished outsiders were seated on the floor of the chamber, everyone was on the alert for the announcement.

Un-British Un-Canadian. When Sir Wilfrid arose, his striking figure attracted the attention of the great assembly, and commanded instant silence. He took no time in getting to the core of the matter. Sir Wilfrid condemned the Borden policy of direct contribution as un-Canadian, un-British and against the best future interests of the British Empire.

HOUSE DEBATE

Mr. Borden Promises an Immediate Order From Great Britain

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—Premier Borden rose at 3.20 o'clock to make the second reading of the resolution. The Premier read some further correspondence. The first letter was from the Premier to the Right Hon. Winston Churchill, in which he pointed out that it was impossible to build dreadnoughts in Canada, but pointed out the necessity of encouraging a ship-building industry in Canada. In the reply of Mr. Churchill, he said he recognized the importance of encouraging such an industry, both from Canadian and Imperial standpoints. Certain classes of vessels light cruisers, oil tanks, etc., could be built in Canada. They would be prepared to let tenders in Canada. They would be prepared to let some tenders at once. The Admiralty would be responsible for all designs and details could be worked out further.

Laurier Begins Reply. Mr. Borden finished at 3.25 and Sir Wilfrid Laurier arose at once. He was loudly cheered by his followers. He rose to present the views of His Majesty's loyal Opposition, he said. He referred once to the memorial from Winnipeg and Toronto, urging that the subject of Imperial defence be removed from contentious politics. He approved this, but he would observe that if the question had come into contentious politics it was not the fault of the Liberals. When Mr. Foster, four years ago, had introduced his motion it had not been met by the then Government in a carrying spirit.

REAPPOINT OLD AGE PENSIONS COMMITTEE

House Considers and Hears Report of Work on Mr. Burnham's Motion.

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., brought up the question of an old age pension system for Canada in the House of Commons, and had the committee of last year reappointed for this session to make further inquiries. Mr. Burnham, in bringing the matter before the House gave a resume of the income amount of work done by the committee last year and during the recess. He said: "With reference to the resolution now proposed you will remember that last year's committee on old age pensions submitted to this House a progress report, also evidence which the committee had then taken. The report also contained a recommendation to the effect that further information was desired before the committee could finally report on a pension system for Canada, and in obedience to the report of the committee which the House adopted some 200 communications were received during the recess of parliament, also provincial reports from the local governments of Canada, and foreign papers relating to pension systems elsewhere. These have been systematically arranged for the convenience of members in a preliminary report or synopsis which is almost completed, and is being printed at this moment. This report will show—(1) Expressions of opinion by the clergy and Salvation Army, municipal councils, labor organizations, charitable institutions and private individuals regarding the desirability of a pension system. (2) Our present systems of organized aid for the deserving aged poor throughout the several provinces of Canada; and

(3) The various pension, superannuated and annuity systems that are in operation both under provincial and Federal statutes in Canada. In addition, government papers have also been received concerning the operation of pension systems in other British dominions and the United Kingdom. Short summaries of systems of other countries have also been prepared all of which will be ready and printed in the course of a week or ten days, when the members of this House, as well as the committee now moved for, will be supplied with the information which your committee of last session had been unable to gather hitherto owing to protraction. MR. WILLIAM KENNY SUICIDES AT HOME IN HARVARD AVE.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—With the hall of a three ounce bottle of carbolic acid on the floor beside his bed, William Kenny, 56 years of age, was found dead in bed at his home at 50 Harvard avenue, shortly after eight o'clock this morning. The dead man who had been working as a piano finisher, came home at about 11 o'clock last night, going directly to his room, and fastening the door. When his wife went to awaken him this morning, she was unable to get an answer, and, becoming alarmed, called in Constable Holmes, who found that Kenny had been dead for some hours. The Kenny family have been particularly unfortunate. A sister of Mrs. Kenny is now in the hospital with but slight hopes for her recovery. Mrs. Kenny had been visiting her at the hospital, and did not see her husband before he retired. No reason is known why the dead man should attempt self-destruction. A grown up family survive him.

EDITORIAL NOTES

When women come into general use as jurors, we presume the bandage will be taken from the eyes of justice.

The civic interest in elections is now waning. But every good citizen will be glad when it is the past tense.

Organic union of the Presbyterian Methodist and Congregational churches, though desirable, having been found impracticable, the leaders in these churches are now about to arrange a basis for federation, which, though perhaps less desirable, is more practicable.

As the festive Christmas season approaches let us try to make others as happy as we can. In Peterborough there are many opportunities of doing good. There should be no place for the grouchy individual. Tears evaporate before the face that evaporates sunshine.

When the governor of South Carolina feels himself to be justified in declaring officially that the lynching of negroes is proper, and that, even if the wrong man is lynched sometimes, there are guilty ones who escape, the account being thus balanced—when, we say, the governor of the state talks that way, is it strange that there is mighty little respect for the law down south?

Isn't it funny how the township of Otonabee and Monaghan threaten to get out a mandamus, or a pluperitum or whatever it is, to stop the city sewerage going into the river. Most any fine summer evening one can see farmer Jones or Smith seated in a century old punt, hauling out mud with one hand and dipping up deep draughts of Otonabee water with the other.

With the peace of Europe threatened because an entente cordiale cannot be reached, why not have the powers interested, appoint an arbitrator, and lay down their armies in the meantime. We know of one industrial Commissioner who would solve the difficulty. By the time he accomplished anything but drawing his salary, the present belligerents would be dead and the white dove of peace nesting again.

MR. JOHN ROSS ROBERTSON
Mr. Porteous Morgan of the Hamilton Times, when in the city, made a very apt suggestion and one that The Times heartily endorses. Mr. Morgan is of the opinion that among prominent Canadians who might well be selected for the honor of Knighthood, is Mr. John Ross Robertson, of the Toronto Telegram. Mr. Robertson's long, successful and clean business record has gained him respect wherever his name is heard. His magnificent contributions to and moral support of such charities as the Sick Children's Hospital have gained him an enviable reputation, that might well be crowned by such laurels as lie in the gift of the Canadian government.

AWAY WITH THE SHINGLE
From Fairlee, a fire swept town on the Vermont side of the Connecticut river, comes the information that the complete destruction of the village was happily avoided because a recent rain had soaked the shingles on the roofs of the hotel and other important buildings so that the spread of the flames could be checked. There is one way to make the same effect permanent, instead of the occasional result of a happy accident. That is by the use of non-combustible shingles. It was a wise man, in building a mill for the manufacture of shingles, who decided to roof it with slate. He would sell his product to other people, but would not risk his own property under it.

The shingled roof is perhaps the greatest single carrier of fire. It becomes excessively dry. Its pieces are cut to the size of kindling wood. It proves a real tinder-box. The shingle has its legitimate uses, but covering roofs is not one of them. Municipal ordinances against it are not enough. The state should by legislation discourage the shingle habit. Meanwhile as many communities as possible should fix a date in the not distant future, after which no more shingle roofs should be permitted. The community can no longer afford them. The saving in first cost is charged to the insurance bill, and in the maintenance of fire departments.

BANK INSPECTION

In the Brockville Times, of recent date, appears an editorial from the suggestions made by Mr. W. G. McClellan, manager of the Metropolitan Bank of that town, which is well worth perusal. The writer is a son of Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal. The article referred to reads in part as follows:

"The anticipated amendment to the Bank Act which the Minister of Finance, Hon. W. T. White, is to introduce in Parliament this session will possibly include some measure providing for the external inspection of chartered banks. At present the chartered banks of Canada are inspected only by their own staff of inspectors and while these men do their work with great skill and intelligence, as the records of the inevitable detection of dishonesty testify, it has for some time been felt that there should also be external inspection of a government officer. External inspection of some sort, indeed, finds favour with a number of prominent bankers, for reasons which are obvious. Long before the public became aware of the unsound condition of a weak bank the heads of its sound competitors are fully informed of its rotten financial condition, but obviously they can take no action against it. If they did they would at once be charged with the prejudice of rivalry. And so they simply have to remain silent and guard themselves."

"The best solution we have heard of the problem of external bank inspection by a government official is made by a local bank manager who suggests that the government should select the best possible man, pay him a high salary, make him a permanent official, as far removed from partisan influence as the Auditor-General, and give him full powers to inspect the head offices of all chartered banks."

MR. WEBB'S LETTER

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Your excellent correspondent, Mr. Percival Webb, says that in England a law is for all England and not for any part of it. That's all right, but that is not our constitution in Canada. Canada is composed of a number of provinces originally independent which came together and formed a union by an agreement known as the "British North America Act." The provinces have exclusive right to make laws in certain cases, as for instance, Education. The Federal Parliament has exclusive rights in certain matters and in all matters in its own territories. This latter point was overlooked when it was denied that the Federal Parliament had any right to pass a marriage law. This denial raised a storm, as it appeared to mean that our highest civil tribunal and representing the state had no power at all respecting marriage. The answers to Mr. Burham's questions show that the Federal Parliament has that right, limited however, just as its other rights to make laws are limited.

ed. No one can complain of this. It is the law agreed to by all the provinces. But there is more in it even than that. Any law that can be legally made by any province or parliament itself must be respected everywhere in the whole dominion. Any two people can be married in Peterborough or any other place, according to the Federal laws governing dominion territories. It is just the same as if they made a contract according to the laws of Alberta to build a house there. It is not necessary to be there when the contract is made, if made according to the laws there, and once made it must be respected everywhere—that is, is valid everywhere. This may be a roundabout way of getting at it, but it establishes the supremacy of the state (or Federal Parliament) in Canada in respect to marriage, as to other things Canadian.

PURGATORY.

Editor Morning Times.
Sir,—In last week's Catholic Register a correspondent writes to ask what is his duty in regard to his parents, both of whom are dead. The answer is in part: "If you understand the condition of the souls in purgatory you will know your duty towards them. By a decree of the Almighty they are already enrolled in the number of the saints, and are destined one day to occupy a throne in heaven; but because they are not yet pure and spotless, because they have some punishment to undergo for sins and plaintive supplications." And, of course, it is our duty to pay the priest to pray them out of this "flaming abyss."

The above speaks for itself, and needs no comment.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unusual that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and treatments, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system was normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition all returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Catarhoxone Co., Buffalo.

ALIVE AFTER 13000 VOLTS

Boy Falls on High Tension Electric Wires. Was Stomped by Pal.

Portsmouth, N.H., Dec. 12.—Thirteen thousand volts of electricity pulsed through 16-year-old Gerald Lyles of this city, when he fell on the high tension wires 25 feet above the ground on a tower at the outskirts of the city, and he was horribly burned on the arms, legs and neck. With his right arm amputated at the shoulder he was hovering between life and death at the Portsmouth Hospital late last night.

"A boy's 'stump' has been almost successfully carried out when young Lyles slipped and fell. Together with his chum, Marcus Cassidy, 15, he was climbing one of the two high tension towers which carry the feed wires of the Rockingham Light & Power Company over the Portsmouth and Manchester branch of the Boston & Maine railroad at a point near Bracon Farm, Greenwood.

Young Lyles had reached the top of the tower when he slipped and there was a blinding flash of light as his right forearm struck the high tension line. The terrific power of the 13,000 volts set his body rigid for a second, then his body was convulsively thrown about, and he was hurled away from the high tension wires. As he fell his left foot caught in a cleat that supports another high tension line on the tower and the young boy hung head downward until rescued. In the meanwhile his companion had jumped to the ground.

GAMBLING RAID STOPS PASTOR

Worship in Cambridge Hall Disturbed When Police Swoop on Players.

Boston, Dec. 12.—Police broke into the rooms of the City Club on the fourth floor of the Cambridge Board of Trade building, Central Square, Sunday night and caught 10 men around two poker tables. At the time the Rev. J. B. Short was conducting the evening service of the Herian Pentecostal Church in a hall directly beneath. The smashing of windows and doors and the thunderous rush of feet overhead startled the 100 or more attendants, and caused a discontinuance of the service.

Officers O'Connell and Cummins climbed up a fire escape in the rear of the building and breaking a window, levelled pistols at the players and told them to surrender. Cries of "Watch and Ward" were heard. They were followed by the overturning of chairs and table and a stampede for the door. Sergeant Robinson and a squad of police, who had slipped up the front stairs, burst in the door and stopped the players with guns and clubs.

The patrol wagon was followed by a motor van and officers, stripped to their shirt sleeves, moved out a pool table, card table and chairs. A supply of cards, sandwiches, canned sardines, a small quantity of liquor and cigars completed the load.

Messrs. Hardill, Taylor and Sherwood, representing Peterborough firms, were once more in Apsley last week and secured splendid orders from all the Apsley merchants. This will be the last trip for 1912. There are three bustling knights of the grip and are always welcomed to Apsley. It is hoped that they will be on this road for many years to come.

Reeve Tucker returned Friday night from attending the County Council, and as delegate to Ottawa on the Buckhorn Bridge question.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cowley, who moved from Anstruther to Alberta some years ago, returned to Apsley last week and think the country quite as good as the famed N.W. and perhaps better in some respects.

Mr. Bruce Coomes is also home again, having spent several months in the N.W. He is favorably impressed with the country around Moose Jaw, and speaks of returning in the spring.

J. W. Stuart, of Peterborough, spent Saturday and Sunday in our village. John looks as hearty as ever.

James Mollivena and John Rickles went down as witnesses on a case in court about a cattle deal.

Jack Frost also visited Apsley Sunday and gave us a foretaste of what to expect—very cold, but as yet no sleighing.

The churches are making preparations for Christmas.

The kiddies talk of Christmas trees, socials, etc.

The Fels Lake dam is finished and the men returned home to Peterborough last week. Now the question is—how long will it last.

THE REGENCY B'LL

London For a Night Went Back to Good Old Days.

English society witnessed a brief reversion to the joyous extravagant days of the Regency, last month, when the Albert Hall, London, was the scene of the greatest and most brilliant ball of the season—a most successful attempt to revive the aristocratic glories of the age of the Danes, of "back" and beaux, of mincing macaronis and wonderfully dressed dees, of powder and patches and jades because. The "Hundred Years Ago" ball, as it was styled consisted of a series of beautifully-orchestrated quadrilles such as were danced in the days when the vicious, heartless, and greedy King George IV. of infamous memory, the first gentleman in Europe, held his dissolute and drunken court at the Pavilion, Brighton, with his gorgeous, but excellent wife, the beautiful Mrs. Fitzherbert. His life has been depicted as much foul material for scandal as any in English history.

Thackeray hilariously describes a buckle he invented as his single contribution to the riches of the world. But there was a certain charm about those hazy illustrious days of a century ago. Society was virile and on the whole wholesome, gay, notwithstanding the prodigality of "the fount of honor" and the arbiters of fashion. Waterloo was three years distant in the future, but the long life-and-death struggle with Napoleon had cast over the land a tinge of alacrity and of heroic patriotism.

The waltz had just made its appearance in the saloons of London but had not become popular. The stately minuet and the ancient English gavotte were departing into oblivion. The quadrille was supreme. The presentation of the life of a hundred years ago, correctly staged as to dress, manners, and environment, formed a great and delightful spectacle. The dresses rivalled one another in splendor. Among the richer types the most beautiful were the regal-looking Napoleonic dresses, with rich gold embroidery and ermine trimming, but the charm of Aboardian simplicity was not missing. Naturally in that period of strife, social gatherings took on a military aspect, and, at the Albert Hall, the beautiful costumes of the ladies mingled with the brilliant uniforms of every nation in Europe and the extravagant modes of the Danes. The famous gardens at Vauxhall, the celebrated Almack's, the club where Pitt and Sheridan and Charles Fox and many more drank deep and gambled recklessly, the splendid regiments of the time and other characteristic features of the "merry past" were commemorated in the naming of the different quadrilles. The famous men and women, who cut lustre on that period of England's history, were represented to the life. The "Iron Duke" of Wellington was a prominent figure in the "Waterloo" quadrille, as were also the intellectual Madame de Staël, the "Bismarck in petticoats," and the Duchess of Richmond, who gave the celebrated ball at Brussels, two nights before the battle of Waterloo, when "there was a sound of revelry by night," interrupted by the note of drum reality, "the cannon's opening roar." The energy and good taste of the organizers of this memorable ball and the enthusiasm of the participants resulted in an unequalled success.

A Bear and a Leg dam.
A big leg jam that on one occasion blocked a river was broken in a peculiar manner. A brown bear was noticed by one of the rivermen prowling around the skids and later was observed crawling over the piled up timber. Gradually the bear worked his way down to the leg jam and attached it frantically. Instantly the mass of logs broke. The bear was crushed to pieces. Later it was learned that the leg jam was filled with honey.

Riches and Contentment.
"Contentment is better than riches," said the ready-made philosopher.
"True," replied Mr. Austin Stax, "but my observation is that a man who is rich has a better chance of becoming content than a man who is contented has of becoming rich."—Washington Star.

WORLD WITHOUT WOMEN

What a Dreary Place It Would be Says the Bachelor

What would the world be like if there were no women in it? If the world's population were cut down by half, by the immediate abolition of women, it is certain that civilization would develop on some different lines from those it is travelling along at present. In fact, a very few years would show all sorts of curious consequences.

During women who have penetrated to the outskirts of civilization to places where the face of a white woman is scarcely ever seen, are often amused by the curious effect they have on their hosts. Faces unwashed for weeks retire bashfully for a while to return several shades lighter in color. Beards which have sprouted almost unnoticed are guiltily shaved. Straggly, matted hair is cropped to a decent shortness.

It is a curious fact that men living in the wilds of the earth never realize how far they have slipped from the decent, cleanly ways of civilization till the presence of a woman reminds them of the fact.

That relapse would imperceptibly take place all over the civilized earth. We should not notice it, but the instincts of personal cleanliness and neatness would steadily disappear. Psychologists declare that, however ingrained they seem, these instincts are in men entirely artificial habits. In women they are more of a true instinct—woman, being the physically weaker sex, having had to do less of the rough work of the world. Set a woman for a few years on a desert island, and she will devise some sort of hairpin, and do her hair daily, in masculine Robinson Crusoe will return a figure to amuse the most unimpaired of tramps.

In fact, in a civilization without women, the world of men would come to think itself in need of a daily toilet.

Another big change would be in language. Speech would be less polite and more brutal. The lubricating oil of courtesy would be removed from daily life, and the world would be a much worse place for the weak than it is now. It is the civilizing effect of woman that has shown the other sex that brutality is a matter for contempt, not for pride.

The world would go to the strong hand again. The civilization of science and invention and manufacture would advance as rapidly as ever, but the good side of it would steadily decay. So it is not only to sew its buttons on and wash its face that the world needs a woman; it needs her to shake a reproving finger when the savage peeps out.

Nasal Discharge Proves Catarrh is Active

THE PURE BALSAMIC ESSENCES OF CATARRHONOL AP-FORD SUREST AND QUICKEST CURE

Catarrhosis is certain to cure because its healing vapor is carried with the breath direct to the seat of the chest, nose or throat trouble. Being composed of the purest balsams and pine essences, it immediately allays irritations, facilitates the ejection of mucus, soothes and stimulates the lumen and bronchial tubes. The marvel of the age in curing winter ills—that's what thousands say about Catarrhosis. There is nothing so sure to cure, and to those in fear of changeable weather—those who easily catch cold—those who work among lung-chilling surroundings, or where dust, impure air, fog, or damp can effect them—let them get Catarrhosis and use it several times daily—it will cure every time.

BAD CASE CURED IN TWO DAYS

"I was unfortunate enough to catch a bad cold from sitting in a draught in my bare head," writes Miss Nora E. Jamieson, well known in Sauge Grande, Ont. An acute condition of catarrh developed in my nostrils, and for three days my eyes and nose ran most copiously. The usual remedies entirely failed to relieve. I read in The Mirror newspaper about Catarrhosis, and sent to Smith Bros. drug store for a dollar outfit. In two days Catarrhosis cleared out my nostrils, cured the sneezing, coughing and all traces of catarrh."

Large size Catarrhosis, sufficient for two months use, guaranteed, price $1.00; smaller size, 5c and 10c. Beware of imitations, and substitute, and insist on getting "Catarrhosis" only. By mail from the Catarrhosis Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Work along similar lines. One seeks the thief who steals money or valuables; the other is after the thing that steals health.

Every doctor knows that the insidious, subtle drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee "gets away" with valuations that money cannot buy—clear drain, steady nerves, regular heart action, sound sleep, etc.

That is why they often advise patients to quit tea and coffee.

POSTUM

has been helping doctors put "tea and coffee wrecks" on their feet.

Made of clean, hard wheat, Postum is a true food-drink. It contains no caffeine or other harmful substance; but does contain the Phosphate of Potash (grown in the wheat) required by Nature in rebuilding brain and nerve cells.

No Boiling Required.

Some say it has improved flavour, but it is regular Postum in concentrated form—nothing added.

Simply put a level teaspoonful (more or less for strength desired) in a cup of hot water. Stir until dissolved; then add sugar to taste and enough cream to bring the color to a golden brown.

A fascinating beverage is ready instantly.

Crust Over That Mud Pie.

A Times representative, in conversation with two Edinboro farmers yesterday, was told that the "mud pie" at the entrance to Chumming floating bridge had been, at last, furnished with a crust by Jack Frost. The mud pie, referred to, was a euphemism usually referred to as the "approach to the bridge" and rendered traffic very difficult at that spot.

The Grand Jury expressed their pleasure that only one criminal case was presented. They noted that they had visited the various County Institutions. Special reference was made to the good work done by the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage. Special commendation was recommended for the County Buildings.

Mysterious Woodpile Fire.

Whilst occupants of 548 Waller street, the home of Mr. W. C. Asa, were just ascending the stairs, a fire leading to their beauty sleep, at midnight, in some mysterious way a fire started in a pile of wood, in a shed to the rear. The flames were first detected by Mr. W. H. Cumming, of the same street, who was proceeding home, and who awakened the inmates of the house. Pails of water were used to subside the incipient blaze, but a somewhat strenuous struggle took place before it was put out.

The Spence-Langford Letter.

Talking with a Times reporter yesterday, Sanitary Inspector Spence referred to the complaint made before the Board of Health, by Mr. Wm. Langford, previously discontinued in the Times. A copy of Mr. Spence's letter, reads as follows: "Dear Sir,—There will be nothing gained by letting the work on the closets on your property on Stewart street stand over until the spring. I must ask you to get the pits cleaned out and filled in with clean earth and ashes, and sound boiler substituted, otherwise legal proceedings will be taken."

They spoke in high terms of the conditions existing in the jail, but advised that three mentally deficient persons should be sent to an asylum. The hospitals were found in excellent condition. Special reference was made to the good work done by the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage. Special commendation was recommended for the County Buildings.

Mysterious Woodpile Fire.

Whilst occupants of 548 Waller street, the home of Mr. W. C. Asa, were just ascending the stairs, a fire leading to their beauty sleep, at midnight, in some mysterious way a fire started in a pile of wood, in a shed to the rear. The flames were first detected by Mr. W. H. Cumming, of the same street, who was proceeding home, and who awakened the inmates of the house. Pails of water were used to subside the incipient blaze, but a somewhat strenuous struggle took place before it was put out.

The Spence-Langford Letter.

Talking with a Times reporter yesterday, Sanitary Inspector Spence referred to the complaint made before the Board of Health, by Mr. Wm. Langford, previously discontinued in the Times. A copy of Mr. Spence's letter, reads as follows: "Dear Sir,—There will be nothing gained by letting the work on the closets on your property on Stewart street stand over until the spring. I must ask you to get the pits cleaned out and filled in with clean earth and ashes, and sound boiler substituted, otherwise legal proceedings will be taken."

According to the will the above parish receives one-third, St. Vincent de Paul Society a like portion and the Stafford Library a similar amount. The estate consists of three stores on Kent street, Lindsay. Miss Guiry was receiving an income of about $200 per year from the property, which was passed on to her death.

It will be remembered that some weeks ago.

The Times published a communication from Mr. Windover, who lives near where young Thornton lost his life. This described how he had shot some wolves and also complained that the Government before paying bounty money on wolves insists on retaining the entire pelt. It is of interest to note that a despatch from Marmora says: Farmers in Stanhope township report the loss of sheep by wolves. It is contended also that the Government should raise the bounty for killing wolves, the reason being given, that whereas some years ago the Government bounty on a wolfskin was $15, the person who killed the wolf being allowed to keep the hide, which is worth about $5.

BIG SLUMP IN MARKETS DUE TO UNEASINESS AS TO PEACE

Financiers Hear Rumors That Austria, Germany, and Russia Will Withdraw From Consultations of the Ambassadors in London, Simultaneously With Belligerents' Peace Negotiations

London, Dec. 13.—The slump which started on the Continental Bourses on vague rumors that Austria-Hungary, Germany, and Russia were likely to withdraw their consent from the Ambassadorial meeting reached London this afternoon. Prices fell noticeably. Continental favorites suffered to the greatest extent.

From Berlin, Paris and Vienna reports have been received of weak markets, but no confirmation has come to hand of the rumors which caused the trouble.

London, Dec. 13.—The formal work of the peace delegates representing the Ottoman Empire and the allied Balkan nations began on Monday next, when the delegates will open discussion, which, if successful, will have the effect of re-starting the map of the Near East.

When the plenipotentiaries gather with their secretaries and stenographers—a group of forty or fifty all told—in the historic St. James' Palace, they will find themselves surrounded by a most conducive to peace.

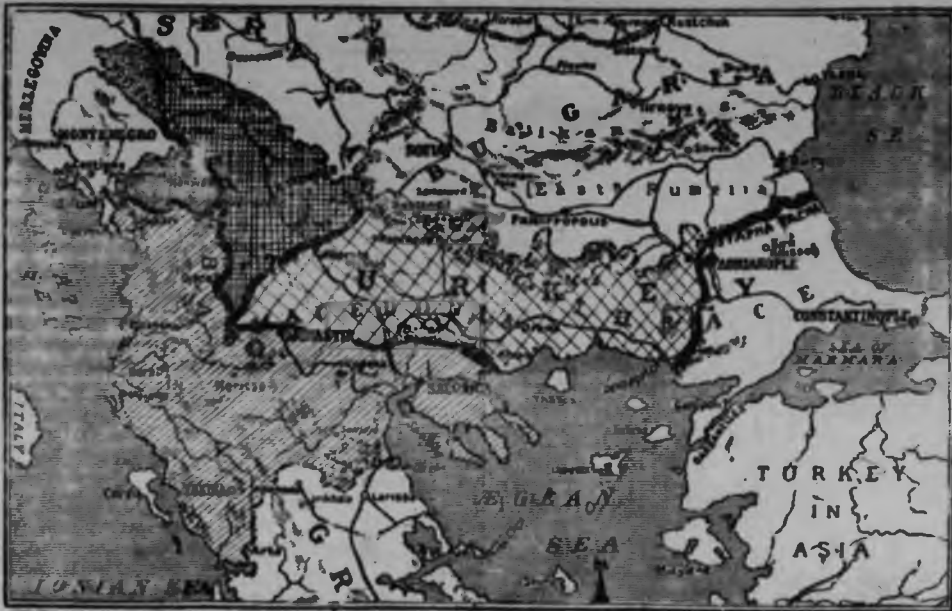

"The Picture Gallery" which has been selected as the conference room, in the palace, overlooks a century-old grass grown quadrangle, entirely shut off from the turmoil of the London streets. On its walls are hung portraits of all the English sovereigns from Henry VIII., with that of Edward the Peacemaker in a prominent position.

MAYOR TO CALL SPECIAL MEETING RE ONTARIO

Mr. H. C. Saul, special representative of Messrs. Sells, 167-168 Fleet street, London, Eng., is a guest at the Oriental Hotel. This young man is a good specimen of England's progressive and up-to-date business men. He is now making a tour through Canada, getting data for a work to be published by his firm on the geographical business, shipping, mercantile and other particulars of Ontario. Mr. Saul was introduced yesterday to Mr. Penneyfather, manager of the Union Bank, to Mayor Bradburn. This stranger within our gates so impressed the Mayor with the importance and far reaching benefit of his book as denoted by copies of "Ontario," already contracted for in England alone, that Mr. Bradburn has promised to call a special meeting of the Council to consider taking a page of advertising regarding Peterborough as an advantageous location for factories.

Mr. Saul has just completed an 800 page book dealing with British Columbia. This work cost twenty-two thousand pounds to produce. Mr. Saul leaves to-day for Toronto to see one of his directors, from England, at the King Edward Hotel. Toronto. He will return here on Thursday.

A SHOCKING CONFESSION BY A BRIDE IN SASKATCHEWAN

Says She Lured Husband Into Marrying Her So That Her Sweetheart Might Kill Him and Get the Property—Murder Took Place November 18

Moose Jaw, Sask., Dec. 13.—The murder of Ralph Warwick, on a homestead near Iverman, on the night of November 18th, was explained last night by his wife at the coroner's inquiry. She told an amazing story of how she and Stanley Price planned the details.

Mrs. Warwick is a Nebraska farm-lad, girl, pretty, and barely out of her teens. Looking the Crown prosecutor squarely in the eye, she told of having met Stanley Price nearly a year ago. She fell in love with him, and six months later went to live at his homestead as housekeeper and common-law wife. She had been there a month when Price proposed she should marry Ralph Warwick, get him to turn all his belongings over to her, and make a will in her favor. To this she consented and laid her plans for Warwick. After wooing him two months he proposed marriage. She lived with her husband until he was beaten to death, but all the time kept up relations with Price. Price, this week committed suicide in Regina.

HOW ROME SAFEGUARDS MARRIAGE

The Roman Catholic priests are continually pumping into Protestants in connection with the infamous "No Temere" decree, the comparative ease with which divorces are obtained in the United States, as well as the number which are applied for and granted in Canada every year. Let us turn the light on their own church for a moment.

In Montreal last week the courts decided that a certain marriage between two Roman Catholics was null and void. These persons were fourth cousins, and it was held that such a marriage was not lawful without a special dispensation. The wife contended that neither her husband nor herself knew of their relationship at the time of their marriage, and that if they had a dispensation could have been obtained for a trifling sum. The matter came before the Church court, and it annulled the marriage, and the Civil Court ratified its action. We understand an appeal has been taken. The startling point in connection with the whole matter lies in the following statement: "It was incidentally shown in the evidence that the Church had announced its willingness to confirm the original marriage provided the husband simply paid the amount of dispensation fees, which should have been paid before marriage." Surely a church which prides itself upon the fact that with its marriage is always a sacrament, sacred and indissoluble, cannot justify itself before either man or God if it dissolved a marriage, which it was quite willing to ratify with a few pieces of silver.

A. BROWN FOURTH PLACE

Right Honourable in the List of Aldermanic Candidates—V. Eastwood (Humbly to Third Choice for School Trustee—Mayor W. H. Bradburn Still Leads a Competitor—W. H. Moore Still the Favorite for Water Commissioner.

The third count in the municipal election campaign makes a slight shuffle in the position of candidates. His Worship Mayor Bradburn, however, is still the favorite with no competitors as yet. If there is a dark horse for this position our readers evidently do not know him. Mr. A. Brown, the real estate man, of the West Ward, has been boosted from tenth to fourth choice for alderman; otherwise the change in the standing of aldermanic candidates is not radical. The shuffle amongst the school trustee candidates is slight. In this list Mr. V. Eastwood goes up to third position, and Dr. M. A. Morrison still holds his lead.

The interest in this test of public opinion will unquestionably grow with the nearer approach of nomination day.

TEXT OF LIBERAL PARTY'S AMENDMENT TO NAVY MEASURE

Any Measure of Canadian Aid to Imperial Naval Defence Should Provide for Permanent Policy of Participation in Ships Owned, Manned, and Maintained by Canada

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's amendment to the navy resolution of the Premier is as follows:

"That all the words after 'that' be struck out and the following substituted therefor:

"This House declines to concur in the said resolution, and orders that the same be referred back to the committee, with instructions to amend it in the following particulars:

"Viz., to strike out all the words after clause 'A' and substitute therefor the following: 'The memorandum prepared by the Board of Admiralty on the general navy situation of the Empire, and communicated to this House by the Hon. the Prime Minister on December 5, shows that several of the most important of the foreign powers have adopted a definite policy of rapidly increasing their naval strength.

"That this condition has compelled the United Kingdom to concentrate its naval forces in home waters, involving the withdrawal of ships from the outlying portions of the Empire.

"That such withdrawal renders it necessary that Canada, without further delay, should enter actively upon a permanent policy of naval defence.

"That any measure of Canadian aid to Imperial naval defence which does not embody a permanent policy of participation in ships owned, manned and maintained by Canada, and contemplating construction as soon as possible in Canada, is not an adequate or satisfactory impression of the aspirations of the Canadian people in regard to naval defence, and is not an assumption by Canada of her fair share in the maintenance of the naval strength of the Empire.

"This House regrets to learn the intention of the Government to indefinitely postpone the carrying out by Canada of a permanent policy.

It is the opinion of this House that measures should be taken at the present session to give effect, actively and speedily, to the permanent naval policy embodied in the Naval Service Act of 1910, passed pursuant to the resolution unanimously approved by this House in March, 1909.

A Fleet Unit on Each of Canada's Coasts.

This House is further of the opinion that to increase the power and mobility of the Imperial navy by the addition by Canada under the above Act of two fleet units, to be stationed upon the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada, respectively, rather than by a contribution of money or ships, is the policy best calculated to afford relief to the United Kingdom in respect of the burden of the Imperial naval defence, and in the words of the Admiralty memorandum, to "restore greater freedom to the movements of the British squadrons in every sea and directly promote the security of the Dominions," and that the Government of Canada should take such steps as shall lead to the accomplishment of this purpose as speedily as possible.

Clause "A" in Premier Bradburn's resolution referred to above reads as follows: "That from and out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Canada there may be paid and applied a sum not exceeding $35,000,000, for the purpose of immediately increasing the effective naval forces of the Empire."

LIBERALS PATRIOTIC

The British Papers Agree That Laurier's Proposal Is Evidence of Loyalty

London, Dec. 13.—To-night papers editorially agree that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's counter proposals show equal devotion to the Empire, but the Pall Mall Gazette urges that for the Dominions to maintain small packet ships without providing for their proper peace distribution or for their common use in war time is simply asking for trouble.

WILL REPEAL LAURIER ACT

Conservatives More Than Ever Enthusiased Over Borden Policy

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Interest in the naval question has been intensified by the counter proposals of Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday. They are the sole topic of gossip to-day in Ottawa political circles.

Both sides profess to be satisfied. Liberals are openly at least strongly supporting the Laurier Canadian navy idea, while the Conservatives are even more enthusiastic than ever over the Borden plan and claim that they have no fear of the Laurier scheme detracting from the general popularity, through the country of the Government's proposals of a contribution to present, with the permanent policy to be settled later.

The old plan of a Canadian navy in the past awakened little enthusiasm, and while Laurier is now prepared to go further than while in power it is looked upon as a catch political trick. In fact the Conservatives point with pride to the fact that Mr. Borden has by his broad and advanced plan, driven Sir Wilfrid into advocating now a naval scheme on a far broader and a more generous basis than in the past.

As Liberals in power never attempted any such plan as Sir Wilfrid now proposes the Conservatives naturally question their good faith.

Repeal the Laurier Act.

It is understood that the Laurier Naval Act will be repealed. What will become of the Rainbow and Niobe is not known. They may be used for training purposes.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The evils attending the canny system of working women and children have been hardly half told yet.

When suffragists walk to Albany from New York to present an argument it does not prove their possession of good sense, for it costs more to walk such a distance than to ride, besides by taking train they would arrive before the fashion in hat changes.

Catholic Register. "The Catholic Church teaches loyalty to the land and respect for its laws." Except when the laws interfere with the policy of the church, as for instance, the teaching of the French language in Public Schools of Ontario, when the laws are broken and defied.

Surely the sovereign people have a right to express their opinions at the polls! Then why do some of the late Dominion cabinet officers keep nursing a grudge? They said here they were "whispered" out of office. That whisper seemed to us like the gentle zephyr that carries away a whole Dakota town. Even President Taft is a good loser and gets better as the days roll by.

POLITICS.

What a peculiar thing politics really is. We have now set forth a naval policy for Canada, says the Guardian. It is a Conservative policy, and therefore all the Conservatives will support it and shout for it just as if it were something dropped down from heaven. And for the same reason that it is Conservative policy every Liberal in the land will revile it and cry it down as if it were a programme prepared in neither regions. And all the time it is true that if the Conservatives had only by an accident happened to take up the policy that the Liberals now think best, the shouting and surging would just be turned the other way around. And either side might just as readily have taken up the other platform as the one it did take up. Meanwhile the job is all on the elected party man, who stands outside and fondly imagines that there is something in it all, and that his party is governed by great principles and moved by lofty ideals, and that if it gets a chance it will save the country.

"The Womanhood Required of Women to-day."

The above is the subject to be discussed in George Street Methodist Church Sunday night. While it is not known what line of thought Mr. Cook will take, yet it is well known that the pastor of George St. church has little sympathy with the suffragette movement, and consequently his message will be listened to with interest. Mr. Cook is a fearless speaker, has the courage of his convictions, and after careful deliberations on a theme will state what he thinks. He believes that woman has a higher calling and might be better employed. It is to be hoped that he will not ruffle the feelings of the fair sex too much.

REMOVAL OF ASHES

Sir,—Would you let me make a suggestion to the City Council through your paper regarding the removal of ashes? As ashes and garbage are removed now, in the central part of the city, people have to carry same out to the pavement for the garbage men. That place is all right as far as garbage is concerned through the whole year, and not so bad with ashes in the winter months. When snow is deep on the ground, many people will have to carry stove and furnace ashes a long distance through snow and in the cold. Why not give those who prefer it, the right to keep ashes in their sheds or yards until spring, says April 15th, and then have them removed by the city scavengers?

By Breathing the Soothing, Healing Vapor of Catarrhosone All Throat and Catarrhal is Quickly Cured

It's simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or catarrh can be cured with Catarrhosone. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath into the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes, and chest, making it impossible for the germ of any disease to live. That soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and ejected from the throat, old-standing coughs are removed.

"I suffered from an irritable, weak throat for three years. I had a severe cough, pain over the eyes, constant bad taste in my mouth, and noises in my ears. It was chronic catarrh. Nothing gave permanent relief till I used Catarrhosone. In one hour it relieved, and in a few weeks drove all trace of catarrh from my system."

Lays Crime of Bloodstained Door To Its Credit FOR FATAL STABBING

Reverend Murdock Placed on Trial for the Crime. After Being Arrested at Buffalo.

Batavia, Dec. 13.—Rocco Mordica, charged with stabbing to death Gaspare Pecararo, in a street fight here last October, was placed on trial in county court before Judge Edward A. Washburn this afternoon. The special charge lodged against Mordica, on an indictment, returned by the grand jury, is murder in the second degree. Mordica was arrested by the Buffalo police following a fatal street fight in this city. Alfonso Gardinale had been badly injured in the fight, while Gaspare Pecararo had been killed. Gardinale recovered consciousness at the hospital and told the police. He had been the victim of a Black Hand plot. He accused Frank Filetta of stabbing him and said that Mordica had killed Pecararo.

Filetta was arrested in Batavia, while Mordica was gathered in by Police Superintendent Michael Rogan and several Buffalo detectives as he stepped from a train in that city. He has denied the murder.

EAGLES CARRY INFANT AWAY

Oklahoma Farmers Trap Fear Field-Headed Birds of the Air.

Kingfisher, Ala., Dec. 13.—Four big golden-headed eagles were brought here Monday by farmers who captured them, and killed a fifth in the Gyp Hills, northwest of here. The farmers said a flock of seven of the birds had their aerial in the hills and have been carrying off small stock in such numbers that they are organized to exterminate them. The birds have taken away lambs and pigs, and some of the residents assert that the eagles, instead of carrying away an infant child from the community, have months ago. One of the captive birds measures nearly eight feet from tip to tip of its outstretched wings.

FOUND THAT ORGANS OF MAN ARE TRANSPROSED

Heart and Cardiac Part of Stomach on Right Side—Lungs and Spleen Misplaced.

New York, Dec. 13.—An autopsy being performed in the regular course of those who die in Bellevue Hospital from undetermined causes, led to the discovery of a remarkable and exceedingly rare case of where the vital organs in a man's body have been transposed during his lifetime. Each organ was on the opposite side of the body from which it normally should have been.

The body was that of Michael Manning, 32 years old, who entered the hospital Saturday night. At first it was believed he was suffering from pneumonia. Concluding symptoms developed Sunday, and efforts to save his life failed, he dying Sunday night. This mystery in the cause of death made the autopsy necessary. The autopsy disclosed the heart on the right side of the body, the large of cardiac part of the stomach on the right side, the appendix on the left side instead of the right, the liver on the left side, the spleen on the right side and the lungs, which when normally constructed contain two lobes on the left side and three on the right, had two lobes on each side. This shortage of one lobe is not a rarity, it was explained.

ROYAL BANK OF CANADA IN STRONG POSITION

First Annual Statement Issued Shows Absorption of Traders' Bank Shows Liquid Assets in Excess of 47 per cent. of Total Liabilities to Public.—Earnings at rate of 19.19 per cent.

The Annual Statement of the Royal Bank of Canada out today is sure to attract more than usual interest as it is the first published since the Royal took over the Traders' Bank. Owing to the change in the fiscal year of the Royal Bank, the statement is only for eleven months ending November 30th, 1912. The outstanding feature is the particularly strong position of the Bank as shown by the proportion of liquid assets in excess of 47 per cent. of total liabilities to the public.

Total deposits now stand at $137,891,667, showing large increase over the combined figures of the Royal and Traders' at the end of last year. The net profits for the eleven months ending November 30th, 1912, after deducting charges of management, accrued interest on deposits, full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, rebate of interest on unmatured bills and general bonuses granted to the staff, amounted to $1,527,324.77, being at the rate of 19.19 per cent. on the average paid-up capital of $7,980,756.

The amount applied to the Reserve Fund totaled up to the total of $12,500,000, or 1,000,000 in excess of the paid-up capital at the end of the year of $11,500,000.

With the balance carried forward December 30th, 1911, the net profits for the eleven months and the premium on new capital stock, the total amount available for distribution amounted to $7,432,617.33. This was applied as follows: To Dividends, $143,585.97; Officers' Pension Fund, $75,000; Written off Bad Premises, $300,000; Applied to Reserve Fund, $1,503,812; leaving a balance to be carried forward of $610,219.36.

This is a Want Ad Town

and There Are a Lot of Important Things That Cannot, Nowadays, Be Accomplished at All Without the Help of the Want Ads!

For example, your chances to sell, or to lease, property at THE RIGHT PRICE, to the right people, ARE MULTIPLIED BY A HUNDRED through an adequate campaign of classified advertising. If the matter is left to an agent, or broker, he must advertise your proposition aggressively—for the simple reason that 99 out of a hundred people who buy or rent property first read and consider and investigate the ads. The habit is one of simple prudence, of business sense, with them. The unadvertised property never comes to their notice at all!

So it is in the tasks of finding efficient help—of securing boarders or tenants for furnished rooms—of finding desirable positions. In these tasks and quite the want ads are the natural service givers. They introduce people who have business to transact with each other. Every hour of every day such people, who might never meet otherwise, are brought together, with mutual profit!

Truly, this IS a want ad town! Are YOU a want advertiser?

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 30,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the well last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Kataba, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

THE REAL PIONEER OF AVIATION

An Englishman invented and built the first heavier than air flying machine—a monoplane for him

The successful inventor of the aeroplane is now coming to his own. He has the suggestive name of John Stringfellow, and the machine he invented and made was propelled through the air in 1848. As he did not fly with it, it he lived to enjoy a ripe old age, and is remembered by many of his townsmen in Oxford, Somerset county, England. From the monoplane, with two propellers, he evolved the triplane, and this was made to fly at the Crystal Palace in 1848. For his achievement he was awarded a prize of $500, which was supplemented by $350 from the Society of Engineers.

The feature of Mr. Stringfellow's triplane was the light steam engine and the boiler that used alcohol for fuel. It weighed only a few pounds, and developed one horse-power with 200 pounds of steam in seven minutes.

The man who made a machine that could sail through the air by mechanical power in 1848, and exhibited a more complete machine in 1863, received the congratulations of his late Majesty King Edward, then Prince of Wales, and was honored in many ways.

As his chief triumph was in reducing the weight of his engine, there was little or no advancement in his gasoline engine made a mechanical revolution in that regard. Mr. Stringfellow's comparatively modest though important achievement has been superseded by record-breaking flights in height, speed, distance, and duration, by passenger-carrying and various other achievements. But British love of fair play is according him the honors of a pioneer, and there is a movement on foot to mark his last resting-place in Oxford with a monument attesting his success as the builder of the first aeroplane.

JACK HAS THE MONEY

His Retirement Final, Black Champion Says

Once more Jack Johnson, the heavy-weight champion of the world, has declared that he has boxed his last bout and this on top of an offer of $50,000 to face Joe Jeannette for a short ten rounds. He is quoted as saying:

"The promoters won't give me my price for fighting now, and if I wait a year I'll probably not be in condition to put up a fight worthy of a champion. So it's good-by to John Arthur Johnson, champion of the world."

Asked if he intended to retire in favor of any fighter, as Jeffries did in the case of Marvin Hart, Johnson said:

"No; let Jeannette, Langford and McVey fight it out. I think McVey will thrash any of them, but that is their trouble, not mine. No white fighter can give either of these men a good battle."

Johnson says he has saved his money and is worth $200,000, all of which has been accumulated since he defeated Tommy Burns in Australia on December 24, 1908.

WALNUT CREAMS

Take one pound of shelled walnuts, the white of one egg, one pound of sugar, and a tablespoonful of water. Stir the water to the white of the egg. Stir in sufficient sugar to make a very stiff paste, and flavor with a few drops of vanilla. Mould into round balls the size of a small marble. Divide the berries on the nuts into two, and when you have formed the balls, press half a nut on each side. Leave them several hours in a cool place to harden.

"Well, it's great news, and if it wasn't for—if things weren't as they are, I'd be crowing, hallelujahs, this minute. Trumet has got a good man safe and sound again, and the Lord knows it needs all of that kind it can get."

"Yes. But there's the other matter. I've been to see Grace. She didn't say so, but it was easy enough to see; the man she promised to marry and thought was dead, is alive. She's a girl of her word—she promised him and she promised her dying uncle, and she'll marry him. And then what will become of John Elery? He'll go downhill so fast that a ship's anchor wouldn't hold him. If he doesn't die I'll have to send him away somewhere, and the Regular church will lose the minister we've fought so hard for."

"Yes," concurred Zebedee, "and then blasted Daniel's! I'll run the shebang and the rest of us'll have to sing small, I tell you."

"So we've come to you, Keziah," went on the doctor. "Do you see any salvation?"

"Yes, I do."

"You do? Where?"

"In Nat Hammond. If he knows Grace doesn't want to marry him, do you suppose he'll hold her to her promise? But—she hesitated—"Doctor, you leave this to me. So far as John and Grace are concerned you needn't worry. I'll take it on myself to see that they have each other, as the Almighty meant 'em to. Leave it to me. Just leave it to me. I know I can do it."

Captain Elikanah Daniels and his friend were feeling better and they were busy. Trumet had a new hero now. On Wednesday the Boston papers printed excerpts from Captain Hammond's story, and these brief preliminary accounts aroused the admiration of every citizen. It was proposed to give him a reception. Elikanah was the moving spirit in the preparations. Captain Nat, so they learned by telegraphing, would arrive on the noon train Thursday. His was not to be a private progress by stage all the way from Sandwich. A special carriage, drawn by the Daniels' span and escorted by other vehicles, was to meet the coach at Bayport and bring him to Trumet in triumph procession. All this was to be a surprise, of course.

Wednesday afternoon the Daniels' following was cheered by the tidings that Grace Van Horne had left the beach and was at her old home, the Hammond tavern. And Mrs. Poundberry reported her busy as a bee "gettin' things ready."

Thursday was a perfect day, and the reception committee was on hand and waiting in front of the Bayport post office. The special carriage, the span brushed and curled until their coats glistened in the sunshine, was drawn up beside the platform. The horses had little flags fastened to their bridles, and there were other and larger flags on each side of the dashboard. Captain Daniels, imposing in his Sunday raiment, high-collared coat, stock, silk hat and gold-headed cane, sat stiffly erect on the seat in the rear. The other carriages were alongside, among them Captain Zebedee Mayo's ancient chaise, the white horse sound asleep between the shafts. Captain Zeb had not been invited to join the escort, but had joined it without an invitation. Kyran Pepper was there also, not yet fully recovered from the surprise which Larvin's gracious petulance had given him. "Here she comes!" shouted Mrs. Simmons, the postmaster's "Right on time, too."

Sure enough! A cloud of dust in the distance, rising on the spring wind, and the rattle of rapidly turning wheels. The reception committee prepared for action. Captain Elikanah descended from the carriage and moved in stately strides to the front of the post office platform.

The stage, its four horses at a trot, swung up to the platform.

"Hurrah!" shouted the committee, its uninvited guests and the accompanying crowd of Bayport boys and boys which had gathered to assist in the welcome. "Hurrah!"

A passenger or two peered from the coach's window. The stage driver ironically touched his cap.

"Thank ye," he said. "Thank ye very much."

Captain Elikanah frowned his disapproval.

"We are cheering Cap'n Nathaniel Hammond of Trumet," he explained haughtily. "We are here to meet him and escort him home. Where is he? Where's Cap'n Hammond?"

"Well, now, I'll tell ye; I don't know where he is."

"You don't? Isn't he with you?"

"No, he ain't. And he didn't come on the train, neither. He was on it. The conductor told me he was on it, and set along with him between stations as far as Cohasset Narrows. But after that he never so! Here's the mail bag, Kyran."

Captain Zeb stopped beside the stage and put one foot on the wheel.

"Say, that," he whispered, "is that all you know? Where did he go to?"

"Well," the driver's voice dropped lower. "Well," he whispered, "I did hear this much. A chap I know was on the train and he said he saw Cap'n Nat get off the cars at the Cohasset Narrows depot and there was a woman with him."

"A woman? A woman? What woman?"

"Blessed if I know! And he didn't nuther. So long! Git dap!"

The reception committee and its escort, once again, backed to Trumet. The train following was disgusted and disappointed.

Trumet was that evening wondering what had become of Nat Hammond. Captain Zeb Mayo wondered most of all. Yet his wonderment was accompanied by vague suspicions of the truth. And, at eleven o'clock, when the village was in bed, a horse and buggy moved down the Turn-of-the-Road and stopped before the Hammond gate. A man alighted from the buggy and walked boldly up to the side door. There he knocked and then whistled shrilly.

A window overhead was opened.

"Who is it?" asked a feminine voice.

"Don't be frightened, Grace," replied the man at the door. "It's me—Nat. I've come home again."

CHAPTER XIX.

In Which the Minister Receives a Letter.

John Elery was uneasy. Physically he was very much better, so much better that he was permitted to sit up a while each day. But mentally he was disturbed and excited, exactly the condition which the doctor said he must not be in. Keziah and Grace had gone away and left him, and he could not understand why.

upon all paid up stock sold by the Company up to and including December 10th, 1912. This means that the Idaho-Bride Company is

and will pay a dividend out of the proceeds derived from the sale of the ore mined from the properties now being operated by them. A while back we announced the

Idaho-Bride Looking Big and shipping steadily; but we now want you to keep an eye to which is now being operated by this Company. We expect big results from the Seaton Mine because it produced a fortune in the upper workings. We are 800 feet below these and will have an immense block of stopping ground to work on and there can only be one result once this big mine is going good. A little more capital will do the work and we feel quite certain that we will all be well recompensed for our time, money and labor. By placing up-to-date machinery in the mill, we can add fully 20 per cent to our profits. This is what we want capital for and our reason for selling stock. We are preparing to make a big producing mine of this and your money will help us to do it.

Real Mining Is what Produces Dividends Do You Want Them?

If so, send in your order at once and get the benefit of the initial price, as we expect to advance the price of these shares to double or more after the first of the year.

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition, and a Feeling of "Don't Care."

SUCCESSFUL IN NEARLY EVERY CASE.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable, energetic, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills: they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box I used at once. I found a true remedy. Instead of gripping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as nature usually as if a physician had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers, or The Catarthorpe Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, MONDAY, DEC. 16, 1912.

PRICE, TWO CENTS.

TEMPERANCE SUNDAY WELL OBSERVED IN PETERBOROUGH

Great Meeting Held in Grand Opera House Addressed By Ex-Controller Spence For Local Option

Yesterday was observed as Temperance Sunday in most of the churches in Peterborough, laymen speaking for the cause of local option in many of them. At four o'clock the doors of the Grand Opera House were thrown open for a men's meeting. This was very largely attended, the ground floor being filled long before the proceedings began, with many in the gallery. The stage was nicely arranged as a drawing room scene, with rugs scattered on the floor.

Mr. Cowan, introducing the afternoon's proceedings, brought forward Mr. Greene who led in a number of hymns.

The chairman said he had been asked by the committee to make a few remarks about the local campaign. Local Option has been compared with the Scott Act and the Drunken Act. The last local option campaign was an educational one. Had 97 votes been turned from the other side, they would have won last time. There is a great change in public sentiment since the campaign three years ago. Both political parties in Ontario, have done much for temperance. The minister Whitney is for abolishing the bar and Mr. Howell is for total prohibition in the province. He knew of one young man of Peterborough, now in jail for murder through drink. The speaker then referred to a man who had recently died in the jail after a long debauch. The present campaign is purely an citizens work. There are willing workers in every part of the city and hundreds, who voted against local option last time, will vote for it now. He wants everyone to believe that local option will be a success. They want to lay the fullest information before the people. Mr. Cowan then introduced Mr. Ruthven MacDonald, who rendered several songs in good baritone voice. His enunciation was particularly clear, every word being distinctly audible.

Mr. F. S. Spence, ex-controller of Toronto, who was appointed by the Government as delegate to the Chicago conference, received a hearty welcome. Mr. Spence expressed pleasure at being present. He had taken part in other campaigns in Peterborough before and all had turned out successful. He was sure all present would see the day when liquor selling in Canada would be abolished (cheers). He was in Peterborough when there were 114 licenses, now there are only 18 (applause). The reason we hear that local option is not a success is because it is a success everywhere. The class of people who say it is not a success are those interested in liquor selling. You can place no more credit upon what a liquor dealer says, than what a real estate agent tells you. He did not want anything said against the liquor sellers as individuals. As long as there is a license system we have no right to turn up our noses at the men we grade with whiskey. He would not say that a barkeeper is as bad as a thief or a burglar. "We want the liquor dealers to enter into business that will prevent killing their souls." Liquor men cannot help being big hearted and making friends. By wiping the liquor traffic out of Peterborough you will bring happiness to many a home and help the liquor dealer to get respectable occupation. He then went on to show how the cabinet-maker, the blacksmith and other trades take raw material and turn out goods worth more. His whiskey sold over the bar do any good to the community? Peterborough has the reputation of being successful and progressive, but it is plundered by the liquor sellers. His million dollars at 10 per cent. would take him hundreds of dollars a day to spend in his lifetime. Peterborough wastes millions of dollars in liquor. Fifteen people here sold liquor on Saturday. Every man who entered those bars came out poorer men. 980 men who patronized the bars here were poorer men Saturday night. In good sober town like Peterborough there would probably be only about 30 men in the average bar. Every dollar paid for liquor is a dollar thrown away. Peterborough is $139,500 poorer during the past year through money spent in drink. Liquor selling is not a business, it is plundering. We have been fools for letting the liquor interests plunder us for years. Sir Oliver Mowat said his life long experience showed him that 75 per cent of the crime is due to liquor. The speaker then gave some jail statistics he had gathered, and blamed over 75 per cent of the commitments to jail for the liquor men bought at first against the home law. The home law is divided into two parts: with Peterborough's 26,000 inhabitants, the law is good because it prevents 19,985 of our people from selling liquor. Local option says that liquor cannot be sold even in 15 little rooms in Peterborough. Speaking of the mad dog that bit several people in West Toronto, last week, he compared a drink to mauling road dogs with the home law. If you were in the Council would you vote for a by-law to maul mad dogs from 7 p.m. Saturday to 6 a.m. Monday? He then went on to say that, in nine cases out of ten, if he, the speaker, went with a man who knows the ropes, he could get liquor in the licensed places of Peterborough on Saturday night. Telegrams were recently sent to the Mayors and Reeves of local option municipalities, to explain conditions there. These men would not like real estate agents. Favorable reports were received. Speaking of the revenue and increased taxes: $5,180.32 was brought to the city for licenses in 1911. The hotel men simply put their hands into the public's pocket to get the money they paid the city. This revenue was paid by hungry

BOTTLE FROM A LOST SCHOONER NOW FOUND

"Good-Bye," Says Message From Doomed Crew of Seventeen.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—A bottle containing the last message from the schooner Rouse Simmons, which with her crew of seventeen foundered in Lake Michigan a fortnight ago, was picked up to-day on the beach near Sheboygan, Wis., according to a special dispatch to that city.

The message was written on a sheet torn from a log book and was signed by Captain Herman Schuegemann. It read: "Everybody good bye. I guess we are all through. The sea washed over deckload Thursday. During the night the small boat was washed overboard. Leaking bad. Enkwald and Steele fell overboard Thursday. God bless us."
The Rouse Simmons carried a cargo of Christmas trees, many of which have been washed ashore.

WILL BULGARIA ENTER THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE

Paris, Dec. 14.—Bulgaria is declared to be about to enter the triple alliance, thus joining forces with Austria-Hungary, Germany and Italy, according to information given from a diplomatic source to The Figaro. King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, who was in Vienna on Thursday, is said the diplomat, on the point of concluding an agreement with Austria.

NEW YORK POLICE BLACKMAILED DISORDERLY HOUSE KEEPERS

Women Are Willing to Pay "Reasonably" for "Protection," But Object to Exorbitant Demands

New York, Dec. 14.—Charges of police blackmail, levied upon New York's 35,000 women of the underworld, were made the subject of a two-fold investigation by authorities to-day.

District Attorney Whitman, who turned Mary Goode over to the administrative investigating committee to testify last Wednesday, set his force of detectives to work to confirm or discredit her story, that keepers of resorts were paying thousands of dollars weekly for police protection. Police Commissioner Waldo has undertaken an investigation of his department, pending whose outcome two detectives have been suspended. Three other women who kept resorts in the tenderloin have come to the district attorney, it was announced, to complain of police persecution. These women told the district attorney that they did not object to paying the police "reasonably" for protection. The burden of their complaint was that the police had been unnecessarily severe in harassing them after accepting protection money.

Nearly a dozen women, including these three women are expected to testify shortly in the investigation begun by Commissioner Waldo.

DEATH OF MRS. ROSS RECALLS KIDNAPPING

Philadelphia, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Sarah Ann Ross, the mother of Charles Ross who was kidnapped 38 years ago, died at her home here last night, aged 78 years. She was the widow of Christian K. Ross.

The fate of Charles Ross, who was stolen when he was four years old, has never been learned, although numerous clues from all sections of this country and Europe were followed by detectives employed by the distracted parents.

Several "Charlie Ross" were found in Toronto during the search for the original.

A REFUGEE AND HIS FAMILY CROSSING THE PLAINS IN SEARCH OF A NEW HOME.

LAURIERS NAVY SURE TO BE FAR FROM THE FIGHTING LINE

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—The Liberals to-day allowed their side of the naval debate to drop into mere burlesque. Mr. Graham's contribution yesterday was shallow enough; but this afternoon, when Mr. Pelletier had concluded his speech, there arose Mr. Laforce.

The whole episode was curious. The Liberals had given notice to the Conservative whips that Mr. Pelletier was to be followed by Dr. Michael Clark, and it had been arranged that Mr. J. A. M. Atkins should follow Dr. Clark. The member for Red Deer is one of the speakers on whom the Liberals set some store; he fancied himself as a political economist and dry free trade brand and his real value is his fluency, for he seldom if ever brings a really new idea to a discussion; he is, however, a good turner of phrases and his speeches sound eloquent even when they yield little to analysis. When Mr. Pelletier sat down Dr. Clark sat quiet and Mr. Laforce rose.

Scandalized Delight.
The member for Montreal is a curious character. He speaks only in French, and he is noted for the extreme oddity of his French. Our fellow Canadians from Quebec have a better literary sense than we have and are more alive to the misuse of their mother-tongue; and when Mr. Laforce speaks French members and French journalists hang upon his words with a species of scandalized delight. His collection of bulls is said to be the largest outside of the Chicago Stock Yards; he has a store children. The liquor traffic is a poison to every community. The speaker resumed his seat amid applause.

Mr. MacDonald gave another song to the doors in the evening, when the fair sex was largely represented. A similar program of that of the afternoon was given, Mr. Spence giving another speech for local option.

The Churches.
Laymen spoke at several of the local churches advocating the carrying of local option, by a large majority next January. The churches and respective speakers were as follows, the speaker, first named in each case giving an address in the morning and second named speaking during the evening:
St. Paul's—Rev. Robert Pogue, R. Lees, Robt. E. Harding.
George street—M. Clarke, C. Eaton.
Charlotte street—Richard Lees, W. H. Moore.
Murray street—W. A. Logan, R. L. Downie.
St. James—Ald. Morgan, A. O. Kidd.
Free Methodist—L. W. Petley, Thos. Marks.
Salvation Army—W. McLaren, H. C. Stabler.

PETERBORO HEALTH ASSN. HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Executive of the Peterborough Health Association, per Mr. J. W. Bennett, presented its first annual report at a meeting of the Association in the City Council Chamber. The report was a summary of the work that has been carried on during the past year. The treasurer's report given by Mr. Mackintosh showed a balance on hand of $3,922.89.

A motion was passed authorizing Miss Sparkhall's salary being mailed to her each month and any other expenses incurred by her in her work, being paid on the certificate of the chairman of the respective committee.

The report of the Women's Auxiliary was read by Mrs. W. R. Travers and adopted.

Rev. James Rollins moved that a vote of thanks to the ladies of the Association.

Dr. McPherson read the report of Miss Sparkhall, district nurse. Twenty-three patients were on the list. She has made 227 calls to date.

ORIGIN OF YULE TIDE

In northern Europe the ancient celebration in honor of the god Thor was held at a time when the sun changed its course in the path. The word symbolizing this turning was the Gothic word "hial"—wheel. Gradually the word became Yule, and was fixed upon the festival itself.

A part of this celebration was the burning of the Yule log. When the log was well alight the head of the house would strike it and say, "For every spark that arises shall we have cows, horses and pigs."

HOW SARAH BERNHARDT BUYS HER XMAS PRESENTS

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt did her Christmas shopping here Saturday. She took most pains with the toy engine and dolls she bought for her great granddaughter, Sarah Gross, who lives in London. Mrs. Bernhardt could not stop in Chicago herself without difficulty because few of the shop girls speak French. Her secretary, Mlle. Seylor, tried it, but found her English inadequate, so Mrs. Bernhardt applied to the management of her hotel, for two drummers' sample rooms and had an assortment of such articles as she desired sent in from the shops. She spent a large part of the day selecting gifts from the assortment. Her purchases totaled nearly $5,000.

HENRY LOVE TAKEN TO JAIL AT OWEN SOUND FOR MURDER

Festerton, Ont., Dec. 14.—On instructions of the Crown Attorney at Owen Sound, Henry Love, held for the murder of his wife, was taken to Owen Sound jail by County Constable Cook on the noon train yesterday.

This came as a surprise as it was understood the husband was granted permission to remain in charge of constables until after the funeral.

In conversation with the writer to-day before leaving for Owen Sound, Love declared he knew nothing whatever as to who murdered his wife and said it was an awful predicament to be in. He mentioned the fact that he had no money to procure the services of a lawyer in his defence.

"He's a damned liar," was the reply of Henry Love when told by Inspector Raburn that Arnold Love said the prisoner had told him his mother had gone to the home of Rev. Mr. McGee early on Tuesday morning. The prisoner seemed anxious to talk about the case, but was not encouraged to do so. Inspector Raburn returned to Toronto for over Sunday. He will be back for inquest on Monday.

The autopsy was held this afternoon and while the result will not be officially known until the inquest, it is understood that there were three distinct wounds, on back of the right ear and one on each side of the neck, caused by a blunt instrument, in all probability the hook on the ship-builders' ax found by the constable.

HOW PARLIAMENT HILL VIEWS NEW TURN TO NAVY QUESTION

Canada Likely Not Only to Build Ships But Also to Man Them

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—Kaleidoscopic just now is the political situation revolving, as around an axis, the naval question. Speculation is rife and hydra-headed gossip speaks from every nook and corner of Parliament Hill. The Government was undoubtedly taken by surprise; they had anticipated a Laurier speech, but they apparently had no conception of the program outlined by the Laurier amendment.

What will happen is now the question. Some say the Opposition should force an election; others say that such a course would be welcomed by the Government. Possibly the solution of the situation will be found in the adoption by the Government of some part of the plan so carefully matured by the Opposition. Is there an irreconcilable conflict between the Borden gift and the Laurier policy? Dreadnoughts might be built in England to be recalled hereafter to Canada and meanwhile in Canada smaller vessels could be constructed. Officers and crews could be trained, and in three, four or five years Canadian fleet units might be maintained on either coast.

Will the Government adopt in part at least the policy of the opposition? If the Government holds out, will the Liberals dare to force an election? If the Liberals start to force an election, will they be suddenly confronted by an appeal to the country?

The naval debate, as inaugurated by the prime minister, was upon a high level, nor was the standard of the debate degraded by the speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

On Friday, however, the debate dragged and Hon. Mr. Pelletier was accused a obstruction. At any rate, Dr. Clarke of Red Deer, who was to follow him, refused to address an empty house, and Mr. Laforce, who does not mind an empty house at all, because he speaks in French, sprang into the breach.

People who came to see the show and hear the debate were disappointed, but perhaps the real performance was going on behind the scenes.

YOUTHS OFF TO PEN, THE YOUNGEST EVER YET

Were Charged With Serious Crimes
And Will Spend Sentence There.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—The youngest prisoners that ever entered the gates of Kingston Penitentiary morning on the Grand Trunk nine o'clock flyer.

The youthful convicts were Norman Ryan, age 19, and Robert McKie, age 15 who were sentenced by Magistrate Denison to three years for robbery in the west end of the city. Judge Morgan tracked six months on to Ryan for the part he played in shooting at Robert Bell at Islington. The other member of the trio has to serve six months in the Central imposed on him by Magistrate Denison. After he has served his time there he will be taken to Kingston to start on a three year term that Judge Morgan passed upon him for his part of the shooting at Islington.

In the 47 years that the officers have been taken prisoners to Kingston these two lads are the youngest he ever handled.

Is Destined to Revolutionize Ottawa's Manufacturing Facilities

TODAY RUSKIN PLACE is but a townsite — a town in the making — one of the biggest and safest investments in Eastern Canada. It has the strategic position in the South end of Ottawa and the railroads to make it a huge manufacturing district — while the land must be bought and the homes must be built and built quickly for to house those men and their families that must go there to work in the manufacturing already provided for and on the verge of coming.

To-day Lots in RUSKIN PLACE may be bought at country village price. Within the very near future announcement may come of definite arrangements for immediate building by one or more additional large industries. This announcement should be sufficient to double the value. It may come any day now.

Learn all about RUSKIN PLACE. Investigate it thoroughly. Already quite a number of the Lots have been sold. There are only 171 lots left in all. Get in early, secure the best choice.

EDITORIAL NOTES

There are a dozen reasons for remembering last Wednesday. It was the 12th day of the 12th month of the 12th year of the 20th century.

They must be queer people in Newburgh when officials mistake bear's paws for human hands and suspect a murder until relieved by a taxidermist.

Don't stick your Christmas stamp on the face of a letter. If you do, the letter may not reach its destination. It is all right to put the stamp on the reverse side, using it as a seal.

William J. Bryan failed three times to reach the throne, but he will be nearest to the throne if there is truth in the report that President-elect Wilson has chosen Bryan to be secretary of state.

A hell-vile contemporary takes three inches of big type head lines to describe a "peculiar accident" and "sad mishap" to a local schoolboy. The boy "in a friendly scuffle" fell and cut his lip on the pavement. Great is the headline!

Canada's foreign trade is expected to reach the billion dollar mark this year. It is remembered that the United States did not reach that figure until 1875 at which time she had a population of between forty-five and fifty millions.

If you are one of those unfortunate like some newspaper editors and want to get back at the fellow who makes you pay double postage on non-prepaid letters, here is a recipe: Go out to Curtis brickyard and get a wheelbarrow full of bricks. Mail these Xmas cards to the man who sends you underpaid letters. Before posting, mix in, or rather, place on, a one cent stamp. The other fellow will, later on, get a Christmas surprise.

THE EMERGENCY CONTRIBUTION

The argument urged against an Emergency Contribution is that payment of cash would be equivalent to the payment of tribute and therefore derogatory to Canadian dignity. At the same time it is conceded that Canada ought to have ships which she could lend in time of need to the Imperial Navy; or, put in another way, that Canada but for her connection with the British Empire would be obliged to possess ships of her own. To obtain such ships the expenditure of cash would be necessary. Contractors would receive the cash and Canada the ships. Nothing derogatory about that. Yet the only difference in the proposed Contribution will be that the British Admiralty will receive the cash in trust to turn it without delay into up-to-date ships. These ships will be none the less Canadian because they are of the character really required. Built with Canadian money, and christened with Canadian names they will ultimately form part of the Canadian wing of the Imperial Navy. The cash is but the chrysalis. The result will be ships of which Canada can be proud. It is not proposed to substitute dollars for dollars, but to meet a situation with present action rather than subsequent regret.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CEMENT

The attitude of the Liberals in opposing the reduction of the cement duty last summer to relieve the serious shortage has caused a great deal of comment. Just why they should so anxiously defend the cement trust was a mystery; or, again, why should they have increased the duty until it was over 40 per cent. However, the cat is now out of the bag. Here are the names of some of the cement people:

President—Hon. W. C. Edwards; Senator by the favor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier; a Liberal; a free trader. Director—Hon. Robert Mackay; a Laurier Senator; a Liberal. Director—Hon. George Cox; a Laurier Senator; a Liberal. Director—C. C. Ballantyne, of Montreal; an old-time political friend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Again, at Owen Sound, there were two cement plants. One had for its president, Mr. A. G. Mackay, sometime member of the House Government, sometime leader of the Liberal party in Ontario; now a champion of reciprocity in Edmonton. The other had as its president, Mr. W. P. Telford, formerly Liberal M.P. for North Grey. Yet again, Mr. James Pearson, a great Liberal, a free trader, former Liberal candidate in East Toronto, is interested in a cement plant at Attwood, Ontario.

It was no wonder that Sir Wilfrid Laurier so hurriedly came to the defence of the Trust and was so annoyed that the duty was cut in half.

Natural Cure For Catarrh Obviates Taking Drugs

It Has Superseded the Old-fashioned Stomach-dressing Remedies, and Invariably Cures Quickly.

It was their inability to reach the real source of catarrh and bronchitis that caused the medical profession to drop liquid cough medicines and adopt "Catarrhoxone" instead. Catarrhoxone provides a method of breathing right into the lungs certain rare medicinal vapors which are so healing and comforting as to entirely banish coughs, catarrh and throat trouble in a very short time. The most wonderful thing about Catarrhoxone is, that no matter where the germs of bronchitis or catarrh are hidden, Catarrhoxone will reach and destroy them.

"About five years ago I took a cold in the head and catarrh set in. It kept increasing by leaps and bounds. I kept putting off getting anything until at last I found I would have to. After trying several things I heard of your remedy, Catarrhoxone, and procured a bottle and began using it. I was not long in finding out I had struck the right thing. I am recommending Catarrhoxone to all who have Catarrh, etc."

"Signed—Everton L. Watson."
"Blair P.O., Queen's Co., N.B." Catarrhoxone has made an astonishing record of cures. Its method is right; no drugs; just healing balsam vapors, that bring instant relief to Catarrh and all throat, bronchial and chest colds. Get the large size, lasts months, is sure to cure you, price $1.00; smaller size 50c; sample for trial size, 25c. All dealers or The Catarrhoxone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

WESTERN STATES AND FACTORIES

Industrial Development Which is Sure to be Duplicated in the Canadian West

Many Canadian writers and public speakers have asserted that conditions in Western Canadian provinces to-day with respect to the manufacturing industry are almost identical with those that prevailed in the Middle Western United States a generation ago and it is predicted that industrial development in Western Canada in the next generation will duplicate that of the Western States in the last thirty years. Fifty years ago there was practically no manufacturing west of the Atlantic States, but to-day Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Illinois and neighboring states are in the forefront in manufacturing. The following extracts from the United States census of 1910 are significant of what is in store for the Canadian West.

"Milwaukee, with a population of 373,857, is the only city in the state of Wisconsin having a population of over 100,000, but 17 cities, Superior, Racine, Oshkosh, La Crosse, Sheboygan, Madison, Green Bay, Kenosha, Fond du Lac, Eau Claire, Appleton, Wausau, Beloit, Marinette, Janesville, Manitowish and Ashland have a population of over 10,000 but less than 50,000. These 18 cities contain 32.3 per cent. of the total population of the state, and were credited with 61.8 per cent. of the total value of its manufactures in 1909. Only 10.8 per cent. of the population of the state in 1909 resided in cities having between 2,500 and 10,000 inhabitants.

"While Wisconsin is largely an agricultural state, the advance in the relative importance of its manufacturing industries, as measured by value of products, has been marked. In 1849 it ranked nineteenth among the states in this respect, while in 1909 it occupied eighth place. During 1849 the manufacturing industries of the state gave employment to an average of 6,049 wage earners, representing 3 per cent. of the total population, as against an average of 182,582 wage earners, or 7.8 per cent. of the total population in 1909. During this period the gross value of products per capita of the total population of the state increased from $30 to $253. The proportion which the manufactures of the state gave employment to in 1909 was nine-tenths of 1 per cent. in 1849, as against 2.9 per cent. in 1909."

The following table gives the most important figures relative to 511 classes of manufactures combined for 1909 together with the percentages of increase from census to census:

State	Year	No. of Estab's	Value of Products

CANADIAN BONDS

The Industrial Variety Has Become a First Class Investment

The general public purchased extensively the bonds of industrial establishments in the last two or three years. Industrial Canada discussing this new development in Canadian finance says:

"Certain Canadian industrial bonds have become first class investments, and are competing with the reliable first mortgage in the absorption of ready money. Not many years ago it was almost impossible to float industrial bonds. Why the change? The reason is not hard to discover. Since the baleful shadow of Free Trade has been removed, great industries have developed into prosperous maturity. They are well managed, and well financed. Their promises to pay are as good as bank notes. During the last ten years the manufactured products of Canada have increased in value by 142 per cent. Such a rate of increase enhances the assets of the manufacturer. His bonds are good and are in demand."

Mathewson Likes Tosses

Writing of Jeff Tosses, formerly with the Leafs, and his work in the West for the New York Giants, Christy Mathewson says: "Tosses is a man who was developed on the trip largely because none of the other pitchers had down, and some one had to do the twisting. Shoved into a game practically lost, with everything to gain and nothing to lose, an ideal way for a young pitcher to start against a veteran club, he showed that he was there by pitching part of a contest in Chicago that was a beautiful piece of work. He also demonstrated in the second game in which he worked in Chicago and also in the one in Pittsburgh that he has everything a pitcher should have, including confidence in his own ability, which, perhaps, is the greatest. He will be one of the big stars of the league next season."

ONLY WOMAN SCORER

Mrs. Van Buren Holds Unique Position in Western City

A woman scorer is a thing in official capacity for the Western Tri-State game in La Grande, Oregon. It is believed that Mrs. Jay Van Buren is the only woman baseball scorer in the West.

The beginning of the season A. Nelson, newspaper man, was appointed official scorer for La Grande. His duties were such that he was unable to finish the season, and Mrs. Van Buren now holds the position. For there has been nothing but even the players here pronounced capable officials.

Mrs. Van Buren's ability as a scorer is the result of ten years of practice. She has been scoring for the last five years a first place, and has a score that has been a record at every game played in her city.

This is a Want Ad Town

and There Are a Lot of Important Things That Cannot, Nowadays, Be Accomplished at All Without the Help of the Want Ads!

For example, your chances to sell, or to lease, property AT THE RIGHT PRICE, to the right people, ARE MULTIPLIED BY A HUNDRED through an adequate campaign of classified advertising. If the matter is left to an agent, or broker, he must advertise your proposition aggressively—for the simple reason that 99 out of a hundred people who buy or rent property first read and consider and investigate the ads. The habit is one of simple prudence, of business sense, with them. The unadvertised property never comes to their notice at all!

So it is in the tasks of finding efficient help—of securing boarders or tenants for furnished rooms—of finding desirable positions, in these tasks and queries the want ads are the natural service givers. They introduce people who have business to transact with each other. Every hour of every day such people, who might never meet otherwise, are brought together, with mutual profit!

Truly, this IS a want ad town! Are YOU a want advertiser?

WESTERN PRICES FOR MACHINERY

T. H. Race, Who Investigated, Thinks Tariff Has Little to Do With the Subject

Mr. T. H. Race, Mitchell, Ontario, last year visited many of the chief manufacturing cities of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota, to learn what advantages the American manufacturers of the West have over the Canadian manufacturers of the East in supplying the trade in Western Canada.

"In conversation with the manager of a large implement concern in Illinois, who confirmed all that I had gathered at Madison, Milwaukee, Madison and Peoria," says Mr. Race, "I learned that the advantages were of two fold nature, firstly in a cheaper freight rate, and secondly in the volume of output. The freight rate between Toronto Hamilton, and Brantford, by way of Chicago to St. Paul and Winnipeg was two cents per hundred less than by the North shore route to Winnipeg. With that advantage," said the manager, "together with the advantage of manufacturing for a market of ninety-seven millions as against a market of only seven millions we can afford to pay the Canadian duty and still do business with the Canadian West. In fact, he continued, these advantages in our favor, trifling as they are, reduce the tariff protection to the Canadian manufacturer to a matter of only about five per cent, and if the Canadian government should take off the duty entirely it would not likely affect the prices now paid in Canada to any noticeable extent."

Advantage of Large Output
"In order to impress upon me the advantages of a large output over a comparatively small one, I was informed that a large American implement firm last year manufactured five hundred binders. They did this to save themselves with many of their old customers, who, if they had to go elsewhere for binders, might do so for other lines. The manager assured me that if they got three-quarters of the cost of making these binders they would be well satisfied. I asked if they intended to continue that branch of the business. The reply was that they had not decided that point yet; but if they did continue it would be in a large way. For, said the manager, a firm making five hundred binders will not be in the business long against concerns making fifty thousand at a time. The fact is, all agricultural machinery is now being manufactured at a minimum cost and the profit depends on the volume of output, tariff duties being neither here nor there. All this information impressed me, and with my personal knowledge of how agricultural machinery is selling in other lands I confess myself unable to see that the tariff is figuring much in the fixing of prices here in North America, when the farmers are buying cheaper than any other farmers in the world."

Elsewhere Than the Tariff
Can the Saskatchewan farmer who asks the question, "When are the manufacturing industries of Canada going to be able to stand alone?" get his answer in the case as I found it? Are the American manufacturers standing alone? If not, if they are bolstered up by tariff protection, why is machinery cheaper there than anywhere else in the world? Furthermore, if the freight rates and ninety million market advantages, practically reduce the Canadian protection to a nominal five per cent as was told at Madison and St. Paul, how far is the Canadian manufacturer from standing alone? I fear, if the Saskatchewan farmer has a real grievance in high prices for agricultural machinery, he will have to look elsewhere than the tariff for a cause."

GRAIN GROWERS' DIVIDEND

A Figure That Opens the Eyes of the Eastern Manufacturers.
The Grain Growers' Grain Company, Limited, according to an official statement has a paid up capital of $586,478.72. The net profit for the past year was $121,614.12, or sufficient for a dividend of about 21 per cent. In addition the company has a reserve of $230,530.50 and during the year spent about $21,000 in educational work which in part at least was a free trade propaganda. The Eastern manufacturer as he looks at those dividend figures reflects that he has much of finance to learn from the West.

"Treasure Island" Sold

Christmas Island, the original "Treasure Island" of Robert Louis Stevenson's great story and around which many another less famous tale of piracy, treasure and blackbirding has been written, on whose coral shores lie the skeletons of many a wreck, was sold to a German syndicate for a mid-Pacific depot for steamships. The price is said to be $175,000 cash. The island was owned by a family named Greig.

WEST PLANNING FOR FACTORIES

Industries Needed for the All-round Development of the Country—A Bright Official

S. Nicholson, Secretary-Treasurer of Toileid, Alta., states that it is proposed to establish an Industrial Bureau in Western Canada, whose main object will be to secure industries for Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. The matter is to be brought to the attention of the Dominion Government, inasmuch as general opinion in the West favors making this bureau a branch of the Trade and Commerce Department. The new organization would assemble all available information as to the industrial needs and opportunities of western municipalities, keeping in active touch with all local Industrial Bureaus and Boards of Trade.

It is also proposed that this bureau would be in communication with Eastern manufacturers, giving all possible assistance in the establishment of new or branch factories in the Western Provinces.

"This bureau," said Mr. Nicholson, "would give home manufacturers the first chance, but if they could not build the required factory, then we would give outsiders a chance."

"For what industries in the West are there the greatest opportunities?" he was asked.
"The brick industry is at present the most attractive," he said. "Edmonton brought brick from Minnesota this summer. These cost the consumer, f.o.b. Edmonton, $25.00 per thousand for faced brick. There is first-class brick clay in Estevan, Medicine Hat, Toileid, Taber and many other western places."

Mr. Nicholson also referred to the opportunities in the West for the manufacture of glass and piping of all kinds. Flour and oat mills were needed. A closer supply of iron manufactures was needed. At present the dealer has to buy in too large quantities. Openings are numerous also for plants where many of the small parts of machinery could be made and assembled with larger parts, which might be shipped in. Twine and rope factories, and jute mills were also needed.

Regarding labor for factories, Mr. Nicholson has no fear, but would encourage it by the establishing of clothing or other factories where women and girls are employed. If the mechanic or laborer could obtain employment for his family as in the Eastern Canadian cities, he would as a rule sooner go West than remain in the East.

CAPITAL IN INDUSTRIES

Has Not Nearly Reached the Limit of its Productivity
Figures showing the relative productivity of capital employed in manufacturing in Canada and the United States make it very clear that Canadian industries are as yet only in the early stages of development. In 1900 the total capital employed in the United States in the manufacturing industry was estimated at $9,212,524,500. The value of the total product was estimated at $11,000,140,100, that is, about 23 per cent in excess of capitalization. In the case of Canada the total capital invested in the manufacturing industry in 1900 was $446,914,467, and the total value of the product $481,643,575, or less than 8 per cent in excess of capitalization. In 1910 the total value of capital invested in the Canadian manufacturing industry was $1,547,658,000, and the value of total product $1,168,575,500, a total somewhat less than that of capitalization. This would seem to show that manufacturing capital produces less in Canada than in the United States. As an offset to this, however, it must be remembered that the industry is younger and less highly developed in Canada than in the United States, and that much of the capital that has been recently invested in it has not reached its full earning capacity. The figures for 1910 in Canada are particularly interesting as they show that the Dominion undertook even more development in the industrial line in the last ten years than in the previous years. There seems no doubt that Canada has still quite a way to go before most of her industries will be beyond the developing stage and will be yielding the greatest amount of product possible for the capital invested. What, of course, improves the showing in the States is their specialization. In most concerns there all their machinery is running all the time, while in Canada many factories have installed machinery which only needs to run half time to supply the demand in some particular articles.

Do Your Looks

Quite Satisfy You?

IF YOUR COLOR IS BAD, IF YOU SUFFER FROM PIMPLES, HERE IS GOOD ADVICE.

Pine Bionts in Two Weeks
Miss Nettie E. Callaghan, a well-known young lady in Middleton, writes as follows: "I was affected for two years with a rash and ugly looking pimples that spread over my face. My color was poor, and my blood evidently completely out of order. Certainly it was a most despairing sort of a case, because various treatments did but little to help me. A friend of mine in Toronto, Ont., advised me to get Dr. Hamilton's Pills, so I went at once for five boxes. In two weeks I felt like new—looks improved, spirits rose, and I felt I was getting well. I have used this remedy for a long time, and now wouldn't be without it.
If you are in ailing health, have blood disorders, stomach trouble, or headaches, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will help you quickly. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mankra and Bitternut. 25c. per box, five for $1.00. Sent postpaid by the Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

After the programme refreshments were served. Later all repaired to the Library where a Christmas tree stood, loaded with gifts. Each student received a gift of a more or less humorous character.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS

Are becoming more popular every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway system to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the everyday grind, the monotonous of strenuous life to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides it pays. Round trip tourist tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway system at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between these cities, carrying through coaches and electric lighted pullman sleeping cars, via the only double track line making connections at these cities with through trains for the south, etc. A specially conducted party will leave Toronto by special train at 1 p.m. January 6th, via Detroit, for Palm Beach, Florida, and any one desiring to go should make berth reservations early at any Grand Trunk Ticket Office, or write A. E. Bell, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, each laceration is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Zam-Buk again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or a skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Dufferin Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Company and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box. If you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage), address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

LAURIER'S ESTIMATE FOR HIS FLEET NEARLY FIFTY MILLION

$42,500,000, With $7,500,000 For Maintenance—If Built in Canada $14,000,000 Will Have To Be Added

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—Examination of the details of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's naval estimate proves how utterly unbusinesslike it is. It is replete with errors in point of fact; a few of these may be exposed.

Let us note first the way in which Mr. Borden went about the finances of his estimate. He settled on a policy of giving three battleships; he then took the cost of one ship, £2,350,000, multiplied by three, and arrived at a total of £7,050,000; and this in round figures, and allowing something for the cost exceeding the estimate, may be set at $35,000,000. The sum was ascertained by an ordinary business calculation.

Tables Mr. Borden's Amount.

Now let us look at the Laurier estimate. It begins by demanding that $30,000,000 be appropriated, and goes on to urge that two fleet units be built with it; built as far as possible in Canada. Sir Wilfrid Laurier begins with the sum of money, for no apparent reason other than the fact that Mr. Borden had mentioned it, and he then outlines a different programme for its use. But suppose we do what Mr. Borden did—take the ships for which Sir Wilfrid Laurier asks, and see what they would cost. The result is curious.

Without reckoning the cost.

We are met at the outset by a difficulty to which we may recur later; the sort of dreadnought which Sir Wilfrid Laurier desires to have. We may for the moment assume that he will want a perfectly up-to-date one. A fleet unit as defined by the Admiralty in 1909 was to consist of an armoured cruiser of "dreadnought" type, three cruisers of the "Bristol" type, six large destroyers and three submarines. Since 1909 the size, power and cost of all these vessels

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN IS NOW WAXING HOT

As an aftermath of the big local option meetings held here on Sunday last, it is of interest to note that there are 463 municipalities in Ontario under prohibition, 365 under license and 118 under license where a majority voted for local option. The local advocates of local option are putting up a strenuous fight for the principles they preach. They claim that while the work of the Alliance has been belittled by some of the organs of the liquor trade, the facts speak for themselves. In the last eight years local option has been carried in 293 municipalities, putting out of business 741 bar-rooms. In the same period local option repeal has been successful in six municipalities, and the total number of bar-rooms restored has been seven.

Those engaged in the liquor business are naturally making a big effort to save their investments. Rev. Mr. Spence of the Dominion Alliance says: "Of the 365 municipalities under license the Alliance is bringing on local option campaigns in 50 places, and many victories are confidently expected. Where prohibition prevails, and there are 462 such municipalities, the liquor interests are only able to bring on repeal contests in twenty places, and the Alliance expects to hold their ground everywhere."

A SCENE IN A CHINESE MISSION WHERE A CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION IS BEING ARRANGED

In the Chinese missions throughout the country every effort is being made to give the foreigners a splendid Christmas celebration. In many cases these festivals are most elaborate and the Chinese are usually very anxious to make as big a display as possible. The above photograph shows a Chinese Christmas tree decorated in typical Chinese fashion.

PEACE TERMS ARRANGED AT THE COST OF ADRIANOPLE SURE

Delegates From Warring State Begin Conference in St. James' Palace—Grey Speaks a Welcome

London, Dec. 16.—Principal conditions of peace demanded by the allies comprises the immediate surrender of the Turkish fortresses of Bosphorus, Adrianople and Janina to the garrison of which full military honors will be granted; the evacuation of Eastern Europe by Turkey as far as East Thessalonica to a line to be delimited on the spot; the cessation to Greece of all the Aegean Islands the annexation of Crete to Greece and the payment by Turkey of a war indemnity and of the expenses incurred by the allies on account of the Turkish prisoners.

The allies in return are prepared to grant complete amnesty to the Musselman population in the territories they annex for any acts of hostility during the war; the return of all prisoners; the recognition of the spiritual sovereignty of the Sultan over the Ottoman States and the free administration by the Musselman of their religious foundations in the Balkans.

Mr. Thompson, now that your business season is about over, how do you find the plumbing of Peterborough houses, as compared with that of similar conditions in towns and cities elsewhere?

Mr. Thompson, who is a practical plumber, with many years' experience in installing such work, replied: "Well, I can assure you that the private houses of Peterborough have as good as, in fact better and more sanitary a system of plumbing than any towns or cities of equal size, I have worked in or visited, in the United States or Canada. There has been an immense improvement in local plumbing since 1905."

MR. J. H. BURNHAM AND THE CATHOLIC RECORD

This Paper Does Not Deny the Truth of Mr. Burnham's Statement.

The Catholic Record of Dec. 14th, contains the following reference to Mr. Burnham. It will be noticed that the Record does not deny the truth of Mr. Burnham's statement as to the policy of the Church of Rome.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., for West Peterborough, has discovered a conspiracy to force French-Canadians to give up their mother tongue and to adopt English in order that the French race in its proposed conquest of Canada to the true faith.

To your tents, O Israel!

Some people might consider it rash to say that there are people in Peterborough with less sense than J. H. Burnham. But Mr. Burnham is no fool; he probably knows his constituents, and particularly that portion of the electorate to which he especially appeals. If political expediency demands the turning of a sharp corner, trust J. H. to convince the faithful that it is all right. It may puzzle them a bit, but they will eventually see that the Quebec hierarchy, instead of being the bete noir it used to be, is their natural ally against the aggression of Rome.

But what is to save the Minister of Militia who already speaks French, and the Speaker of the House of Commons who is learning the language?

PLUMBING IN PETERBORO IS GOOD AND SANITARY

Yesterday a Times' representative, in conversation with the city's plumbing inspector, asked the question: "Mr. Thompson, now that your business season is about over, how do you find the plumbing of Peterborough houses, as compared with that of similar conditions in towns and cities elsewhere?"

Mr. Thompson, who is a practical plumber, with many years' experience in installing such work, replied: "Well, I can assure you that the private houses of Peterborough have as good as, in fact better and more sanitary a system of plumbing than any towns or cities of equal size, I have worked in or visited, in the United States or Canada. There has been an immense improvement in local plumbing since 1905."

OUT FOR A TUGGLE WITH BORDEN'S BULL PUP.

THE TRENT CANAL

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Required to Rectify Colossal Blunders Alleged to Have Been Made, Otherwise Canal When Completed Will Be Worthless—As Seen by An Experienced Navigator.

(By Times Special Commissioner.)

According to your instructions to go over the Trent Canal from Rice Lake to Tren on and report on the progress of the work and how they appear to me to suit the traffic which will pass over the canal, I proceeded to Hastings to start my trip.

I just imagined I had a tow of five or six barges behind a powerful tug and was taking my fleet through to Trenton. Just to start my remarks, I might say that I don't think I would get very far on my journey before I would be minus a good many of my barges which would have gone to the bottom. Speaking generally the works don't seem to have been built with the idea of practical use, for the only style of traffic that can do business economically on this canal, which is barge navigation. It might be possible to pass through this canal with a single steam boat, but my experience is that the cost per ton capacity of operating a single steam vessel of the size and capacity that would pass through the Trent Canal would be very much greater than the cost of operating the large steam vessels that pass through the Welland Canal, which would mean that the Trent Canal would get no through traffic which would all go by the Welland Canal. But when it comes to operating a tow of cheaply built barges, if the channels and works are made suitable for such traffic, the Trent Canal can compete successfully with any other canal so far proposed.

THE SUBMARINE CHANNELS

I might say I have operated boats on the Trent Canal and elsewhere and I think I know whereof I speak. Starting from Rice Lake, we have to pass through a number of narrow channels (about a hundred feet wide) which have been dredged out to the required depth for navigation. At the ends of these channels, which they tell me are called "submerged channels," there stands two solid concrete piers about a hundred feet apart. I suppose they have been there to mark where the dredged channels are, but practically if they are there to wreck the tail end of a tow of barges. If these piers are meant only to mark the channel why did they not put an ordinary spar buoy or some other floating mark over which a barge, if it drifted out of the line of the channel, would pass over and not be smashed to pieces? If these channels are not to be made wider why not place a number of piers up stream, so that the upper piers will be four or five hundred feet apart, and then connect these piers with booms, so as to form a bell-shaped entrance, and barges would be glided into these channels? Proper entrances to these channels will surely have to be made before they can be said to be safe. If some of the material dredged out of the channel had been placed on the sides of the channel to form banks, these banks would have marked the channel and kept the boats on the line of the channel, and from tearing their sides out against the rough edges of the cut. This, I think, would have been the cheapest way to have protected these channels. Now, as the material has all been removed, piers and booms, or a concrete wall, will have to be placed along the sides of these channels to protect them.

THE HASTINGS LOCK.

After passing through these channels we come to the lock at Hastings. This lock is about on the same plan as the other locks on the canal. In entering the lock I find that on the side next to the dam there is only a short entrance pier, and only enough room for my tug and about one barge. With the wind blowing from the west the rest of my tow of barges would follow the current and would drift down against the dam and probably be injured. Some piers and booms should have been placed on this side of the entrance to prevent the barges at the end of the tow from drifting against the dam. Some of these engineers that design navigation works should, it appears to me, have some idea of how to handle boats, and they would not be so particular as to how it would look on paper, but more as to how it will suit the practical navigation of the canal. There is nothing straight in the build of a boat and the course of a tow of barges when it slackens speed, as it has to do when it enters a lock or there is a side wind blowing, is not straight so that a wide and long entrance will have to be made at all locks in order to prevent the barges at the end of the tow from following the current over the dam.

CANAL USELESS FOR TOW OF BARGES

These remarks apply to all the locks as there is no provision made to receive a tow of barges. There is a fall of about ten feet at this lock. After leaving Hastings we pass through a long reach of the river, which is very wide, in places forming almost a lake. There are a number, also, of submarine channels on this reach.

HEELY'S FALLS

At Heely's Falls there is a dam and three locks, all well underway, and should be completed next year. The Seymour Power Company is building a fine power house, which I am told will generate about fifteen thousand horsepower, which will be the greatest amount of power generated at any one point on the canal. Passing on down through Crow Bay we have to go through some more submarine channels and come to the first lock on Brown and Aymer's contract. This lock and dam is completed. A novel machine for breaking rock in the river channels is to be seen here. It consists of a scow on which is a heavy steel weight of about ten tons, which looks something like a long cannon, and which is drawn up by a powerful engine and allowed to drop on the rock. The force of the blow breaks the rock which is afterwards taken out by a dredge. It was not working when I was there, but it must be a very cheap way of breaking up the rock.

At this lock is also located the power house belonging to the Municipality of the Town of Campbellford. I was told that the Seymour Power Company also leases all the power not required by the town, so that they use all the water in the river.

A GREAT AND COSTLY BLUNDER

Here is also located one of the greatest engineering blunders made on this or any other canal. It is the placing of the entrance to the raceway to the power house just above the lock gates. That is, the whole current of the river has to cross the line of the canal just above the lock gates in order to get to the power house. What the engineers were thinking about when they located the intake to the power house in such a position is hard to understand, from a navigation standpoint. Why they put the power house on that side of the river at all for is what I can't see, nor no one else that I spoke to. There seems just as good

Do You Feel Moody, Irritable, Depressed?

When That Languid, Laggard, Easily-Tired Feeling Comes, Your Liver Is Slow

Tells How to Act Quickly

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches, and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries of like other women, and those full feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish, and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and helpful. Well, I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use, I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in clearing up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvelous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all other men and women can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c a box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid by the Catarthorax Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

He predeceased her about seven years ago.

Mrs. McFarlane was born in the township of Deseronto. She was well known in Peterborough and was held in very high esteem. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. THE RACE IS NOW BETWEEN MONTREAL AND WINNIPEG FOR FIRST PLACE

Steadily and rapidly Winnipeg has been gaining on Toronto and Montreal in the race for supremacy in the commercial world.

A week ago Winnipeg passed Toronto, and at the present rate of progress she will overtake Montreal in less than two years' time.

The following table of Bank clearings show the position of the leading Canadian cities: Week Ending Nov. 21st.

City	Clearings
Montreal	$ 59,362,145
Winnipeg	46,652,937
Toronto	46,373,820
Vancouver	14,264,689
Calgary	6,203,067

For the same week in 1911, Winnipeg's clearings were $36,372,723, showing a gain for 1912 of 28.27 per cent.

Winnipeg's rapid industrial development since the civic power plant was completed a little over a year ago, has resulted in a tremendous increase in population, and when the figures are all in, it is estimated that the population will exceed the 200,000 mark, an increase of over 50,000 for 1912.

a place for it on the other side of the river, and the current would then be altogether away from the canal, which is a most desirable thing when powerless barges are to be handled at a lock. I understand the municipality wanted to put their power house on the opposite side of the river from the locks, but the engineers would not agree to this. Now the whole current of the river has to cross the river just at a point where the barges have to lay before they enter the lock. It does not need an engineer nor a boatman to know just what would happen if an attempt were made to draw a number of barges across the current of the river in a straight line. Anyone would know that they would go down the river, and that is just what will happen when an attempt is made to pass a tow of barges across the current of the whole river, which will be passing across the canal just above the lock. Every tow of barges has to stop when they come to a lock, and what will happen when the barges stop in front of this opening to the power house, which is about 250 feet wide? These barges will be drawn into the opening to the power house and be wrecked, or else the power house will have to be shut down every time a tow of barges comes along. One thing is certain, that there will have to be a great change made when the regular traffic of the canal commences; either the power house will have to be moved to the other side of the river or a new entrance will have to be made away up in the bay above. The former would be the better and likely the cheaper, but either will be a very costly undertaking—probably many thousands of dollars.

In my next letter I will give a description of the work below Campbellford, in which more blunders are apparent.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Ald. Brown has decided not to stand for Aldermanic honors again.

Peterborough Curling Club met last night in the rink, when the Schedule Committee gave their report.

Lindsay Council has notified the Seymour Power Co., to defer action in regard to ten new lamps for Kent street.

This is the time of the year that the children of Peterborough are all interested in arboriculture, Xmas trees in preference.

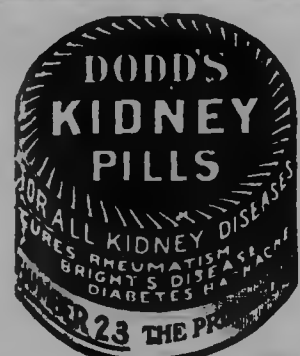

The Rev. Mr. McGee, of Toronto, representative of the Dominion Alliance, occupied the pulpit of Springfield Presbyterian church at both services on Sunday.

The annual Christmas tree of the Park street Baptist church will be the attraction next Monday evening, December 23rd in the auditorium of the church. There will be candies and toys as usual.

The attention of the Canadian Club is directed to the address to be delivered to-morrow evening by Mr. N. W. Rowell in the subject of "Our Imperial Relations." A full report in to-morrow's issue.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS

Are becoming more popular every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway system to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the everyday grind, the monotony of strenuous life to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides it pays. Round trip tourist tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway system at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between

LIBERALS GET VERY ANGRY

Members at Ottawa Resent the Interference of Ex-Minister

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—To-day will be a Western field day on the naval debate. J. A. M. Aikens will have the floor this afternoon and will be replied to only perfunctory opposition.

by Hon. Frank Oliver. It is possible that H. H. Stevens, member for Vancouver, will follow him, placing before the house the views of British Columbia and if there is time another Westerner will wind up the day. It is expected that Hon. Geo. E. Foster will speak on Tuesday, when one of the big speeches of the Liberals will be heard. The Liberals are keeping Dr. Michael Clark, of Red Deer, to reply to Mr. Foster.

Will Change Their Minds.

Some of the Liberal members are still talking of trying to force an election on the navy question, but their enthusiasm is beginning to die out, and it is the general belief that when they have had a chance to visit their constituencies and find out how popular are the Dorden proposals they will return after the holidays prepared to let the bill pass with only perfunctory opposition.

A DOGS' BLACKLIST

British Cyclists Taking Action Against Savage Wayward Owners

A dog's black list has been established by the National Cyclists' Union, Great Britain, to deal with all dangerous animals who interfere with cyclists. In bringing an action against the owner of the dog it is not sufficient to prove that the dog caused the accident, and that the defendant is the owner. To succeed, it must be proved that he was aware of its dangerous tendency. It may come out in evidence that the same dog had caused accidents before, but it must be proved also that the owner knew this. The N.C.U. asks cyclists who know of one of these dangerous dogs to send on the name and address of the owner and description of the dog. As soon as the information comes to hand a registered letter is sent to the dog owner drawing his attention to his dog's dangerous propensities, and notifying him that if an accident occurs a copy of the letter will be produced in evidence should the matter come to court.

WHERE FARMING IS PAYING WELL

Production in the New Glasgow Industrial District Cannot Keep Pace With the Demand

The town of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, is selected by Mr. W. A. Orlick in "The Canadian Countryman" as typical of many towns and cities in the Maritime Provinces where industries are bringing business and prosperity to both farmer and citizen. He points out that the revival of progress in the province by the sea, where there was stagnation for thirty years or more, is directly attributable to a single cause, namely, the development of industry.

"Sydney, New Glasgow, Truro, Amherst, St. John, Halifax, Moncton and Sackville," says Mr. Orlick, "to name a few leading examples, are all on the up grade because of what their industries are accomplishing and, as the industrial towns advance, the whole country will respond to the call. It was the building of ships that was the basis of the former development of the Maritime Provinces. It will be the manufacture of many other commodities that will bring back these days of prosperity."

What benefit does the community derive from this industrial development? New Glasgow is a fine example. It is a town that is self-sufficient. There, its working classes spend their money at home. Wages are undoubtedly good as compared with the cost of living. The average pay of machinists ranges from $2.50 to $2.75 per day, while in the structural shops workers earn from $3 to $3.50 per day, the latter price being paid for good, all-round men and riveters. Men who are capable of handling blue prints and acting as squad bosses in the structural shops get from $3.50 to $5 per day. In the N. S. Steel and Coal Co. all the men employed in the mills are paid by the tonnage; helpers earn from $2.50 to $3 per day and rollers from $4 to $5 per day. Wages of ordinary laborers in New Glasgow are 17 1/2 cents per hour. Summing everything up, it is computed that between $75,000 and $100,000 cash is put into circulation every fortnight in New Glasgow, Stellarton and Westville, of which a large percentage is spent in New Glasgow stores.

The effect of the increasing industrial population on the agricultural situation is highly important. In Pictou County, which contains some of the best farming land in the Province, the number of abandoned farms is a depressing feature. Lack of markets for the direct cause of the agricultural slump, which led to the disappearance of a large section of the farming community. To-day young people do not leave the farm because there is no money in farming; in the New Glasgow district they leave because wages are so good in the factories and the life is attractive. Meanwhile prices of farm products are soaring and production cannot keep pace with the demand. A strong movement has set in to settle the land. Already abandoned farms are being re-occupied and steps are being taken to encourage English settlers to come in and cultivate the soil.

The moral of New Glasgow's story is that commerce and agriculture will prosper in proportion to the industrial growth, and on the success of the industries will depend the welfare of the agricultural and commercial classes. Develop the industries and there will be a stable foundation on which farmers and merchants can build. Hamper them and all classes will feel the effect.

PRICE, TWO CENTS.

TEN ATLANTIC FREIGHTERS THOUGHT TO HAVE GONE DOWN

All of Them Left Port Toward the End of Last Month, and It Is Known They Encountered Violent Weather—Each Carries a Crew of 40 Men

New York, Dec. 17.—There is grave uneasiness in shipping circles for the safety of ten large freight steamers now overdue in Atlantic passages. In each case very high rates are being asked for re-insurance.

The list of overdue ships is the longest posted since 1899.

All ten of the missing vessels left port toward the end of last month, and are known to have encountered violent weather. Each carries a crew of from 30 to 40 men, and the value of ships and cargoes totals nearly $3,500,000.

Among the overdue ships are the Whitinham, 3,700 tons, which left Baltimore for Rotterdam on November 20; the Birchtor, 3,700 tons, which passed Newport News on November 25th, from Galveston to Dunkirk; the Snowdon Range, 3,000 tons which left Philadelphia on November 23 for Leith, and the Barbara, 3,700 tons, which left Newport News on November 22 for Naples.

THE TURKS FLOCK ALONE AND AVOID ALL THE OTHER ENVOYS

Said-Bahr, Dardanelles, Dec. 17.—Another naval battle was begun between the Turkish and Greek fleets this morning outside the entrance to the Dardanelles Straits. The firing was very heavy. How many vessels were engaged is not known.

Credentialed are Powerful.

London, Dec. 17.—The credentials of the peace delegates of the Balkan allies and of Turkey give them full power as plenipotentiaries. They can therefore not only negotiate for peace, but if they come to an arrangement can conclude and sign it.

This point was made clear when the delegates met in St. James Palace this morning promptly at the time agreed on to commence the serious business of the gathering.

Bulgarian Envoy Presided.

Dr. D. Danoff, speaker of the Bulgarian Parliament, presided. The first business of the conference was the appointment of secretaries.

Of Short Duration.

The meeting of the conference lasted less than two hours. The plenipotentiaries adjourned for the day before one o'clock.

It was noticed that contrary to yesterday's procedure, when the delegates all lurched together, the Turks today left the Palace and went off to lunch at their hotel while their allied colleagues remained in the palace.

W. N. ROWELL SPEAKS TO THE CANADIAN CLUB

Last night the largest audience of the season of members of the Peterborough Canadian Club gathered at the Y.M.C.A. Assembly Hall, when an address on "Our Imperial Relations" was given by Mr. W. N. Rowell, leader of the Ontario Opposition.

Coleman Bros., in their usual manner and catering services served a banquet which appealed to the most fastidious palate.

The president, Mr. W. R. Morris, occupied the chair and formally introduced Mr. Rowell, who commenced his discussion by remarking that the country was just realizing what the Canadian Clubs were doing for the welfare of the country at large.

Mr. Rowell who has an extremely fluent speech touched on some important issues of Imperial Relations, taking a decided non-partisan platform.

He said, we are no longer a colony dependent on Great Britain; we are a separate kingdom, but governed by the same king. He spoke on the unification of the Imperial Conference in placing Canada on an equality with the Mother Country. "All the nations of the Empire shall stand on an equality."

On the carrying out of the naval service, Mr. Rowell said that in 1909 Australia had co-operated with Great Britain in naval defence, and in 1912

Canada had done the same thing. "We have created a law which will make a man a citizen of the whole Empire—a Canadian is a citizen in whatever part of the Empire he may be."

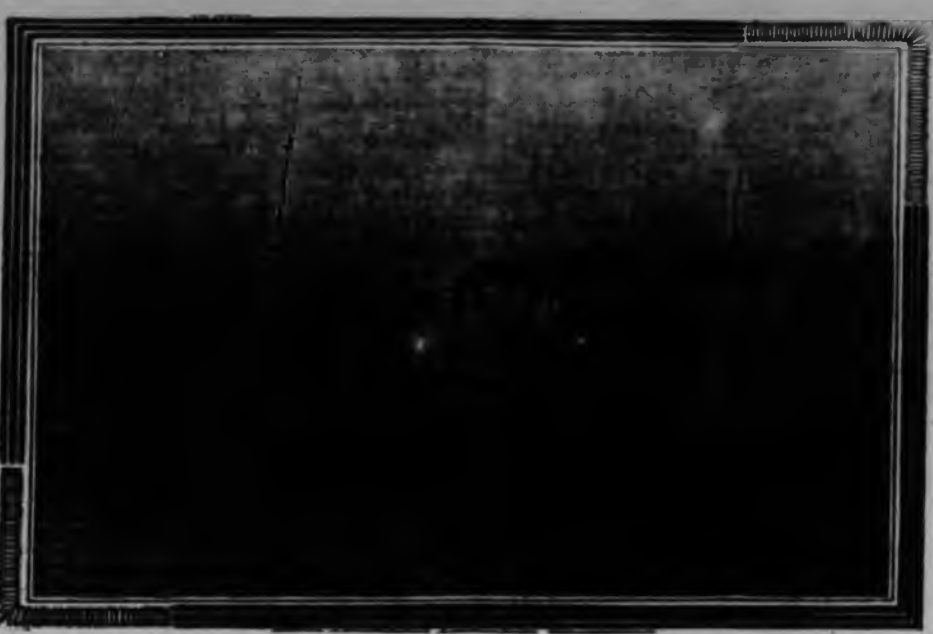

"The time has come for Canada not to let Great Britain bear the burden of the whole Empire," Canada, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand have come to its aid, and is lifting this burden to a large extent.

"In helping to maintain the strong unity and integrity of the Empire, we are preserving for the Empire the highest and best asset which the nation has."

TYPE OF BATTLESHIP WHICH CANADA WILL BUILD.

TRENT CANAL EXPOSURES

In yesterday's issue was presented the opening chapter of a series dealing with the Trent Canal. We would direct the attention of our readers to this expose of numerous malconstruction blunders made in this great Canadian waterway. Some people may attempt to affirm that our attitude will hinder the completion of the Canal. On the principle that a surgeon, in performing an operation to save the life of a patient is often compelled to cut deep in order to get away the corrupt matter and diseased parts, so, likewise, it is necessary to treat in similar radical manner the botched and improper work done on this waterway. We have no doubt that the Government will cause an investigation to be made when the whole matter will be thoroughly probed. It is not our desire to place a straw in the way of those who are endeavoring to have the canal completed at an early date. It would, however, be more than foolish to construct a water-way that is neither ornamental or useful and that would be impossible to use for the purposes originally intended. These articles are written without prejudice and in no sense reflect on the good faith or intelligence of the government at Ottawa.

TRAGEDY AFTER TRAGEDY IN TRIP ACROSS THE PACIFIC

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—The log of the liner Korea, which arrived yesterday from the Orient, reads like the table contents of a dime novel.

One day out from San Francisco a Chinese passenger jumped overboard and was drowned.

Another Chinese passenger was claimed as the victim of a Tong was before the ship reached Honolulu. He had sought to save his life by flight from San Francisco Chinatown, but a gunman from the enemy's ranks sniped with him on the Korea, and found an opportunity to fire the fatal bullet. The slayer is held by the Federal authorities at Honolulu.

Before the liner left that port another Chinese made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide and a day later still another Chinese jumped overboard to his death.

At Yokohama, on the homeward voyage, a Japanese peddler plunged a knife into the back of Andrew Benussi, a watchman on the ship. The peddler fled, but was captured on another ship in the harbor. Benussi recovered.

On December 9, A. E. Miller, a cabin passenger from Manila, was giving his two-year-old son a bath, when he accidentally turned on the hot water. The child was scalded so badly that he died an hour later.

REVELATIONS NEAR GALLOWES

Montreal Man Tells of Organization of Black Handers and White Slavers

Montreal, Dec. 17.—The sensational revelations made within the shadow of the gallows which he is doomed to ascend on Friday morning, by Carlos Battista, were today taken up by the police of two continents in an effort to confirm or deny the stories which Salvatore Maranzano's slayer tells of a continent-wide organization of vice, terrorism, black-hand, and white slavery.

Ralph Miceli, sergeant-detective of New York's Italian detective force, arrived in Montreal this morning bearing letters from the head of the New York Detective force, ready to probe the disclosures made by Battista.

In the death cell this morning Miceli, accompanied by Governor Vallee, of the local jail, had a long conference with the condemned man, following which a cable message was despatched to Naples, Italy, in an effort to confirm some of the details Battista has revealed in connection with the murder at Palermo of Joseph Petrosino, the noted American-Italian detective a few years ago, and upon the abortive investigation of which the New York police has spent nearly a half a million dollars.

CASES OF LOCAL INTEREST

To-day, before the high Court, over which Mr. Justice Hodgins presides, the cause celebre, of Fairweather, vs. the Canadian General Electric Co., will be tried. This case is an action for $10,000 damages, taken by the widow of Mr. Fairweather, who was drowned last winter, while engaged, it is alleged, in breaking ice at a dam owned by the defendants.

The case of the Dickson Co. vs. G. N. Graham, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, will be brought up again. The plaintiffs allege that the terms of the indenture of lease specifies that the defendant agreed to vacate the premises leaving them in good repair at the expiration of said lease or other sooner determination of said term, and procure or cause to be procured a proper transfer of license. In return the Dickson Co. were to pay Mr. Graham an amount equivalent to a proportionate part of the license for the unexpired term.

The defendants it is alleged did not yield up the premises according to agreement and continued in possession after the first of May, 1912. The defendants claim judgment and order of the court for the possession of the Oriental. They furthermore claim an order to deliver a proper transfer of the license and damages by reason of the wrongs default and breach of covenants of defendants.

NO TERMS WITH REPUBLICANS IS COL. ROOSEVELT'S DECISION

The New Progressive Party Will Have Nothing to do With Former Friends

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Col. Roosevelt made it plain at the National Conference of the Progressive Party, that the programme does not contemplate making terms with the Republican party. He said in effect that the new party had come to stay and expected eventually to attract to its banner the Progressive who still gave allegiance to the Republican and Democratic organizations. As to leadership, Col. Roosevelt said the events of the next year or two could be trusted to develop the best men who must be chosen without reference to their own desires, but solely with regard to the needs of the people.

Progressives in Congress and in the State Legislatures were urged to get together and push Progressive legislation, but they were also counselled to support legislation that would carry out the principles of the new party regardless of what party might introduce it.

Addressing the Progressive National Committee and other leaders, Mr. Roosevelt congratulated them on what had been accomplished in the short time since the party was organized, and gave hope for the future. He did not refer to the outcome of the campaign, but dwelt briefly on the action of the Chicago Convention. He said in part:

"In this brief campaign we have overthrown the powerful and corrupt machine that betrayed and strangled the Republican party. Some day the honest men and women who make up the rank and file of the Republican party will realize the full iniquity of which the men were guilty who in the Republican convention of June last by deliberate political theft wrested the control of the party from the people, made it the party of reaction, and gave it into the absolute control of the bosses. The men who took part in, profited by, or condoned and encouraged the theft of the Chicago Convention, should never again be trusted by men who believe in honesty."

ADRIANOPLE MUST BE GIVEN UP OR BALKAN ENVOYS LEAVE

London, Dec. 17.—The peace envoys to the Balkan States to-day agreed that they would walk out of the conference on Monday if Turkey refuses to give up Adrianople which will be among the first things demanded by the alliance.

At the second day's sessions of the peace negotiations the allied delegates decided that the proposed Bulgarian frontier would be the first point brought up. The session of Thracian and a part of Macedonia to Bulgaria will include the session of Adrianople.

The morning session was given over to the examination of credentials and discussion of the power given to the plenipotentiaries by their respective countries.

The daily Ambassadorial Conference of the six great powers was to begin at four o'clock this afternoon at the Foreign Office.

HOUSEKEEPERS' LEAGUE HAS SCARED EGG DEALERS BADLY

Philadelphia, Dec. 17.—Independent egg dealers here to-day gave their first indications of weakening under the campaign conducted by the Housekeepers' League, to reduce the price of eggs. Most of them are now selling the product at 24 cents a dozen, and the price promises to drop lower.

Fifty-one new stations were opened by the league to-day, and a record-breaking business is expected from the 125 stations now conducted by the women.

Controversies are at fever heat between leaders of the movement, ex-workers, pure food advocates, and others, upon the source of the supply, and motives of the movement leaders.

Meanwhile the public are getting good cold storage eggs through the Housekeepers' League, for 24 cents—124 cents cheaper a dozen than before the crusade began.

THE GOVERNOR OF ARKANSAS PARDONS 360 CONVICTS

Little Rock, Arkansas, Dec. 17.—Governor Geo. W. Donaghey to-day pardoned 316 State and 44 county convicts, and in a long statement said his action was taken as a protest against the system of leasing convicts in vogue in Arkansas. He scored magistrates for imposing long sentences for trivial offences, and told of what he termed the disadvantages of the lease system.

As a result of the pardons three State convict camps will be abolished, but several camps where prisoners, working on the roads, are housed, will be continued in operation. Some of the men pardoned were sentenced to terms of fifteen years.

STILL SEEKS FOR A MOTIVE

Verdict of Coroner's Jury Reflects Opinion of People—Boy's Story Credited

Flesherton, Dec. 17.—The entire absence of motive in the Ceylon murder is the general topic following the verdict of the Coroner's jury last night. In no part of the testimony was there even a hint of why Harry Love should want to kill his wife. Until the day of the tragedy the life of the Loves seems to have been exceptionally peaceful. It is well agreed that things look black for the accused man, but his intimates in the village of Ceylon are still tardy in declaring their conviction that he committed the crime.

The Coroner's jury, however, accepted the general opinion of the community in choosing to believe the boy when he states that his mother was not home last Tuesday morning, and his father had told him to say that she was there and also the story of the invention of a stranger at the man's behest.

That is what the people of this district regard as the sole evidence against Love. So far there is nothing tangible to show that he murdered the woman even though his story may be wholly untrue.

"Nothing came out at that inquest that would bear any man," remarked a Ceylon resident this morning.

WANT MORE EVIDENCE.

When Coroner Ribby gave the

to the jury last night one of the jurors asked him, "Our verdict is not final, is it? If we name anyone as guilty, does that mean the last of it?"

Hon. Mr. Lucas told the questioner that whoever was accused by the jury would be tried on the charge and that it was only the opinion of the Coroner's jury that was sought.

The questioner however, voiced the sentiment of many people here. They are loath to say outright that Love did it until more new facts are brought out.

TO KEEP SKIN HEALTHY.

YOUTHFUL, WRINKLELESS.

Now that the social season is here, be especially careful to keep your skin in fine condition. You know how conspicuous complexion defects appear under the bright light of the drawing or ball room. Also how very evident are some malapropos when similarly illuminated. I have myself discarded cosmetics entirely, using a process which gives far better results, and which leaves no trace on the skin. At night I smear on a thin coat of ordinary macerated wax, washing it off next morning. This gradually absorbs the dehydrated particles of surface skin, just as gradually the more youthful skin beneath comes forth, providing a complexion as clear, smooth and delicate as that of a young girl's. Get an ounce of macerated wax at your druggist's and try this remarkable treatment.

Remember, too, that wrinkles, even the finer lines, are not easily obliterated in a brilliantly lighted room. You can quickly obliterate these hateful marks by bathing your face in a solution of powdered vasoline, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, 4 pt. And your face won't look sticky, as after using pastes.—Aunt Sally in Woman's Realm.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the making would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me that my veins were diseased and that I should be confined to my home. I tried several operations, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I continued to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my best friend told me why I was off work so much and told him my condition. He said he had had treatment from them himself and knew they were quacks and dishonest. I wrote them and got the New Kennedy Treatment. My progress was marvellous slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, the second month's treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only say that a week is a month from before treatment, now I am carrying all and never have a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

SHEEP RAISING

Some Canadians think that the very large decrease in the manufacture of wool explains the decline in sheep production. This is without doubt a partial explanation and it seems fairly well established that with a strong and rapidly expanding woolen industry there would be better prices paid for Canadian wool to the sheep raiser who would thus be encouraged to go into sheep raising more extensively. This whole subject is likely to be one of the first inquiries of the Tariff Commission which it is understood the Government will announce during the present session. In connection with the question of sheep raising the following paragraph from "The Globe, Toronto," will be of interest:

"Canada's insignificant contribution to the total world's production of sheep is shown in a detailed comparative statement of the production of different continents and countries last year as compared with 1906. During those seventeen years the number of sheep has increased 96,636,236, being 616,239,372. Australia at present leads by a wide margin, with 117,611,664 sheep; Argentina stands second, with 77,563,517; United States third, with 57,318,000; Russia fourth, with 45,540,000; and Turkey next, with 36,000,000, and Canada twenty-sixth, with 2,821,000.

Burglars Feared at Barracks
A daring burglary was perpetrated at the Queen's Barracks, Perth, in the early morning. A couple of tramps scaled the high walls, and once inside the barracks made their way to the officers' mess, where they did full justice to rum, beer and wine, which they found there, after which they helped themselves to the silver spoons, forks, knives, cigars, and cigarettes. One man was captured.

WINNING OF DOLLY

Thrilling Encounter With Bandits Puts Pompous Italian Count to Rout.

By M. S. CAMPFIELD, JR.

Arnold was already heartily tired of the disguise. It was his nature to do all things openly and above board; and it irked him to have to stoop to subterfuge, even in the struggle for the hand of the woman he held above all. Besides, for a man who had never answered to the call or the crash of the petrol, goggles, high-collared coat and banglesome cap formed a disconcerting rampart behind which to hide features and form. With a growing impression against "Rubber" in Italy, he kept him fighting for his share of the world's goods instead of endowing him with such an short notice, Arnold swept the big, rickety-looking car in a vicious short curve and brought it to a pausing standstill before the Leonard mansion in the Upper Drive.

To his associates and enemies alike on "Change," "Old Bull" Leonard was the personification of what all good mothers warn their sons against growing up into. He was just as merciless and cruel as his rise to fortune was sudden and spectacular. The one soft spot in his heart was for Dolly, and her request for an imported car of fabulous horsepower and an instructor in its ways and tricks of locomotion, was granted readily. The recognition of struggling young Arnold had been the one request against which the old broker had hardened his heart. The influence of a young man, well liked for his personal qualities, is sometimes as far reaching as that of an old man well mentioned with gold.

Arnold had no chance to step from the car after it had stopped. His heart warmed and his face flushed happily at the sight of the beautiful Dolly Leonard.

was a splendid fellow, when his words reached only the ears of women, and with an air of modesty shaking his utterances. He contrived to dwell at length and at all times upon his heroic achievements. According to the Count Rivoli, the courage of the Count Rivoli knew no bounds; for Mee Dolly he would dare any danger, go to any length to win a smile from her lips. He it was as the shadow. Dolly, the Count and Arnold, apart back over the roads, wrote in the soft moonlight. Dolly had ceased to answer even in monosyllables, allowing the Italian to run on, building up the pedestal upon which he was to take his stand.

"I am glad that you have no brigands here," Mee Dolly said, he was saying in a tone which promised realisation. "But when one comes right down to it, it is not good to have no opportunities for excitement save for dodging death in these terrible streets of years. Just before I left my father in Italy, I myself escaped death or capture at the hands of what you call hold-up men. Had I not been so prompt and cool of action, shot one man where he stood and put the others to flight, I would have—"

A growing curse burst from Arnold. He threw on the brakes with grinding force, and Dolly and the Count were abruptly huddled together by the gear-tearing stop of the car. With an impatient, explosive Italian word, Rivoli sprang up. Suddenly, with his jaw gone to a sticky pallor, his big dropping till his mouth gaped open, he sank back weakly upon the cushions.

"A-h-a-h-a-h—" he mumbled unthinkingly, and then sat in quaking silence.

"Come on there, the three of you—up with your paw!" came the rasping command. "There's a fellow, the moonlight making their faces pale where they shivered below the masks, stopped close to the wheels of the panting car.

Rivoli's hands went weakly trembling above his head. Dolly in quiet fear, never taking her eyes from Arnold's profile, showed that she was half turned, obediently raised her daintily gloved hands. Arnold fumbled for a moment somewhere about the car, and then too shot up his arms.

A terse order sent two of the men to the sides of Arnold and the Count. The leader turned his attention to Dolly. The girl obediently stripped off her gloves.

The first bright ring came off without difficulty, but the second brought forth an oath and a cruel wrench. Involuntarily a little cry escaped from between Dolly's clenched teeth.

Quick as a flash Arnold's hand came down; quicker still he turned back to where the leader tugged at the girl's delicate fingers. The cry of warning from one of the men in the white rad came too late. The girl reared over after the jerk of the wrench, the old rage in Arnold's face. The heavy wrench flashed up bright in the moonlight and then came crashing down. The leader sank down without a groan. With a feeling of sickening revulsion Dolly heard the cry of all most feminine terror that escaped Rivoli's lips.

Arnold was out in the road now, grappling desperately. He tore himself free and sent one of his assistants spinning to the macadam. As the two fled, one paused a moment in the shadows. There was a vicious report and Arnold clutched weakly at the air as he turned sick from the shock. Then his knees buckled under him and he sank down in a huddled heap.

It was Dolly who bore the greater part of the burden of lifting the wounded man and propping him up on the cushions in the tonneau. Her hands were the ones that held the wheel in the mad ride back to the city. To policemen who signalled her to slow up the girl gave a significant nod toward the unconscious man beside her. The front seat and let out another notch. When Arnold awoke, he wondered for a moment at his surroundings. A pressure of something soft in his hand and a suspicious wetness on the back of his fingers cleared away the clouds. With a smile hiding the shooting pain in his shoulder, he turned his head till his eyes could feast on Dolly. Neither cared to speak. Arnold understood that she had brought him home, to her home.

"A-a-ahem!" broke in the paragon, warbling cough of "Old Bull" Leonard. Arnold tried to free his hand; but Dolly held it to him with gentle firmness. Her father pretended not to see.

"Something of a fighter; yes, something of a fighter," rumbled the voice of Leonard, and he actually smiled down upon the astonished Arnold.

"Young man, I am looking for fighters to aid me," he rumbled on. "I need young blood to brace up the old in my struggles. But, of course, you will not be fit for some time. Take your time, my boy, take your time. With an absence of a week or more, he ignored the crying of his son's other hand under Arnold's hand and walked calmly from the car.

A Pauper's Holiday Trip
A Strabene workhouse inmate named O'Brien, recently transferred from Glasgow, appearing before the guardians to ask for a private subscription to enable him to return to that city, said he had a sore leg when he arrived, but it was better now. O'Brien added: "To tell you the truth, I just over here for a holiday trip for the good of the old Irish air; that is all. I could go back to-night if only I could get my fare."

The clerk said that it had been ascertained that O'Brien came home from the South African war worth £2,000, and that he soon spent the money. The application was refused.

"I think you are confusing me with someone else," said Mr. George.

"I understood the Premier was your brother," remarked the witness.

"No," replied Mr. George, laughing. "an esteemed friend, but no relation."

Throat Becomes Diseased From Neglecting Colds

Then Catarrh Sets In, Mucous Drops Into the Stomach, Coughing, Headaches and Debility Follow

That the best method of curing catarrhal diseases consists of using Catarrhons is now freely admitted. Catarrhons is infinitely superior to cough medicines, tablets, sprays and emulsions, which for the most part are of no practical value except to ease the cough for the time being. Often liquid cough remedies contain opium, morphine and cocaine. With Catarrhons you take no drugs; you employ Nature's way—just inhale Catarrhons's soothing, healing vapor and relief and cure follow promptly.

Weak Throat, Racking Cough Cured
"For five years I suffered from a severe bronchitis. A harsh, dry, racking cough kept my throat in a raw condition from one year's end to another. Before going to sleep at night I always had a bad attack, and in the morning before each breakfast I suffered greatly. My voice was harsh and raspy, and sometimes I found it difficult to make myself understood. Catarrhons seemed to soothe and heal from the first day. It cured me, and now I wouldn't think of being without a Catarrhons Inhaler—it means life to me."

The above experience is related by Mr. Alexander P. Savary, of Hamilton, Pa., and proves the effectiveness of Catarrhons, which will cure every cough, cold, bronchitis or catarrhal attack. The dollar size of Catarrhons is guaranteed. Smaller size 50c, sample size 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhons Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

ROBBED WHILEST ASLEEP.

Belleville, Dec. 17.—A Belleville drunk, had $3 left after his artificial hilarity had been induced. He went into the hay loft of an hotel to sleep off his jag. Whilst slumbering some one cut a jagged hole through his overalls and played a game of "bowlers" with his pockets, and took the $3 as first prize.

A TOUGH LINDSAY FIGHT.

Two Lindsay farmers got into a dispute on Kent street on Monday. The arguments they used were strong ones, viz.: toll-hardened fists. Blood flowed from faces and fists. A crowd of over a hundred watched the fight, but, with the fighters, melted away as the No. 12 browns of a cop approached reminded them of business elsewhere.

LIGHT ON TICH ISLAND.

Last August there was a light-house built on Tich Island. This light is very much appreciated by the steamboat men. Now there is a request gone into the department at Ottawa, that the light be lighted all winter, for the benefit of the farmers and others living in Otonabee and Northumberland. No doubt it would be of great benefit to those people who have to drive across Rice Lake at night.

THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS.

Mr. J. J. Turner, the efficient treasurer of the Peterborough Central Exhibition Association, has informed the Times that an erroneous rumour has been in circulation that the Exhibition grounds has been disposed of. Four years of this option is yet to run. The Times is pleased to publish this contradiction of the rumour.

Class Exercises at Y.W.C.A.

The closing exercises of Miss Helen Rochester's classes at the Y.W.C.A. were a success in every particular. The gymnasium was decorated with Christmas streamers hung with bells and the refreshment table was under a canopy of bells; on the stage was a large Christmas tree. The program was as follows: Instrumental solo, Miss Gwendolyn Smith; Reading solo, Miss Helen Thompson; Reading, Miss Ada Lane; Recitation, Miss N. Mills; Reading, Miss Gladys Jay; Violin solo, Miss Palmer; Reading, Miss Jean Jackson.

Y.P.A. at St. John's.

A very pleasant evening was spent in St. John's schoolroom at an entertainment given under the auspices of the Anglican Young People's Association. Mr. W. F. Johnson, chairman, made a few well timed remarks, introductory to a mixed programme of songs, piano-forte solos, Christmas carols, etc., together with the reading of a couple of papers on Christmas and kindred customs in other countries.

Dr. Sparrow Shows Impudence.

Dr. E. C. Sparrow, who has returned to England, after four months study of conditions in Canada, utters a foul slur on the maidenhood of Peterborough, when he says our girls are morally delinquent. He is probably one of the class of Englishmen who comes to Montreal on an Allen liner, on the 27th and sailing on the 30th for home, writes a 400 page book on England's greatest Dominion. What he doesn't know about the maidens of this city would take up several shelves of the British Museum.

MOTHER-IN-LAW WON OUT.

Ernest Sells was due to strike Peterborough yesterday if the walking between here and Port Hope was good. Ernest Sells sells spectacles, which probably accounts for his far-sightedness. Ernest hails from London, Ont., and got an overdose of Port Hope tangle in that town, so the police got Ernest. He pleaded guilty to having been drunk and having a mother-in-law at London, who "is very nice." He had no money, but offered to walk to Peterborough, en route to London and Christmas with his mother-in-law. Such fidelity to an often maligned relative softened the magisterial heart, so, as noted, Ernest has been or is due at Peterborough, where he is claimed to be able to raise money to bridge the remaining hiatus between him and m-t-l.

THE RACE IS NOW BETWEEN MONTREAL AND WINNIPEG FOR FIRST PLACE

Steadily and rapidly Winnipeg has been gaining on Toronto and Montreal in the race for supremacy in the commercial world.

A week ago Winnipeg passed Toronto, and at the present rate of progress she will overtake Montreal in less than two year's time.

The following table of Bank clearings show the position of the leading Canadian cities:

City—	Week Ending Nov. 21st.
Montreal	$ 59,362,145
Winnipeg	46,652,937
Toronto	46,373,820
Vancouver	14,264,689
Calgary	6,293,067

For the same week in 1911, Winnipeg's clearings were $36,372,723, showing a gain for 1912 of 28.27 per cent.

Winnipeg's rapid industrial development since the civic power plant was completed a little over a year ago, has resulted in a tremendous increase in population, and when the figures are all in, it is estimated that the population will exceed the 200,000 mark, an increase of over 50,000 for 1912.

This growth being centred in Portage Avenue Districts

Practically the entire growth of Winnipeg is westward along Portage Avenue.

The desirability of this district from a residential standpoint coupled with the splendid street car service has made Portage Avenue West a popular residential section and it is building up at an unprecedented rate.

The district between Portage Avenue and the Assiniboine River in particular is beautifully treed and is rapidly building up with a fine class of residences.

Are becoming more popular; every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway system to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the everyday grind, the monotonous life of the city, to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides it pays. Round trip tourist tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway system at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between these cities, carrying through coaches and electric lighted pullman sleeping cars, via the only double track line making connections at these cities with through trains for the south. A specially conducted party will leave Toronto by special train at 1 p.m. January 1st, via Detroit, for Palm Beach, Florida, and any one desiring to go should make berth reservations early at any Grand Trunk Ticket Office, or write A. Constable Sills said that he discovered Quinlan on Oady Street, using very bad language. The officer found him almost helplessly drunk and his wife who is just recovering from a severe illness was living in fear of bodily injury from him. She asked the officer to have him locked up for her own protection. Quinlan belongs to the T.A.S., but broke the pledge. When he is sober he is an excellent worker. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $10, and remanded him to jail until he decides to reveal who supplied him with the liquor.

Eulogy of the Late John Pope.

Yesterday morning the last mortal remains of Mr. John Pope, of Channing, were laid to rest in St. Peter's cemetery. The funeral was largely attended. During the service in St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, who conducted the funeral ceremony, paid, from the altar, a strong tribute to the deceased and spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Pope. This is somewhat unique in the burial service as conducted by that denomination, and testified to the high esteem in which Mr. Pope was held both by his church and his friends.

Mrs. James Brownlow-Squires, of Squires Court, who has just returned from Europe, invited a few friends to her charming home last Wednesday to view the latest objects d'art and articles de vertu which she has brought back. An ancient Egyptian urn was especially admired, and, as one connoisseur aptly remarked, would make an excellent vessel to boil potatoes in. The painting, "Psyche Trine Herself in a Knot," by Peter Jackson, the famous Dutch old master was greatly appreciated. Psyche's figure was pronounced charming.

Amongst the numerous curios was the original rug on which the late Sultan Abdul Hamid prayed for more than a century before the fall of his blood stained throne. But for the deus made by Abdul's knee this marvellous prayer-rug would be practically priceless.

Miss Jennie O'Rourke, of Fifteenth Avenue, gave a pink tea last Wednesday in honor of her old schoolmate, Miss Iphigene Smith, of Timbuctoo, Ont. The drawing room was charmingly decorated with amaranth and chrysanthemums and by special request of the guest of honor no whisky was served with the tea. Tea was poured by a charming old maid and a pleasant time was had. Miss Smith is a corner.

Gaiety Sellers at Murray Street.

Last night, Mr. Gaiety Sellers, the world renowned organist, who played at the coronation, gave an organ recital in Murray street Baptist church that was a revelation in artistic touch and technique. Unfortunately for so great a master, and owing probably to counter attractions, there was a scanty audience present, altogether inadequate to do him justice.

This Master, among other pieces played the "Storm," a descriptive symphony, with "Nearer My God to Thee" interspersed. He also rendered some of the "Coronation" music, in a manner that displayed his skill and brought out the wonderful possibilities of the fine new organ in that sacred building. The Hunting Song from Rubinstein was admirably rendered, as was his rendition of the "Chimes."

LOCAL PRESS REPRESENTATIVES ARE SHOWN VICTORIA MUSEUM

Curator T. A. S. Hay Displays The Really Valuable Treasures Shown in Victoria Museum

Last night by invitation of Mr. T. A. S. Hay, City Engineer, and Curator of Victoria Museum, representatives of the local press, spent a couple of hours in viewing the treasures, and we speak earnestly of the opportunity, in the upper floor of the Public Library, there are possibly many citizens here, who are unaware of the valuable collection contained in this local museum. It has without exception, the most varied and valuable collection of any similar museum outside Canada's larger cities.

As one ascends the stairs, one passes cases of finest specimens of the tarantula's skill, both in birds and Canadian fur bearing animals. The latter include fisher, skunk, badger, and others. On entering the first room, is to be seen a large case of antique muskets, each with an historical value, and Zulu assegais presented by Col. H. C. Rogers. Those interested in military matters can see muskets, once worn by the 3rd Dragoons, when organized in 1872, then come relics taken on the field of Waterloo, three days after that battle in 1815 by Hon. A. T. Stewart, grandfather of Mr. Hay. These include the armours of French Dragoons, one being pierced by part of an exploded shell.

The ornithologist can see a magnificent collection of butterflies and beetles presented by the late Rev. V. Clementi, B.A. Golden eagles, presented by Mr. J. D. Collins are most with. There are also cases of stuffed birds presented by Mr. Clementi. On the wall hang huge tortoise shells from the Mauritius, presented by Mr. Walter Rogers. Mrs. T. G. Hallitt has been a generous contributor of water birds, etc. Messrs. J. D. Collins and Col. E. B. Edwards are immortalized by their gifts of fine skulls and relics of the almost extinct buffalo. The only southern vulture ever shot in Canada, killed near Warsaw, attracts the naturalist's eye. Mr. Orlan de la Plante's magnificent collection of eggs is worthy of more than a passing glance, as is that of Mr. A. McGuire. The exhibit of Conchology is a splendid one. Mrs. Walter Sedgwick of Florida, formerly of this city, has presented a fine collection of southern specimens, including sea shells, etc. The numismatic collection contains many valuable specimens. This includes "legal tenders" for five shillings issued by this county to build the present court house.

To enumerate even the variegated fraction of the curios, would take too much space. Still one cannot pass through without noting Mr. J. B. McWilliam's fine contribution of specimens of Canadian woods and minerals. For the sportsman, is the original score card of a cricket match played July 21st, 1851, at Toronto. Messrs. Clarke and Greyburn have contributed three case full of Indian relics of rare value. Mr. George Boncher is also a generous contributor of Indian relics. Miss Watt, formerly of the Post Office staff, has a collection of silverware over 200 years old. Miss Reavis, of George street, has a large case of assorted and valuable curios, containing shells, totem pole, etc. From Queen Charlotte Island, Mr. W. Miller has a fine collection of copper specimens from a mine, 2,000 feet deep at Bisbee, Arizona. Those fond of pyrotechnics, can see lava taken from the crater of Kilauea, S. I., presented by Mrs. John Indegate. Then as the eye wanders seeking something belonging to present time and places, one sees Mr. Chas. Gladstone's military uniform, worn in 1912. Now that Mr. Borden's patriotic gift to the Motherland, has aroused such a surprise tide of Canadian patriotism, one can see the actual Boer flag that floated above Johannesburg, when Lord Roberts entered, and on that captured ensign, of a brave opponent can be seen gouts of blood from the veins of seven brave British soldiers, who lost their lives pulling up the grand old Union Jack. This reminds us that one can see a host of Sir John A. MacDonald, presented by the late James Stevenson, M.P. Mr. Jas. English has presented one of those old blunderbusses that the tenants used to go sniping for landlords in Ireland. The early struggles of Peterborough's first settlers can be seen in the crude implements used then. To enumerate, as aforesaid, one minute fraction of this really unique collection would take too much space.

After Mr. Hay has kindly done the honors of the institution in which he takes such great interest, he gave the press a little description of how he is handicapped for lack of funds for the museum. Almost daily, valuable specimens are being sent in. Still there is no fund or provision for procuring showcases or tables for such specimens. While Mr. Hay distinctly urged that no charity should be asked for, a Peterborough educational and intensely interesting museum might well appeal to our local philanthropists.

Ascribes the Situation to Clerical Policy—An Interesting Suggestion as to the Possible Origin of the Bi-Lingual School Trouble in Ontario — Not a Protestant Matter

THE Ottawa Journal of Tuesday last has the following which will be read with interest by all classes, as it reveals the real object of the English speaking Roman Catholic Church of Canada. Our contemporary says:

A good deal of stir has been created in Eastern Ontario by the Parliamentary utterance of Mr. Burnham, M.P. for West Peterboro, to the effect that a conspiracy existed in Canada to suppress the French language. Mr. Burnham has been in part criticized, in part applauded. But he is not sure that his point of view is fairly understood. He amplified it to the Journal yesterday.

Result of The Times Municipal Election Campaign

ALD. MORGAN FOR MAYOR

New Names Added to the List in Each Class — Count Runs Close for First Year Aldermanic Candidates — Interest in This Campaign Shows Marked Increase.

The fourth count in our Municipal Election Campaign gives Mayor Bradburn a competitor in Ald. Harry Morgan, of East City. "Harry" also forges ahead to first choice for Alderman, with Ald. Geo. Duncan but five votes behind. Both these men are old-time members of the Aldermanic Board, and their records are well known to our readers. Alderman Gordon is a close third, and his one year's service has marked him as an advocate and worker the Council of 1913 would greatly miss were he retired. A. W. Cressman has been voted into fourth place; he is an enterprising and progressive business man, whose election would unquestionably offer the city vigorous new blood on its executive board. For Alderman we find a new name this count—that of H. C. Stabler, while A. A. Fowler comes into the field for School Trustee. Malcolm McIntyre also is listed for Water Commissioner.

PUBLIC COMMENT.

Harry Morgan For Mayor.
Editor Times.—While I commend Mayor Bradburn's splendid executive work at the head of this city's affairs, still some of us in East City think we would have a very desirable candidate for Mayor in Ald. Harry Morgan. He doesn't let the grass grow under his feet in looking after his ward's needs, and would no doubt prove as effective at the mayoralty helm.

Must Retain Ald. Gordon.
Editor Times.—Please allow me to voice the opinion of a large number of ratepayers that Ald. Gordon fills the bill admirably as Alderman, and must be retained on the council. He is broad in his views and during this year has taken an active and acceptable interest in the city's affairs. I, for one, would exceedingly regret his official loss were he not returned to gain as one of the Centre Ward's representatives.

GREECE WILL RESUME FIGHT IF TURKS DO NOT AGREE AT ONCE

Adrianople The Real Issue—A General War May Break Out

London, Dec. 18.—Peace plenipotentiaries of the Balkan allies came together in informal meeting this morning to decide on their plan of action in the eventuality of Turkey declining to raise her boycott of the Hellenic delegates unless Greece signs the armistice. The allies in the course of yesterday's meeting at St. James Palace made it quite clear that they would not enter into negotiations without Greece being allowed to participate and Dr. S. Danoff, the leader of the Bulgarian delegation, is quoted as saying:

"That, the End of Turkey."
"If on Thursday the reply of the Ottoman delegates is not satisfactory we will break off negotiations and meet again at the Thessalonika lines. That will be the end of Turkey in Europe."
There is a consensus of opinion here, however, that the present obstacle will be surmounted by the delegates, and that the real danger point will be reached only when the apparently inevitable clash arises as to the future possession of the fortress of Adrianople.

As far as can be seen at present only mediation by an outside power can solve this problem.

Greek Cannot Preside.
It is a curious coincidence that under the alphabetical arrangement of the presiding officers of the peace conference to-morrow's chairman should be the leader of the Greek mission. It is assumed that a temporary president will be chosen pending the settlement of the controversy.

Servia Willing.
Servia took a most important step in the direction of peace today by intimating her willingness to leave the matter of an outlet on the Adriatic Sea entirely in the hands of the European powers.

In announcing the decision of the Servian Government to take this step, head of the peace delegation added that Servia's attitude was a perfectly moderate one and that relying on this moderation the justice of her claim, and the sympathies of the European Governments she had decided to take the course indicated.

In regard to the tension between Austria-Hungary and Servia it is generally expected that direct negotiations between those two nations will begin immediately.

WOULD CARRY APPEAL TO THE PRIVY COUNCIL—DECISION RESERVED

Woman in Marriage Dissolution Case Wants to Save Expense and Suspense

Montreal, Dec. 18.—Power to carry straight to the Privy Council the appeal against the civil dissolution of the marriage of Napoleon Tremblay and Dame Malvina Depatie, fourth cousins after the Roman Catholic authorities had annulled it, was today applied for in the court of Appeal of the Province of Quebec and the Supreme Court of Canada. Apart from that there was a sentimental reason, the less delay there was the shorter time the woman would be under suspense, which it would be recognized was most painful.

The court reserved its decision.

Privy Council could be secured right away it would save both litigants the expense that would be entailed by a further appeal to the Court of Appeals of the Province of Quebec and the Supreme Court of Canada.

FIGHT AGAINST NE TEMERE IS WON SAYS REV. DR. HINCKS

Pastor of Broadway Tabernacle Describes Monster Meeting of Protest in London, and Explains Why Enforcement of Decree Must be Abandoned by the Hierarchy

Toronto, Dec. 18.—Vivid description of the big meeting in the immense Memorial Hall in London, called to consider the marriage problems in various parts of the Empire was given in Broadway Tabernacle, by the Rev. D. W. Hincks, who made a flying trip to England on invitation to be one of the principal speakers at the great gathering.

Paid to Hear Him.
So great was the interest in the Memorial Hall meeting that although it was free, with announcement that a collection would be taken, hundreds of persons paid sixty cents each on the chance of securing a seat.

Lord Kimdaird, who acted as the chairman opened the proceedings with a speech which was one of vigor and clear discrimination, said the lecturer, "He pointed out that the Privy Council decision, while it gave Quebec what Quebec was clamoring for, namely, Provincial autonomy in marriage solemnization, also gave the other eight Provinces the same autonomy. A view of the fact that Protestants were in the majority in these other eight Provinces, such a condition would cause Quebec to pause in pushing her canonical fads against the Protestant minority in that Province. Lord Kimdaird did not advise repeal legislation against the Church of Rome in these Protestant Provinces, he was too good a man to do that, but he undoubtedly has in mind the unfortunate possibility of such legislation, much as it would be regretted. I say this, because in my private conversation with him prior to the meeting he had referred to the Act governing marriage in Ireland, when by the statute of 19, George II, it was enacted that no priest could officiate at a mixed marriage between a Protestant and a Catholic. This law remained in force during George III, George IV, William IV, and part of Queen Victoria's reign.

Possible Repeals.
"Certainly, if the Quebec Bishops in their appeal succeed in stripping all Protestant clergymen in Quebec of the right to officiate at mixed marriages, legislation in repeal might be enacted in other of the Provinces, much as we would regret it."

"For the present it is safe to say that the fight against the enforcement of the Ne Temere decree is won. I make this statement in view of certain conditions of the moment."

"First, because the sweeping agitation has unified the Protestantism of the whole Empire against the decree."

"Secondly, in the face of this agitation the hierarchy challenges us to prove that they really have enforced the objectionable features of the decree against any Protestant party to a mixed marriage. Even in the celebrated McCann case in Ireland, they dared the minister of the woman to name the priest who had interfered."

Worst Features No. Enforced.
"Thirdly, this means that the hierarchy, for the time being, is not enforcing the worst feature of the decree excepting in Malta and Quebec, where the Tridentine marriage laws prevailed before 1906."

"Fourthly, any priest in Ontario, or in any of the eight Provinces of Canada outside Quebec who attempts to enforce this decree against husband or a wife in the case of a mixed marriage, comes clearly under the provisions of both the criminal and the civil code. Every case reported will be investigated and proceeded against in the courts indicated by the particular circumstances, but certainly in one or the other. So far as Ontario is concerned, if any of you hear of such a case and will report it to me, I will promise that within twenty-four hours action will be taken to force the matter before the courts, and that it will be prosecuted to the end. We have money for this purpose and are ready to proceed without delay, and with the utmost rigor."

Fifthly, the answer to questions raised in our Canadian House of Commons, last week reveal by the answers the supremacy of the State in marriage matters throughout Canada.

Would be a Boomerang.
"Sixthly, because the decision of the Privy Council granting autonomy to Quebec in marriage solemnization grants the same autonomy to the other Provinces, and whatever the Church of Rome lacks it is not common sense. That Church is too wise to press a law in one Province, which, if made the law throughout the rest of Canada, would strip every priest of the right of officiating at all in mixed marriages, thus defeating this decree from within the Roman Church itself."

"Lastly, although in the very nature of things I am unable to enter into details, I may tell you that in Great Britain at this time great interests are attacked by this Ne Temere decree and by the marriage laws of the Council of Trent which it enforces, and these interests are so high up in Church and State that they demand action. Such action will be Imperial, and it will be reasonable, yet so firm and unanswerable, and lifted so high above the passion of party politics, that it must succeed for the British Empire just the same influence succeeded in the nullification of the decree in Hungary and in Germany."

IS N. LOFT AN INDIAN?

At yesterday's police court, Mr. Sam Long, proprietor of the American Hotel, was charged with selling liquor to Newton Loft, the Indian who recently lost a foot at the G.T.R. Crossing on Hunter street. Mr. Long, through his counsel, J. H. Haverson, K.C., of Toronto, pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Mr. Haverson requested permission to submit a written argument referring to judgments in previous cases much similar. Judgment was reserved therefore by Magistrate Demble until Mr. Haverson produced records.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunbelt State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined?

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

MUSIC HALL'S ORIGIN

It was First a Part of Hotel-Mat
"Respectable" a Few Years Ago

The King and Queen consented to attend a "command" music-hall performance during their visit to Edinburgh.

How extraordinary such an announcement would have seemed to people thirty or forty years ago, says an English writer. For at that time, and even in much later times,
music-halls were not "respectable."

No charge was made for admission, the landlord relying on his profit on the sale of refreshments, nor were the performers paid as a general rule.
After a while, however, the proprietor of some of the better-known free-and-easy houses discovered that it was to their interest to fee certain favorite singers. For some reason or other four dollars a week seems to have been the amount generally paid.

Some Reeves, Jolly John Nash, Jenny Hill, and quite a number of others who afterwards became famous on the concert platform or the variety stage, were content to sing several songs nightly in return for this meagre wage.

To rent a building separate from a hotel and give an independent performance of a similar kind, but plus a small charge for admission, was the next step forward. In this way the music-hall, as distinct from the tavern free-and-easy, came into existence.

One of the first, and certainly the Stomach Always Bailed, Had Constant Indigestion

SKILL OF COOKING MADE HIM SICK — BILIOUS TWO DAYS A WEEK

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Mr. Clemmons' experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep and have you feeling better if not cured next morning.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently and action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills, regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c. per box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers or by mail from The Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Edward Foley of Havelock lost his life there on Tuesday by being struck by a passing train as he was driving to Trent bridge. The inquest into the cause of the wreck, by which Francis Hedberg, of Lakefield lost his life, was held on Tuesday at Waubesa. Alice in Wonderland.

In our issue of yesterday, among the local items appeared a report, headed "Queen Zephra." By a typographical error, this report was misreading and incorrect. What should have appeared was that Col. Bragg, not Booth, as stated, is in the city arranging for an early production of "Alice in Wonderland," at the Grand Opera House. This "Alice in Wonderland" is somewhat similar in style to Booth's "Queen Zephra."

It was decided to observe the sixth anniversary of the organization of the Lodge by a reunion, to take place in the latter part of February, when a select programme will be presented. This Lodge has had phenomenal success during its comparatively short career, and the event will mark, in a proper manner, the great growth and development of the lodge. Particulars will be announced later.

THE RACE IS NOW BETWEEN MONTREAL AND WINNIPEG FOR FIRST PLACE

Steadily and rapidly Winnipeg has been gaining on Toronto and Montreal in the race for supremacy in the commercial world.

A week ago Winnipeg passed Toronto, and at the present rate of progress she will overtake Montreal in less than two year's time.

The following table of Bank clearings show the position of the leading Canadian cities:

City	Week Ending Nov. 21st.
Montreal	$ 59,362,145
Winnipeg	46,632,937
Toronto	46,373,820
Vancouver	14,264,689
Calgary	6,203,067

For the same week in 1911, Winnipeg's clearings were $36,372,723, showing a gain for 1912 of 28.27 per cent.

Winnipeg's rapid industrial development since the civic power plant was completed a little over a year ago, has resulted in a tremendous increase in population, and when the figures are all in, it is estimated that the population will exceed the 200,000 mark, an increase of over 50,000 for 1912.

This growth being centred in Portage Avenue Districts

Practically the entire growth of Winnipeg is westward along Portage Avenue.

The desirability of this district from a residential standpoint coupled with the splendid street car service has made Portage Avenue West a popular residential section and it is building up at an unprecedented rate.

The district between Portage Avenue and the Assiniboine River in particular is beautifully treed and is rapidly building up with a fine class of residences.

Mr. G. Walter Green for Alderman.

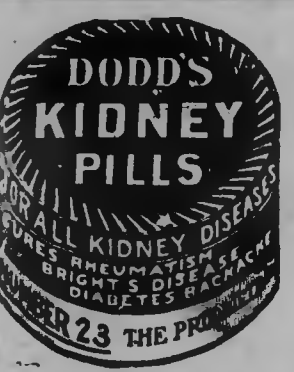

It is reported on seemingly reliable authority, that Mr. G. Walter Green, the well known manufacturer of the West End, after being so solicited, has consented to become a candidate for aldermanic honors. It is to be hoped that this report will be verified and that Mr. Green will stand as a candidate. Whilst our council of the present year have marked a page in the history of Peterborough for honesty and progressiveness, there is always room for new blood. Mr. Green's ability as a successful manufacturer and his standing as a citizen will assure his election by a good majority.

No Valetude Mother-in-Law.

It seems that Ernest Sells, who sells spectacles did not, as foretold in yesterday's issue as a possibility, reach Peterborough. Sells is the man with a mother-in-law he loves residing in London, Ont., and who, after loading his ship at state over the Plimsoll mark with Port Hope booze, was let go by the magistrate. Ernest promised to walk to Peterborough to get the change to take him to mother-in-law's welcoming grip. Sells, however, such a human weakness, even where a mother-in-law's welcome awaits the end of a journey, failed to connect. The line between Port Hope and Peterborough looked too blooming like a rocky road to Dublin. Ernest stayed right in Port Hope, and after selling all his spectacles, made one of himself. He got like Heinz, "pickled again." And now, instead of dancing with mother-in-law before the merry eraser of the yule-tide logs in London, Ernest will take his chop away for 30 days in the county jail.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

"The Boy in Fiction" is not so much of a problem as the fiction in the boy.

The engagement of Miss Helen Gould is not the least notable of 1912's events—and leap year at that.

The Times has observed that the "Back to the farm" never get out men who are the loudest in shouting of the cities.

By adopting Oklahoma Kate's plan for a motherhood strike, society could within two generations greatly simplify its problems.

When buying a Christmas present for father, remember that a ton of coal is a useful gift. We charge the coal men nothing for this.

"Do your Xmas shopping early" is a good slogan, but the man who to depend on his last pay envelope to buy the Christmas things will not be able to live up to it.

The American Ambassador at the court of St. James, London, is very ill, and may not recover. The Times has no intention of making a rhyme, but we would like to know how many patriotic Democrats are planning to get the ambassadorial goat of the Hon. Joseph H. Choate.

It was somebody's fault if the wedding bells did not peal merrily for Mr. and Mrs. William Mosely of Texarkana. They have thirty-one children to start with. William brings nineteen from two former marriages, and she twelve by two other marriages. That's a family worth talking about, and it ought to love no time in starting the town of Moneyville.

The suffragette of Glasgow cry "Co-wards!" at the young men students who smash their windows; but at least the latter are not cowardly as to claim immunity on the ground of sex. Is there any courage in women's committing crimes and misdemeanors to vindicate their equality with men and then claiming immunity on the ground that they are not men but women?

A STRANGE STRIKE

One of the strangest of strikes is that of members of the British Railway Workers' union to protect against the suspension of a railway engineer who had not drunk while on duty. The strikers asserted "the inalienable right of a man to get drunk." It is satisfactory to learn that the Railway Workers' union has officially announced that the strike was unauthorized and unrecognized by the union. A man may have an inalienable right to get drunk, but the railway company employing him should also have an inalienable right to "bounce" him if he gets drunk. And it should be added that the traveling public has an inalienable right to demand of railway companies that they do not employ any engineer who is liable to be drunk at his post or incapacitated for duty from the effects of a recent drink.

WOULD NOT SING NATIONAL ANTHEM.

Ottawa is still talking over the peculiar action of Hon. Frank Oliver, ex-Minister of the Interior, on the afternoon that Premier Borden introduced his naval proposals, in refusing to stand with all the other members and the hundreds in the gallery when the National Anthem was sung. His action was all the more conspicuous because of the fact that every other member of the Opposition came immediately to his feet when the stirring notes of "God Save the King" were started.

When Premier Borden had finished his brilliant speech there was a remarkable demonstration in the House. All the Government supporters cheered for several minutes and a French-Canadian member, Joseph Rainville (Chamby Vercheres) led the singing of "God Save the King." There were then present on the floor of the House the Duchess of Connaught and the Princess Patricia. They immediately arose to their feet, as did all of the Opposition members and the hundreds of enthusiastic spectators in the galleries of the House—except Frank Oliver, of Edmonton.

Conspicuous on the front benches of the Opposition, the cynosure of all eyes, Mr. Oliver unpatriotically refused to honor his King and sullenly glowered as he sank lower on his seat. It was the only jarring incident in a day that will be memorable in the history of Canada. Mr. Oliver has no far vouchsafed no public explanation. It is not likely that he will. His action was inexplicable, and is likely to prove a source of much embarrassment to his party. That his colleagues are annoyed at his action is putting it lightly. Is there a future in Canada for Frank Oliver?

Any Headache Cured, Tired Systems Re-Toned

When You're Dull, Tired, Restless Day and Night Nothing is Wrong With the Stomach.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callender, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, relieve digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders, I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs, connected with the stomach, liver, and bowels. In consequence, food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease, all druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, 5 for $1.00, or by mail from the Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE MARRIAGE LAWS

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Webb, let me say that the statutes he refers to are R. S. C. chaps. 62 and 63, Vol. II, 1906, and North-Western and Yukon Ordinances of Federal Parliament. Also Sweet on International Law and Westlake on International Law, also Statutes of Provincial Legislatures and Hansard. From all these he will find that Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the Federal Parliament had no power whatever respecting marriage. He will find that by the laws governing the Yukon, etc., if a man in Peterborough marries a woman in Peterborough (the marriage taking place in Peterborough) complying with the requirements by the law above referred to passed by the Federal Parliament—the marriage takes place in good faith—the courts of the Yukon will find his marriage valid. But what is vastly more important than that—the seat of authority in the matter is the Federal Parliament.

KING'S POWERS AND LIMITATIONS

What His Majesty King George of England May and May Not Do—His Privilege

The Royal prerogative has always, from the early Saxon times, been recognized in England, yet at times the despotic ruling of tyrannical monarchs endangered the peace and welfare of the subjects.

It was owing to such despotism and abuse of the Royal power that the nation forced, the famous Magna Charta from the wily King John at Runnymede in the year 1215; and later came the famous Bill of Rights of 1689, which enacted, amongst other things, that the suspending of and dispensing with laws by royal authority without the consent of Parliament was illegal.

Legally speaking, the King, as a King, can never be considered as a minor or under age, and when referring to the King in this respect it is meant the political King, and not the King as an individual.

The King never dies—that is to say, the power never dies, but is, on the King's demise, immediately transferred to the next heir. The King can do no wrong; to the extent that no crime or other misconduct must ever be imputed against the Sovereign personally, and so whatever course of action he pursues he escapes punishment as a result of accidentally occurring.

It is within the province of any member of either House of Parliament to mention therein matters concerning the King, and about which the member feels aggrieved, but it is done with marked delicacy and respect. More than one member has been sent to the Tower for mentioning matters concerning the King in a manner not considered courteous or respectful. The law holds that the King is not responsible for any negligence.

The King is the Chief Magistrate of the nation. He has the sole power of sending Ambassadors to foreign states, and of receiving Ambassadors at home, and it is within his prerogative to make treaties and alliances with foreign Powers, but if these affect the private rights of the subjects, Parliament must give its consent thereto.

The Fountain of Justice. He can make peace and war, and can grant passports to any individual to come into this country or to enter into any of its possessions. He can reject any Bill in Parliament if he thinks such Bill improper, though it must be stated here that the Crown's prerogative in this respect has become obsolete, and, as a matter of fact, has not been exercised for over two hundred years. The King is first in military command, and he has sole power of raising armies and fleets.

Perhaps one of the most important prerogatives of the King, so far as the liberty of the subject is concerned, is that of keeping the subject within the Kingdom or sending him when absent. This royal power is not at the present day exercised, though, if occasion arose, it could be put in force.

As Chief Magistrate of the realm, the King is the acknowledged Fountain of Justice, and hence it is that writs and all proceedings are given in the King's name.

THE TIMES' MUNICIPAL ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Name your Choice for Mayor, Aldermen, School Trustees, and Water Commissioner, and Do It Now!—A Plan to Awaken interest in Coming Civic Changes.

FILL IN COUPON BELOW AND SEND IT IN TO THIS OFFICE

We take the initiative in inviting a public expression of opinion as to who are best qualified to fill the civic offices that expire with the end of this year. And in order to arouse becoming interest in so live and important a question The Times has decided to adopt a plan, quite popular in many big cities, of conducting a newspaper election campaign with a view to bringing into the field in advance of nomination day a list of desirable candidates for municipal honors. Our readers are therefore respectfully asked to enter into the spirit of the scheme and record in these columns, either by vote or in brief letter, their opinions on the following questions:

Who will be our next Mayor?
Who is to represent us in the City Council?

Who will fill the places becoming vacant on the Board of Education and Board of Water Commissioners? Peterborough is now growing rapidly, and on the men selected for such positions as noted above largely depends her future growth and prosperity. Our taxation is now so heavy that with the increased cost of living, civic expenditure must be controlled by the most competent men available—men who will pledge themselves to do the greatest good for the greatest number as economically as prudence dictates.

As indicated above The Times desires to arouse interest in municipal affairs. There are six places to be filled on the City Council, including the Mayor's seat. It has been an unwritten law, however, the past few years that the Mayor should be extended the courtesy of a second term (provided, of course that he has proved an efficient Chief Magistrate), and there seems no reason to deviate from that rule this year.

The following civic officers retire automatically at the end of this year, viz.:
Council—Aldermen Deane, Brown, Graham, Morgan and Gordon.
Board of Education—Messrs. Ackerman, Fair, Morrison and Eastwood.
Water Commissioners—W. H. Moore.

KING HONORED WORKHOUSE ARTIST

His Majesty Not Only Accepted a Painting But Paid the Man for It

The glamor of romance and the sunshine of Royal favor sometimes penetrate to strange places. The dormitory of a workhouse, hospital, the walls of which are hung with pen and ink drawings, has been brightened by the gracious regard of his Majesty. The dormitory is the Fishpool Workhouse at Great Lever, between Bolton and Manchester, and upon an inmate, of artistic gifts, the rays of public attention have been turned by an act of Royal benevolence. The inmate is a sufferer from tuberculosis.

John Morgan, who is fifty-one years of age, has a turn for watercolor painting, and he has had the rare fortune of one of his pictures being accepted by King George who forwarded him $4.00 as an acknowledgment.

"I make pictures in my leisure time as I feel inclined," said Morgan in an interview. "The work pleases me and passes the time. I am a house painter and decorator by trade, but I had to cease work owing to an attack of consumption. I believe I caught it in London five years ago, when I went over to see my mother. I have been in the workhouse here for about two years."

Asked what put into his head the idea of writing to the King, he replied, "It was my birthday. On Coronation Day, and the idea occurred to me then. I thought I would send his Majesty one of my pictures. So, I made a small watercolor painting of an ideal landscape. The size is 14 in. by 8 in., and I forwarded it through Lord Knollys to the King."

The walls of the room occupied by Morgan are decked with his works and the apartments of the officials also contain his sketches, both in black and white and in color.

TWO STRANGE MURDERS

Trials of Mother Who Killed Daughter and Son Who Shot Father

A tragic story of the murder of a beautiful young woman by her mother, was told to a jury at Rouen, France, the outcome of the trial being that the unnatural parent was sentenced to death.

The victim, Marie Gauthier, aged twenty, was insured for $1,000, and it was to obtain the insurance money that her mother, a widow of forty-one, who kept a small grocery store at Boulogne, strangled her, and then placed the corpse in an outdoor hanging position as if the girl had committed suicide.

Throughout the trial the widow maintained that she was innocent, but the evidence was overwhelming. The two little brothers of the murdered village belle testified against their mother, and related how, during the night of the crime, they heard their sister repeatedly call out, "Mamma, mind, you are strangling me."

When the body was discovered, Mrs. Gauthier explained that her daughter had committed suicide, and that she had been very melancholy for some time. This story proved to be untrue, for the girl was to be married shortly, and had told all her friends joyfully of her betrothal.

While Mrs. Gauthier's trial was proceeding at Rouen the juryman of the Allier Department were considering the case of a son who murdered his father. The son, a laborer in mood, and the father was sentenced to only one year's imprisonment. Yet the circumstances of the crime were appalling.

Louis Avelair, a youth of nineteen was trying to break open the door in which the father kept his savings when he was shot. He was unexpectedly arrived and caught his son by the collar. They struggled, and to free himself the son seized a revolver and shot his father dead.

THE GALLOWES CHEATED

Some Remarkable Reprieve in the Annals of Crime in Britain—

Strange Reasons

More than one murderer has owed his escape from the gallows to the simple fact that it was a physical impossibility to hang him. Some years ago, for example, a prison surgeon in England discovered that a man under sentence of death had a peculiarly malformed throat, making it almost a certainty that any attempt to hang him would prove a failure. He reported the facts of the case to the Home Office, and a reprieve was granted at the last moment on the doctor's report. Prior to the surgeon's examination the Home Secretary had refused to interfere with the sentence.

A similar case was that of an Englishman who had murdered a woman some years ago. This man's spinal column for some inches below the base of the skull was found to consist practically of gristle instead of bone. If he had been hanged his head would have been torn clean away from his body. The horrible idea of which was enough to save the man from the gallows. His sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life. In this instance it being intimated that it was for actual life and not for the usual twenty years after his reprieve.

Charlotte Winsor, the notorious child murderer, was reprieved for an extraordinary reason. It was discovered after she had been condemned that the whole of her trial was illegal on account of a series of omissions in the indictment against her. For a year she lay under sentence of death before the reprieve was finally granted.

But perhaps the most famous case of all in the Old Country was that of John Lee. He killed his mistress, Miss Keyes, at Rabbacombe, near Torquay, in 1855. Three times he was placed on the gallows, and each time the drop failed to act. In consideration of the terrible mental strain that the convict must have suffered the Home Secretary commuted the death sentence to imprisonment for life.

Jessie McIntosh, who murdered Jessie McPherson in Glasgow, escaped hanging in a curious way. When she was condemned petitions poured in on her behalf. A tract by a clergyman entitled "A Plea for Jessie McIntosh" actually went through thirteen editions. So great was the public outcry that the Home Secretary hesitated before signing the fatal document ordering her execution. The day was postponed when she should have been hanged, and a secret inquiry ordered. This inquiry was held in Glasgow, and what took place at it was never made public. But the end of it all was that the Home Secretary exercised his prerogative of mercy, and the gallows was cheated of another victim.

NOT GENERALLY KNOWN

Little Bits of Information that Came From Far and Near

Under the sceptre of the Czar of Russia live thirty-eight different nationalities, each speaking its own language, which is foreign to all others.

Thirty years ago the population of the United Kingdom was only 27,000,000. In 1901 it was returned at 41,654,731. It is now estimated at 45,500,000.

If there were but one potato in the world, a careful cultivator might produce enough to feed the world in ten years and thus supply the world with food again.

Natural gas has been used in China for many centuries. It issues from fissures in the earth near the coal mines, and is led through bamboo tubes to the point where it is consumed.

Where the telephone wires are over land the speed of transmission is at the rate of about 15,000 miles a second. Where the wires are through cables under the sea the speed is not more than 6,000 miles a second.

Mr. William Frederick, a commercial traveller, of New York is said to be the only man who has committed the Bible, with its three and a half million letters, to memory. He can repeat any passage in it, give a start to a Yorkshire collector of medals.

Dr. A. A. Payne, Hillsborough, Sheffield, has been awarded medals for over twenty years, and has a collection of 2,500, worth $130,000. He has fifty medals that have been connected with either the peerage, baronetage or knighthood.

Bands of schoolboys in the agricultural areas of the Karst Mountains, Austria, striving to keep down the plague of locusts, have captured eleven railway-wagon loads. The number of locusts which have been converted from a pest into a valuable food for farm stock is estimated at 45,000,000.

Bull-fighting levies a heavy toll upon human life. During a recent season in Madrid at least twelve bull-fighters were killed and 111 injured. A record of casualties unprecedented in the history of the national sport of Spain. It has been computed that about 2,500 bulls and 3,500 horses are killed every year in Spanish bull-fights.

AN EXPERT BEGGAR

How Lord Rothschild must hate beggars! At the last one he attended he was badly victimized by a well known woman author.

"Won't you buy? Won't you buy?" she cried, as he walked past her stall. "I would willingly," he said, "but really, the articles you have for sale are rather bulky."

Then, catching sight of a little pile of papers, each bearing the author's signature, he added:

"But I shall be proud to purchase your autograph."

With ready wit the lady writer took a slip and scribbled above her name the words: "Received from Baron Rothschild the sum of fifty pounds for charity."

If the beggar was staggered he did not show it. Gravely handing her a bank-note for the amount, he said: "Madam, this autograph shall occupy as honored place in my collection."

SIX MILLION CHILDREN ILL

Hard and Difficult Way to Good Health—A Big Staff at Work Seeking a Remedy

Grave statements are made by Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the London Board of Education, about the ill-health which is rampant among the children attending the nation's elementary schools. An extraordinarily large number of the six million children in these schools are suffering from one sort of disease or another, and to make their condition more difficult to ameliorate or cure, many of them are constantly handicapped by having insufficient or improper food. Here are some of the diseases which flourish among the children:

10 per cent. suffer from a serious defect in vision.
3 to 5 per cent. suffer from defective hearing.
6 to 8 per cent. have adenoids, or enlarged tonsils, of sufficient degree to obstruct the nose or throat, and thus to require surgical treatment.
40 per cent. suffer from extensive decay of the teeth.
25 to 40 per cent. have unclean heads or bodies.
1 per cent. suffer from tuberculosis in readily recognized form.
1 to 2 per cent. are afflicted with heart disease.

Everybody will agree with the general proposition laid down in the report that a State cannot effectively insure itself against physical disease unless it begins with the children. To do this the machinery for the medical inspection of schoolchildren has been in operation since 1901, but its good effects are only now beginning to show, and there is still much ground to cover. The mass of ill-health is a serious obstacle to national well-being. Sir George Newman says with truth and force:

"It cannot be doubted that in the aggregate this formidable category of disease and defect means a serious amount of suffering, incapacity, and inefficiency, which at least must gravely limit the opportunity and diminish the capacity of the child to receive and profit by the education which the State provides."

Work After School
A very small improvement in the health of the children may represent a very large gain in the physical health, capacity, and energy of the people as a whole.

A very interesting portion of the report deals with the efforts made by individual teachers and schools to bring about healthier ways of living among the children. "The way is difficult and hard," says Sir George. "Partly because there is at present no Parliamentary grant in aid, and partly because of the complexity of the issues which are raised in relation to treatment."

No fewer than 996 medical officers, including seventy-five women, 225 nurses are giving their time to this work, and they have stimulated great interest all over the country in the subject of obtaining and maintaining health.

By way of proving the danger of putting young children to work after school hours, it is reported that at Halifax the average height of children who did not work was 53.2 inches and weight 51.5 pounds. Those who did such work showed an average height of only 54 inches and an average weight of 67 pounds. Out of 1,581 children, 65.4 of the boys and 64.9 of the girls suffered from flat foot.

Saught to Wash

Remedial measures are varied and interesting. Seventy authorities have sanctioned expenditure on spectacles for scholars. Last year $5,000 was spent under this head. At Bradford there are evening classes for mothers with their babies, conducted by trained nurses. In a number of schools there are regular toothbrush drills, each child being provided with a mug, toothbrush and tooth powder.

At one school, as the result of the cleansing reform the number of school-wearing collars were originally only five per cent., was increased to eighty per cent., and this without compulsion.

At Wolverhampton children are taught to wash themselves, to care for their hands and nails, to brush their hair, to mend their clothes, to wash dirty pinafores, to eat neatly and daintily. An elaborate scheme of "mothercraft" teaching is carried out in Tottenham school, the course including the washing and dressing of a baby doll, preparing and cleaning of bottles, cutting out and making clothes, mending and darning, braiding, metal polishing and other home-life matters. The girls are shown how a banana crate can be converted into an excellent baby's cot.

An immense number of meals were provided during the year for neglected children. In London the number increased from 7,300,000 to 9,100,000. Outside London no fewer than 7,743,425 meals were provided. This was, however, less than in the previous year—Lloyd's Weekly.

POPLAR RAILWAY TIES

Expect to Utilize Bore Wood When Treated With Crescote.

In the expectation that a new process of impregnating poplar wood with crescote will make the material suitable for railway ties, the Canadian Northern are establishing a mill at Port Arthur, where half a million ties will be treated next year. The regular hard wood ordinarily used for the purpose is growing very scarce at this part of the line, and the company hope to make the indigenous poplar give as good service by this process.

WOMAN'S WORK

What George Pratley Made of His Experiment

Overnight, George Pratley had said that any man could do any woman's work, and had boldly offered to change places with his wife on the following day.

Next morning he was roused from sweet dreams by the peep of a sharp elbow in his ribs.

"Half-past six," said the voice of his wife.

"Well, what of it?" he mumbled.

"I don't have to go to work this morning."

"No," said she; "but I'm going out myself the time you generally do; so hurry up and dress yourself, and get the fire lit. I want my cup of tea and round of toast."

He stared at her moodily; but, remembering their compact, began to hustle on his clothes, fifteen minutes passed, during which time Mrs. Pratley lay listening intently.

"Am I to wait all the morning for that tea?" she called out.

"There was no answer; but the noise in the kitchen had awakened the eight children who slept in the adjoining apartment."

"I'm so sorry, please," a shrill voice quavered out; "I think I shall crack some!"

"If you don't go to sleep again," roared Mr. Pratley, "you'll wish you'd never woken up at all!" He burst in on his wife with hideously blackened face and hands. "I believe I've caught the chimney night," he announced huskily. "I put a drop of paraffin on, and the same oil went up."

"I can't help your troubles," she indignantly, speaking as he would have spoken had their positions been reversed.

He glowered at her, then turned on his heel, muttering, and withdrew some more.

She got up, laughing silently, and washed and dressed. When she returned the infant sleeping in the cot beside the bed, and washed and dressed.

"How can you have tea when the fire won't light?" exclaimed Mr. Pratley. "Do have some sense about you!" And now, out you go!

See him, too. By this time, the other children seemed to have declared in a body for red anarchy. It was difficult, hearing their uproar, to believe that there were only eight of them.

"Well, good-bye, George," crooned Mrs. Pratley, peeping into the kitchen where her husband crouched over a desolate black grate. "I'm off now!"

"You'll have to do with bread and scrape and a drink of water," said Mr. Pratley to the children later, as he sawed away at a loaf. Then the knife slipped.

"Here, Amy," he said, when he had bound up the wound, "you cut the bread-and-dripping for 'em."

So Amy did as she was bid, with proud dexterity. And the children condoned the unsatisfactory repast for the sake of the attendant excitement—as children will.

"And what are we going to do next?" asked James, the eldest son, aged eleven, who had somehow got it into his head that all this was a new sort of game.

"I don't see how we can have any tea to drink," whimpered Myrtle, the youngest but three.

Out of His Misery

Mr. W. H. Underwood, a great fruit raiser, of Hutchinson, Kansas, is preparing a novel experiment to protect his orchard from frost.

Underwood has purchased 20,000 tea-gallon oil-stoves, which he proposes to set up in his apple orchard of 664 acres, and when the frosts come and the trees are blossoming he will hang these stoves along day and night until the crisis is over.

"We'd rather stop and watch you, father, please," ventured James. "Watch me? What for?"

"It's so funny!" the boy answered innocently.

"It ain't half so funny as you'll feel if I have any more of your big, my son!" cried his outraged parent.

"Now—am I to tell you all again?" And then, just at the breaking-strain of the crisis, he heard the kitchen door open softly behind him. He turned, and rose quickly.

"Well, George, and how are you getting on?"

It was his wife. Never before had she seemed so beautiful, even in their sporting days.

"I thought you might have got into trouble enough by now," said she, "so I came back. Do you think you could hold baby a minute?"

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Ketchikan, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and is prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

VILLAGE WITHOUT PAUPERS

Wiltshire Hamlet Where Premier Often Reads Lessons

Easton Grey, a little Wiltshire village, is in the enviable position of being pauperless. There has not been one person for over a year in receipt of outdoor poor relief!

Easton Grey is proud of its blind vicar, the Rev. J. J. Beresford, who is not only a poet, but writes his compositions with his own hand. Many of his works have been published.

This blind poet's calligraphy is beautifully even and firm, and may almost be said to reach the beauty of the old-fashioned "copperplate" handwriting.

Frequently during the year Mr. Anguth visits this small old-world village, and when he does so he not only preaches of lunch at "Misty Junction."

—as Charles Dickens called Swindon Station in the days of the Misses Pitt and Ball—but he reads the lessons in the little parish church on Sunday, for the assistance of the vicar.

Close to Easton Grey village is the famous Fosse Way, made by the ancient Romans, and adjacent to this is a small hill known as Fosse Knoll.
It is supposed to be the site of an old Roman station long since buried and obliterated, but the hill, the historical, wrote that this was the site of the city of "Wiltshire," and he alludes to the fact that "its mangled remains" and the "ruined foundations of the buildings within this area have been discovered."

Some of the inhabitants of Easton Grey possess old coins and pieces of broken pottery, which have been found in the neighborhood.

The remains of the prehistoric earthworks—probably the site of an old Roman station, situated between the knoll and the village.

"I never saw her look so pretty before."
I knew she was the best looking girl voice clear. He gave the opening hymn and the service began.

fore the benediction was pronounced, Kesiah stepped out from behind the pulpit to the edge of the platform. He looked over the friendly faces upturned to his and, for an instant, it seemed that he could not trust himself to speak.

"My friends," he said, "I cannot but you go without a personal word. I owe you so much, all of you, that nothing I can say will convey to you my feeling of gratitude and love for this congregation and this church. You have stood by me all through. You trusted me and believed in me. I came to Trumet a stranger. I have found here the truest friends a man could hope to find—yes, and more than friends. If I live, and while I live, I shall hope to prove by the best effort that is in me my realization of the great debt I owe you and my desire to repay it, even though the result must, of necessity, be something less than I desire. God bless you all—and thank you."

There was much hand shaking and congratulation and the church em-ptyed slowly. Among the last to leave were the Peppers and Mr. Pratt.
Lavinia took the minister aside.

"Mr. Elery," she whispered, "I've that is, Caleb and me—will pro-want you to—That is, we want you to be the one."

"Yes, Miss Pepper?"
"Oh, my father, you see—'Thank-you, come here a minute, won't you?'" Kesiah approached the picture of desolation.

"What do you want?" he asked, gratify.

"Heaven to Betsy! Don't look at me. A body'd think you was coming to look at me. 'Bishy, you tell Mr. Elery all about it, there's dear. He'll tell you, Mr. Elery, and remember we count on you. Neither me nor Caleb won't have nobody else."

She seized Mr. Pratt by the arm and led him hastily away. Kesiah looked after them.

"Hung!" he muttered. "I wish, by godfrey's mighty, I had the hangin' of some folks! I'd put a tighter collar on 'em than they've got now, I bet you!"

The minister's lips twitched. He knew what was coming. Hints of a surprising nature had been circulating about Trumet.

"What's the matter, Mr. Pepper?"
he asked.

"Matter? Matter enough! You know what she's goin' to do? She's goin' to marry that!"

The last word was emphasized by a furious gesticulation toward the back of the gentleman from Sandwich.

"Who? Mr. Pratt? Is your sister to marry him? Indeed! I congratulate them both—and you. I suppose Mr. Pratt will take his bride home to Sandwich, and you, being here alone, will be more free."

"Free?" Kesiah repeated the word warily.

"Free? I'll be about as free as a cat's paw under a barrel, I will, is a feller free when he's got two pickin' at him instead of one? I thought I was goin' to have a little peace and comfort; I thought that same as you, Mr. Elery, I've had my suspicions as to her and him for some time. That day when I called I did lock her up and come back to find she's gone bawdy rida. I thought 'twas queer. When she went to conference and left me alone I smelt a rat. When she took to letter writin' the smell got stronger; until the last few weeks I've been astir of the game she was up to. When Lavinia came to me and told me what she was goin' to do, was I obstinate? Did I stand on my rights as head of the family and tell her she couldn't do it? No, sirs, I didn't! I was resigned. 'Bless you, Lavinia,' says I,
'When you go to go away?'

And what do you s'pose she says to me?
Why, that she won't go away at all!
That—that Pratt thing has sold out his shoe store up to Sandwich and is comin' home to live. Comin' to live at our house, mind you, with her and me! 'Twill be so nice for you, 'Bishy dear,' she says, 'to have a man in the house to keep you company and look out for you when I ain't round.' Godfrey's mighty!"

This portion of Kesiah's disclosure was surprising, if the announcement of his sister's engagement was not.

"Mr. Pratt is coming to Trumet?"
the minister repeated. "What for?"
What is he going to do here?

"Keep shoe store, I s'pose likely.
Lavinia says there's a good openin' for one in this town. However, he and Lavinia ain't got any mortgage on the marryin' business. Other folks can do it as well as them. What do you think of Hannah Poundberry?"

"What do I think of her? What do you mean?"

He turned away and moved sulkily toward his beckoning sister and her sister; but wheeled once more to add, in a mysterious whisper, "Don't you forget now, Mr. Elery. Remember that question I put to you: What do you think of—Yas, yas, Lavinia, I hear you!—of you know who?"

That evening, at the parsonage, Kes-iah was clearing the table and Captain Nat was helping her. A happy party of four had enjoyed the meal, and Grace and the captain being the invited guests. Now the younger couple had gone over to the church, the bell of which was ringing for evening service.

"Hurry up, Kesiah," urged Nat. "If you and me don't get decks cleared pretty soon we'll be late for meetin', and I'd hate to do that, considerin' I'm such a brand-new disciple, as you might say."

He walked to the back door of the kitchen, threw it open, and stood looking out.

"Kesiah," he said, "come here a minute."

She came from the dining room and stood at his side. He put an arm about her.

"Look out there," he said, pointing with his free hand. "See that?"

The west was setting and all the west was gorgeous with crimson and purple and yellow. The bay was splendid with fire, the high mountains along the shore looked like broken golden ingots. They were

Victim of Chronic Catarrh Cured

The desultory mode of life I was following gave me very little chance to attend to the Catarrh condition, and at last I became a victim of Chronic Catarrh. I bought a large package of Catarrhose, used it as per directions, and have never been bothered since. It will be only too glad to give any information I possess to any person suffering from the disease that was the bane of my life two years.

Comparison of Water Rates

A comparison of local rates for water, with prices paid in other cities and towns, may be of interest. Toronto citizens pay $7.50 for the water for an eight roomed house. This is the cheapest rate in Ontario. Lindsay pays $14 for its sewage, river pectar, Brockville, $15.40, Brantford $15. The cost to the consumers of Barrie for the supply of water to an eight-roomed house, the water being taken from artesian wells, is $12.60, while in Stratford, the highest mark, $19.04 is reached. The other rates are: Guelph, $7.96; Woodstock, $12.40; Galt, $12.74; St. Mary's, $14.20; Belleville, $12.75; Peterborough, $10.33, and Sarnia, $9.

An Unlabeled Cheque

Yesterday a lady from Birdall's station, came to the city to do her Christmas shopping. She called at Mr. Fred Walker's grocery store and purchased a bill of goods. Then, somewhat diffidently, as though it might be loaded, she produced a cheque in payment for some $18. At the same time, she remarked that this was the first cheque she had ever received. Mr. Walker, gallantly accepted the cheque, but at once returned it, remarking "The cheque may be meant all right, but why didn't you get the drawer to sign it?" The cheque was given and presented in good faith, but unfortunately no signature. Explanations were tendered and accepted, and the lady returned to Birdall's with her Xmas purchases.

Get a Cash Discount

A writ has been issued against Henry Frank, who for the past two years has been carrying on a wholesale boot and shoe business at 20 Front street east under the name of the P. E. Frank and Company, and who is well known to the trade in Peterborough, to recover $30,464, alleged due on a note. The plaintiff's are Messrs. Winchell and Company, a United States boot and shoe manufacturing concern, who some time ago caused an injunction to be taken out restraining the removal of goods from the warehouse, and also restraining banks from paying out money deposited to Frank's credit. Mr. John Kybe, the Hunter street shoemaker, recently purchased a very large bill of goods from Frank, and obtained a heavy discount for cash payment. Mr. Kybe now knows why the goods were sold so cheaply.

Pat Wanted a Discount.

At yesterday's police court, three men from Norwood, arrested the previous night by P. C. Reid for being D. and D. M. Hayes, K.C., for the plaintiffs and J. H. Helliwell, K.C., and F. D. Kerr for the defendant. When Mr. Reid arrested Pat Heffernan on Hunter street when he was swearing and making the night hideous. When Pat was brought to the station, his pals followed along presumably to effect a rescue. A struggle took place in the station when Chief Thompson, Sgt. Adams, Detective Nashall quickly had the night-owls caged. Pat's brother climbed all over the officer making the original arrest. A fourth member of the crowd of rioters, John Herr, was also in the court. Later on, Pat came to the station and hiked Shvlock, in the Merchant of Venice, declaiming, "You take my life, when you take that whereby I live," asked for a discount on his fine. This was not granted, as Pat, coming from a local opinion town should have known better than tarry with the red-eye.

THE RACE IS NOW BETWEEN MONTREAL AND WINNIPEG FOR FIRST PLACE

Steadily and rapidly Winnipeg has been gaining on Toronto and Montreal in the race for supremacy in the commercial world.

A week ago Winnipeg passed Toronto, and at the present rate of progress she will overtake Montreal in less than two year's time.

The following table of Bank clearings show the position of the leading Canadian cities:

Winnipeg	46,652,937
Toronto	46,373,820
Vancouver	14,264,689
Calgary	6,203,067

Winnipeg's rapid industrial development since the civic power plant was completed a little over a year ago, has resulted in a tremendous increase in population, and when the figures are all in, it is estimated that the population will exceed the 200,000 mark, an increase of over 50,000 for 1912.

TO SIEZE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The Rebellion Over Bi-Lingualism is Likely to Lead to Serious Trouble—A Word of Timely Warning

Trustee Genest, of Ottawa, who is the leader in the rebellion against the Ontario School regulations, makes the following statement:

"In ten or fifteen years we will be in the majority in this city and then we can occupy the Public Schools. If they refuse us our share of the taxes from municipal corporations now, it would seem the logical thing for us once we have a majority, to elect our own trustees and make the Public Schools our own."

This is a threat that the people not only of Ottawa but also of Peterborough would do well to keep in mind. It will be remembered that only a few years ago a Public School in Emily, only a few miles from Peterborough, was transformed into a Separate School, and the Protestant pupils turned out. We have a still later case in which an attempt was made to wreck one or more Public Schools in Ottawa, which happily failed in its purpose. Wherever the French-Canadians have a majority in Ontario they have taken possession of the Public Schools and conducted them under instructions from the Roman Catholic priests, and they threaten to do the same thing in the City of Ottawa. Our excellent contemporary, in referring to the matter says that there is probably no person in that city except priests who would object to the closing of the Separate schools and the opening of Public Schools for the entire school population, provided they were operated under public school regulations. But that does not satisfy our French friends. They want the schools to teach the catechism. Their idea is pretty well set out in the address of Mr. J. Genest, M.P.P., at Winnipeg, on November 29th. Speaking to the French Bilingual Teachers Association, Mr. Genest said: "The two great organizers of education were the church and the state. It was the duty of the former to guide and supervise and of the latter to supply the material aid necessary. Religion was the basis of all education, and as far as primary education went, if a child learned to know the laws of God and the Church, and at the same time to read and write, it was fairly well prepared for the battle of life."

This is the correct papal attitude with regard to schools. It is the business of the Roman Church to guide and supervise the schools, and the duty of the state merely to provide the money necessary for their maintenance. But this is not the view that is held by the majority of the people of Canada. If the state is to assume the financial obligations it should also guide and supervise the management of the schools. Mr. Genest's idea that if a child learns to know the laws of God and the church, and in addition, to read and write, it would be well prepared for the battle of life, does not cover all that intelligent people expect from a modern system of education. It is fundamental that every child should be able to read and write. But there are other subjects required to prepare a child for the battle of life.

The Sentinel is misled with the importance of religion in the life of the people, but a knowledge of the catechism is a very small part of the teaching of religion. From it a child may learn the dogmas of a church, but religion is the application of Christian principles which are not always clearly set forth in dogmas. There are many persons who could answer every question in the catechism, but whose lives could not be by any stretch of language described as Christian. And it is here that the essential difference between the Roman and Protestant ideal comes in. There is the reason in the world why a study of the scriptures should be divorced from primary education. To our mind it is equally undesirable that the catechism should be the chief text-book in the hands of the children.

MISS HELEN GOULD, KNOWN THROUGHOUT THE WORLD FOR HER PHILANTHROPIES, TO MARRY ST. LOUIS RAILROAD OFFICIAL

LYNDHURST, THE HOME OF MISS HELEN MILLER GOULD AT IRVINGTON, N.Y.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen Miller Gould, daughter of the late Jay Gould, a woman whose philanthropies have reached around the world, to Mr. Finley J. Shepard, a typical American railroad man, of St. Louis, has come as a great surprise to every one outside of the families and close friends.

Possessing great wealth in her own right, Miss Gould probably has received as many proposals of marriage as any other woman in the world, suitors who offered crowns and suitors who had none. She had evaded the soft importunities so persistently and so decidedly that none of her friends suspected that when she went west on a tour of inspection of the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association, a philanthropy chiefly her own, that she was starting on a trip that eventually would lead her to the altar. She had contributed largely to the establishment of these institutions throughout the country and particularly to those along the lines of the Gould railroads, in which she is heavily interested, as one of the four trustees of the Jay Gould estate.

Mr. Shepard has had a wide training and active experience in all branches of the railroad business and is regarded as one of the most capable all-around railroad men in America.

He has lived most of his time in Chicago, St. Paul and Los Angeles and has been a resident of St. Louis for a little more than a year. It was there that he first met Miss Gould.

ITS UNITED STATES TO TAKE HAND IN MEXICAN TROUBLE?

Ambassador From Washington Leaves With Demand That Present Unrest Be Ended—Practically Amounts to an Ultimatum

Washington, Dec. 21.—Armed by the attacks on foreign lives and property in Mexico as a result of the revolution there, the United States Ambassador to the Mexican capital leaves here to-day with a demand that Mexico take prompt action to put an end to the existing unrest.

The demand was framed at conferences both in the White House and at a Cabinet dinner given to President Taft last night by Secretary of State Knox. Officials who were parties to the conferences denied that the demand could be considered as an ultimatum. Aside from this declaration, they declined to discuss the Government's action further.

While the State Department maintained silence, it is generally understood that foreign Governments have made representations concerning the destruction of the property of their citizens in Mexico, and the jeopardy in which those citizens are placed. (Only a short time ago the State Department addressed a note to the Mexican Government through American Ambassador Wilson, the reply to which was said at the time not to be completely satisfactory. This is believed to have inspired in a great measure the action now taken by President Taft and his advisors.)

"SHOULD TAKE BETTER AIM," SAID TURK ADMIRAL TO GREEK

"We Await Your Orders," Was the Pleasantry the Greek Admiral Exchanged in Turn—Historic Flag Presented

Constantinople, Dec. 21.—The Turkish flagship, Kheyred-Din Barbarossa, which according to reports from Athens, was practically destroyed by Greek shells during the recent sea fight off the Dardanelles Straits, was presented to-day by the Sultan of Turkey with the historic flag flown by the battleship Mahaudish at the bombardment of Sebastopol in 1854.

The captain of the flagship was presented to the Sultan, who congratulated him and the rest of the Turkish navy on the outcome of the action.

During the so-called "battle" the commanders of the Turkish and Greek fleets exchanged pleasantries by wireless telegraphy. The Greek admiral telegraphed: "We have occupied the Island of Tenedos, and await your orders," to which the Turkish admiral replied: "Your shells are falling wide. I would recommend you to take better aim."

HOW THE VOTE STANDS

Result of The Times Municipal Election Campaign
MORE NEW CANDIDATES

G. Walter Green and R. B. Rogers
Endorsed by Our Readers as Desirable Candidates for Aldermen—
Not Much Opposition to Mayor
Bradburn—Ald. Gordon Again
First Choice.

The fifth count in our Municipal Election Campaign introduced the names of G. Walter Green and R. B. Rogers as desirable candidates for Aldermen. They in truth both strong and capable men, whose candidature would unquestionably meet with strong support. This summing up of votes shows no increase for Ald. Morgan as a candidate for the Mayorship, and adds materially to Mayor Bradburn's count. In the Aldermanic class, Ald. Gordon moves up again to first position with Alderman Morgan and Denoon a close second and third respectively. The way the coupons are beginning to come in indicates that after Christmas it will be necessary to run up the votes every day. W. H. Moore still leads for Water Commissioner, and a slight change has occurred in the positions of the School Trustees candidates.

THE COAL SUPPLY SEEMS O.K. EVEN SMALL SIZES ARE AVAILABLE

Toronto, Dec. 21.—With the real winter trade to be faced during the next three months, local coal dealers appear to be well satisfied with the outlook, and all fear of a shortage seems to have been laid to rest.

"There is no tremendous rush," said one of the large coal dealers to-day, "but just a good steady supply which is quite satisfactory. There was danger earlier in the season of not getting enough of the medium-size coal, but this has apparently passed, for we are selling the not and stove almost as readily as the larger sizes."

This statement is in keeping with a review of the situation published in the issue of the Civil Trade Journal which was received in Toronto yesterday. According to this recognized authority, production figures for December will be about 1,000,000 tons, those for last year and quite possibly those of 1909.

Cures Old Folk's Coughs

Doesn't Disturb the Stomach, Based on One and Cures Thoroughly.

"CATARRHOZONE" A BOON TO MANY THOUSANDS.

Because you are old is no reason for suffering with everlasting coughing—those terrible chest troubles and difficult breathing can be thoroughly cured with Catarrhzone. You simply breathe the healing vapor of Catarrhzone, and instantly its rich, balsamic fumes are carried by your breath into the thickest recesses of the nose, throat, chest, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Just think of it—a direct breathing medicine, full of soothing anti-septic pine essences that reaches every sore, congested membrane in two seconds. No drugs to take—nothing to harm or sicken the stomach, because Catarrhzone is the purest, most potent, catarrh and cold remedy ever devised.

"For many years," writes Richard McCallum, Stirling, Ont., "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continual ly hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed, irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were of no avail. In one case it was time wasted in sending powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good."

"I heard Catarrhzone favorably spoken of, and tried it. Really it benefited me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so-called remedies."

"Breathing such immense benefit, I continued using Catarrhzone, and in a few weeks I was completely cured of Catarrh and throat trouble."

Get Catarrhzone to-day. Large size costs $1.00 and lasts two months. Smaller sizes 25c and 50c. All dealers, or The Catarrhzone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS

Are becoming more popular; every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway system to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the everyday grind, the monotony of strenuous life to mingle with successful, happy people, and breathe it pays. Round trip tourist tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway system at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between these cities, carrying through coaches and electric lighted pullman sleeping cars, via the only double track line making connections at these cities with through trains for the south, etc. A specially conducted party will leave Toronto by special train at 1 p.m. January 1st, via Detroit, for Palm Beach, Florida, and any one desiring to go should make berth reservations early at any Grand Trunk Ticket Office, or write A. BIBLICAL IGNORANCE

Members of Parliament Who Have Made Amusing Errors

Some interesting stories are told of members of the British House of Commons who were lacking in Biblical knowledge. For instance, in a debate a few years ago Mr. George Wyndham referred to David and the fifty fighting men he had in a cave. "Not David—Daniel," interjected Sir Edward Grey. "I am much obliged to my right honorable friend," continued Mr. Wyndham; "of course I meant Daniel," as the House resounded with laughter and shouts of "Obadiah!"

A little later the same evening Sir Edward again aired his Biblical knowledge by speaking of the feeding of the prophets on bread and water, when Sir William Evans Gordon convulsed everybody by suggesting that the prophetic men consisted of locusts and wild beasts.

Occasionally a few lessons on the Bible might have been useful to a good many politicians, past and present. Mr. Gladstone once committed the gravity of saying "Daniel is the story of the Jews," and made the Prime Minister responsible for the words, "God tempests the wind to the storm lamb." John Bright rebuked St. Paul with the well-known aphorism, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness"; and Lord John Russell made a touching reference to Pharaoh and his host struggling in the engulfing waters of the Jordan.

P.C.I. RUGBY GIVE A DANCE Conservatory of Music Hall A Scene of Gaiety and Beauty

The Peterborough Collegiate Institute Rugby Club wound up their successful season, last night, by one of the most charming and largely attended balls, given in the city for years. The young men of the club, who were comfortably filled the big hall of the Conservatory of Music. The Strauss of Rodley's ten piece orchestra was in evidence, and, although never very sleepy in that respect, to the call of Terpsichore, and all went merry as a marriage bell. The hall had been gaily decorated with pennants and other festive touches. The floor was in fine condition and the hours fled but too swiftly until midnight, when a delicious supper was provided. During its progress, many of the guests were seen in the cosy corners and comfortable pookies, eyes looked low to eyes that spoke again. The ball broke up at an early hour in the morning, when all present decided that the Rugby team of the P.C.I. were "it" as hosts.

GREAT YEAR FOR BRUNETTES

Blondes do Not Show to Advantage in Season's Modes.

At a recent style show held in Washington under the patronage of a committee of society women the living models chosen were girls with brown hair and brown eyes. No matter how beautiful a girl of the blonde type might be, she did not have a chance of being chosen for the show. The blonde girl is not admired this season, for she does not bring out the good points of the new "creations" and "dresses" launched by the Paris dress makers for the winter season.

Putref, the most daring of the Paris dress artists, still clings to the original in his latest models. He has finally acknowledged his "huge pantaloons" or Turkish trousers which he has combined with red, blue, and green—color schemes which would be hard and terrible except when combined with the master hand of a Parisian and worn by a woman of the right type.

The fair beauty of a blonde model is eclipsed when she dons one of these frocks with its vivid color notes. She is not the woman to set it off to best advantage, so an olive skinned, almond-eyed beauty is chosen in her place. It is said there will be no fashion haired models employed at any of the big style shows held in this country or Paris.

A Woman Contractor

Mrs. Margaret Kelly is described as Boston's only woman contractor. She has been in the building business for seventeen years, and has brought up six children. "Before my marriage I was a dressmaker," Mrs. Kelly said. "My husband owned a small mill and contracting business and I looked out for the milk end of the work. At his death, when my children were quite small, it didn't take me long to take over the contracting business. There's nothing mysterious about the business, and there's no reason why a woman shouldn't be able to figure on a contract as well as a man. Any bright girl who makes up her mind to win can do it."

Mrs. Kelly declares that she has never been discriminated against because she is a woman, and that people who know she does good work are always willing to give her an equal chance with men contractors.

plating of a large tube like those that contain paints or tooth paste. From this reservoir a small feed tube leads into the small brush and keeps it constantly supplied with blacking— which the reservoir contains. If it is liquid blacking it will drip into the brush as needed and if it is paste it can be squeezed out by pressing the fountain tube. The implement, therefore, contains in itself the source of supply, the means to apply and the means to get the polishing touches on either the stove or the boot, accordingly as it is used.

CHRISTENED UNDER THE FALLS

An Indian Girl Baby Receives a Flowery Name.

A party of Indians went to Niagara Falls for the purpose of christening beneath the great cataract an infant Princess of the Iroquois tribe, thereby repeating the ceremony which was performed in March 1860, upon the same spot. The christening ceremony took place beneath the Horse Shoe Falls on the Canadian side shortly before dusk, and Indians in full regalia participated. The child is a grandchild of Chief Tamarawater, who was christened in the same place. The girl is eleven months old, and was christened "Mashkewah" meaning "Morning Beauty," and "An-paw-oh-oh-paw-oh," meaning "woman whose name shall never die." The christening was performed by Rev. Gen. Septimus Gerald Harve, pastor of St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church.

PAT'S REPLY.

voice: "Aren't you afraid of the heat affecting your brains?" said the parson. "If I'd any brains I wouldn't be here," said Pat.

THE TIMES' MUNICIPAL ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Name your Choice for Mayor, Aldermen, School Trustees, and Water Commissioner, and Do It Now!—A Plan to Awaken interest in Coming Civic Changes.

FILL IN COUPON BELOW AND SEND IT IN TO THIS OFFICE

HOW TO VOTE

We take the initiative in inviting a public expression of opinion as to who are best qualified to fill the civic offices that expire with the end of this year. And in order to arouse becoming interest in so live and important a question The Times has decided to adopt a plan, quite popular in many big cities, of conducting a newspaper election campaign with a view to bringing into the field in advance of nomination day a list of desirable candidates for municipal offices. Our readers are therefore respectfully asked to enter into the spirit of the scheme and record in these columns, either by vote or in brief letters, their opinions on the following questions:

Who will be our next Mayor?

Who is to represent us in the City Council?

Who will fill the places becoming vacant on the Board of Education and Board of Water Commissioners?

Peterborough is now growing rapidly, and on the men selected for such positions as noted above largely depends her future growth and prosperity. Our taxation is now so heavy that with the increased cost of living, civic expenditure must be controlled by the most competent men available—men who will pledge themselves to do the greatest good for the greatest number as economically as produce diatates.

As indicated above The Times desires to arouse interest in municipal affairs. There are six places to be filled on the City Council, including the Mayor's seat. It has been an unwritten law, however, the past few years that the Mayor should be elected the courtesy of a second term (provided, of course that he has proved an efficient Chief Magistrate), and there seems no reason to deviate from that rule this year.

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Kentucky, Alaska, and East Knotenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

EDUCATION IS MOTION

THINGS ARE MOVING FAST THESE DAYS. Sciences change over night. Discoveries are of last week. Inventions of yesterday. The man or woman who is progressing is keeping abreast of the times. 'Tis not enough that you graduated from this University or that College. The world asks: "What do you know to-day?" Education is motion. You move with the tide of events or you find yourself hulled up on the mud-flats. Encyclopaedias that served you well within the last decade are now practically obsolete. They know nothing of the Titanic disaster, the Discovery of the South Pole, the Monorail, Wireless Telegraphy, the Airship, the Turko-Italian War—or Hundreds of other subjects of to-day or tomorrow. The one Encyclopaedia that keeps up with you, and you up with the times, is built and perpetuated by Thomas Nelson & Sons on the Loose-leaf Principle.

NELSON'S PERPETUAL LOOSE-LEAF ENCYCLOPÆDIA

Nelson's Patent Loose-leaf Binding Device has revolutionized the whole world of Encyclopaedia making. It has made possible a work that is right on the heels of history.

Nelson's maintain three permanent Editorial Staffs: European Editor, George Sandeman, M.A., Edinburgh, Scotland; Canadian Editor, Wm. Peterson, L.L.D., C.M.S., Principal McGill University, Montreal; American Editor, John H. Finley, Ph.D., L.L.D., President of the College of the City of New York.

Nelson's contains upwards of 70,000 subjects, treating over 1,000,000 topics; has 7,000 illustrations and 500 maps. It is the only absolutely new and dependable reference work because the Loose-leaf Binding Device makes it possible to keep the work always up-to-date.

Read these Letters:

J. A. Macdonald, Managing Editor of The Globe, Toronto, writes:—"I have had occasion to resort quite frequently to your perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia for information of many sorts, and have found it exceedingly helpful. This remark applies especially to history and its allied departments of knowledge; Chronology, Biography and Geography. There is a decided advantage in the loose-leaf method of keeping the Encyclopaedia up-to-date over the yearly supplemental volume method, and one that is not un-to-date is worse than useless."

H. J. Silver, Montreal, writes:—"In November last the Protestant Board of School Commissioners supplied a copy of Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia to each of its High Schools, to the Superintendent's office, and to one of its Public Schools. The Principals of these schools have expressed their hearty approval of the work and its usefulness to their pupils. Personally, I have found the work and the Bureau of Research particularly useful to me."

F. E. Wye, Librarian Grand Trunk Railway Library and Scientific Institute writes:—"The name of Nelson's and the list of editors and specialists, is sufficient guarantee to make us feel that we have a perpetual reference work in keeping with the demand for information desired by all who are interested in a progressive Encyclopaedia."

"Your Bureau of Research for Special Information will be of great help to the members generally."

A TREE OF KNOWLEDGE

A student of holy writ has composed statistics of the King James authorized version of the Bible in this form:

The Bible contains 8,566,498 letters, 119,697 words, 13,175 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books. The longest chapter is the 119th Psalm; the shortest and middle chapter the 117th Psalm. The middle verse is the 8th of the 118th Psalm. The longest name is in the 8th chapter of Isaiah. The word "and" occurs 46,827 times; the word "Lord" occurs 1,855 times. The 37th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of the second Book of Kings are alike. The longest verse is the 9th of the 8th chapter of Esther; the shortest verse is the 96th of the 11th chapter of John. In the last verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra is the alphabet. The first piece of reading was in the 26th chapter of Acts. The name of God is not mentioned in the Book of Esther. It contains knowledge, wisdom, holiness and love.

REMARKABLE PENSIONS

Huge Bums Paid by British Government to Persons Who do Nothing

The effect of the indiscriminate gifts of lands and pensions to the favorites of the old English sovereigns is being felt right up to the present time by the British Government. Every year it gives away between $125,000 and $150,000 to individuals who did nothing to earn or deserve the money.

A conspicuous case is that of Lord Nelson, who is paid $25,000 a year by the nation just because he is the holder of the Nelson title, though not descended directly from the famous admiral. This comfortable annuity is secured to "all and every the heirs male of the title to whom Earl Nelson shall descend."

As "ancient fees" the sums of $340 and $100 yearly are respectively paid to the Duke of Norfolk and the Duke of Rutland, though no one can accurately say how they arose, nor do these annuities incur any obligations whatsoever except the pleasant one of receiving them.

But commoners as well as dukes and lords have their pensions for doing nothing. The law courts alone pay over $70,000 in annuities, many of which are for compensation of abolished offices. For example, when the law courts were removed from Westminster twenty odd years ago, ten or twelve "laundresses" lost, or were supposed to have lost their work. Some of them still receive their $500 a year.

In the chancery division a "Pensioner at Rolls" receives $500 every year, although he never utters a word of a sermon; just as a laundress or housekeeper in the same division is paid $175 every twelve months for doing no housekeeping, her post having been abolished.

Among the largest of these pensioners is that received by the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, which runs into $85,000 a year. The origin of this payment goes away back to the days of Queen Elizabeth, who received a duty of 25 cents on every child born of noble blood out of the River Tyne and used in England. This duty was paid to her successors until Charles II. gave it away to the first Duke of Richmond. He and his heirs received it for more than a century, till, in the time of George III, it was commuted for the present yearly sum, which is known in the chancery as the "Richmond Shilling."

Another instance is that of the Schomberg pension, which William III. bestowed on a favorite Hollander of that name for his military services. He granted the sum of $20,000 a year to this family in perpetuity, and, though portions of it have been commuted or sold in a lump sum to the government at different times, there is still paid out over $3,500 yearly to people who are in some remote way connected with the original Schombergs.

In the reign of Charles II. a duty upon imported wine was presented to the first Duke of Grafton, Henry Fitzroy. In the beginning of last century the then duke commuted this duty for the yearly pension of $34,350, and his fortunate successors yet receive this ample income, for which they have done nothing.

GUNFIRE FROM BI-PLANE

Successful Test Made While 400 Feet up in Stiff Breeze

Experiments with a quick-firing gun in an aeroplane made by the Royal Flying Corps at Farnborough proved entirely successful and are regarded as another step in the advance of the aeroplane and waterplane as a means of land and sea defence.

The test with the quick-firing gun was made in a stiff breeze, at a height of 400 feet. Some twenty rounds of ammunition were fired at imaginary objects on the plane directly beneath the aeroplane. The result had little effect upon the machine.

The biplane used was built in the army factory and was specially strengthened in order to carry the weight of the gun and ammunition. The gunner sat in a box-shaped seat in front of the pilot, and had a clear view of the gun, which worked on a pivot and could fire in all directions.

As the trial proved so satisfactory, several more biplanes will be equipped with guns. Already provision has been made to carry bombs in most of the army biplanes as a result of experiments at Farnborough.

ROYAL DIVORCE

King Alfonso's Aunt Said to be Engaged to French Writer

Behind the announcement from Madrid that the Infanta Maria of Spain is shortly to marry Jules Bida, the well-known French writer, is the shadow of a royal divorce.

It is asserted that the Infanta Don Antonio de Orleans, husband of the Infanta Maria, is seeking a divorce, and that to that end efforts are being made to obtain French nationality for the estranged couple.

The Infanta Maria recently published a book of memoirs, which was the subject of an incident between her Royal Highness and her nephew, King Alfonso. She is credited with the intention of publishing another book explaining her past and present attitude.

CARRIED IN KNAPSACKS

Four Soldiers Can Handle Complete New Wireless Telegraphy Outfit

The British War Office has appointed a committee to consider the application of the recent remarkable developments in wireless telegraphy to the needs of the army. The Chairman of the committee is Sir Henry Norman, the author and traveller. A complete wireless installation which can be carried in the knapsacks of four men is the latest development of radio-telegraphy adopted by the British army. A "knapsack station" has a range of about ten miles. It is carried in knapsacks strapped on the backs of soldiers, four men each carrying a load of twenty pounds. The mast is about thirty feet in height, of extremely light though rigid construction, being made chiefly of aluminium in tube form.

Dog Duty in Ireland

German Florist's New Blue Rose

One of the most interesting of the recent discoveries to nurserymen is introduced as the violet blue Rambler, "named by the German rose growers as the forerunner of a genuinely corn flower blue rose." It has something of the characteristics of the chamois, for the color is at first either reddish pink or purplish pink, then smoky and at last steel blue. The blossoms are of medium size in large clusters. The Violet Blue Rambler is a child of the Crimson Rambler.

Sergeant-Major Under General French

Veterans of Boer War Who Lost Health on the Veldt Tell Experience.

Good Advice for all Who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders.

In his home at Walbridge, N. S., no one is better known than Sergeant-Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill-effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergeant-Major writes: "I served under General French during the late Boer war, in the capacity of Sergeant-Major. It was perhaps owing to a continued diet of bully beef, hard tack, and bad water, but at any rate my stomach entirely gave out. I was in such a state that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion until he tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cured him. I confess it was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to all my friends and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Cure, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription, and Mr. Cross, five boxes for $1.00, all dealers, or the Catarrhine Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Mowry Escaped.
Mr. W. A. Mowry, 457 Cedar street, received a telegram yesterday from his brother, Mr. C. C. Mowry, who was a brakeman on the train that was wrecked at Irvine, stating that he was not hurt in the accident. It was Mr. Mowry's first wreck on that run.

Sunday at George Street Church.
The pastor has announced that on Sunday morning he will preach on the world-wide influence of the Christmas Christ as seen in literature, art, music, sculpture, law, government, etc. In the evening a Christmas cantata will be presented, entitled, "Star of the East."

Xmas at the Shelter.
There are at present some little homeless children in the Children's Shelter. Partridge is calling them in to see the Christmas tree. There is an opportunity for our kind-hearted readers to throw a few roses in the path of these children, by remembering that some little ones cannot write to Santa Claus.

Schools Closed Yesterday.
Local mothers of small boys and girls will not have to fuss round at unseasonably early hours, to get the kids off to school, for a few days to come, as the local schools shut down yesterday for the Christmas holidays. Mothers will now have to do a short-cut Holmes act to keep fathers out of mysterious packages, sent in advance by Santa Claus.

Mark Street Church To-Morrow.
To-morrow morning, 22nd, Douglas Stables, the famous boy singer, of Toronto, will sing at the Mark Street Methodist Church. The public are cordially invited to be present and hear him. Mrs. T. E. Cunningham is spending her Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hooper, George street. She will sing at Mark Street Methodist church to-morrow evening.

Charlotte Carson Was Sued.
At the non-jury sitting, Mr. Justice Hodgins gave judgment in the case of Charlotte Carson vs. T. H. Hamilton. The action involved a claim for certain moneys and papers in connection with the estate of the late George Carson. Judgment was given in favor of the plaintiff, with costs. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr. I. Eastwood Had Close Call.
Mr. I. Eastwood had a narrow escape in a runaway yesterday afternoon. He was driving down Charlotte street in his buggy, when a horse and cutter came tearing along behind him. He turned his horse, but before he had cleared the street the latter dashed into his buggy, the shaft penetrating the seat on which Mr. Eastwood was sitting. Several spokes in a wheel of the buggy were broken and the shaft of the cutter also.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES.
There will be no vesper service in the Central Y. to-morrow, but at 4.30 o'clock a dedicatory service will be held in the new South House, corner of Park and Townsend streets. Rev. Mr. Mansell will preside at the service. It is hoped that many friends of the Young Women's Christian Association, and any who are interested, will be present. The Saturday afternoon classes will not meet again until January 4th. The Loyalty Club will not meet again till January 9th, when a full meeting is requested.

Notice to Subscribers.
We constantly receive complaints from city subscribers regarding the non-delivery of the Times, and we would emphatically state that our carriers are forbidden to sell copies of the paper. They only receive a sufficient number of copies to supply subscribers. If any are sold, it is prima facie evidence of theft. We ask our subscribers, when papers do not reach them to promptly notify this office by phone or otherwise. We intend to prosecute any carrier detected in misappropriating copies of the paper.

Presentation to Dr. McNulty.
The local Knights of Columbus, at a smoker held in their fine new premises on Simcoe street, recognized, in a tangible manner, the good work done for their order by Past Grand Knight, Dr. McNulty. The earlier part of the evening was spent in singing, resulting in a tie between Messrs. Hickey, Sheehy and Sullivan. In this three-cornered contest Mr. Sheehy proved himself an easy winner. Mr. C. H. Penfold and P. A. Shannon had been asked to select some token for Dr. McNulty and purchased a very handsome umbrella and cane. That Mr. Penfold in a few well chosen words, presented to the Doctor, who, taken by surprise, responded in a neat speech.

A SMOOTH WHITE SKIN THAT DEFEYS WEATHER.

(From the Woman Beautiful).

During the coming months of biting winds and intense cold, you who would keep your skins smooth, white and velvety, should turn your attention to mercolized wax. Nothing else will so effectively remove a chapped, roughened or discolored surface. By gradually absorbing the weather-beaten cuticle, the complexion is kept in perfect condition, and even the beauty of expression appears more pronounced. If your skin be low, simply freckled, coarse, sallow or over-tanned, why not shed it? One ounce of ordinary mercolized wax to be had at any drugstore, will completely transform the most unsightly complexion in less than a fortnight. Use the wax nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. If weather, age or poor health has marred your face with wrinkles, here's good news. You can quickly remove every line by using a harmless, refreshing face lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered ascorbic acid in 4 pt. water. The first application smoothes the skin, the more youthful appearance, even after one application, will astonish you.

THE RACE IS NOW BETWEEN MONTREAL AND WINNIPEG FOR FIRST PLACE

Steadily and rapidly Winnipeg has been gaining on Toronto and Montreal in the race for supremacy in the commercial world.

A week ago Winnipeg passed Toronto, and at the present rate of progress she will overtake Montreal in less than two year's time.

The following table of Bank clearings show the position of the leading Canadian cities:

City—	Week Ending Nov. 21st.
Montreal	$ 59,362,145
Winnipeg	46,652,937
Toronto	46,373,820
Vancouver	14,264,689
Calgary	6,203,067

For the same week in 1911, Winnipeg's clearings were $36,372,723, showing a gain for 1912 of 28.27 per cent.

Winnipeg's rapid industrial development since the civic power plant was completed a little over a year ago, has resulted in a tremendous increase in population, and when the figures are all in, it is estimated that the population will exceed the 200,000 mark, an increase of over 50,000 for 1912.

This growth being centred in Portage Avenue Districts

Practically the entire growth of Winnipeg is westward along Portage Avenue.

The desirability of this district from a residential standpoint coupled with the splendid street car service has made Portage Avenue West a popular residential section and it is building up at an unprecedented rate.

The district between Portage Avenue and the Assiniboine River in particular is beautiful, treeed and is rapidly building up with a fine class of residences.

OBITUARY.

John Meagher.
The death occurred in Fulton, N.Y. on December 10th, of John Meagher, formerly of Deseronto, in his 49th year. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and eleven children. The late Mr. Meagher was a brother of Mrs. Thos. Embury, 452 Park street.

Mr. King, while working on Sunday evening, believed that the current had been turned off and desired to stop the 10,000 volt generator by short circuiting the leads of the machine. In so doing he received 2500 or 3000 volts which caused instantaneous death. His fellow employees gave aid by artificial respiration but their efforts were fruitless. Four hours later a doctor arrived, but nothing whatever could be done. Michipicoten Falls being 150 miles north of the Soo and trains running only four times a week. The body was met by his brother and Mr. W. T. Belleguon at the Soo.

The late Mr. King was born in Peterborough 30 years ago and was widely known and highly respected by a large circle of friends. He has been in the employ of the Algoma Power Co. for the past four years. He was a member of the L.O.J., and the I.O.F., and attended St. Paul's Church when at home.

Letters of condolence were received by Mrs. King, his mother, from Superintendent Beattie and Mrs. Beattie.

OTTAWA SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD MAKES BOLD DEMAND

Ask to Have The School Taxes of The City Pooled For Their Benefit

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, Dec. 22.—The separate school board has had printed 2000 copies of the 1913 assessment roll of the city, as regards public utilities and corporations, and they were issued this morning for general distribution. They show that the total assessment on which school taxes are collected for public schools is $13,919,644, while the separate schools receive taxes on only $516,823. The reason of the preference is that the public school tax rate is lower than that of the separate schools.

Pooling of these taxes for an equal division to public and separate schools is being made a campaign issue by the Ottawa Separate School Board, who offers to adjust the tax rate difference.

The Orangemen of the city and district are indignant over the demand, which they say will not be granted. If separate schools are too costly, there is always the way open for relief by the use of the public schools of the city, which do not give religious teaching and are therefore no hardship to the Roman Catholic ratepayer.

MAYOR FLEMING, OWEN SOUND TELLS OF CONDITIONS UP THERE

Makes a Plea For Local Option, by Police Court And Real Estate Quotations

The Grand Opera House was well filled yesterday afternoon, when a second meeting, by the advocates of local option was held. The chair was occupied by Mr. H. B. Cowan. The meeting was opened with "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," led by Mr. Green.

Chairman Cowan introduced the Harmon Quartette who gave a selection in good voice. The chairman on behalf of the committee, extended an invitation to all wishing to abolish the bar in Peterborough, to assist. He noted that ex-Mayor Pearson, of Newmarket, had been impelled to speak in another city.

The first speaker was Mr. Fleming, Owen Sound. Mr. Hamilton of Toronto, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, came in place of Mr. Pearson. Mr. Fleming, an iron manufacturer, of Owen Sound, said he was not a public speaker, and would only speak of local option conditions in Owen Sound. If the anti said abolishing the bar would kill Peterborough, it had better die right now. He read an extract from a paper about local option in Owen Sound. He was auditor of that town for some years and knows conditions there. If you take liquor, large quantities, into Owen Sound, you will be arrested. Some liquor is brought into Owen Sound from nearby towns that have houses, but all laws are broken. There is certainly liquor brought into Owen Sound. When the licenses were voted out, Owen Sound's population was 9000, now it is 12,000. Owen Sound owns the public utilities. He did not say that Owen Sound's prosperity is solely due to local option. The speaker compared the money spent in charity at Owen Sound and places under license. The schools at Owen Sound are better attended since local option. Mr. Fleming went on to show what Owen Sound has spent in water works, bridges and other utilities. The big C.P.R. elevators, burned a year ago, had moved to Port McNicoll. A letter from the leading druggist of Owen Sound, saying his business had doubled within the past year, and similar letters from dry goods, hardware and other firms of trade, were read. Another Owen Sound druggist said "My business is better this year than ever before."

These reported increases of business all in spite of a loss of six hundred who left Owen Sound with the elevator. The markets there are better than ever before. Farmers passed through Cadbury, a licensed town, to trade in Owen Sound. They are eating turkey and beefsteak instead of liver and soup bones. The police court records of Owen Sound were produced. These police court records of that town have been used through all Canada by the anti. Under the license system the police were instructed by the magistrate, not to arrest drunks unless breaking the peace. There were very few convictions under the license system. Now a drunk man is arrested at sight. Of course there are a greater number of convictions in Owen Sound, under local option, because of changed conditions in administering the law. He then showed that the police court records were incorrect. The speaker next showed the arrests in Port Arthur and Port William, for drunkenness, as being greater under license, than in Owen Sound, under local option. Local option has done wonders in morally cleaning up Owen Sound. Property has been going ahead by leaps and bounds. Mr. Fleming quoted some proprietors that had increased "Widder's" drug store was sold for $16,000 under license, but $32,000 has now been refused for it. Other lots, he, the speaker valued two weeks ago at $50 a foot were only worth $20 a foot six years ago under license. There is no open bar in Owen Sound today.

Thomas Stanbury, a boy who came at the Mark street, received a selection that was heartily applauded. On account of the late hour, Mr. Hamilton, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, spoke briefly, but gave a more extended address at the evening meeting. "We are trying to get out of the way an institution that had led many a boy astray." The anti are simply crying out "let us alone," but we will fight until we win. A silver collection was taken up. The same speakers addressed a crowded meeting in the evening.

SCENE AT THE BURIAL OF GREEK PATRIARCH, JOACHIM III.

LEAVING THE LITTLE CATHEDRAL OF THE PALAR

The above photograph shows the procession carrying the body of Joachim III, patriarch of the Greek Church from the Little Cathedral of Phalar, where the Greek Patriarch rested when driven by Mohammed the Conqueror from St. Sophia. Like former patriarchs he was buried in a sitting posture. Greeks, Turks and Russians constituted his body guard and as the parade passed outside the walls of Constantinople to the monastery of St. Demetrios, where he was buried, it displayed a most impressive scene.

BULGARIA WILL ENFORCE HER OWN SEPARATE PEACE TERMS

This is The Tone of King Ferdinand's Remarks to The Army

Sofia, Bulgaria, Dec. 22.—King Ferdinand of Bulgaria yesterday addressed an order to the army expressing his appreciation of the work of the troops during the campaign in Turkey. The order commenced: "By the conclusion of the armistice between the Turkish and the allied troops the first period of the war with Turkey has been concluded."

After a lengthy eulogy of the memorable exploits achieved, it concludes: "You should profit by the present moment to rest in order to prepare yourselves for fresh efforts in which I have no doubt you will cover your banners with new and imperishable glory."

Special significance is attached in some quarters to the two sentences quoted, which are read as a warning to Turkey that Bulgaria is still prepared to enforce her own peace terms.

New Head of The Government Strong For Friendship and Harmony

Tokio, Dec. 22.—Prince Taro Katsuma, the new Japanese Premier, in the course of an interview to day, said: "I am not yet in a position fully to outline the policy to be pursued by the new cabinet. I hope, however, its policy will follow the principle guiding my government, which is already familiar to the foreign public."

"My efforts so far have been directed to cultivating amicable relations between Japan and the treaty powers. There shall be no change in this respect."

As for home politics, my financial policy will be more direct and more comprehensive than it was during my last tenure of office. Owing to the lack of time in which to compile a new budget, that of the current year

ALD. MORGAN SUGGESTS POLICE IMPROVEMENTS

Ald. Harry Morgan, of the East Ward, in conversation with The Times yesterday made a suggestion that is well worth serious consideration. As is generally known, the local police force is numerically weak for covering so large an area as Peterborough presents. The worthy alderman is of the opinion that it would be advisable to have a system of red lights and telephones attached to high poles in various quarters of the city. Supposing a report is telephoned to the city of a burglary, theft, incipient drunk, or similar need for the prompt presence of an officer, the policeman at the station on being notified, would at once switch on a high brilliant red light, arrest the scene of the trouble. This would attract the attention of any officer in the vicinity and demand his prompt attention. He would unlock the telephone box attached to the pole and get full particulars as to the exact position requiring his presence. Ald. Morgan's suggestion seems a good, and comparatively inexpensive one.

The newspapers of Europe with virtual unanimity hail this agreement the first result of the ambassadorial conversations, with the greatest satisfaction as marking the settlement of the larger crisis.

KING GEORGE FOR PEACE

Interviews The Peace Envoys And Urges Them to End War

Special to The Times.

London, Dec. 22.—The anxiously awaited Ottoman courier has arrived from Constantinople bearing fresh instructions to the Turkish peace plenipotentiaries. In view of the forecast of these instructions feared that their contents are likely telegraphed from Constantinople it is to precipitate trouble.

There is little doubt however, that the foreign ambassadors here during their "conversations" made the necessary arrangements to intervene with the hope of preventing an irretrievable rupture of the peace conference until they have tried to bridge the Balkan nations from the Turks on the question of the future of Adrianople.

SEES KING GEORGE.

The peace delegates were all received in audience to-day by King George at Buckingham Palace. Each mission was received separately by His Majesty, who in a few cordial words impressed the envoys with his earnest hope that success would attend their negotiations.

The agreement reached by the powers on the subject of autonomy of Albania and in regard to a commercial outlet on the Adriatic Sea for Servia has largely dissipated the nightmare of a European war.

The newspapers of Europe with virtual unanimity hail this agreement the first result of the ambassadorial conversations, with the greatest satisfaction as marking the settlement of the larger crisis.

SERVIA ACCEPTS AUTONOMY FOR ALBANIAN TERRITORY

Move Was Suggestion of Triple Entente to Force Austria to Explain Reasons of Opposition—Feeling is That She Wants Servia for Vassal State

London, Dec. 22.—The peace envoys of the Balkan States and of Turkey met again in conference at St. James' Palace yesterday afternoon.

Servia, on the suggestion of Great Britain, France and Russia, has declared her readiness to accept the principle of Albanian autonomy and neutralization. This move has the object of making Austria-Hungary explain the reason for her armaments and say what her ultimate desires really are.

WANT VASSAL STATE.

The fear is entertained in many quarters that Austria-Hungary is planning a scheme, which if it proves successful, will make Servia a kind of vassal state. It is rumored that among other conditions of a financial, commercial and economic character Austria-Hungary tends to impose a limitation on the strength of the Servian army which neither the Balkan League nor Russia would ever admit.

This situation, it is said, explains why Austria-Hungary is keeping twelve of her army corps on a war footing, four of them ready to cross the Servian frontier, four of them in Galicia, near the Russian frontier, two in Bosnia and Herzegovina and two along the Italian frontier.

It is noticeable, according to military experts, that, notwithstanding the Triple Alliance, during the last decade Austria-Hungary has constantly augmented the strength of her troops along the Venetian and Tyrolean lines.

VERY UNCERTAIN THAT WAR WILL TERMINATE IN TURKEY

Peace Congress Has As Yet Failed to Come to Terms

Special to The Times.

London, Dec. 22.—The peace conference adjourned at 6 o'clock last night, after a session lasting two hours. The session, the fourth since the peace conferences were begun in London, was the longest yet held. The delegates had before them Turkey's fresh instructions empowering the Turkish plenipotentiaries to treat with the Greek representatives on condition that Turkey be allowed to re-occupy the fortress of Adrianople.

The discussion of this delicate question occupied the entire session, and an agreement had not been reached when the conference adjourned to meet again at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

An official communication on the progress of the peace conference was issued later in the day. It says: "The further adjournment of the conference is due to the fact that the Turkish envoys demanded the revivification of the fortress of Adrianople as a primary step. The delegates of the allied Balkan nations replied that it was not a condition of the armistice drawn up at Tchaatja. The Turks thereupon stated that in view of the contention set up by the allies they must apply to their Government for instructions on that point."

ROBLIN TO THE COUNTRY?

Special to The Times.

Winnipeg, Dec. 22.—A rumor is current to the effect that Sir Rodmond Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, will appeal to the country after the coming session of the Legislature. The Free Press credits the rumor, and says that the Liberals of the Province are making preparation for the contest.

WOMAN ROBBED OF PURSE IN LOCAL POST OFFICE

Detective Newhall, Within an Hour Arrested Two East City Boys, Who Confessed to the Theft.

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, a lady from the country, went into the post office on business. The place, as usual on Saturday before Xmas, was crowded. She left her muff and purse, the latter containing $40, on the radiator. Then she went to post some letters at the side pigeon holes. On her return for the goods she was alarmed to find her purse missing. She at once communicated with the police station and gave a description of several boys who had been loitering about the post office entrance. Detective Newhall at once followed her clue and, within an hour, succeeded in arresting William Miller, who is alleged to be out on suspended sentence for a former delinquency, aged 12 and James Comroy, both of East City. The boys confessed to the crime. It seems that Miller actually stole the purse and money. The youthful thieves walked east on Hunter street to the bridge and there divided their spoils. They were arrested on George street, having only spent ten cents each, the remainder of the money being recovered. The boys were sent to the Shelter and will appear for trial this morning.

Montreal Wanderers Defeat The Canadian in Toronto Arena—Miller of Peterborough Played

Toronto, Dec. 22.—The big Toronto arena was occupied Saturday by a good exhibition game of hockey between the Montreal Wanderers and the Canadian, also of that city. This was an introduction, in Toronto, of the game as played in Quebec, namely, six-man teams. The Wanderers won out by the score of 4-3. Walter Miller of Peterborough played for a short time for the Wanderers. Art Ross scored the final goal by a brilliant dash through the Canadians in a five-minute overtime play.

Professor James Israel Denies Story of Receiving a Large Fee or Royal Promise.

Berlin, Dec. 22.—Professor James Israel, the noted Berlin surgeon, denied today that he had performed an operation on the young son of the Emperor of Russia.

A story that Professor Israel had journeyed to St. Petersburg and performed a delicate operation on the heir apparent to the Russian throne, receiving a compensation $25,000 and the royal promise of better conditions for Jews in Odessa and Kiev, was telegraphed from Berlin yesterday.

A note was addressed to Professor Israel today, asking if this report was true. The following written response was received from the Professor's secretary: "Replying to your question I have the honor to inform you, on the authority of Professor Israel, that these rumors are unfounded."

TAXATION IN QUEBEC

The city of Quebec will in the future assess and tax all religious institutions which are neither educational nor charitable institutions. In spite of the fact that the law, since half a century, did not exempt from taxation this kind of religious institutions, have always been exempted. Mayor Brown promised that the law would be applied to all. The city assessors stated before the aldermen that, two years ago, they were instructed to assess the religious institutions which were carrying on laundry and pressing business in that part of the city where they were carrying on business, and when he suggested to some of them that they should pay taxes on those departments, they were determined by them that the law exempted them from taxes. And things remained as they were. In the future laundry and pressing or printing shops run by religious orders shall pay taxes in order to be on equal footing with the other similar industries with which they compete. This innovation, which will surely be fought before the courts, would mean an increase of over $10,000 on the city's annual revenue from taxation.

SMART TANNED SUIT

AMONG THE CANNIBALS

Rev. M. Paton Described Life in the New Hebrides.

Rev. M. Paton of the New Hebrides Islands, speaking in Montreal recently, described many of the customs of the cannibals among whom he labored. One curious habit which they had was to bury alive those who had been ill for some time. He told of many such instances which he had come in touch with, and how in a couple of cases he had arrived in time to open the grave and save the victim before being suffocated.

He also described the ceremony at weddings, and explained that young girls only 12 years of age used to be married to old men in many cases, who would soon die with the result that the girl would be married many times, and each time she was married her rank in society became lower. Since many of these people have become Christians, their habits have changed very much, and Rev. Mr. Paton said that now the women had equal rights with men.

There was no need of agitation for women suffrage there, he asserted. When a girl wants to get married she just decides whom she desires and the man has to marry her.

NOVEL UMBRELLA

Stick Designed so That It Will Cover Biggest Hat.

With the big hats that have been in vogue for several years, women have had difficulty in protecting their heads from the rain. In the first place, a woman's umbrella is of least use when she is in the street, and in the second place she can only get half of it over her head, as the hat brim keeps the central half at a distance. A Pennsylvania man has designed an umbrella that will cover the biggest "marry widow" ever built. Instead of one straight stick the staff is in two sections that are connected by links provided to each. When the umbrella is closed these links fold up parallel to the stick, but when it is open they fold the cover some six or eight inches on one side of the handle and can be held into that position. Then, a woman's hat brim may strike the lower section of the staff, but the upper section sets in over her head and completely covers her.

LIVE IN FLAG STATIONS

The Grand Trunk Pacific Makes Provision for Section Men.

Ninety-six of the new stations, out of the 150 contracted for in the spring, are to be equipped with living quarters, and the balance will be completed in the spring. These stations on the Grand Trunk Pacific are an innovation as far as stations in Western Canada are concerned for they provide, unlike stations hitherto, for the living quarters of the section men. The flag stations, points where trains only stop when there are passengers to get on or off, are in charge winter and summer of capable employees, and are kept heated day and night. The arrangement has been made with section men to live in these stations quarters having been provided for them and in return for looking after the station and keeping it in shape for receiving passengers at all times they have heat and rent free. One stipulation that is put on by the company is that the section men must be married, for in this way the company thinks they will receive better service.

On the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway the end of track has now reached 107.5 miles west of Winnipeg. On the Alberta Coal Branch, which is being built from Bickerton into the Brazeau Coal Fields, the track has reached mile 21.4 south of Bickerton. On the T. & C. Calgary Branch the steel has been laid 105.3 miles south of Telford. On the Young-Prince Albert Branch the end of track is at mile 67.4 north of Young. The entire portion of the Branch between Melville and Regina has been completed a mileage of 98.4. The 53 miles on the Melville-Canora Branch has also been completed. On the Moose Jaw Branch between Regina and Moose Jaw, track has been laid 1.1 miles west of Regina. On the Mountain Division steel has been laid to the mouth of tunnel at mile 104 east of Prince Rupert.

STOVE ON GAS JET

Attachment Acts as Heater or as Miniature Cook Stove.

An ingenious gas jet attachment has been designed by an Englishman. It can be used both as a heater and as a miniature stove and will do anything that an ordinary kitchen gas range will do. The apparatus is made in four parts.

CAN ROAST BIRDS ON IT.

They are easily separated for cleaning and serve on any gas jet without changing the tip. According to the inventor, the heat of the flame is increased 500 times, yet the flame is entirely confined within the heater and there is no danger of fire or of the flame being blown out by the wind, no matter how strong the latter may be. There is also no danger of asphyxiation. Any dish that can be prepared on the chafing dish can be cooked on this heater at practically no expense. It will even roast birds, the dome-like top acting as a cover and converting the apparatus into an oven. Baking, boiling and frying are also possible.

AN ENGINEERING FEAT

Ground Artificially Frozen to Carry Shaft Through Wet Spots.

In sinking a shaft at a colliery near Doncaster, Yorkshire, water was encountered. It was pumped out at the rate of 7,000 gallons a minute, but the supply seemed inexhaustible and the engineers were about to give up. But some German engineers came to the rescue. They bored around the shaft to a depth of 400 feet, lined these with steel tubes and pumped down a freezing mixture, which soon turned the ground and the water into a block of ice. Through this the boring was continued as through rock. Then the shaft was lined with iron plates. This done, warm water was pumped down the tubes to thaw out the ground gradually. The frost wall was so strong that it has required three months to thaw.

Father's "Enormous Appetite"

It was stated of Christopher Smyth, laborer, who was charged at Kingston, Ireland, with having neglected his three children, that his enormous appetite was the chief cause. Smyth's lawyer said he earned from $2.50 to $3.00 weekly; of this he gave his wife $2.00, but it was hardly sufficient to feed himself, as he required two poached eggs and a half-pound of bacon for his breakfast. At the same time his children were allowed to starve. A constable said defendant was addicted to drink. The case was adjourned on the promise that Smyth would take the pledge.

Memorial to Canon Paul

A beautiful stained-glass window has been placed in the chancel of Finedon, Northants, Parish Church, in memory of the late Canon Paul, who was for sixty-three years Vicar of Finedon.

Patron Saint of Footballers.

Not every footballer is aware perhaps that the game has a patron saint. This rank, however, has sometimes been accorded to Hugh of Lincoln. Hugh, a champion player of his day, according to legend, kicked the ball through the window of a Jew's house. In revenge the occupant turned the lad indoors and murdered him. The indignation of the townsfolk of course was great and the whole of the Jewish population suffered for the crime. Hugh was buried with great ceremony and afterward canonized, while many verses were written describing the virtues of "Sweet Sir Hugh" and his prowess as a football player.

BASCOM'S EXHIBITION

His Production Proved a Money Winner.

By ARCHIBALD WINFIELD HASTINGS.

"Can he paint?"

"Houses, yes," with a light laugh.

"Wait, the exhibition is to come later." Under the deafening clatter of the typewriter, the conversation was interrupted, and yet a man's heart and ambition were at stake.

For years Kerle Bascom had aimed to be an artist, but many things had stood in his way, principally the lack of money, but six months before his uncle had died, leaving him and his sister a modest sum, and Kerle had commenced to study art. He had taken lessons, then started off on a sketching trip through the south, for it was there winter. On his return he realized a studio, devoted himself to his art, painting steadily for a week. No one, not even his sister or The Girl had been admitted. Now he was giving a house warming, and behind an embroidered silk curtain was the result of his efforts.

"What's the subject of your picture?" asked the one who thought he might make good on houses. She knew that real estate had formerly been Kerle's business.

"I'm keeping it a secret," he returned gravely, and Gertrude, his sister, chimed in:

"Yes, a really and truly secret. Why, not even Dorothy has wormed it out of him," and all the company present realized that if Dorothy Ferns could not make him tell, no one could, for she was The Girl, a fact which every one, including Dorothy herself, knew very well. As yet Kerle had not had the courage to tell her, so he did not know whether he was The Man or not.

"Tell us, put an end to the misery," suggested the young man who had asked if Kerle could paint, and the tea and sandwiches being all consumed, Kerle walked slowly across the door to the silk curtain. Pausing an instant, the young man viewed the crowd. He saw Dorothy, of course, but was he delighted to notice Squire. He was art critic on the Courier, and Kerle felt he needed the good will of those who might not appreciate his artistic efforts. To tell the truth, though, Squire was there because Gertrude was. He would have sacrificed himself much more than this for her sake.

There Was Silence—It Was Awful.

"Artist, artist, artist," Dorothy cried, clapping her hands. Kerle flushed crimson, but managed to bow without upsetting anything, and clearing his throat, began:

"Ladies and gentlemen, and honored critic," remembering Squire just in time.

"Charmed," Squire returned, bowing almost to the floor.

Kerle scarcely appreciated the interruption, but did not dare frown, and continued:

"I am glad to meet you there, I would say greet you here, I mean meet you where. Really, I mean you are welcome," and he polished off his face with a paint rag, hastily caught up, thereby decorating his face in a manner more startling than becoming.

"Hear, hear," Squire said in a low, deep tone.

"Yes, you are welcome, I'm welcome," Squire was welcome, and we're all welcome," he managed to get out.

"Let's welcome each other," murmured Squire, and then stopped, touched by Gertrude's appealing eyes.

"Yes, of course, we are all welcome," Kerle answered, but Dorothy helped him out by suggesting:

"Show us the picture."

"Produce the picture," Squire suggested. "I will if you can keep quiet long enough," Kerle cried, forgetting his longing for favorable press notices. "I got my models first hand. I studied two characters and made lots of studies of them. In fact I didn't make sketches of anyone else, I was so interested in them."

"Two models? Oh, the depravity of him!" Squire whispered in a loud aside.

"Yes, I had two. I had to, for I was having a model for each figure. I would not have done so for both, as you will see the veil."

"Over your speech," suggested Squire. Really, he was becoming annoying.

"I call my picture 'A Quiet Comedy,'" Kerle continued, suddenly drawing the curtain.

There was silence, then Dorothy gave a sob. It was awful. The coloring was not bad, Kerle having made a fairly good blend of the primary colors as he produced the most vivid effects, but the figures were terrible. Gertrude saw immediately what a caricature it was, and she strove to save the situation. With a hysterical laugh she sprang forward, saying excitedly:

"Kerle, I can see a plan such a joke for us," and she tried to convey her meaning to her brother, but he only stood gazing stupidly at them all, wondering at their lack of congratulations.

"They are all jealous," he told himself, but when his sister repeated her sentence, he asked heavily:

"A joke?"

"Of course, a joke. If you keep on you will be our leading caricaturist. won't be, Horace?" unconsciously calling Horace by his first name. Before he could gather himself together sufficient to reply, Kerle said angrily:

"This is no caricature at all. I saw these two old women every day all the time I was away. They used to go down to the river, and Aunt Susan sitting paring potatoes, and Aunt Hannah standing in front of her, dipping in hand. Aunt Hannah had a fine spring on her place and she would bring water over to her friend, and then become so interested in Aunt Susan's gossip that she would stay on endlessly. I don't care if none of you appreciate it. I know it's true art," and Kerle turned away with a break in his voice.

Women can always be counted upon to rise to the occasion. The picture was terrible, but Kerle was not, at least to Dorothy. She knew, even if he had not yet found out that he was The Man for her, that he was, and disregarding the rest, she slipped up to him, and laying her hand on his arm, said bravely:

"I think it is a wonderful picture. I'm awfully proud to know the artist who painted it."

"We all are," Squire broke in, feeling the pathos of the situation, and especially Gertrude's grief.

Kerle was not fooled, however. Dropping the curtain he said brokenly:

"I see how it is. I'm ahead of my time. People haven't learned yet to see things as they really are," and his party broke up hurriedly. However, one lingered, and when they were alone, Kerle asked:

"Honestly, do you like this picture, Dorothy?"

For an instant she tried to say she did, but knowing its awfulness, she broke down, and between her sobs managed to say:

"No, I can't, but I do like you."

This helped "right smart," as Kerle had heard them say while he was south, and with Dorothy's soft young cheek pressed against his own, and her hand in his, he promised to try and forgive them all for not being truly artistic, and that very day, with Dorothy's kisses still warm on his lips, he signed a contract with a patent medicine house to go on the road. As he scribbled his name at the bottom, he said sadly:

"I had hoped to put my name to different things than this."

The president of the concern, who knew of Kerle's artistic aspirations, asked him about the outcome of his venture, and was so interested that he asked for and was given a private view. After looking at it, the president had huffed off to his office where he submitted it to his plate men. Discovering it would reproduce, he asked the bewildered Kerle:

"Can you paint other pictures, keeping to these few characters?"

"To be sure; I have no other sketches."

"I'll give you a hundred for it and any others like it. It will make a handy advertisement for our Lippert Rheumatism Tea."

Kerle accepted, for he wanted to be married at the same time Gertrude and Squire were, but he has never given up his notion that he is producing masterpieces that some day the world will recognize. At any rate Dorothy is worth all his kind of sacrifices, at least Kerle thinks so.

"Ever go in for flying?" said the first.

"Yes, once," the other answered. "How did you come out?"

"On a pair of silver-mounted crutches five months later."

FOR THE BRIDES

During one year 164 brides received the $50 due them by the will of Oliver Smith, the fairy godfather of the Berkshire. Oliver Smith was the uncle of Sophia Smith, founder of Smith College, and on his death in 1848 left his property, amounting to $70,000, to be used for charities, one of which was the giving of $50 to every bride who was a resident of Northampton, Amherst, Hadley, Hadfield, Deerfield or Westley. Since 1848 $225,000 has been distributed to brides. In many instances the bridegroom received $500 because of a provision in Mr. Smith's will giving that amount to a young man when he completed learning a trade. Another provision of the will helps poor widows, provided they are residents of the towns named. Already upward of $2,000,000 has been paid to widows and young men who have learned a trade.

WOMEN DOCTORS

According to an investigation recently made by the university authorities at Berlin there are at present upward of 172 certified women doctors in Germany. Between 1890 and 1900 forty-five German women took doctoral courses in America, and in the decade ending 1912 upward of fifty took the same degree in Germany. In both dentistry and medicine women are doing well in Germany. On the other hand the demand for women lawyers in the Empire almost all according to this investigation, and only twenty-eight appear to be making any definite use of their diplomas.

Beattie's Mistake

A small child, receiving a present of a new machine from her father, took it proudly to school with her. "Take care of it, Beattie," her fond mother said. "All right," said Beattie. On coming out of school Beattie found out to her dismay that it was raining heavily. Hastily rolling up her treasured coat, and taking it under her pinafore, she ran home as fast as her little legs could carry her.

"Why, whatever is the matter, you silly girl? Why ever did you not put your waterproof on?" said her mother.

"You told me to take care of it," said Beattie, "and I was so frightened of losing it wet," sobbed poor Beattie.

EXECUTED A YOUNG GIRL

Trembling and Sobbing She Was Carried to the Scaffold.

A terribly brutal scene occurred recently at the insterberg (Prussia) Prison, where a young girl, convicted of poisoning, was executed. Trembling and sobbing bitterly, the unfortunate girl was practically carried to the scaffold, where she had to listen to the formal reading of the judgment. The condemned girl was seated with a fit almost of madness when the executioner's assistants tried to induce her to lay her head on the block, and hurrying herself to the ground, she struck wildly at the block with her two hands, giving vent, at the same time, to frightful cries. All efforts to calm her were, for a long time futile, but eventually force prevailed, and she became weaker, and her hands were tied behind her back and her head forced into the block. The executioner was at last in a cruel, cold, and white gloves.

Name your Choice for Mayor, Aldermen, School Trustees, and Water Commissioner, and Do It Now!—A Plan to Awaken interest in Coming Civic Changes.

FILL IN COUPON BELOW AND SEND IT IN TO THIS OFFICE

We take the initiative in inviting a public expression of opinion as to who are best qualified to fill the civic offices that expire with the end of this year. And in order to arouse a genuine interest in so live and important a question The Times has decided to adopt a plan, quite popular in many big cities, of conducting a newspaper election campaign with a view to bringing into the field in advance of nomination day a list of desirable candidates for municipal offices. Our readers are therefore respectfully asked to enter into the spirit of the scheme, and record in these columns, either by vote or in brief letter, their opinions on the following questions:

Who will be our next Mayor?

Who is to represent us in the City Council?

Who will fill the places becoming vacant on the Board of Education and Board of Water Commissioners?

Peterborough is now growing rapidly, and on the men selected for such positions as noted above largely depends the future growth and prosperity. Our taxpayers are now so heavy that with the increased cost of living, civic expenditure must be controlled by the most competent men available—men who will pledge themselves to do the greatest good for the greatest number as economically as possible.

As indicated above The Times desires to arouse interest in municipal affairs. There are six places to be filled on the City Council, including the Mayor's seat. It has been an unwritten law, however, the past few years that the Mayor should be extended the courtesy of a second term (provided, of course that he has proved an efficient Chief Magistrate), and there seems no reason to deviate from that rule this year.

The following civic officers retire automatically at the end of this year, viz.:

Council—Aldermen Dimeson, Brown, Graham, Morgan and Gordon.

Board of Education—Messrs. Asherman, Fair, Morrison and Eastwood.

Water Commissioner—W. H. Moore.

A HUGE STURGEON

An Enormous Fish on Exhibition at Vancouver

A monster measuring 10 feet, 3 inches in length is on exhibition in Vancouver. This huge specimen of a sturgeon was caught by two fishermen in the Fraser River. They were fishing for spring salmon with a net and the monster became entangled in the net. It was taken after a terrific struggle, in which their boat was damaged, an oar being broken, and it was necessary to repeatedly gaff the struggling fish and finally use an axe before the men were able to cut it out of business and disentangle the net, which was ruined in the process. This sturgeon is one of the largest that has been caught in recent years, although sturgeons weighing 500 to 800 pounds are often secured.

It is a most remarkable specimen of a sturgeon, and is a double thickness of the old stocking placed back to back, cut to required size and shape and bound round with woolen braid, or coarsely button-hole cord, will furnish comfortable socks for either adults or children. The old stocking is cut small or unraveled. The top of the head part, sew on two pearl buttons for eyes, make nose and mouth with white cotton stitching, and dress to taste. Animals can be made in the same way.

GREY HAIR AND BEAUTY

An Observation Concerning Many Social Functions in England

At the great social functions this season the number of grey-haired ladies to be seen is a matter of general comment. In these days grey hairs are apt to make their appearance in early middle life, indeed, in many cases while the owner is in the flower of her youth. The Marchioness of Ripon's hair has been white for years. Mrs. Hall Walker, one of the loveliest of the society of all her friends. She is one of the young matrons. Another is Mrs. John Jacob Astor, whose memory treasures single her out for admiration in any crowd. Since she was seventeen Lady Henry Bentinck had white hair. She is a sister-in-law of the Duke of Portland, and one of the most picturesque women in London. Madame von Andra, a popular American, says if a woman has the proper coloring for white hair, she is irresistible. Her own certain is Countess Fritz-Hochberg, who is a sister of Lord Perry, a typical beauty, with her dark eyes and fair complexion, has wonderful white hair. Since Lady Warwick's red-gold hair has begun to turn white her friend says she is more beautiful than at any other time in her life.

USING OLD STOCKINGS

Many Articles of Wearing Apparel Can be Made From Them

Is the majority of cases old socks and stockings are chiefly used for rubbers and polishing cloths, but so many are their uses that their lives need only and when the last thread is worn out.

Hand-knitted ones are the most useful, as they can be re-knitted, or re-knitted, twice over, and it is really a very nice change for a busy mother to sit down and take up knitting when resting, doctors recommending the work as soothing to the nerves.

But all other kinds of stockings can be turned to account in some way, as when past darning at heels or toes, the leg-portion is usually in quite good condition. Many thrifty mothers can re-knitted them quite successfully, cutting these portions from another stocking. If the legs are still good, the feet can be cut off, the edges bound, when they make excellent warm slippers to wear under slippers; or joined together in equal-sized pieces and the seams braided, they can be converted into waistcoats to wear under a light coat. Sewed together, old stocking legs will make useful petticoats for children or grown-ups, whilst pieces can be used "economically," also economical mittens.

If a neat thumb-hole be button-hole stitched in the seam; likewise chest protectors, and a double thickness of old stocking placed back to back, cut to required size and shape and bound round with woolen braid, or coarsely button-hole cord, will furnish comfortable socks for either adults or children. The old stocking is cut small or unraveled. The top of the head part, sew on two pearl buttons for eyes, make nose and mouth with white cotton stitching, and dress to taste. Animals can be made in the same way.

A play carpet to amuse children can also be evolved from the same material. Cut out animals, etc., from colored stockings, and sew roughly on an old sheet.

The other things that can be made from old stockings, or the use to which they may be put, are polishing pads and rubbers, cloths for washing bricks, and the worn-out or darned bits can be tied to a stick for a darning mop. Pin cushions, needle-books, coal gloves, inner soles for children's shoes, hot-water bottle of sandbags, draught protectors, and "blue bags" can be made from the same material.

Beattie's Mistake
A small child, receiving a present of a new machine from her father, took it proudly to school with her. "Take care of it, Beattie," her fond mother said.

"All right," said Beattie. On coming out of school Beattie found out to her dismay that it was making a cavity. Hastily rolling up her treasured coat and taking it under her pinafore, she ran home as fast as her little legs could carry her.

"Why, whatever is the matter, you silly girl? Why ever did you not put your waterproof on?" said her astonished mother.

"I've told you to take care of it," said Beattie.

"I've told you to take care of it," said Beattie.

COAL IN CANADA

Huge Deposits of the Valuable Mineral in Many Parts of the Great West

Coal is by far the most important product of the Canadian mines, as the value of the yearly output of coals and lignites reaches thirty-five per cent of the total value of the country's mineral production.

Coal is abundant and extensively worked on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and its occurrence greatly facilitates overseas trade and local traffic on both oceans.

Canada's production of coal in 1908 reached nearly 11,000,000 tons; whereas in 1906 it was only slightly over 2,000,000 tons. This is a very significant fact, for to a great extent, the consumption and production of coal furnishes a measure by which to judge of the development of a country. In this connection it must be remembered that Canada consumes about as much imported coal as it does of domestic product.

In British Columbia, extensive coal fields are found and worked on Vancouver Island, also in the interior of the province, on the Nicola valley, as well as in the Crow's Nest region, near Kootenay. All these coals are of high grade bituminous quality. The worked deposits of high quality are known in the Queen Charlotte Islands; in the Skeena region; and in the Stikine region. These constitute valuable reserves.

Alberta there are also vast deposits of fossil fuels of all quantities, from anthracite—which is extensively worked near Banff—to lignite. High grade bituminous coals occur along the base of the Crow's Nest Railway; along the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Good lignites are of very widespread occurrence; and there are very extensive areas of untouched coalfields all along the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains.

In the southeastern part of Saskatchewan the deposits of lignite in the Souris River region are being actively worked.

In the provinces of Ontario and Quebec there are no known coal-bearing rocks, and the greater part of the coal consumed in these provinces is imported from the United States.

From the Nova Scotia fields is produced about three-fifths of Canada's total coal production. The main centres of production are in Cape Breton; in Cumberland, in Pictou and in the various coasts, all of which are very extensive coalfields.

In 1904, the total Canadian production of 11,000,000 tons Nova Scotia contributed 6,500,000 tons.

USE OF WATERLASS

Of the many ways of preserving eggs there is none that can be so strongly recommended as by means of waterlase, or saline solution of soda. The disadvantage of the time, salt and water method is that while it preserves the contents in excellent condition, it makes the shells rough and very brittle, reducing their market value considerably. With the waterlase there is no such disadvantage, since it does not affect the shells in any way.

Waterlase can be obtained from almost any chemist's shop, and as a rule sellers enclose directions with each sample regarding the correct amount of waterlase to use. Sometimes it is five times as much by bulk or by weight, sometimes ten times, sometimes twelve. The quantity should be fresh, clean, and if possible, distilled. For the best of these who know little of the process we may add that the use of waterlase in salting has long ago passed beyond the age of experiment. It is now a well-known fact that it is the best method for use of a time of security.

The fact that the basement of a villa at Nice was used in the course of last year as a factory of counterfeit Russian notes, has been revealed by information received from the Russian authorities. The leaders of the gang, who have been arrested at Moscow, rented a villa at the beginning of last year in September, and must have taken a good supply of their worthless goods very happy, with French caught they still had counterfeit notes in their possession to the nominal amount of about $100,000. When they took their departure from the fashionable colony they packed their tools and machinery into seven cases, and had them stored by a transportation company, which was entirely ignorant of the contents. The French authorities have now seized the cases, and have handed them over to the Russian Consul at Nice.

GERMAN SOCIAL LIFE

Sunday a Real Holiday and Day of Relaxation

Sir Henry Johnson is contributing a series of interesting articles to the "Westminster Gazette" on German social life. "The Germans," he says, "contribute to enjoy life and—albeit not to the same extent as we—official holidays than are allotted to us, and this partly because of their jolly Sunday, which is a real holiday and day of relaxation occurring every seven days."

But Sir Henry says there is much to criticize and amend in Germany. "The abuse of alcohol still strangles the physical and mental efficiency of a large proportion of German men in the upper and lower classes."

A hopeful sign in the indignation shown by the bourgeoisie and professional classes against the "senseless" eighteenth-century traditions of German studenthood.

Sir Henry finds the salvation of Germany in its high type, mentally and physically of womanhood. "The German woman," with the spread of education and new ideas of physical development, is becoming in the middle and upper classes a fine creature, as willing as before to be wife and mother, though proving herself an assertive and inspiring companion to an educated man."

And that man, after all, what woman makes them a maximum handed down to us by philosophers.

Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing Power of Catarrh
Which are Brought to the Furthest Extremes of the Bronchial Tubes, Being Quick Relief and Sore Care.

Every sufferer from cough, cold, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at the source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailments thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrh."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through burning the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from Catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrh, and I have been completely cured, and, in fact, have been well for some time. Catarrh is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only give temporary relief, but will always cure permanently." WILLIAM RAGAN, Brockville, Ont.

For absolutely permanent cure use Catarrh. Two months' outfit costs $1.00, smaller size, 50c., at all dealers, or the Catarrh Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
Osteopercian Peer Goes Hunting
Lord Portman, who has vast estates in London, and whose Dorset seat is at Bryanstone, has completed his eighty-third year, and still rides with the hounds and takes an active interest in political and municipal matters. He entered Parliament in 1882, at the age of twenty-three, as a member for Shaftesbury. Shaftesbury was a "family interest" borough with about 600 electors, and Lord Portman was not called upon to contest it. When he represented Dorset, he had one fight. "The three elected candidates," says Lord Portman, "had each to put on a cocked hat and sword, and after the declaration of the poll we had to ride down the streets of Dorchester to the town pump and back again." This was his last and only contested election. He was returned again and again until 1905, when the county was divided into four constituencies and he did not stand.

FOX MAKES THE WOLF HIS OWN LITTLE LAMB.

New York, Dec. 21.—Miss Birdie Wolf of 914 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, and Robert R. Fox, of 264 Myrtle avenue, were married in Vienna Hall, 105 Montrose avenue, Williamsburg. Miss Wolf was attended by her cousin, Miss Annie Wolf. Herman Soli was best man, and Harry Fox was head usher. Present were Mr. and Mrs. John Bull, William Duck, Joseph Sauer and his fiancée, Miss Loreta Sweet. At the wedding supper were 18 Foxes and 31 Wolfs. Over the bride's seat hung a picture showing a wolf wheeling a baby fox in a perambulator. The couple will go to Lyons, N.Y., on their honeymoon.

THE KAIJER WILL HAVE SOME NEW AEROPLANES.

Berlin, Dec. 21.—The Prussian minister of war, the "Tagliche Rundschau" learns, has placed with German manufacturers orders for fifty aeroplanes to replace the obsolescent

ed ones at the stations at Metz, Straßburg, Cologne, Jüterborg, where artillery practice is conducted, and Döberitz, the starting ground of the guard regiments, where the military flying school has its headquarters. All the types ordered, this journal learns, have been thoroughly tested at Döberitz, and some have already adopted the improvements which were found during the recent manoeuvres to be advantageous.

There was a startling interruption at St. Paul's Church, Salisbury, during the reading for the second time of the banns of marriage of two maidens of the city. After the rector had finished reading the banns, a man got up and said, "I forbid the banns." This at first caused some commotion in the church, but it was calmed by the rector inviting the protester to see him in the vestry after the service. Accompanied by several friends of the parties he did so. He was a man already adopted the improvements which were found during the recent manoeuvres to be advantageous.

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to a skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from the cells in Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Company and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and he had no trace of any return of the eczema! All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. per box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

BONAR LAW, M.P.

Andrew Bonar Law, the new leader of the Unionist party in England, is a son of the Manse. His father was Rev. James Law, a Presbyterian minister in Rexton, Kent County, New Brunswick. Law, the statesman arrived in the world in 1858. He was brought up in the atmosphere of the Kirk and public schools at Rexton and Richibucto. When he was twelve years old, his aunt took him to Glasgow, Scotland, to finish his education. Since then, Mr. Law has resided mainly in Glasgow, though he frequently comes to Canada, and has always been proud of his Canadian rearing. On his mother's side he had a number of Glasgow relatives called Kistons who occupied with his aunt to star him in the iron business in Glasgow. He prospered at it, becoming at length Chairman of the Scottish Iron Association. Incidentally, he gained knowledge of more matters than iron. He learned to think after the Scotch mode. In the city of Adam Smith father of political economy. Bonar Law began to be enthusiastic about theoretical questions of trade and commerce. In the year 1906, a parliamentary deputation got after him to contest Blackfriars, Glasgow. Law captured the seat. His aptitude for politics was such that, two years later, he was appointed Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade. The Conservative party ran on the rocks in 1906, and Law went down in a landslide, hurried by a labor vote. Since then, he has sat for Depute Division of Cumberland and North Division of Liverpool. From a New Brunswick kirk man to leader of the Opposition in the British House of Commons, with a fighting chance of being Imperial Premier some day, is a rise without record. In eleven years' parliamentary experience, this Canadian has proved his qualities for leadership among the best brains and blood in the capital of the world. Joseph Chamberlain picked him out as an impressive figure years ago. Bonar Law's personal appearance subtly suggests intense earnestness more than anything else. In the heavy brow, the bull-dog grip of the mouth and the fixed expression, his speeches have the ring of resolute utterance.

DOLL ALSO A MUFF

Little Girls Can Keep Their Hands Warm Carrying It.

A doll that is also a muff, or a muff that is a doll, whichever way you like, has been designed by a New York man. The doll has the outward semblance of others of its kind, but inside the skirt is a soft body with hand openings on each side. This doll, of course, is a winter child and wears a long coat like her owner, the cool.

having wide side pockets, so that the little girl carrying it can slip her hands through into the soft muff inside. To enhance the effect the doll also carries a muff. But it is not only children who may be looked for to carry this doll muff. In these faddish days when young women carry teddy bears, stuffed dogs and even dolls on the street, there is no reason why they should not carry one of these child's toys as a hand-warmer and achieve the double success of attracting attention at the time.

A DANISH SETTLEMENT

One hundred and seventy-five miles above North Bay and 238 from Toronto, on the main line of the T. & N. O. Railway, is the little flag station of Seckinika. To the south lies a magnificent sheet of water, dotted with twenty-seven rocky islands all the way from an eighth of an acre to 250 in extent. Its waters are fairly alive with magnificent game fish. Three years ago there was practically no settlement, but with the construction of the railway came the land-seeker, who soon discovered many valuable locations to the north of the lake. Mr. A. J. T. Wendt Wriedt, an ex-officer of the Danish navy, was one of the first to locate, and before long a number of his countrymen came along to keep him company. The place is now known as the Danish settlement along the railway line. Of course all the settlers are not Danes. There are four Canadians there, three or four from far-away Norway, and a couple from Sweden. All have farms, and so one season follows another. The site of their clearings increases, while houses and barns are improved or enlarged.

COLLAPSE OF A CANNERY

A furious gale caused the collapse of the Ketchikan cannery in Alaska recently. The cannery was built on piling over the salt water of the harbor, and 500,000 cans of salmon were thrown into the water, causing a loss of $100,000.

LESSON IN MANNERS FROM VICE-ROYALTY

A Correspondent Makes Observations Regarding Their Department.

A correspondent made the following observations regarding the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall to Toronto. Among the good results which may be expected to flow from the visit of H.R.H. the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall will be a distinct improvement in some of the morals and some (typical) in the English of those who form the nucleus of the highest culture and charm in bearing, manners and language. Those who had eyes to see and ears to hear could not fail to observe in them, as well as in their immediate entourage, dignity without pomposity, grace without pose, graciousness without familiarity, good humor without hilarity, all united to what may be called and graced by ability to use the English language with consummate skill without purism in words or alliteration in their utterance. There were also conspicuous manifestations of those lesser virtues which so many people affect to despise, but which are always expected in the Royal Family of Great Britain—punctuality in keeping appointments, lively interest in what makes for the social and moral well-being of the whole people, and consideration for the aged, the sick and the afflicted.

As to their manners in public, the august personages and their entourage, we hope it is not impertinent to remark, never permitted themselves to do what many people who consider themselves, or who others consider them, perfectly well bred make it their constant habit to do. They did not notice with disdainful smiles any fauxpas on the part of those who approached them. Nor did they point with the finger at anything that claimed their attention on the street. In circumstances that might be supposed to provoke rivalry, they never moved an eyelash, nor perfect was their self-control. It goes without saying that they did not loiter in their carriages, nor spread their arms over the sides of the vehicles, nor sit in public with knees crossed or feet spread far apart, nor at any time indulge in loud talk and laughter. Such behaviour in them would be unthinkable. Nor was the Duke seen to walk about with his hands in his pockets puffing tobacco smoke in people's faces. Nor did he when he took a seat gather up the tails of his coat as if he had never heard of Lord Chesterfield's dictum on that point. Nor, without further particularizing, did they do many other odious things which all decent people are supposed to be trained to leave undone before they have quitted the nursery or emerged from school.

There are, of course, not a few people—and some of them are quite alive in the public eye—whose manners are just as correct as if they had been bred in Court; but it cannot be gainsaid that in this democratic age, when one man is as good as another, and one woman a great deal better than another, there is too much disposition to ignore or to despise perfectly polite manners, and to imitate what is flashy, bizarre, ostentatious, and even meretricious.

It is not to be presumed, however, that the Duke and Duchess in coming amongst us, ever thought of setting an example in manners and language to the Canadian people. All their tact, charm, and graces are simply the outcome of the most careful and prolonged training in the childhood and youth and the meticulous observance in mature age of what would be most becoming to their exalted station. In our recent visitors we have, it may be said, without the fostered feeling of emulation, the finest product of education and training in their finest sense upon a basis of Christian character.

THE CITY OF TRIPOLI

The city of Tripoli has between thirty-five and forty thousand inhabitants; the indigenous races, Berbers, Arabs, and negroes, of course, making up the bulk of the population. There are eight thousand Jews, and four thousand Maltese. The Europeans are almost negligible; the Italians (chiefly Sicilians), who are most numerous, tallying about six hundred. The Turks consist only of the few troops and the governing officials, at whose head is the governor-general and commander-in-chief, now one Regib Pacha. He is, of course, the personal representative of the Sultan. The desert population of the entire vilayet or province is very difficult to estimate, but in the most recent local and official reports it is given as about 900,000. Tripoli has thirty mosques and thirteen synagogues, but until within a few years it had no schools whatever; the children receiving a smattering of letters and Koran texts in the mosques. It is better now; there are eight public schools of various grades, elementary, normal, technical and military, whose good efforts are already to be seen on the younger generation.

Greatest Invention of Age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

Nothing So Far Discovered is so Beneficial to Public Speakers,
Ministers, Singers and Teachers as Catarrhose

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhose cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes hoarseness or, hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhose keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety—hoarseness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhose, and credit is no small degree to its uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

Mayor Eccomacine Catarrhose
"For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as CATARRH." "Being a professional singer, you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill."

"One year ago I read in the 'Progressive' a convincing testimonial of one who had been cured of this disease through using your God-sent invention, Catarrhose."

"Believing in the merit of Catarrhose, I tried it."

"Catarrhose cured me and has been the means of my success."

"You are at liberty to use my name if it will help others suffering from catarrh, and I will always remain."

"Bob Bixley, New Glasgow, N.B."

Mr. Bixley is one of the best known singers and vocalists in the Maritime Provinces. Everyone knows him, and his testimonial for Catarrhose is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhose is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh.

Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler and sufficient liquid for recharging for last two months for one dollar. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to the Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N.Y., or Kingston, Ont.

Help for the Mission Fund.
Rev. Canon Davidson, Rector of St. John's church, has noted that a cheque for $350 for missions in the Northwest and abroad, had been sent in during the past week, which is slightly in advance of the contribution sent in for the same purpose last year. The missions committee led by Mr. Aylmer, hopes to make a record by increasing this amount next year.

The East City boy, Miller, who pleaded guilty at yesterday's police court to stealing a purse containing $41 in the post office on Saturday, and who was promptly arrested for the crime by Detective Newhall, and who incidentally, as noted in yesterday's issue, was at large on suspended sentence, was handed out an order for three years hard labour, and training at the Industrial school.

Presentations to Mrs. Wilson.
The girls of the Bible class of St. John's made a present of a charming brass bottle and lamp, to their teacher, Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson, who is leaving the city. Rev. Canon Davidson in making the presentation on behalf of the class, spoke most kindly on the value of Mrs. Wilson's work and Mr. R. J. Devey followed in a few complimentary remarks.

Boy Swallows Best Pin.
As Mr. J. J. Cunningham returned to his home at 154 Lock street, early in the evening, he found that his son Ivy, had forced a bent pin down his throat. The distracted father hurried the boy to Dr. Halliday's surgery, where Dr. Buchanan was summoned in consultation. The lad was hastened, after the pin had been extracted, to Nichol's Hospital.

Yesterday's Police Court.
At yesterday's police court William Payton had to pay $8.75 for being drunk and disorderly in a public place on Saturday. Geo. Andrews, charged with vagrancy, asked permission to leave the city, but it was refused. He was then taken to the workhouse, or it might have been an anvil, and sent to work. The magistrate, figuratively speaking, wished him good speed and good bye. He did not, however, throw in a palm leaf fan to spoil Andrews' brow, as he glanced at his speedometer whilst speeding from the city.

A Chance for Investors.
We are mailing a large number of copies of The Times to-day to leading investors throughout the district, in order to get them interested in the Progressive Mining Company, Limited, of Ottawa, of which Messrs. J. T. Armand & Co., of Montreal, are the fiscal agents. An article elsewhere, as well as the advertisement of the company, gives full particulars of this proposition, which we trust will appear to those who have funds for investment.

Court of Appeal.
At four o'clock yesterday afternoon the anti local option forces had put a large number of names on the voters list. In response to a question put to Mr. A. E. Dickson, who acted for the local option advocates, at the same hour, stated he had not kept count but that his party had placed a large number on the roll. His Honor, Judge Haynes, to assist local voters kindly, consented to open the court during the evening so as to finish the session last night.

CAPITALIZATION $500,000. (No Personal Liability)
Divided into 500,000 shares, par value of $1 each; 400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

OFFICERS:

A. CHARBONNEAU, Vice-President, Ottawa.
J. P. PRUD'HOMME, Sec.-Treasurer, Montreal.
JEAN B. COUILLARD, Director, Ottawa.
H. GALLIEN, Director, Ottawa.

PROPERTIES.
This Company owns 537 acres of rich Phosphate, Mica and Asbestos Mines in the Townships of Masbham, Templeton and Portland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 40 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Porcupine Gold District.

As Phosphate and Mica Mining produces quicker and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining, and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich Phosphate and Mica Mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY REQUIRED.
The Mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication.

Labor and provisions are much less expensive than in Cobalt or Porcupine.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from Phosphate and Mica Mining.

Mining can be carried on all the year round.

A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHAREHOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a number of other mines to fall back upon.

The large acreage, the low capitalization, the large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious and honest enterprise and administration.

Prospectus will be sent free on application. Orders may be sent to your Broker or direct to the Fiscal Agents of the Company.

VICEROY MUCH BETTER NOW

He Has No Fever, Physicians Said Conditions Favorable

Delhi, India, Dec. 24.—Viceroy Lord Hardinge after an alarmingly restless night, had no fever to-day, and the physicians said that his condition was most favorable. They stated that they now anticipated no serious results.

The principal anxiety of the specialists now is to guard against tetanus. The four nails from the bomb, which were removed from the back and shoulder of Lord Hardinge, were found to be rusty. There was also the danger that they might have been infected, but a chemical examination failed to reveal poison.

All night the Viceroy was feverish, and in considerable pain. At midnight sleep was induced by the administration of morphia. Lady Hardinge had recovered from the shock and was the first to visit the bedside of the Viceroy to-day.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

An official report of the injuries to Lord Hardinge, issued by his surgeons last night, says that a portion of the projectile struck him at the back of the right shoulder and a long the inner border of the shoulder blade. It passed upwards and issued through the skin along the upper line of the shoulder causing a wound four inches long, and exposing the muscle and bone. There was no injury done to the Viceroy's lungs.

Other fragments of the bomb caused slight wounds on the neck. There was a moderate loss of blood, the shock was severe, and some deafness was caused by the explosion.

A NATIVE BOMB

London, Dec. 24.—The London Times' Delhi correspondent says: "The bomb thrown at the Viceroy of India was of native construction, filled with nails, screws, etc., of which a large number of full was collected after the procession passed. This kind of bomb was used by Indian Anarchists on previous occasions, such as the shooting at Amritsar."

SERBIAN REFUGEES LEAVING SOFIA TO REINFORCE THE BULGARIANS IN FRONT OF ADRIANOPLE

DEMONSTRATION WHEN NEWS OF THE FALL OF USKUB REACHED BELGRADE

THE BUCKHORN BRIDGE— WHY THE COUNTY LOSES

The Examiner of Monday night takes a whack at the County officials and the County members of Parliament for not putting through an alleged promise, supposed to have been made by Hon. G. P. Graham, late Minister of Railways and Canals, to the effect that the written contract made between the late Government and the County, for the payment of $3,000 and the cost of maintenance of the new bridge as a vehicular bridge, should be cancelled. To make a long story short, Messrs. E. M. Elliott, the County Clerk and Treasurer, W. G. Howden, J. A. Sevensmith, M. P., J. H. Burnham, M.P., and one other county councillor, whose name at the present we forget, appeared by special appointment before Hon. Mr. Cochran, the present Minister of Railways, and asked him if the Hon. G. P. Graham said there was any sort of an obligation, legal or moral, to cancel their contract, would he do so, and he said "Yes." Whereupon Mr. Burnham, who had pressed the matter strongly, drew up an absolute quitclaim of the County for Mr. Graham to sign. Mr. Elliott expressed the opinion that Mr. Cochran could not do more than he had agreed to do on this occasion. The prospect seemed bright for a speedy settlement. But Mr. Graham point blank refused to sign anything of the sort, and in five separate interviews with Mr. Burnham, he each time declined to back up the County's claim in any way. What could Mr. Cochran do in the face of that? For him to cancel the contract under the circumstances would leave him open to the grave charge of malfeasance and bribery. The fault lies with those who tried to bluff the late government and the people. It could not be done. The plot failed. Mr. Stratton was to get the credit—but the County pays. No honest man can charge Hon. Mr. Cochran with having done anything but what is right. He even tried to forgive the people the $515 interest, but he was not allowed to do that by some obstinate members of the Council. It will remain to be seen who will have to pay in the long run, the people or those who misled them.

Result of The Times Municipal Election Campaign
NO MORE NEW NAMES

His Worship Mayor Bradburn stands practically alone in the race—Alderman Pascoe Voted into Second Place With Alderman Gordon and Morgan a Close Second and Third.

The latest count in our Municipal Election Campaign brings Ald. Duncan into first place for alderman, with Alderman Gordon and Morgan a close second and third. The latest acquisition to the list for alderman, Mr. G. O. Walker Green, has made a good poll the last couple of days and is moving upward. His Worship Mayor Bradburn stands practically alone in this newspaper contest for choice as chief magistrate. There is no question but that he has made one of the best mayors with which the municipality was ever favored, and has more than earned a second term unopposed in the most honorable public office within the gift of Peterborough City.

ATTEMPT MADE ON PRESIDENT

Would-Be Assassin Broke In to Residence of Prince Yamagata at Midnight

HE TRIED TO SUICIDE

Tokio, Dec. 24.—An attempt was made after midnight to assassinate Prince Arimoto Yamagata, the President of the Japanese Privy Council and Supreme Military Councillor of Japan. The Prince escaped unhurt. His assailant tried to commit suicide.

The would-be assassin broke into Prince Yamagata's residence just after midnight and endeavored to approach the Prince. He was, however, observed by some attendants, and he then tried to commit suicide, but he was caught and prevented as he was in the act of stabbing himself. He was arrested and an investigation is now proceeding into the reason for his attempt.

Field Marshal Prince Arimoto Yamagata, who is President of the Japanese Privy Council, was born in 1838. He commanded the first army in the war with China. He was created a marquis in 1895 and a prince in 1907. He is a military member of the British Order of Merit, to which only two other foreigners belong, and they, too, are Japanese, Field Marshal Prince Oyama and Admiral Count Togo.

O, Little Town of Bethlehem

O, little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.
For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep Their watch of wondering love!
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth,
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.
How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given,
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessing of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive Him still,
The dear Christ enters in.
O, holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born to us today.
We hear the Christian angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O, come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel.

REMARKABLE TRIP OF A SCIENTIST

R. W. Williamson Tells of His Observations of the People in British New Guinea

Mr. R. W. Williamson, fellow of the British Anthropological Institute, who has returned from a scientific expedition through hitherto unexplored parts of British New Guinea, has given an account of his journey to the institution which, by reason of the thrilling personal experience of the narrator, and the remarkable conditions prevailing among the Mafulu people, the most retrograde tribe on the island, surpasses in interest most trips of the kind undertaken in these modern days. Most of the world's race secrets have been revealed.

Accompanied only by a Chinese servant and two of the most civilized natives of Papua, he spent nearly five months in the country. After a long and perilous tramp through almost impassable bush and undergrowth, infested by most venomous reptiles and wild beasts, the party who had been attacked by leopards and other denizens of the forest, reached the Mafulu Mountains. "By this time," says Mr. Williamson, "my legs were covered with sores from bites of animals and tears of the acrobats. There is, I am sure, subtle poison in the atmosphere, and every step hurt me." "It was between 4,000 and 5,000 feet up the mountains that we came upon the Mafulu, a small people, partly naked save for a strip of bark worn around the loins and under the legs. Their skin is a dark, sooty brown color, hair a grizzly, frizzy brown and across their faces are weird splashes of color, chiefly bright red. "Here in these wild out of the world regions I found two French Jesuits.

priests. I cannot express my immense admiration for these two men who lived there quite alone and unprotected.

"The Mafulu, I discovered, though they are cannibals, are not actual head hunters. They only eat human flesh when the victim is killed in battle or private vendetta; but then the actual slayer is not permitted to taste at the feast.

"At the big feast pig flesh is largely eaten. One village of about 100 houses on killed 150 pigs for their meal. "The religion of the Mafulu is a simple primitive fear of ghosts and spirits. They have not reached the stage of idolatry.

"They believe, for instance, that the fig tree and certain trailing plants are spirit haunted. "A Jesuit priest who wanted to build a hut was warned by the Mafulu not to cut through one of these trailing plants. He laughed at their fears and cut it through.

"Strangely enough he was taken very ill the next day and had to be removed to the coast. And he had been only strengthened in his superstitious fears. "Marriage is a very simple process. A boy sees a girl he wants and goes to her house. A price is arranged for her, some pigs or a tomahawk, and the girl's parents accompany the boy back to his home.

"Then they all sit outside the house and the wedding is over. "Mafulu bury their dead under the ground, except the chiefs, who are put into boxes above the ground or placed in the branches of the fig tree."

TREATED FOR NAUGHTINESS

A Correspondent Tells of Experiments Made in Japan

Writing to the "Times" recently on the subject of sulkiness, a correspondent refers to the possibility of treating children medicinally for naughtiness. "This," she says, "is actually done in Japan. I had charge of some Japanese children, and if they proved unmanageable to discipline, or gave way to prolonged fits of naughtiness, they were taken away for a day or two and invariably came back to me cheerful and good-natured. On inquiry I found they had been massaged either once or twice, and that it was a very generally practiced remedy, all naughtiness being held to proceed from disordered stomachs."

A Dream and Its Sequel

The remains of Grace Cameron, an old-age pensioner of eighty, who had been missing for thirteen months were recovered in the Redoubt Burn, Kirriemuir, Inverness-shire, by foresters who were cutting away a tree which was forming an obstruction. A notice of the parish, who has been in the service of the Caledonian Railway Company at Glasgow for forty years, happened to be at home when the women were missing, and he took great interest in the case. After returning to Glasgow he dreamed about eight months ago on two successive nights that Grace Cameron had wandered out, and had died in the Redoubt Burn. He wrote home a letter to that effect, but his letter was ignored, although it is still preserved, and bears out his statement. The strange part of the affair is that the remains were found at the very spot dreamed of.

GETTING READY TO OPEN THE WORLD'S GREATEST GATEWAY NEXT JANUARY.

The New Grand Central Terminal, in New York City. Nearly Completed, Will Accommodate 100,000,000 Passengers a Year.

THE hurrying feet of a hundred millions have been helping the New York Central to decide the kind of pavement to use in the passageway of its superb new passenger terminal, which will be opened about Jan. 31. The suburban station, for the accommodation of the vast army of commuters, was opened last October. The suburban concourse is of the same dimensions as the main concourse—300 by 120 feet—except as to height of ceiling. It is a station complete in all details, the same as the main concourse for through passengers. The public also has aided in determining the easiest slope for the ramps that lead from one level to another instead of stairways. The average eyeight of the innumerable through has settled the size of the letters and their spacing in the signs at the entrances to the train platforms, the places where there is time for only a hasty glance. In these and in many other ways have the people themselves assisted in the making of the new Grand Central terminal, the most marvelous city gate in all the world.

GAH Move in Straight Lines.
The great currents of traffic, that are at their height at night and at morning, are kept separate. They do not meet or mingle. Each flows smoothly in its proper direction. This is because, like the man running to catch his train, they go in a straight line. There are no corners to turn. The signs begin at the subway and at the exits from the train platforms. They start the crowd in the right direction, and all it has to do is to keep moving straight ahead, which is the most natural thing in the world. The passageway from the inbound station to the subway and the other one from the subway to the trains each is as straight as a ruler's edge.

All this sounds perfectly simple and easy of accomplishment. It might be if you were handling only a thousand people, but when it comes to a probable hundred million the problem becomes complicated. The same principle of the straight line—the shortest distance between two points—is applied to handling baggage as well. The outbound baggage goes straight through the subway—at Forty-fifth street and the inbound through the other baggage subway at Forty-third street. It is the same way with the mails from the great branch postoffice. The streams never meet. There is no delay, no lost motion.

Enter the new station by practically whatever door you will and your forward progress to your train is continuous. You need take no backward steps. You even shorten the distance by going to the ticket office. There are so many windows at which tickets will be sold that there will be no waiting. The man who is in haste to buy a ticket for a train that is about to start need not come in contact with the one who is standing at the window asking questions and planning his journey. There are plenty of places for each—the hurried and the leisurely.

Ticket in Hand. A man rushes across the big concourse. He is going on the Twentieth Century Limited. He has no time to spare. From the two points on either side of the concourse where he may come in he has a complete view of the train gate line. He may sweep it from end to end at a glance. Over each gate is a triangular box that projects out from the wall. It shows the number of the track, the name of the train and the time it departs. The two visible sides of this "box" are placed at a certain angle. It took a long time—months of patient study and testing with thousands of eyes—to get these signs so that each should be always exactly at right angles with the line of vision of the hurried passenger seeking his train.

If the man is going to stop at some city east of Chicago or whatever is the ultimate destination of the train he is anxious to know if the train he has selected will halt there. Probably he has been in too much of a rush to inquire, or, in his haste, has forgotten. Once he has picked out the train from the sign over the gate he hurries toward it. When he is a hundred feet away he can read the list of stops on the station board.

Platforms Level With Car Floors.
The long station platforms are on the same level as the platforms and the floors of the cars. That is one of the most important things from the standpoint of safety and comfort. The necessity of the passenger going up and down the car steps is eliminated. It cuts in half the time of loading and unloading passengers. It has been found by experimenting that the ordinary suburban train takes eighty seconds to unload when the passengers have to descend the car steps. It takes forty seconds when they walk directly onto the station platform. In the old way the passenger had to climb down three and one-half feet, which later he had to ascend to get out into the street. There is an additional saving of seconds and of energy in the new way; also it is much safer. The risk of accident practically disappears. But such a thing, like everything else about a big station like this, no matter if it seems an unimportant detail, adds tremendously to the expense.

Millions For Temporary Work.
Literally millions of dollars have been spent all through this great terminal to make it better than anything ever known before and to eliminate so far as humanly possible every chance of accident. In the millions that have been expended for convenience and comfort should be included the "temporary work" of which no trace now remains. Yet it cost more than $2,000,000. This was the extra expense for carrying on the business without inconveniencing the passengers while the old station was being demolished—such things as temporary train sheds, trestles built in the yards for carrying trains over excavations, and things like that which would not have been necessary in the creation of a terminal on ground not in constant use.

A New and Marvellous Bumper.
The matter of bumpers at the ends of tracks would not seem worthy of much study, yet it is another of the things that has received years of consideration. The ordinary station bumper is simply two heavily braced uprights that will stop a train going at a moderate rate of speed. Such bumpers cost about $100 each to construct. Those which are being put in at the Grand Central terminal cost $5,000 each. There are forty of them. They are to insure a train against going into any of the columns or on to the concourse. They have to be exceptional. It is strong so as to take care of the extraordinary heavy trains—ten to fifteen steel cars, each eighty-four feet long. Never before has there been a bumper devised that will meet American conditions. The biggest ones in the world are in a station in Glasgow, Scotland. They have a capacity of resisting an impact of 500 tons moving at a speed of ten miles an hour. In the English trains the bumpers strike at the two lower corners of the car. In American trains the blow is received in the center of the car. Those being installed in the Grand Central terminal will have a capacity of 1,000 tons moving at ten miles an hour and will produce an absolute stop without incident to the train or to the structure behind the bumper. Such a shock is very rare, but when the emergency arises the bumper becomes very important. It took more than a year to design and build the first one, and that after eight years spent in studying and experimenting. It is only one of the many things designed to prevent possible accidents which may never occur. They are essential for the maximum safety, but they add enormously to the cost of a big terminal.

Storing Electricity For Emergencies.
At frequent intervals throughout the station "yard"—the great network of tracks that spread fanwise in two levels south of Fifth street—there is a "battery house," in which is stored continually enough electricity to handle the business of its particular section at the "peak of the load" for twenty minutes to half an hour independent of the dynamo and the other machinery in the big power and light plant. That means that if everything else should fail the storage batteries would keep the lights shining and the trains moving long enough to make repairs, and the general public probably would not know that anything was wrong. The business of the great terminal would continue without a hitch. The engineers say there has not been an interruption of the electric service for six years, but that they don't want any if it is humanly possible to prevent it. Probably nowhere else in the world has so much important experimental research been carried on and so many vital problems solved for the public benefit as in the building of the Grand Central terminal.

Announcing Arrivals and Departures.
When an incoming train is about to arrive there is a great stir among the crowds of people awaiting it. They gather about the bulletin board and watch to see on which track it is coming in. The man at the board gets the news from the signal towers by means of the telegraph and chalks up the information. An improvement on this method has been devised and is being perfected so that it can be put in use later. The announcements of train arrivals will be made on a board that has illuminated or movable letters. These will be controlled from one of the towers in the yard. Instantly, as soon as the switches are set for an incoming train to end its journey on a certain track, the information will flash forth on the bulletin board. This will save a few seconds and there will be no possibility of error.

The announcing of outgoing trains will be done, as it has been for some time past in the temporary station, by megaphones. At a central point a clear voiced man speaks into the instrument and his voice, magnified in volume, is reproduced simultaneously in every part of the waiting rooms from the trumpet-like horns that are placed inconspicuously against the walls. While the utility of this method depends, of course, on the clearness with which the announcer speaks, it is far ahead of the old way of calling the trains by a man walking about the station and making the announcements. The new way saves a good many minutes.

Paging Passengers.
Incidentally this system of sound waves transmitted from a central point will be used on even a larger scale than ever before for "paging" persons. It happens frequently that a business house suddenly finds it necessary to communicate with one of its representatives who has gone to the Grand Central to take a train, for example. It is highly important that he be reached immediately to receive additional information or instructions. Perhaps a telegram has come in that renders his trip unnecessary. If it were not for this device this would be impossible. As it is, however, the firm calls up the information bureau. A moment later the mechanical announcers call out from one end of the station to the other. "Mr. Smith is wanted at the information bureau." "Mr. Smith" hears and heeds and hurries over. He is told to call up his office. He does so and the whole matter is arranged in no time. In the temporary station many persons are now being paged. In the new station it is expected that the number will be much greater. This is simply one of the conveniences the little details—whose sum total spells perfection.

"G. C. T."
It has taken several years to decide on the color of the uniforms that shall be worn by the employees in the new Grand Central terminal. The difficulty lay in getting a color of cloth that would look well and yet be conspicuous, yet not so striking as to subject its wearer to ridicule. Many kinds and shades were tried. Finally a bluish gray has been selected. The frock coat has a black collar and black lapels. On the lapels is the chief distinguishing mark, the letters "G. C. T." in gold thread in a medallion bordered in the same way. These initials, it has been found from many tests, meet the eye instantly. In future there can be no mistaking a hotel porter for a station employee if a man is not quite blind. The coats are made long so that in winter those employees who are exposed to the weather can wear a cardigan jacket underneath without spoiling the looks of the neatness of the uniform. The "red cap" porters will continue to wear their familiar head-dress, but they will be put in neat uniforms.

Station Men Are Schooled.
All the station men—the whole organization of the Grand Central terminal that comes in contact with the public—are being schooled and rehearsed in their duties every day, getting ready for the opening of the new station. Even the "red cap" men participate in the drills. New men are given a time table and a station schedule covering the tracks on which certain trains usually arrive. They study these things until they are able to answer instantly any question relating to the arrival and departure of regular trains. They are also instructed in their other duties, keeping the train platforms clear of trucks and making the passengers as comfortable as possible and so on. Incidentally they are required to know the city's streets and travel lines as thoroughly as an experienced policeman, so they can direct strangers quickly and accurately.

Direct Subway Connections.
The new station will have direct connection with the subway, so that the incoming or outgoing passenger need not go into the street at all. To get to the temporary terminal that the railroad has been using in the interval between the demolition of the old one and the finishing of the new they have had to traverse a crooked way, in that portion of it leading from Forty-second street to the entrance of the temporary station and waiting rooms a number of different kinds of pavement were installed a little more than a year ago in order to ascertain which would be the best to use in the most traveled passageways of the new terminal. They were in sections the full width of the walk. This stretch of sidewalk is trodden by more persons than any other bit of sidewalk in the world. It is calculated that more than 100,000,000 persons have walked over these sample pavements since they were put in place. The public has tested them and thus has made easy for the experts the work of selection.

Unusual Features.
There are so many new and convenient things in the new terminal that the list of them seems almost endless. From the moment it is opened in January next it will be one of the great show places of New York and one of the things in the city most worth seeing. One of its unique conveniences will be a large number of dressing rooms. If a man comes to the city for a brief stay, he can hire one of these rooms, take a bath, change his clothes, check his bag and go his way. When he is ready to depart he will not need to lose any time in getting to his train. Also there will be the finest restaurant in this terminal that is to be found in any railroad station in the world. It will be moderate in its charges, but in its appointments and details it will equal any of the most famous restaurants in New York or the capitals of Europe.

Hamilton's Pills Were Used

"I was never actually sick," writes Mrs. Norman La Pierre, wife of a well known resident of Leamington, "but I never could get strong like other women. I ate well enough, but somehow rich and red blood I could never make. When I married I took a great pride in my housekeeping, but I kept me tired all the time. My husband, my neighbor, looked well - she told me her health had been made up by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I only thought of pills as a physic, but now I know that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are more, for they quickened my stomach, liver and bowels - made me stouter and stronger, gave me such color in my cheeks, and I never had before. I sincerely believe Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used by every woman - that's why I write this letter."

ilton's Pills. 25c. per box, five for $1.

Go Ahead With Your Suit
City Solicitor Hall, with the authahead with issuing a writ against the city and they are prepared to accept service of the same. The writ, if it is served, will be in connection with the pumping unit at the Peter-

Englishman Held Up
Lindsay, Dec. 23.-As an Englishman was driving along the road at Mariposa on Saturday last, he was stopped by a farm hand who was carrying a shovel. The farmer, who has a particularly gruff voice hailed the son of Albin and asked for a drive. The cutter was stopped and the agriculturalist got a drive for several miles. The moment he jumped out, the Englishman, in great alarm, noticed the neighbors that he had been held up by a stranger armed with a shovel. No arrests followed.

Smith Township Not to Blame
At the meeting of Smith Township Council the clerk was instructed to write the Peterborough Water Commissioners concerning the open ditch they were constructing on the River Road, opposite the Power House, that in case of accident the Council would hold the city responsible for any damages sustained.
The Chairman of St. John's church, or to be strictly correct, "The People's Church," gave out merry peals last week. "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" was particularly well received.

Many Visitors for Christmas
This Christmas, more visitors than ever before in the city's history, at a similar season, have come here to see their Yuletide turkey and plum pudding. Every train arriving on Saturday was crowded, and in almost every case, from two to five extra cars were attached. It is estimated that on Saturday, over two thousand visitors arrived by C.P.R. and G.T.R.
The Grand Trunk trains from Belleville were densely crowded. On Monday and yesterday, whilst hardly so many arrived, a much larger percentage came to stay over Christmas.

Local Option Party at Court Appeal Fate 107 on lists and Antis Get 161.

Last night the Court of Appeal was in session from 8 o'clock until 9. The local option forces put no names on the voters' lists and the antis put 13 names on. Mr. D.
O'Connell thanked his honor for his kindness in holding a late session of the court to oblige the public, and for the impartiality he had naturally displayed. The speaker also referred to the great assistance rendered by City Clerk Armstrong. The total result of the Court of Appeal was as far as the local option section of the coming municipal elections is concerned, was, for local option 107, against local option 161.

FRED BUCK A BLACKGUARD BUT WAS NOT A BURGLAR

At yesterday's police court, Ald.
Gordon, acting for Fred Buck, charged with unlawfully breaking into the house on Romaine street, elected for summary trial, after pleading not guilty.

The complainant said that early in the morning of Dec. 13, she heard someone fumbling with the lock of the dining room door, from the exterior. She was in the house with several small children, who joined in a chorus of "Hello there!" She ran for help to the residence of her next door neighbor, Mr. Lyman, who arrived on the scene as quickly as suspenders could be pulled over his shoulders and feet shoved into shoes.
As she was waiting for Mr. Lyman to don his clothes, she heard footsteps, and going out, met a man running out to the street. She thought that man looked like Buck, the prisoner. Mr. Gordon showed how the dining room key had been lost and returned. Bernice Stelle, who is staying at Lyman's told her that Buck had been at her house in the night of the alleged attempted burglary.

Detective Newhall told of his investigation and discovery of footprints after being called to the house the morning after the incident. The footmarks conformed pretty much with the shape of the shoes worn by Buck, and the footprints on the side of the house along which the complainant claimed to have seen a man running.

He had learned by inquiry, that Fred Buck was known to the police department as Harold Wilson.
On the following Sunday afternoon
P.C. Brown brought Buck to the police station. He was searched, and letters were found upon him addressed to Harold Wilson and Frederick Buck. One of the two letters was born in two by Buck before the officer could prevent it. The prisoner then admitted having accompanied the girl, Bernice Stelle, to 517 Romaine street on the morning of Dec.

13. His explanation for running was that he was afraid he would get shot.

In summing up the case, Crown Attorney Wood, thought it was well established that Buck had been in the locality on the night in question.
Magistrate Dumble said it was undoubtedly proven that Buck was a Blackguard. The evidence, however, was not strong enough to justify him in finding him actually guilty of entering the house, although a very fair conclusion might be drawn. The prisoner was discharged.

ough 40 years ago. He was a Conservative and attended St. John's

Great Phosphate and Mica Mines The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

CAPITALIZATION $500,000. (No Personal Liability)

Divided into 500,000 shares, par value of $1 each; 400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

OFFICERS:

P. H. CHADOT, President, Ottawa. JEAN B. COUILLARD, Director, Ottawa.
A. CHARBONNEAU, Vice-President, Ottawa. H. GALLIEN, Director, Ottawa.
J. P. PRUD'HONNE, Sec.-Treasurer, Montreal.

PROPERTIES.

This Company owns 527 acres of rich Phosphate, Mica and Asbestos Mines in the Townships of Masham, Templeton and Portland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 40 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Porcupine Gold District.

As Phosphate and Mica Mining produces quicker and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining,
and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich Phosphate and Mica Mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY
REQUIRED.

The Mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication.
Labor and provisions are much less expensive than in Cobalt or Porcupine.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from Phosphate and Mica Mining.
Mining can be carried on all the year round.

A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHARE-
HOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE
THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a number of other mines to fall back upon.

The large acreage, the low capitalization, the large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious
and honest enterprise and administration.

BEAVERTON MAN FOUND DEAD

Had Spent Christmas Eve in Lindsay Hotels With Friends

Beaverton, Ont., Dec. 26.—A sensation was caused here yesterday by the finding of the body of a young man named Ernest Reddy in the yard of the Grand Trunk Railway Company. Reddy with a number of companions was in Lindsay the previous day, and returned here by the 2:37 train. He was helplessly intoxicated, and had to be helped from the train by the brakeman and a companion. This was the last seen of him until the hidden body was found lying on a bench of ice beside the water tank in the station yard. Dr. A. Grant, on viewing the body, which bore marks of violence, notified the coroner, Dr. J. McLean, of Orillia, who will open a jury Friday at 10 o'clock in Beaverton.

PETERBOROUGH'S GENTLEMEN

FRAICK'S ORCHESTRA

Youth and Beauty of Peterborough Enjoy Most Pleasant Evening at the Conservatory of Music Hall.

Last night the beautifully decorated and commodious hall of the Conservatory of Music resounded to the sweet strains of Fraick's fine orchestra, as the nearly two hundreds of Peterborough gentlemen and their invited guests, tripped it merrily over the well waxed floor. This was the 5th annual ball given by the gentlemen of Peterborough and proved a worthy sponsor to their former successful events. The ladies' costumes were entrancing and would have attracted favorable attention at any function, even in the largest cities. Merry ripples of laughter, half coquettishness during the dancing, roguish eyes, sparkling with the evening's enjoyment, challenged return glances from masculine eyes which in many cases divulged more confidence than those spoken. Christmas greetings and happy prophecies for what the New Year may bring; these were a few of the mundane and psychological aspect of the evening. At midnight a charmingly devised and daintily served supper, served as a pleasant diversion until Terebore should again be used.

The patronage of this successful ball was Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. E. R. Hall, Mrs. H. Nichols, Mrs. A. E. Conkhard, Mrs. J. A. Hamilton, and Mrs. S. D. Hall. The stewards were Messrs. K. G. Leach, W. F. McKnight, A. W. McPherson, A. T. McLean, N. H. Campbell, C. Leach and C. R. Cameron, secretary.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN/PANAMA KIOSK BLOWN UP JUST AS TAFT HAD PASSED

The Court of Appeal Added 263
Names to the List of Voters.

The Court of Appeal completed its work on Tuesday night. The names actually added were 262, of which 116 were put on by the Temperance people and 146 by the liquor interests. Of the latter a considerable number are pledged to vote against the open bar and a large majority of those who applied on their own account will vote for a "dry" city. It is a significant feature that the temperance forces will have a large majority of those added in all the wards except those affected by the bar-rooms and the brewery. Another fact of importance is that of the 146 names added by the advocates of an open bar only 24 are owners or tenants, while of the 116 added on the Local Option side over 100 are names of owners and tenants. This means that the home makers stand four to one in favor of Local Option and a clean city.

The Temperance forces are well pleased with the results and consider the prospects most encouraging.

LORD HARDINGE IS VERY MUCH BETTER

Delhi, Dec. 26.—Lord Hardinge's condition was considerably improved to-day there being no fever, and the pain was considerably relieved. The physicians said it would be fully three weeks before the Viceroy would be able to resume active direction of affairs as the result of the injuries he received at the hands of a bomb-throwing assassin Monday. The police, who have made many arrests, but have not obtained evidence that any of the suspects threw the bomb, say that Lord Hardinge's order that the Durbar procession proceed after the explosion gave the assassin opportunity to escape.

New York, Dec. 26.—A special cable from Panama says:

Fifteen minutes after President Taft had passed on his way to the ball in his honor last night at the National Theatre, a host near the station on Central avenue, the principal street of the town, was blown up with dynamite, while the street was still lined with police.

One man was badly injured. Several arrests were made. The Mayor and the Reception Committee hurried from the ball to the scene of the dynamiting.

8 Men Forestalled the Drought. At yesterday's police court, Robert Ryan, who it was alleged, created a disturbance round "Luna" bar on Simcoe street while containing the contents of a bottle he has brought the night before, was sentenced $2.75.

William Warburton had also realized the conditions due when the bottle was closed, and had laid away a bottle of hard stuff in his little locker. The hard stuff cost William $5.75 in addition to his original cost. Fred Johnston also bore witness that when the bottle was closed and a time his throat was to be closed, something must be done. Fred did it. He got a supply of booze and a $5.75 fine and costs.

SPLENDID XMAS SERVICE BY BELL TELEPHONE CO.

Prominent among the reasons for Peterborough's past and present fine Christmas conditions, is the splendid service rendered by the local Bell Telephone Co. The average man or woman, whom lighting the receiver from its hook, and holding it to his ears, asks for No. 12857, little reckons that possibly 11337 other people are doing the same at the same time round Christmas. The local office was a hive of industry during the past week or so. Anticipating, with their proverbial anxiety to give the best service, such an increased demand for calls, Mr. Cameron, the local manager, added to the present staff of "dialing" girls.

On Saturday the average telephone man would have little conception, that on that day over 15,000 calls were as promptly responded to as in the dog days of July or August. The "dialing" girls (and no disrespect is meant by the title) of Peterborough are deserving of the highest praise for their prompt, efficient and courteous service.

A Fair Proposition

The Buckhorn Bridge bungle is beginning to get on the people's nerves. The Examiner attacks me constantly as one of those to blame for not carrying out the alleged arrangement for relieving the county. All those on the present Government's side of the case affirm that if Hon. G. P. Graham would have acknowledged a legal OR MORAL liability, Mr. Cameron would have carried it out. I will pay $50.00 to any charity The Examiner may name if Hon. G. P. Graham will say that the late Government was legally or morally liable in this matter. This offer to remain open for two weeks. If the Examiner accepts, it is to say no, and in equal terms. This will close out the mud-slinging on both sides, I hope.

FIGHTING AGAIN IN PROGRESS IN AND AROUND JANINA CITY

Peace Envoys in London Taking Holiday, Awaiting Turkey's New Demands

Athens, Dec. 26.—Dispatches from the vicinity of Janina said that the Greeks and Turks again were engaged in battle. A severe sleet storm hampered both sides.

CHOLERA IS SPREADING.
St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—Cholera is spreading alarmingly among the Bulgarian troops in the Thracian plain, according to advices received here to-day. From Sofia it was learned that Czar Ferdinand had issued an order to the soldiers, admonishing them strictly to obey the sanitary regulations of the army.

TURKS WILL DEMAND MUCH.
London, Dec. 26.—The Turkish and Balkan peace delegates, who returned here over Christmas, were guests at holiday functions of various sorts to-day and war talk was tabooed, but there was, in diplomatic circles, much speculation as to the counter-proposals which the Turks will submit to the envoys of the allies when the negotiations are resumed Saturday.

Mixed Greek and Russian troops, the Turkish plenipotentiaries, refused not to know the character of the Turkish proposals, which in on its way from Constantinople. The Turkish Ministry, in session all day yesterday, agreed on a counter offer to be put up to the allies in the peace conference and dispatched it to London, where its arrival was eagerly awaited by interested watchers of the war game.

Diplomats to-day were not taking very seriously the anticipated Turkish demands. They assumed that the Porte's proposal would be for as much more than was hoped to realize, as was the territorial demand presented by the Balkan allies. Both sides were expected to demand everything in sight, so that they would have something left after the bargaining.

ADRIANOPLE THE DIFFICULTY.
London, Dec. 26.—The possession of the Turkish fortress of Adrianople which has been the principal bone of contention since the beginning of the war between Turkey and the Balkan allies, still remains at this moment the real stumbling block in the way of the attainment of peace. Compensation for Bulgaria, however, in some other part of European Turkey will probably in the end remove even this difficulty and enable her to consent to the retention by Turkey of the great fortress which the allied troops have been unable to subdue.

LEFT LUMBER CAMP WITH $300 MAN IS FOUND SLAIN IN SNOW

Marks of Terrible Struggle Show How Charles Elson Starting For Home in Sweden, Fought For Life Against Thugs

North Bay, Dec. 26.—On Christmas Eve in the great north woods a grim tragedy was uncovered, which has all the appearance of murder, terrible and sordid. Teamsters engaged in drawing supplies to construction camps of the Canadian Northern Railway from the main line of the C. P. R. at Chapleau found the body of a man in the snow-frozen stiff, all around were marks of a struggle in the snow, indicating that the man had fought for his life against odds until at last beaten down by force of superior numbers he had fallen and been left to die in the bitter cold of the northern winter. The body was brought to Chapleau where it was taken possession of by Dr. Sheehan, who found that the man had been battered and bruised to death. WAS SUB-CONTRACTOR.

Investigation to-day revealed the identity of the man as Charles Elson, a sub-contractor of Foley Bros., contractors on the Canadian Northern Railway's transcontinental line.

Elson left camp some days ago with three other men to walk twenty-five miles to Nemogon station on the C. P. R., where he intended to take a train for a visit to his old home in Stockholm, Sweden. Elson had over three hundred dollars on his person when he left camp headquarters, and this money is missing. Three men who left camp with him have disappeared and are being sought by the police, thus far without success. The tragedy has caused great excitement at Chapleau, where no doubt is taken possession of by Dr. Sheehan, who found that the man had been

London, Dec. 26.—King George, who is staying at his country house at Sandringham, was unable on account of a chill to attend church on Christmas day and was also prevented from being present at the Christmas dinner given by Queen Mother Alexandra.

It is officially stated to-day that his Majesty has quite recovered.

"The King had a slight chill yesterday, but is well again this morning," said Sir Frederick Foxmoss, private secretary to his Majesty.

Yesterday the name of the King did not appear in any of the court programmes as a participant in the Christmas festivities.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is to be hoped that the Hamilton man who has had pig's skin grafted on his body will not go around squealing about it.

To judge from that mob attack on the Bradford police station, Bradford, like Peterborough, is in pressing need of a stronger police force.

When the day of equal rights comes the women may have troupers if they want them, but we'll be damned if they will ever make us wear a corset and a pantie.

W. F. Maclean, M.P. for South York, wants a Canadian navy built and manned in Canada. That is a matter for after-consideration. A need exists which a Canadian built navy cannot supply.

Victoria, B.C. Daily Times has a cartoon depicting Borden as a weeping child left on the steps of a four-story apartment. But, gee! It's a big healthy child for all that, and most of such institutions use their infants carefully—at least in Canada.

A skull has been unearthed in Sussex, England, which the scientists say is some hundreds of thousands of years old and belonged to a type that was half way between man and ape. It is a female skull, with hardly any cavity for brains. Scientists are now at loggerheads whether it is the skull of the missing link or that of a prehistoric australopithecine.

The spectator, of Melbourne, Australia, thinks the Roman Catholics have too much their own way in Australia, as elsewhere. The editor says: "The latest move is the omission of the denominational return from the annual prison report. The R. C. figures are so condemnatory in the criminal statistics that now the authorities have been induced to drop them altogether." Rome never sheds the light.

The Catholic Register declares in virtuous tones that "The Catholic Church and Catholics themselves as such can be connected neither proximately nor remotely with any attempt to infringe the rights of any single non-Catholic citizen in Canada." And yet Roman Catholic priests have gone, and we presume are still going into Canadian homes and telling the Protestant wife that she is not really married to her Roman Catholic husband. Is that any infringement on that woman's rights? We think it is.

ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS

Laurier has announced his equal policy. He still clings to his idea of a Canadian navy, only, driven by the wave of patriotic enthusiasm with which the Premier's proposals of a week ago were received, he is prepared to build a Canadian navy on a broader basis. In office his Canadian navy was typified by the Rainbow and the Niobe—it was a joke navy. Now he wants two fleet units, one on the Atlantic and one on the Pacific coasts. Something he refused in 1909. He would devote $35,000,000 the Borden Government is prepared to vote for super-dreadnoughts to the building of these units. Although he couldn't do it as the price, Laurier is office and Laurier in opposition are two altogether different propositions and the country will be prepared rather to take Laurier by his actions than by his words.

NO PEACE PRIZE THIS YEAR

And there will be no Nobel prize awarded in this year of our Lord for great achievement in promoting the cause of peace.

Such an award would have possessed an element of grim humor in the light of the flaming battlefields and the waste of suffering and death that has followed in the wake of armies on almost every continent.

Yet who will say that in the long run, civilization has not been aided by the sword and bullet?

In Mexico the aftermath of the Mexican revolution has smouldered on, threatening to break again into open conflict.

In China the ancient Manchu dynasty, corrupt, debauched, senile, was swept, from the face of the Middle Kingdom and its surrounding provinces, and in torrents of blood and volucres of fierce outbreak of human passion the new Chinese Republic was born.

In Africa the Turk was driven by Italy from provinces conquered by the Sassanids nearly two thousand years ago, and the Cross has been lifted again predominant where it has existed only on sufferance since the Ninth Century.

In the Balkan peninsula the Christian Balkan allies, with a spirit of devotion and self-sacrifice that Europe has not seen since the days of Crusades, risked their national existence in defense of their subject fellow Christians in Macedonia and other parts of European Turkey—and regions that have been in slavery for five hundred years have at last been freed.

Who will say that civilization, such a civilization as we prize, has not been set upon a firm basis, put within reach of more of the sons of men, because the Chinese patriot rose against the Empire, because the Maderistas dared to take the fields against Porfirio Diaz, because Italy went to the aid of her merchants in Tripoli—because the leaders of the Balkan League put their armies over the border in the latest contest of the Cross and Crescent.

The smoke of battle drifts abroad across the world as the year draws to its end, and the Nations sit alert upon the streets of War—but so it has been in every epochal moment in human history.

There are some things that work well by.

There are some blessings that come from peace and quiet and placid uneventful years.

But the time has not yet come upon the earth when Liberty and Freedom may go unguarded and unsecured by the Man at Arms.

THE BUCKHORN BRIDGE

This matter has taken a new phase. The Examiner is now blaming the County Council for not having compensated to the late Government its resolutions accepting the bridge so gallantly taken over by Supt. McClellan and Mr. J. R. Stratton. This leaves the blame on the shoulders of Mr. E. M. Elliott, the man most people think deserves it the least. The Examiner's suggestion that Mr. Burnham intends to log the county the debt after all, is worthy of the Examiner. It shouldn't judge other people by itself. It is needless to say that there is not the faintest particle of truth in the statement. The attempt to saddle the blame on Mr. E. M. Elliott may relieve the Examiner. It is a relief, however, bought at the price of its own friends. How is that journal going to get over the statement made by Mr. Elliott after the deputations last interview with Mr. Cochran at Ottawa, viz. that the relief of the county drawn up for Hon. G. P. Graham to sign and agreed to by Mr. Cochran, was entirely satisfactory and worth going to Ottawa to get. Mr. Burnham drew it up. But—and here is the rub—Hon. G. P. Graham would sign nothing. He declined and still declines to back up the county's claim. Why? Because to do so would be an act of treachery to the people of this county who trusted him to administer their funds faithfully and honestly.

PETERBOROUGH GIRL ON LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

Extract Given From Letter Found on George Street, To Enable Him to be Claimed.

On Christmas eve, a Times reporter possibly feeling his foot grow warm, found he was standing on, and partly covering a letter accidentally dropped by some young lady living in the West Ward and written by another girl who resides evidently in the North Ward. The place of residence of the two parties interested is denoted by street, but, unfortunately not by their respective street numbers. Neither are the surnames given.

It may seem a darn mean thing to have read that letter, but as a small matter of business, not presented here was involved, a quotation from this letter, in which the writer tells her fair correspondent about the all-absorbing subject of her recent engagement, will enable the writer to identify and claim it. The writer says in part: "We kiss each other with a sort of secret rapture, and touch hands beneath a tablecloth. In order to remind each other of a dear secret shared (as we believe) far beyond due comprehension by all the stupid elderly people who surround us. We shall set the world revolving round two central figures and make it buzz withal. We cover paper with caressing words and think such thoughts—so strong, so sweet to glutinously amorous. We dream such dreams and plan such lives and are dazed by the light of the moon which we hold within the grasp of our hands. And we may never have all this again."

Should either the writer or the recipient of this letter call at the office it will be returned. We are somewhat timid on the matter of spontaneous combustion.

MEN WHO DON'T EXERCISE

SUFFER FROM INDIGESTION, HEADACHES, POOR APETITE, SLEEPLESSNESS.

Nothing so sure to "Get Up" a Man Make Him Fall Back and Vigorous, as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Lack of exercise and overwork were the causes that combined to almost kill Samuel S. Stephens, Jr., one of the best known citizens of Woodstock.

In his convincing letter, Mr. Stephens says:

"A year ago I returned home after a long trip, completely worn out. I was so badly affected by chronic biliousness, so much overcome by constant headaches, dizziness, that I despaired of ever getting well."

"It was a blessing that I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In one week I felt like a new man. The feeling of weight and nausea in my stomach disappeared. My eyes looked brighter, color grew better, and, best of all, I began to enjoy my meals. The sluggish, languor and feeling of depression passed away, and I felt regained my old-time vigor and spirits. To-day I am well—thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

For health, strength, comfort and good spirits, there is no medicine like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from The Catarthorpe Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

UNWRITTEN LAW FREES WOMAN

Judge Blames Her Husband for Loving the Other Woman

SHOT WAS JUSTIFIED

Mrs. Bloch Acquitted of Killing Mrs. Bridgman, Who Stole Her Husband.

Paris, Dec. 26.—Mrs. Bloch, the rich woman who shot and killed Mrs. Bridgman, an American, in the latter's apartment several months ago because she thought Mrs. Bridgman had stolen the love of M. Bloch, this afternoon was acquitted of the charge of murder. The trial began this morning. The defense was the unwritten law.

"Mrs. Bridgman betrayed me and robbed me both of my husband and my home. So I killed her." This was the defense set up by Mrs. Bloch.

Several dramatic incidents marked the trial today. At one moment the president of the court, Judge Bertin, denounced Mrs. Bloch's husband, saying: "Your conduct in this affair is unpardonable."

Mrs. Bloch was a striking figure dressed in black, and her black eyes and black hair added to the drama.

She was accompanied by the sergeant, M. Dugue, who was the "suspicious" figure in the Bloch case when he assisted Mrs. Bridgman in court, and was at that time characterized by some of the newspapers as "the layman chaplain."

Mme. Bloch, weeping, told the story of the shooting of Mrs. Bridgman, explaining that she had been driven to despair and had avenged her love and the honor of her home.

The judge cautioned the accused that this hardly constituted a sufficient defense for homicide, remarking that he understood the anger aroused in the accused, but that he withheld to express the opinion that, as far as his years and observation went, he felt confident the wound caused by jealousy always heals. The magistrate continued:

"The real traitor and the real felon was your husband. Yet you gave him all your confidence while you killed the woman who was but his instrument."

M. Bloch on the witness stand admitted that he was culpable. As he left the stand he was heard from the crowd in the court room, among whom were many American and French society people.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

THE CALL OF THE BLOOD

Oh, men of the valiant Gaelic race,
Oh, men of the English free,
Who've won by your hands the uttermost lands,
And the gates of the pathless sea.

And whether ye live in the northern clime,
Or under the summer sky,
What would ye not dare for that land over there
When troublous times are nigh?

And now, when the mother of all our calls
Her children to stand by her side,
Who've nursed at her breast, been guarded, caressed,
The sons of her night and pride.

What world will ye send their waiting now,
To hear what your love will do?
It is, as you know, but the debt that you owe Yourself and the Empire too.

All, all that we have, at the call of the blood
That stirs in the heart of men,
We'll never stand back, when the old Union Jack Shall summon us forth again.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS

Are becoming more popular every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway system to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train on excursions. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the everyday grind, the monotony of strenuous life to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides it pays. Round trip tourist tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway system at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between these cities, carrying through sleeping and electric lighted Pullman dining cars, via the only double track line making connections at these cities with through trains for the south, etc. A specially equipped party with leave Toronto by special train at 1 p.m. January 6th, via Detroit, for Palm Beach, Florida, and, say, one desiring to go should make berth reservations early at any Grand Trunk Ticket Office, or write A. CASTER TALKS HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Address East City Audience
Last Night

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

Of Both Generating and Distributing Plants Proposed—Charges For Light and Power to Be Made for This. Peterborough a Favored City.

Mr. J. H. Caster, Assistant Engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, addressed East City audience in the old village hall last night in regard to the by-law now before the people to borrow $120,000 for the acquisition of a hydro-electric distributing plant.

This meeting was merely a preliminary to the one to be held in the Opera House on January 2nd, but Mr. Caster proved a very lucid and interesting speaker, and his audience left with a clear idea as to what the city will get in hydro-electric.

The Hydro-Electric Commission, he said, simply act as consulting engineers for any municipality, for which they will appraise the available power and estimate on the cost of its being generated and transmitted to consumers. For Western towns the Commission buys power from the Ontario Power Co. at Niagara Falls, which power they transmit to municipal substations for distribution to consumers. In Peterborough the Commission proposes to acquire a generating plant, either by purchase or development, and sell that power to the city for distribution to the city to consumers. The by-law before the people is to raise $120,000 for the acquisition of a municipal distributing plant only. The price paid by the consumer for either power or light will take care of interest and sinking fund for the municipal distributing plant and the Commission's generating plant and for upkeep and operation of both plants.
At the expiration of 30 or 35 years as the case may be, the generating and the distributing plants will both become absolutely the municipal property, free of all incumbrances.
Under the Commission's supervision the maintenance of the plants is so thorough that they are practically new when the debenture indebtedness is retired. Mr. Caster very emphatically declared that Hydro-Electric will not add one cent to the tax bills; its cost of operation and maintenance and ultimate payment for will all come out of the charges for the service. Hydro-Electric will cost the non-consumer nothing either directly or indirectly.

The speaker strongly emphasized Peterborough's advantage over western towns. For instance, the city is paying $37 and Clinton $30 p.p.h. as against the Commission's guarantee that Peterborough city's power shall not exceed $17. No town in Ontario can get its power as cheap or cheaper than Peterborough.

Touching upon the completion of private companies with Hydro-Electric, Mr. Caster asked his audience to remember that while private companies may sell power as cheap as Hydro-Electric, dealing with the latter means that at the expiration of 30 years the property belongs to the people, whereas the company's charges do not include the subsequent purchase of their plants.

The speaker here issued a note warning in the statement that no surplus from Hydro-Electric can be devoted to any other purpose than that of Hydro-Electric, thus providing that should the estimate for power subsequently prove higher than actual cost, the unlooked for profits shall either apply to the purchase of the system or be returned to the consumer in reduced rates.

The Hydro-Electric Commission,
Mr. Caster stated, sells consumers lamps and supplies, 25 and 40 watt Tungsten lamps they sell at 32c each as against the dealer's price of 50c, thus saving prices in two, and this principle applies to all kinds of supplies.

DELEGATES WHO ARE ASSEMBLED AT THE PEACE CONFERENCE IN LONDON.

Upon these representatives of Turkey and the Balkan States depend not only the settlement of the present war, but the possibility of a conflict that may involve many other nations. Peace seems certain, for the delegates assembled in London are most anxious to settle the Balkan question. A disagreement, however, would mean the continuation of the present war and the possible intervention of the great Powers.

MASS MEETING SUNDAY AFTERNOON AT 3.30

The public are respectfully requested to note that Sunday afternoon the mass meeting in the Opera House in the interests of local option will be held at 3.30 and not 4.15 as the two preceding Sundays.

At this meeting four local commercial travellers will speak, and Police Magistrate Clark of Orillia will address the meeting. Evening meeting at 8.15, when Messrs. Alex. Chisholm and W. P. Fagan, of West Toronto, will describe the work of local option there. There will also be a solo by Mr. Ann Haycke, and other attractive music.

JOE MARKS AT GRAND

Last night the Grand Opera House was crowded to its fullest capacity, when the Joe Marks Company presented "The Suffragette." The audience was, according to the particular part of this thrilling and comical drama, either in tears or convulsed in laughter. The specialties were of a high order. This afternoon there will be a special matinee at 2.30 at which "The Suffragette" will be presented. The play for to-night will be a pleasing and rural comedy drama, entitled, "The Country Girl." This company, through the foresight of Messrs. Turner & Sons, who know a good charming card, has been retained at the Opera House for the first three nights of next week, with entire change of program. On Monday night the play will be "The Wolf and the Lamb."

In conclusion the visitor said that each branch of the Hydro-Electric service must pay for itself; it is absolutely square, and does not permit of reducing prices on house-lighting and making good in charges for street lighting; or selling power at a loss to factories and evening up in some other branch of the system. In fact, it does not permit of "Robbing Peter to pay Paul."

His Worship Mayor Bradburn presided at the proceedings; there were also present City Clerk Armstrong, Aldermen Johnston, Morgan and Anderson. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Caster for his able presentation of the case.

UNION BANK HAS HAD MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

In common with other banks issuing reports for the 1912 business, the Union Bank of Canada presents a very strong and satisfactory report, in fact, the showing made by the bank is the best in its history. The net profits for the year ended the 30th November, 1912, amounted to over $700,000, or $44,000 more than the previous year. The bank made gains in every department of its activities. Its paid-up capital was increased to $5,000,000, its reserves to $3,300,000, its deposits now total over $55,643,000, as compared with $45,200,000 last year, its current loans gained by $7,000,000, and are now over $45,000,000, while its total assets gained by $11,000,000 and now stand at $69,400,000.

A notable feature of the bank's report is the amount of gold, silver, Dominion notes and other quickly available assets, which bear a very high ratio to the liabilities to the public. As a matter of fact, the showing made by the Bank must be regarded as most satisfactory to the management, and is evidence that the move to the Western metropolis was an advantageous one from the bank's standpoint.

SIR JAMES REFUSES TO AMEND BILINGUAL LEGISLATION AS YET

But Promises Fair Play in Amending The Law—Premier Assures Delegation That Government Will Be Just to French

Toronto, Dec. 27.—Representing some half hundred French-Canadian school sections of Ontario, with credentials and instructions from 114 more, a formidable delegation waited upon the Premier and the Minister of Education for Ontario in the reception room of the new wing of the Parliament Buildings this morning. The Department of Education was represented by Dr. Fyde and Deputy Minister Cullen-house, and was reinforced by Attorney-General Hon. J. J. Foy, Dr.
Reaume and the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Mr. Duff. The fighting was done by Sir James Whitney in person.

The strength of the delegation was supplied to a large extent by the city of Ottawa, Mr. Samuel M. (Jesse) reading the memorial and leading the discussion on behalf of the French Catholics, and Dr.
Freeland, of Ottawa, on behalf of the Irish.

The Point in Dispute.

The chief point at issue was section 17, of the School Act, which provides for a lesser degree of French than was the case a year ago and also makes changes in the matter of inspection.

Mr. James Whitney said: "The law was all right if administered in the proper spirit. To the charge that he was attempting to Anglicize the French people of Ontario Sir James said: "I do not attach enough respect to that statement to deny it."

Incidentally Sir James paid several slanting compliments to newspapers and others who in agitating this question were, he said, fawning racial and religious strife.

Sir James finally said he would consider all they had to say at leisure if they would present their case in writing.

Mr. James Whitney in reply said in part: "We will take into into careful consideration all you've said. In this world we've got to give and take. Plain speaking is always best, and we have spoken plainly this morning. The Government wants to do what is right, and will do so as far as it understands the right. I wish you all a happy New Year."

HOW WILL LOCAL OPTION AFFECT THE HOTEL ACCOMMODATION?

When Local Option carries in Peterborough will it affect hotel accommodation? Yes, it will, but for the better. In considering this question it is necessary to bear in mind that a bar room is not a hotel. It is not even a necessary part of the accommodation of a hotel. When one comes to think seriously of this matter it is impossible to find any good reason why a bar room should be in a hotel any more than in a boarding house or a dry goods store. What then is the effect of closing the hotel bar. In such towns as Owen Sound (last), Bowmanville, Midland, and Orillia, where there have been no bar rooms for some years it is now the universal testimony of the travelling public that the accommodation has improved. The proprietors are now giving their attention to the legiti-mate business of keeping both hotel and boarding house comfortable and more respectable.

What About Mats.

Within the past three years hotel rates in Peterborough have increased by about 50 per cent. Had local option gone into operation then, it would have been blamed for this increase. It didn't go into effect there but the increase in rates has taken place just the same. In none of the towns where the hotels are without bars has there been a greater increase in hotel rates than in Peterborough where we still have the bars.

Forty-seven "dry" towns and villages in Ontario were asked recently "Have you good hotel accommodation?" To this 41 Mayors and Reeves answered "Yes," four "No," and two "Fair." In sixteen of the first it is better than under license, and some of those who answered "No," said that it is better than it was under license. One experienced traveller, Mr. C. J. Pascoe, says, "The hotel accommodation in local option towns is from 25 to 30 per cent. better now than it was under the old system. As soon as local option gets into operation one notices directly the absence of the rough element caused by drunkenness in the hotel. There is absolutely no question about this."

On Sunday afternoon in the Peterborough Opera House, at half past three, several commercial travellers will tell the people of Peterborough the facts about the hotels in Local Option towns, and the rates they charge. The fact is Peterborough has nothing to fear on the score of hotel accommodation from the passing of the local option by-law.

LOCAL OPTION MEETINGS

Change of Time

THE LOCAL OPTION MEETING in the Opera House on SUNDAY AFTERNOON NEXT, will be held at 3.30 instead of at 4.15. A special feature of Next Sunday's meeting will be testimony by commercial travellers. Several will speak. Besides this the afternoon meeting will be addressed by POLICE MAGISTRATE CLARK, of Orillia.

At the evening meeting Messrs. ALEX. CHIS-HOLM and W. P. FAGAN, of West Toronto, will describe the working of Local Option there.

Attractive music will be provided.

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

OWING to the fact that so many new industries are locating around Ruskin Place, an interesting calculation has been made of what an industry employing 1,000 hands means to a community. $90,000 would be spent in housing accommodation.

The population would increase by 5,000. The assessment would be augmented by $800,000. Salaries would amount to $450,000. The construction of buildings of all kinds would be $3,000,000. The annual expenditures for foodstuffs would be $63,000 for meat, $66,000 for potatoes, $4,000 for sugar, $18,300 for milk, $45,700 for butter, $37,000 for grain. All told the farmers of the district would gain $231,000. The amount spent for clothing would be $167,750. The expenses for taxes added to the cost of building construction will amount to $3,420,350.

The fine new $40,000 plant of the Midway Milk Co., is now built at Ruskin Place. A crowd of 200 hands at its inception has already purchased the required land while a third guaranteeing to employ 1,000 hands is now negotiating for enough land to commence operations.

JUST THINK what the above means—practically a small city in itself right on the edge of the Capital.

JUST THINK of the number of stores to be built there.

JUST THINK of the number of carpenters, tailors, shoemakers and other tradesmen altogether separate from the number of employees in the different factories that will be needed to build homes for those who work there.

JUST THINK of the thousands and one hundred jobs of any and every kind that will spring up at Ruskin Place during the next few years and try your humble nose to see to be one of the men for who get in on the ground floor.

RUSKIN PLACE offers one of the finest and best opportunities for speculation ever presented to the residents of Peterborough.

A JAMESON RAIDER

Respectable Career of a Canadian, the Late F. R. Langham

Frederick R. Langham, who died in Belleville, was born there sixty years ago. He was a son of John Langham, lumberman and cattle-raiser, in whose steps he followed. He was an expert forest ranger and land valuer. While still a young man he engaged in the cattle trade, shipping extensively from Chicago and New York to Liverpool for the British market. He was manager for three years of the Powder River Cattle Company of Superior, Wis. He chartered steamship lines and was known as cattle king of this continent. The slaughter in Montreal was a result of his genius for speculation and enterprise. This was about thirty years ago. He later traveled to Egypt and settled an estate in India for a Maharajah. On his return he stopped at Delagoa Bay in Portuguese East Africa, which gave him the impulse to enter lumbering. The outcome was an English syndicate known as the Langham Lumber Company of Delagoa Bay. British Columbia forests furnished timber at the time of the Jameson raid. Mr. Langham was a member of the Ulster Association founded in Johannesburg, and was imprisoned along with others in Pretoria by President Paul Kruger. For a time their lives were in danger, but owing to the intervention of the British Government the captives were released after two months by payment of two thousand pounds each. During the British-Boer war Mr. Langham's company turned down fabulous offers from the Boers for lumber. He had the best four mills in Africa constructed for grinding Egyptian and, later, Canadian wheat. He was also interested in Uganda. He returned to Canada on account of ill-health, caused by fifteen years' residence in Africa, and sold out his interests in Uganda. In Belleville, in association with his wife, he founded St. Agnes School as a residential school for girls in 1903, under the patronage of the Bishop of Ontario.

FRENCH TRADE POLICY

Agriculture Developed When Its Products Were Protected

From the time of Napoleon down to about 1885 the trade policy of France fluctuated greatly. At times it was strongly protectionist, while at other times it seemed to be under the influence of the free trade movement. In 1885 a general French tariff took effect, which while raising raw materials, and taxing half-manufactured articles moderately, increased the duties on live stock, fresh meats, and other agricultural products. Even yet manufacturers were not protected to any extent. The agricultural depression about that time led to the Acts of 1888 and 1887, in which much higher duties were imposed on wheat, flour, rye, barley, oats, cattle, sheep, pigs and fresh meat. The aim of the government was to preserve for the French peasant his large and profitable home market, free from the inroads of Germany and other products. In 1888 further protection was extended to agricultural products. The protection and encouragement given to the French farmers not only directly benefited the peasantry but greatly aided to the wealth of the nation. Nearly every foot of soil in France was well cultivated in France. Many people have been kept on the soil, thus preventing the overcrowding of cities and the struggle for places among laborers in industrial centres, which would have occurred had France pursued the English policy of opening her ports to the free admission of farm products of other countries, and refused and impoverished her agriculturalists. Instead of that, her rural population was given an opportunity to produce and sell in French markets vegetables, poultry, dairy products and everything which could be produced by French farmers. The steady development of agriculture which immediately followed protection to agriculture has been most fully vindicated.

LESSON THE LAWYER

The Daring Act of a Woman Found Guilty of Murder

After sentence of twenty years' hard labor had been passed on an elderly widow for the murder of a relative, an unprecedented scene was witnessed in the Montreal Assize Court. The woman had no sooner heard of her doom than she drew a large oval of her dress and flung it with such unerring aim in the direction of a barrister acting for the family of the murdered man, that the scowls enfolded his neck and as he lightened it he was pulled to the floor. Had not several of his colleagues and the gendarmes in the hall hastened to the rescue, the unfortunate man would have been trampled outright. As for the excited and less skillful widow, a tremendous struggle ensued before she could be mastered.

A fine specimen of silver fox was shot and killed while attempting to make its way across the Detroit River on the ice. It is thought that the fox had come to the river to drink and had been carried over from the shore by the moving ice-field.

Shot a Bear

While out shooting in North Bay, Ont., in the neighborhood of Amherst, Ontario, Mr. A. W. Fisher shot a black bear after a short chase. The bear was of a good size, hitting the chest over 150 pounds and was the first that had been shot in the vicinity for several years.

THE PRINCE OF WALES

Sketch of Edward, Who is an Excellent Type of the English Boy

The Prince of Wales, formally invested at Carnarvon Castle, was born at White Lodge, Richmond Park, in 1894, his Royal Highness was baptised there some three weeks later as Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, thus combining the names of his father, his grandfather, and his great-grandfather with those of the patron saints of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. In April, 1907, he passed the qualifying examination for the Royal Navy, and on May in that year he entered Osborne College. He completed his course of instruction there in April, 1909, and in the following month entered Dartmouth College. On the occasion of his father, King George, to the throne on May 1st last year, the young Prince succeeded to the Dukedom of Cornwall and to the Scottish title of Duke of Rothesay. Part of the Carriac, Harpe of Rothesay, Lord of the Isles, and Great Steward of Scotland and on June 13rd he was created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester. On the following day he and his brother, Prince Albert, were confirmed in the private chapel of Windsor Castle by the Archbishop of Canterbury among the assisting clergy being the Rev. H. D. Wright, by whom the young prince had been prepared for the ceremony. The investiture of the Prince as a Knight of the Garter will be fresh in public recollection, and only recently his Royal Highness has been rated a Mideiphian in his Majesty's fleet with courtesy from the day of the Coronation when, in the ancient Abbey of Westminster, he had the line of illustrious men and bearers of honored names and ancient titles who did homage to a newly-crowned Sovereign, and when he swore to be his father's "liege man of life and limb, and of his crown and sceptre." These are the leading events up to the present time in a life which has so far necessarily been one of preparation for the great career which lies before the Prince of Wales as heir to the throne. Of his home life it need only be said that, under the care of a devoted mother, he has received an excellent example of the best type of English boy—earnest and enthusiastic in the performance of all the duties devolving upon him.

ZIONISTS ACTIVE

The Federation Has Announced From Its Drowsiness and Has Taken On Vigor

The English Zionist Federation, which has been very conspicuous of late, has awakened from its sleep and has just held a conference at Manchester. The Federation, which by the successive successes of the two contending parties broke up about a year ago, is, it is understood, about to be revived, or rather reinvigorated. At the conference at Manchester the Young Zionist Party, which has never been in full sympathy with the policy of the Federation, although it accepted representation on its council for a short time, was well represented, and from now on the movement in England will be completely reorganized and will pass virtually under the control of the Young Zionist Party, the English Universities' elements in the movement. As this party is rather severely critical of the policy pursued from the headquarters at Cologne, English Zionism is again likely to make itself heard in the movement, as it has been heard in the past. In the arrangements for the renewed organization no room seems to be provided for the great protagonists and mutual critics of English Zionism in the past, and presumably therefore, the leaders, Dr. Gaster, Messrs. Greenberg, Cowen, and Herbert Bellinck, of the movement will remain in their present retirement. Mr. Herbert Bellinck, however, is still at the head of his independent Zionist or Jewish study organization, the Ancient Order of Macabreans, but so far as the public is concerned this also remains quite quiescent.

A Recalcitrant Monk Pours His Wrath on the Government

The recalcitrant monk, Ildefonso, has left his monastic stronghold to visit his bishop, but is resolved to return to the cloister of the church in Ibarra, Ecuador, where thousands of devoted Christians await him. Addressing the people at the railway station, he inveighed violently against the central government, which, when he was a novice, he said, "gave it a shove." "If the authorities continue to deal with the masses we shall have a repetition of all the miseries and horrors we recently endured, and the Revolutionists will swallow up the Government." The Press complains of the decay of the central power, which is unable to deal with a single monarch, against whom it has dispatched one provincial governor, one vice-governor, one vice-director of the police department from St. Petersburg, one police prefect, and two archbishops.

ROBBED OF THEIR SAVINGS

A Confidence Trick Which Was Worked on Two Frenchmen

By means of a confidence trick, two Frenchmen, brothers, have been robbed of all their savings. Three years ago they went to New York, where they accumulated a small fortune, amounting to about $2,000. They returned to Paris, intending to establish themselves in that city. Two intermediaries offered their services, explaining that they knew of a particularly good business in which to invest the money. The two brothers drew their funds out of the bank, and were walking in the boulevards with the supposed agents, when one of these asked to be allowed to carry the bag containing the money. The bag changed hands, and in a few moments the two rogues had slipped away in the crowd, and the brothers were left without a cent.

Withdrew Laborer's Great Fund

A fund of a most unusual kind was withdrawn for a wager recently by a laborer, England.

A four-year-old man and a six-year-old boy, weighing fifty three pounds each, were taken by John McLean, a man from London (wrote) to John (O'Brien), a doctor from the same town, and back, in five and a half hours.

The time stipulated was eight hours and the wager was won by the boy, who was in very comfortable shape.

DEATH MADE BEAUTIFUL

George V. Perkins, the corporation expert, began life as an insurance agent. So good was he at the game that one of his friends described him in these words:

"George would convince you that the grave was the biggest financial institution, the biggest dividend-payer, and the biggest gold-mine in the world. He can build up in your mind the idea that each day you spent on earth was time thrown away. He would convince you that the only real test for you to perform was to die, be buried, and leave your wife and children to roll up dividends in wealth that he and his company kept waiting

D. H. KERNEGHAN MAY NOT BE ELIGIBLE FOR NOMINATION

Is Bondsman For Garbage Collector Downer, and Must be Released Before Being Nominated—Has Till 9.30 This Morning To Produce Another Surety to Take His Place

Unless Mr. Ald. D. H. Kerneghan can secure someone to take his place as one of the bondsmen for Downer, the garbage collector, before nominations open to-day, he will not be eligible for nomination as Alderman. The law does not permit a bondsman for any city contractor to officiate to take a seat on the Council Board. Hence, Mr. Alderman Kerneghan had consented to accept nomination in Ward Four, as though he would be forced by unforeseen circumstances to refuse to concede to the wishes of many friends and contest the Aldermanic seat vacated by Alderman Graham on January 6th.

A meeting of the City Fathers was called for Saturday evening to release Alderman Kerneghan from his $1000 bond, executed jointly with Mr. Wm. Kamp, as surety that the garbage collector would properly fulfill his contract with the City, and to name another bondsman in Mr. Kerneghan's place, acceptable to both the city and Mr. Kamp. Such bondsman, however, must hold property in his own name to be valid; hence the difficulty in his case. One citizen who had consented to relieve Mr. Kerneghan of his bond, repeated at the eleventh hour, and when Council met at eight o'clock no other substitute was forthcoming except one whose property is registered in his wife's name. He, of course, was not acceptable to Council, who, however, consented to meet this morning at 9.30 and pass the by-law releasing Mr. Kerneghan and naming his successor, should a properly qualified one have been by that hour secured by the person most interested. Mr. Ald. D. H. Kerneghan himself. Failing this, no other course is open to Council but that of holding Mr. Kerneghan to his bond, and thus regretfully blocking his nomination.

of a contract with W. H. and George Maharry for supplying the city with 300 cords of field stone at $2.55 per cord, delivered at the corporation yard, passed its readings.

No Rebate on License.

Mr. Snelgrove wanted a rebate of $20 off his billiard license fee of $80. Mr. Snelgrove retired from his business on George street some three months ago, and thinks he is entitled to consideration for the three months the tables for which he took out a yearly license have not been in commission. He intends opening up the business again with the New Year. Council did not feel justified in granting the rebate asked for. They agreed, however, that if Mr. Snelgrove takes out a billiard room license for 1913, the new council might consider it to be applied to the new license.

The City Fathers present were His Worship Mayor Bradburn, Aldermen Anderson, Gillespie, Graham, Johnston, Duffus, Ballar, Duncan, Morgan Brown and Gordon.

POLICE MAGISTRATE CLARKE SPEAKS FOR LOCAL OPTION

Quotes Statistics and Advises That Temptation be Taken From Immigrants to Canada

Yesterday afternoon the Opera House was well filled by an audience who came to hear arguments in favor of Local Option. The chair was occupied by Mr. G. A. Gillespie, who opened the meeting by calling on Mr. Green to lead the singing.

The Chairman said short addresses would be given by some commercial travellers. Mr. Walker said every class and creed is in favor of Local Option. He is glad to tell any hotelman he is in favor of Local Option. A majority of the travellers are in favor of Local Option. On an average the hotels are better under local option. The charges however are higher. It costs more for accommodation now in the hotels than it does under Local Option. Travellers, as a rule, are men, and men are willing to pay. Why do the liquor manufacturers spend money to defeat Local Option? They want to increase their output. Business has increased under Local Option. The speaker then advertised several hotels in local option towns. When there is a demand for accommodation, hotels will be opened.

Mr. Jan. McGill said that in his travels he has found no complaint against Local Option hotels. When he was in Midland last he had a long talk with the proprietor of the Queen's Hotel. The latter said he kept no bar and sold no liquor. He had no trouble with drunkards around the house. That hotel pays an eight per cent dividend.

Mr. Stewart said in regard to local option, the hotel without the bar suits him. He does not like to go into a hotel and find men lying about the halls and floors drunk. Any hotel charging $2 a day should make money. The hotelmen do not have to increase their output. Business has in-

THE COUNCIL OF SMITH

Possible Candidates for Municipal Honors in That Fine Agricultural Township.

There are likely to be two or three new candidates for next year's council in the township of Smith. The present council consists of Messrs. J. H. Garbutt, reeve; P. McKee, deputy reeve; J. Cam, W. Davis and E. Telford. Among the more prominent possible candidates for municipal honors in that township are Messrs. Sam McKibbin and James Fowler, both good men and Mr. Andrew Jobe, the popular Bridgenorth Postmaster. Mr. Jobe has already served two terms in the council with credit to himself and beneficially to the township. It is probable that Mr. Garbutt will be re-elected by acclamation.

PUBLIC MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

A public meeting called by the Mayor, will be held in the City Council Chamber to-night at 8 o'clock in regard to the by-law to be voted upon on January 6th, to secure the new industry of Henry Hope & Sons. All are requested to attend.

NO ELECTION ON NAVAL BILL LIBERALS LEAVE GRANT ALONE

Members of Parliament Anxious to Pass Bill and Get to Financial and Transportation Problems—Keen Interest Throughout Country in Banking and Currency Question

OTTAWA, DECEMBER 29.—With practically all the members of Parliament home for the Christmas holidays it is difficult to size up with certainty the political situation, but the impression here certainly is that there will not be an election upon the naval issue. With the Government proposing a permanent policy of contribution the Liberals would have excellent fighting ground upon an appeal to the country. As it is, the Government, by forshadowing its permanent policy may completely take the wind out of the sails of the Laurier amendment and the Liberal programme generally. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was careful in proposing his amendment to leave unaffected that action of the naval bill which places $35,000,000 at the disposal of the government for the purpose of strengthening the naval forces of the Empire. He endeavored, however, to tack on to this proposal a permanent plan of naval defence which would involve the construction of ships in Canada and their manning and maintenance by the Dominion. Now, while the present Government is pledged to submit its permanent policy to the electors before putting it into effect, there is nothing to prevent Mr. Borden stating in substance what that policy will be and it may easily turn out that the two parties are not widely separated on the subject of a permanent policy.

At any rate the situation viewed by a prominent member of the opposition who held an important portfolio under the late Government is that upon a sudden appeal to the country the elector would only consider the proposed gift of Dreadnoughts to the Mother Country and sustain the action of the Government in that regard.

BIG QUESTIONS UNSOLVED

Another consideration which may expedite the passage of the naval bill is the unmistakable desire of many members of Parliament to deal with the financial and transportation questions. When Mr. White introduced his bill to revise the Bank Act it was evident from the questions that rained in upon him from all sides that there is a keen interest throughout the country in the banking and currency question. Ordinarily when a bill is read the first time members listen with interest but in silence to the explanation of its terms by the minister presenting same. This was not the case, however, when the bill to revise the bank charter came before the House for a first reading. Members interrupted the minister's statement, eager to put some question as to some particular section or to ask about the general policy of the Government.

STEAMER WRECKED IN GALE FIFTEEN OF CREW DROWNED

Danish Steamer Swamped in English Channel—Captain and Another Survivor Picked Up Exhausted

Penzance, Eng., Dec. 28.—Fifteen of the crew of the Danish steamer Volmer were drowned when she was wrecked on Thursday in the great gale which has been raging in the English Channel.

The Captain of the Volmer and other survivors were picked up in a state of collapse in an open boat to-day 50 miles to the southwest of the Lizard and landed at Netley by a trawler this afternoon.

The crew abandoned the sinking steamer on Thursday. One of the boats with nine occupants was immediately swamped by the heavy seas, and six more men were washed out of the second boat, commanded by the captain. All of them were drowned.

The two survivors were dashed about for two days before being sighted by the trawler that rescued them.

WHO WILL BE NOMINATED TO-DAY?

NAMES OF CANDIDATES WHO HAVE AGREED TO NOMINATION—WHERE NOMINATION WILL TAKE PLACE.

As in past years, quite a few citizens will, probably be nominated to-day to contest the several public offices in the electors' giving, a percentage of whom will decline to qualify. Aldermen Graham and Brown are both retiring for reasons best known to themselves. Ex-Alderman McIntyre authorizes The Times to state that he positively will not accept nomination.

In East City Ald. Morgan will remain in the field, and will, it is said, unquestionably be opposed by Mr. Malcolm McIntyre. Alderman Morgan has been a consistent advocate for East City's interests.

In the West Ward Mr. G. Walter Green has consented to nomination for Alderman, and will probably find an opponent in Mr. Geo. Lander.

In the Centre Ward Ald. Gordon is a candidate for re-election. He has only had one year, during which his energetic services have been of much value to the Council.

In the South Ward, Ald. Duncan is open for nomination, and enjoys strong support. He is a valued and capable Alderman, of several years' experience.

In the North Ward, ex-Ald. Kerneghan will contest Ald. Graham's seat if he can find someone to replace him as bondsman for Mr. Downer. Messrs. Wm. Langford, Jr., and R. J. Kidd are also both slated as willing candidates for Aldermanic honors.

All the retiring School Trustees will probably accept nomination, as also will Mr. W. H. Moore for Water Commissioner. Mr. J. J. Turner Jr. is named as willing to run for School Trustee.

Nominating Phases.

Nominations for Mayor, Water Commissioner and School Trustees will be taken to-day at 10 o'clock in the City Council Chamber.

Nominations for Aldermen will be received at noon in the following places in each ward:

SOUTH WARD—At Spry's, 210 Stewart street.

CENTRE WARD—At the City Council Chamber.

WEST WARD—At N. Routley's, 393 Brook street.

NORTH WARD—At Mrs. Wm. Lee's shop, Smith street.

EAST WARD—At the former Village Hall.

HOW THE VOTE STANDS

Result of The Times Municipal Election Campaign

THE LAST SUMMING UP

A. W. Crossman Named for Water Commissioner—Malcolm McIntyre Seems Popular in the East—G. Walter Green Likely to Flatter Position Although Late in the Campaign. The Present Aldermen Still Popular.

The last event in our municipal election campaign still points to the conclusion that the Mayoralty will not be contested. Of course a dark horse may come to light at the eleventh hour. And then again, he may keep dark for another year. Ald. Morgan does not take seriously the suggestion made by some of our readers that he contest the seat.

The last few days quite a number of coupons for A. W. Crossman as Water Commissioner have reached us, and unfortunately we overlooked many votes for Malcolm McIntyre as Alderman in the East. This may be pardoned from the fact that Mr. Malcolm McIntyre's name appeared on some coupons for three offices—Water Commissioner, School Trustee and Alderman, hence the oversight, which we regret exceedingly.

The coupons did not come in as thickly as might have been expected pointing to the conclusion that our subscribers, generally have not much faith in the fact of the falling off. Still some new names appear.

VIOLENT ATTACK BY CATHOLIC REGISTER

The Catholic Register, of Toronto, makes a violent attack this week of peace and goodwill upon Mr. F. H. Burdham, M.P., and Mr. H. C. Ivimey, Mayor of Toronto editor of The Sentinel. It is just, as usual, a general and generous scolding of and without attempting to refute any of the arguments or statements of those gentlemen.

PANIC OCCURRED ON KINGSTON BOAT

Cigar Butt Caused Fire and Crowd of Women Were Thrown into Hysterics.

Kingston, Ont., Dec. 28.—A small panic occurred on the steamer Wolfe Islander when fire broke out in the wheel-house of the vessel while it was on its way over to the city with a crowd of farmers for the market. The blaze started under the floor and was making things lively. Deck hands promptly got the hose to work and the fire was soon extinguished, but not before the passengers, for the most part women, had been thrown into a great state of excitement. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is believed that a cigar which was carelessly thrown away was to blame.

There is a veritable panic on the Government side of the House according to the Globe of Dec. 17.

EDITORIAL NOTES

If our local joy-riders persist this weather, in turning corners so quickly it will be a case of skidoo.

Christmas cuts both ways for papa. He puts up the coin for not only the gifts to the family, but also in most cases, for the family's gifts to him.

The average man believes in a future state of existence because he must have some place to punish his enemies, and again, because he's looking for a cinch for himself.

English Standard and St. James' Gazette: "The owner of a cow killed by coming into contact with Mr. Coyle's aeroplane, has just been awarded £15 damages against the aviator. With the growth of aeroplane flying should now again become a profitable profession."

ROMAN CATHOLIC DIVORCES

The Catholic Register says: "It is easy to disturb the Protestant mind. Two Catholics in Quebec discover after some years that they are related in the fourth degree. The Church authorities counsel regularizing the marriage. One of the party refuses. There is nothing to be done but give the divorce. The civil court confirms it. Then we have a lot of important meddling by Protestant preachers and press. Where it is any of their business does not appear. And they show their ignorance by calling relations in the fourth degree 'Fourth Cousins!' There is no end to the madness of these people. Sensible Protestants must often blush for their clergy and press."

Our contemporary fails to explain why it is that the marriage settlement could have been set aside in payment of five dollars.

EXPERIMENTAL UNION ANNUAL MEETING.

The Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union will hold its annual meeting at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on the 7th and 8th of January next.

The co-operative experimental work of the Union has been more extensive during the past year than at any previous time. Six different committees have conducted active work in 1912. In Agriculture alone experiments were conducted on $5,927 farms in Ontario. The summary results of these experiments will be presented and discussed at the Annual Meeting.

Besides the presentation of the results of experiments there will be addresses and discussions on the following special subjects: "Possibilities of Intensive Farming in Ontario"; "Division of Labor on the Farm"; "The Operation and Value of the Seed Control Act of 1911"; "Conferences in the Home on the Farm"; Ontario's Part in Federal Agricultural Co-operation," etc., etc.

These meetings are open to any one interested in Agriculture. Cheap rates have been arranged for on the certificate plan. For fuller particulars apply to the Secretary, C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ontario.

LAURIER NOT CONSISTENT

In view of the attitude of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and his determination to stand by a Canadian navy, it is interesting to note just what the Liberals did while in power on the navy question. Because of their deeds alone can you judge them. It was in July and August, 1908 that the Liberal Ministers consulted the Admiralty. A United Empire Pacific Fleet was proposed, Canada to supply one unit, Australia another, etc. Canada's representatives rejected this plan by insisting that her force should be divided between the two oceans and by declining to build a complete unit, the essential battle cruiser being omitted. Instead the Canadian Government decided upon a force to consist exclusively of unarmoured cruisers and destroyers. The final decision was for two ships of the Bristol type and six destroyers on the Atlantic and two Bristol on the Pacific. These ships were to be built in Canada if possible and a naval establishment to support them was to be organized.

The Laurier Government took its time about carrying out this program. It had to procure the ships, but was exceedingly leisurely in calling for the tenders and as a matter of fact, never awarded the contracts at all. Even had the contracts been awarded at once, there would have been no visible navy for years as the government was figuring on six years to build them, which would bring Canada down to the year 1917.

Now then in brief was the old Laurier naval policy.

1-It was not what the British Admiralty asked for then or what it asks for now.

2-The force which it was planned to provide would have had no serious fighting power.

3-The ships would have been divided so that on neither ocean would there have been an effective fighting force.

4-The ships would have taken so long to build that they would be almost out of date when completed.

Bad Breath, Frequent Sneezing, Watery Eyes, Bad Taste, Racking Cough, Hoarse Voice, Difficulty Breathing.
Don't continue to burden your system for another day when the remedy of such a filthy, loathsome disease as Catarrh. Get Catarrhozone to-day—inhale its soothing vapor, fill your breathing organs with its balsamic essence, and all trace of Catarrh will forever depart. Read what Ellwood S. Lee, of Sydney, Ont., says of his cure with Catarrhozone:
"I was a chronic sufferer from catarrhus in the throat and nose and for many years have constantly had Catarrh. I was recommended to try Catarrhozone and after using the inhaler on the first touch of a cold or in a gripe I am able to stay in a few hours. I have been able to breathe through my nose freely since using Catarrhozone. In fact, I am completely cured." (Signed) ELLWOOD S. LEE.

Once you try Catarrhozone you'll realize how indispensable it is—a large dollar size contains an indestructible hard rubber inhaler and sufficient medication to last two months. Beware of the substitutes and imitations of Catarrhozone—use the genuine and you'll get cured. By mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

OTONABEE SCHOOL NO. 8

Annual Meeting and Election of the School Trustees.

Our readers will remember the rumour created in Public School Section No. 8, Otonabee, some months ago, when the Board of School Trustees, two of whom were Roman Catholics, engaged a teacher of that faith, who persisted in giving instructions in the dogmas of her church, to the pupils of the school, notwithstanding the strong objections taken by the Protestant ratepayers of the section. It will also be remembered that the conditions became so intolerable that the Public School Inspector was appealed to, and also the Minister of Education, a denunciation of Protestant supporters.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the under surveyor and endorsed "Tender for Armory, Port Arthur, Ont." will be received at this office until 4.30 P.M. on Wednesday, Jan. 2, 1913, for the construction of the building mentioned.
Plans, specifications and form of contract, one copy each, and forms of tender, will be at the office of the City Clerk at Port Arthur, Ont., at the office of H. E. Matthews, Esq., Surveyor, and at the office of the Dominion Public Buildings, Winnipeg, Man., and at this Department.
Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupation and place of residence. In the case of firms the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.
Tenders must be accompanied by a completed cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender is not accepted the cheque will be returned.
The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

waiting on the Premier and the Minister in regard to it, in order if possible, to have the situation temporarily discontinued. Mainly through the efforts of Rev. Dr. O'Brien, a pretentious Separate School was built, and is now in operation. The result was that the Roman Catholic support was withdrawn not only from No. 8, but also from other school sections in the district. It looked like a deliberate attempt to wreck one of more of the Public schools of the township. Happily the efforts, if such was the object, did not succeed.

On Friday last the annual Public School meeting took place, when the following gentlemen were elected trustees: Messrs. Henry Crane, John Gillespie and James Hatherly.

This school is now in a flourishing condition and peace and harmony once more prevails.

SUNFISH WASHED ASHORE

It Measured Eight Feet From Tip to Tail.

An enormous sunfish, weighing about six hundred pounds, and measuring eight feet from tip to tail, was washed ashore dead at Bangor Bay, County Down. "The sunfish is a denizen of tropical seas and the death of this specimen is explained by the fact that it could not live in water of so low temperature as that which prevails in the British Islands. As it would have been an inconvenient task to bury the carcass it was towed out into deep water when the tide was up. A small boy sunfish was washed ashore on another part of the coast and the given rise to the idea that these fish were attracted out of their own waters by the great heat that prevailed this summer."

to work long hours. The license system makes a monopoly. Where there is a demand, there will be a supply. There will be less liquor sold under local option.

Mr. Knapman took his audience for a trip to Owen Sound. He instigated a local option hotelman, who shut up his saloons and barns when local option came, and dined his prison. Another hotel was shut up by the temperance people. A liquor trader told him he did not sell a dozen cases of liquor in Owen Sound, where he used to sell a car load. Men, who under license, never drew a sober breath, under local option are better dressed and doing better. He only saw one drunk in Owen Sound. At Kilaos he was kept awake all night by a man who had the D.T.'s. He has got meals in local option hotels, for fifty cents that weren't worth it, just as he had in licensed places.

Chairman read a letter of regret from Mr. Pope. The collection was then taken up.

Mr. Clarke, police magistrate of Orillia, said that a statement, in the Lindsay Warder was published that him and his wife existed there. This was denied by a letter signed by him, Mayor and others. The Warder refused to publish the letter stating that he knew the Mayor was for local option. He came to Peterborough as a church member and the liquor interests are trying to upset the church. Why should the saloon and the hotel be linked together, when the grocer and the liquor dealer are separated, a bowl went up all through the Province. Public sentiment is different now. Both political parties are after the votes of the temperance people who want to abolish the bar and prevent trading. He comes from a town where local option has been a blessing. If he succeeded in convincing the audience that local option was a failure, he wanted them to vote against the by-law and vote versa. The worst men he has had in months was in Barrie, at the Green's. A former Mayor of Orillia formerly opposed local option because the Scott Act was a failure. However, he is now in favor of it. Mr. Tulloh the big manufacturer, and the Tulloh Carriage factory both had written letters advocating local option. Dr. Gillespie sent a testimony that he had never had a case of alcoholism under local option. As police magistrate under both license and local option, he gave some statistics of convictions he had made. One man, who under license was 16 or being drunk 16 times in a year is very seldom up on that charge now. The only way to regulate the liquor business is to put it out of business. He believed in a man declaring his opinion right and not being a little fish. Orillia has increased 2000 in the past six years. Orillia has gained more in population than Barrie. Barrie has not the population it had six years ago, and Barrie was "wet." It is our duty to remove temptation from immigrants. He instigated how he had seen immigrants leave their work on the railroad and go to the bar in the town. The speaker was applauded. The Harmon Quartet then gave excellent selections. During the evening another three addresses listened to appeals for local option.

which is now being operated by this Company. We expect big results from the Shatton Mine because it produced a fortune in the upper workings. We are 600 feet below them and will have an immense block of shipping ground to work on and there can only be one result from this big mine in going good. A little more capital will do the work and we feel quite certain that we will all be well recompensed for our time, money and labor. By placing up-to-date machinery in the mill, we can add fully 50 per cent to our production. This is what we want capital for and our reason for calling stock. We are preparing to make a big producing mine of this and your money will help us to do it.

PROPERTIES.

This Company owns 287 acres of rich phosphate, mica and asbestos mines in the Townships of Madawaska, Templeton and Fortland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 40 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Province of Ontario.

As phosphate and mica mining produce quick and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining, and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich phosphate and mica mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY REQUIRED.

The mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication. Labor and provisions are much less expensive than in Ontario or Pennsylvania.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from phosphate and mica mining.

Mining can be carried on all the year round. A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHAREHOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a number of other mines to fall back upon.

The large acreage, the low capitalization, the large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious and honest enterprise and administration.

FACIAL MASSAGE AID

Respiratory Apparatus Enables One to Breathe Under Water.

A device that will be found of assistance in methods of facial massage where the patient is required to immerse her face in liquid for a period, has been patented by a Washington man. It enables the wearer to breathe freely with both nose and mouth under the surface of the liquid. A little clip fits over the nostrils and holds them closely enough to keep out the water, or whatever the preparation may be. A little tube has a mouthpiece attachment with a bit to hold between the teeth and a rubber shield that fits closely around the mouth. With her nostrils pinched shut and this respirator in her mouth, a woman may rest her face in a basin of massage liquid for as long as is necessary to have the skin thoroughly softened by it and prepared for the manual work. She breathes through the mouth, of course, and the air comes in through the tube.

LACROSSE IN THE COMMONS.

Speaking of lacrosse players, there are several famous players in the house besides Sam Hughes. Richard Blain, member for Peel, comes from Brampton, and Brampton has always been famous for its lacrosse teams. Dick, in his early days, was the back home of the team. Then there is W. H. Martin, the member for Regina. He was also a lacrosse player of note in his day—and his day was not so long ago, for he is only thirty-two now—and at Toronto University he starred on the varsity team.

THE WOOLLEN INDUSTRY.

Its Expansion Desirable in the Interests of the Whole Country.

It is significant to note that the sheep industry has divided rapidly since the introduction of the British preference which has resulted in closing a large number of woolen mills in different parts of the country. A partial solution would be to revise the tariff on woolen goods.

Dealing with the sheep industry, the Globe in a recent issue said:

"Expansion of the woolen industry and sheep-raising industry in Canada is desirable in the interests of the whole country. There is a sure and constant market for wool, because there is nothing to adequately take its place. To every nation that has taken the industry seriously it has proved highly profitable, one of the best paying for the amount of work involved. Canada has natural conditions adapted to the raising of the finest merino, and wool, as the necessary attempts of our planters have proved, and we have proved, and we have plenty of waste land. As products of sheep there are not only wool and mutton but tallow as well."

FOR BETTER FARMING

A Western exchange says: "The farmers of this vicinity are inspired with the idea that industry is a good thing and are all out harvesting their wheat. Every year demonstrates the fact that we must get something over so much ground and get down to sensible farming and only farm what we can properly handle to get good results. Work is necessary to make this country feel the pulse of the world. It is up to us to farm better and farm less land."

THE TIMES' MUNICIPAL ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Name your Choice for Mayor, Aldermen, School Trustees, and Water Commissioner, and Do It Now!—A Plan to Awaken interest in Coming Civic Changes.

FILL IN COUPON BELOW AND SEND IT IN TO THIS OFFICE

We take the initiative in inviting a public expression of opinion as to who are best qualified to fill the civic offices that expire with the end of this year. And in order to secure becoming interest in so live and important a question The Times has decided to adopt a plan, quite popular in many big cities, of conducting a newspaper election campaign with a view to bringing into the light of day the names of the best qualified persons of nomination day a list of desirable candidates for municipal offices. Our readers are therefore respectfully asked to enter into the spirit of the scheme and vote or in brief letters, their opinions on the following questions:

Who will be our next Mayor?

Who is to represent us in the City Council?

Who will fill the places becoming vacant on the Board of Education and Board of Water Commissioners?

Peterborough is now growing rapidly, and the municipal offices for such positions as noted above largely depend on her future growth and prosperity. Our taxation is now so heavy that with the increased cost of living, civic expenditures must be controlled by the most competent and available man who will plan them so as to do the greatest good for the greatest number as economically as possible.

As indicated above The Times desires to secure interest in municipal affairs. There are six places to be filled on the City Council, including the Mayor's seat. It has been an unwritten law, however, the past few years that the Mayor should be elected the majority of a council term (provided, of course that he has proved an efficient Chief Magistrate), and there seems no reason to deviate from that rule this year.

Those who retire this year

The following civic officers retire automatically at the end of this year, viz.:

Council—Aldermen Dumas, Brown, Graham, Morgan and Gordon.

Board of Education—Messrs. Ackerman, McRae, Morrison and Eastwood.

Water Commissioner—W. H. Moore.

NEW WAR VESSEL

Will Have No Crew, and the Operator Will be Miles Away

A teacher of Nuremberg, Christopher Wirth, has given to the world an invention which may considerably alter the aspect of future warfare by rendering dreamsticks obsolete and gunboats useless.

The new war-vessel, whether for air or water, will be crewless—a mere machine of destruction of life and property while the operator is miles away conducting a battle by means of buttons and levers.

The inventor recently gave a practical demonstration before a special committee of the German Navy League in a secluded part of the Wannsee, a lake near Berlin. The system employed is very similar to that used in wireless telegraphy, and is the latest wonder in telemechanics.

The first experiments took place in a building where the inventor went into a room surrounded by thick walls and passed his electric waves through the wall, exploding miniature mines on the other side in the order selected by his visitors. He also fired off a revolver and started and stopped an electric motor and a steam engine by the same means.

On the lake he worked a specially made boat from the land, steering it in all directions without visible connection, firing off guns which were on board, and exploded mines and float-bay mines in the water.

The unmanned motor-boat was then steered through a labyrinth of small boats, the gear was reversed, and she returned to her original position.

Bomb lights and fireworks were also ignited by wireless waves, and only in the order desired.

The wave currents were transmitted and received through antennae in a very similar manner to that used in connection with receivers and transmitters in wireless telegraphy; each transmitter must be "tuned" to the receiver before the current operates.

The inventor has also applied his apparatus to balloons and flying machines. An aeroplane with electric motor can be steered from land in all directions and can be made to drop bombs when required.

What is not explained is what would happen if an opposing electric wave could be got into tune and were directed in an opposite direction, but probably a premature explosion would occur.

Accidental Death

At the Hackney Coroner's Court, Dr. Guthrie informed a doctor, who gave evidence, that if a person is at the point of death, and receives a blow which accelerates death by two minutes, that is in law an accidental death.

Widow Their Jaws

Fifty New York schoolchildren are, says the "Express," to have their jaws widened to improve their mental development. The doctor who recommended the treatment contends that a small lower jaw means small brain capacity.

MIXED FARMING
 Vice-President Bury is Much Interested in the Subject Vice-president Bury, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, while in Calgary returning from a trip to the Coast, said the company is very much interested in the question of mixed farming, and will do everything in its power to encourage the farmers to engage to a greater extent in this branch of agriculture. He believed that more mixed farming was essential to the welfare of the country and it is astonishing to find so much agricultural produce being imported. "On this trip," he said, "I was served with butter from New Zealand, mutton from Australia, fruit from the United States, marmalade from England, and potatoes from Virginia. At Vancouver I noticed a shipment of twenty-five carloads of condensed milk from Eastern Canada being loaded on a vessel for export. All these articles should be produced in Western Canada."

FOUGHT IN A GRAVEYARD Slovaks and Roumanians Mocked at Each Other's Crosses
 A sanguinary free-fight between Slovaks and Roumanians occurred in a cemetery in Hungary the other day, on the occasion of the consecration of two crucifixes there. The cause of this extraordinary collision is thus stated: Both the Slovak and Roumanian inhabitants of the village decided to erect a crucifix in the cemetery, but as they could not agree regarding some trifling details, the parties resolved to raise two crucifixes which were consecrated simultaneously.
 The Slovaks mocked at the crosses of the Roumanians and vice-versa, and after the sermon of the Roumanian Pope a free fight followed knives, and later, bayonets, being frequently used. The Roumanians succeeded in separating the hostile parties and restoring order thirteen persons were lying in the cemetery seriously wounded. One of the injury-ed before he could be removed to a hospital.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. BID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

FACTORY AREA MOVES WESTWARD

Remarkable Expansion at Fort William Shows the Direction Industrial Life is Taking

The following is a list of the new industries to be established in Fort William this year:

The Canada Car and Foundry Co. will build a million dollar plant for the manufacture of coaches and freight cars in Fort William, guaranteeing to give employment to 1,000 men on an average for the first five years, with a capacity of producing 7,000 cars per year.

A. M. Nanton and associates will erect a plant for the manufacture of starch and glucose costing nearly half a million dollars, and giving employment to 300 people.

The National Tube Co. have already begun operations for the construction of a plant to cost $400,000, and employing 150 men.

A. McKellar & Co. are under contract with the city to erect a plant for the manufacture of bedding, to cost $150,000 and employ 60 men.

The Great West Wire Fence Co. are under contract with the city of Fort William to erect a plant for the manufacture of wire to cost not less than $100,000 and employ 50 men.

The total number of men to be employed by the industries locating in Fort William this year total an amount of 1,400, which means an increase in the population equal to nearly 10,000 people.

This, with natural increase, together with the increase of population from the enormous amount of transhipping connected with Canada's national commerce and trade will conservatively mean a doubling of the present population within two years.

This is an illustration of the movement of factories westward. In the next generation Western Canada will have followed the example of the Western States where industrial life has developed with remarkable strides and conditions similar to those which obtain in the Western Canadian provinces.

WOMEN ASTRONOMERS

Frances Has Produced Several Who Attained Prominence in Science

The appointment of Miss Edmee Chandon as an astronomer at the Paris observatory represents an important advance in the position of women in the official scientific world.

It is interesting, as a writer in a French journal points out, that the study of the heavens has attracted women in many ages of the world's history, although Miss Chandon is the first woman to receive official recognition of her talents.

Passing over Hypatia, St. Catherine, the daughter of King Sesostris of Egypt, and Catherine de Medici, all of whom were star gazers, the writer recalls the work of Marie Curie, who is quoted to the world her famous astronomical tables, publishing them in 1850. Another distinguished astronomer was Jeanne Dimec, a French girl, who after having been married according to the fashion of her day, when little more than a child, was left a widow at 17, and was said to have consoled herself on the death of her husband by a life-long devotion to the study of the heavens. Her great work was a review of the Copernican theory of the mobility of the earth.

MIXED FARMING

Mon. George Lawrence Explains What Manitoba is Doing in That Direction

"Our crop prospects were never brighter," said Hon. Geo. Lawrence, Minister of Agriculture, for Manitoba, in the course of an interview. "This is my thirty-fifth year in the province and I never saw a better outlook. The wheat acreage in Southern Manitoba is about the same as formerly, but in the north, barley, and flax have been sown, which means that the wheat acreage of the province is not quite as large as in 1911. There is satisfaction in this, however, as it indicates more mixed farming which the farmers must gradually come to. If agriculture is to be a permanent industry, appreciating the importance of dairying and stock raising, and the great possibilities that are in the west for the development of these industries, the Agriculture Department of the province is sending out two demonstration trains, one of which will pass over every mile of the C.P.R. track in the province, and the other over every mile of the G.N.R. These trains will be accompanied by professors of the Agriculture College, a staff of fifteen to each train of eight men, and will carry horses, cows, and poultry of the best breeds. These exhibits of dairying and stock raising, and the destruction of weeds, last year we ran a train over the C.P.R. lines, and so successful and productive of good results was the experiment that we decided to extend the train this year to the entire province."

A BABY TOWN

Coronation But Eight Months Old, Has Already Reached Important Proportions

The youngest town which the Made-in-Canada train honored in its tour of the West was Coronation. Here was found a bustling population of 1000 on a beautiful location about 100 miles east of Lacombe. The sale of lots took place on September 27th, 1911, and yielded $120,000.00 to the C.P.R., the company having decided that a divisional and junction equipment should be located at this point, which would be called Coronation in honor of the coronation of King George and Queen Mary. The sale had no sooner closed than gangs of workmen were put to work on the erection of buildings. Before the freeze-up Coronation had a population of about 700, who were comfortably housed in hastily built residences. The British spirit extended beyond the name, royal names being chosen for several of the streets. Thus, they have Victoria Avenue, Royal Street, and Windsor Avenue. They call the hotel Royal Crown. At present there are in the town about 250 buildings, including 3 general stores, 3 hardware, 1 confectionery, 5 lumber yards, 5 livery, 5 implement agencies, 3 drug stores, 5 real estate agencies, 3 doctors, 3 lawyers, 4 pool rooms, 1 mill of permanent walls, 1 moving picture theatre and the Royal Crown Hotel which has 70 rooms, and cost $45,000.00. The 170 tenants at Coronation are up to date; knowing that church union was in the air, they endeavored to organize a Union church, but at the meetings which were held for that purpose there was too much dissension to go ahead with the proposal. Therefore the denominations remain separate. With union, however, they would have erected a fine church and paid some man a good salary. Here as in other points in the West the real estate agent has been at work, and already two quarter sections have been subdivided and sold; another quarter section is held by the C.P.R. and another by the C.P.R., the latter Company having made plans to erect a 7 stall round house, a substantial station and other buildings associated with divisional headquarters. New school and municipal buildings will be erected this summer, school being held at present in a small two roomed building, with H. L. Merrill, formerly of Toronto in charge. The publicity and of the new town is well looked after by W. F. If you have any stomach distress at all you will certainly be interested in the following experience which is told by Mr. Edward Dawkins.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond, "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour and all ways after eating there was pain and fullness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of having like other pills, they acted very mildly and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Before a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butter-nut, 25¢ box or five boxes for $1 at all druggists and storekeepers or post paid from the Catarhizone Co. Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Parents of the other boys communicated with Chief Thompson and arrived later on to get the juvenile hobos.

LEADING CITIZENS ENDORSE HENRY HOPE & SONS' BY-LAWS

Will Work For a Favorable Vote—The $11,500 Free Site Would Only Cost Ratepayers 12c on Every $1,000 Assessment Each Year; Or $2,40 The Whole 20 Years.

A representative gathering of citizens met in the Council Chamber last night, at the call of the Mayor, to hear discussed the City Council's proposal to aid the Henry Hope & Sons, Limited, in establishing in Peterborough a manufacturing branch of their big Birmingham (England) Steel Sash and Frame industry.

The proposition is one which the ratepayers will be asked to vote on on January 6th, the date of the municipal elections. The City Council has agreed in order to secure this desirable industry for Peterborough, to give the company a free site, to cost $11,500 and to grant exemption for 10 years, except for school taxes and local improvement rates.

While many expressed their approval of the Council's action in this connection, not one voice was raised in opposition to the proposition. In fact, the whole meeting was unanimous in the view that Peterborough would get a good thing in this new industry, and every member present committed himself to actively engage in support of the by-law between now and election day.

BY-LAW ENDORSED.

The meeting resulted in the following resolution being unanimously carried:

"Moved by Mr. W. H. Denham, seconded by Mr. Wm. Kemp, that this meeting heartily endorse Council's proposition to aid the Henry Hope & Sons, Limited, of Canada, and fully approve of the proposal to pass a by-law to that effect. Also that every member present agree that his name shall be coupled with this resolution for publication."

AMBASSADOR WILSON ON HIS WAY TO MEXICO TO DEMAND RIGHTS FOR AMERICAN CITIZENS

HENRY LANE WILSON

After protracted conference with President Taft, members of his Cabinet and officials of the State Department, Ambassador Wilson has left Washington, D. C., for Mexico, bearing an ultimatum from his government in which the peremptory demand is made that all depredations in that country where American citizens are the victims must cease at once.

Wilson must prevent the burning of American railway property, the looting of mines and plantations, the slaying of Americans and the kidnapping of others for ransom. After an important conference in the White House and another at a Cabinet dinner, President Taft authorized Henry Lane Wilson the American Ambassador, to demand that the Mexican government afford better protection to the citizens of our country residing in Mexico. The administration is highly displeased with the last answer Mexico made to the American demand that the interests of foreigners be better protected.

LOCAL HOCKEY

Last night the Brock street rink was crowded to capacity to see the Pites go up against the Mettill College aggregation. At the first half it looked like the Metropolitan bunch were going to carry off the honors. As the score stood 1-0 Mettill. However, in the second half the locals took a tumble and played ball. The Pites won the game by a score of 2-1.

PLOTTED TO BLOW UP BRIDGES IF GERMAN ARMY MOBILIZED

Many Men and Women in Silesia are Arrested, Charged With Conspiracy—Russia Warns Turkey She Had Better Come to Terms With the Allies

Berlin, Dec. 30.—Many arrests have occurred at Breslau, capital of Silesia, of men and women charged with being involved in a wide spread conspiracy.

Correspondence has been seized, revealing a plot to destroy all the bridges near Breslau in the event of German mobilization.

Russia Gives Warning.

Constantinople, Dec. 30.—The Ambassadors of most of the European powers have advised the Ottoman Government to make an effort to come to terms with the Balkan allies. The Russian Ambassador here in particular coupled his advice with a warning as to the dangerous consequences of delay in view of the situation in Asia Minor.

The Russian representative has produced a disagreeable impression in Turkish official circles, while agitation in the army in favor of a resumption of hostilities continues.

Many fly sheets have been distributed among the Turkish officers, and men counselling the continuance of the war, and the non-surrender of the fortress of Adrianople.

Roumania Mobilizing.

London, Dec. 30.—The Belgrade correspondent of the Daily Telegraph sends the report that Roumania is mobilizing. Huge military transports are carrying troops and war material to the frontier.

PRESIDENT OF UNION GETS SEVEN YEARS PENITENTIARY

Members of Iron Workers' Executive Imprisoned For Numerous Outrages—Secretary Hocken Given Six Years

On motion of the Government, Edward Clark, Cincinnati, confessed dynamiter, who testified for the Government, was given a suspended sentence.

Ortig E. McManigal, the principal dynamiter, who confessed, was not sentenced at this time.

J. J. and J. B. McNamara had already been sentenced to fifteen years and life imprisonment respectively.

Indianapolis, Dec. 30.—Sentences varying from seven years' imprisonment in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, to one year and one day and to suspended sentences, were today imposed upon thirty-eight labor union officials convicted in the dynamite conspiracy case.

Frank M. Ryan, president of the ironworkers' International union, was given a sentence of seven years.

Olaf A. Tveitmo, of San Francisco, convicted on charges of aiding in slotting the destruction of the Los Angeles Times Building, and Eugene A. Clancy, also of San Francisco, were given six years each.

Ryan as head of the union, received the heaviest penalty of seven years. Herbert S. Hocken received six years.

All the prisoners who received prison terms are to be taken to Leavenworth, Kansas, probably tonight.

One man received a seven year sentence; eight received six years each; two received four years; twelve received three years; four received two years; five received one year and a day, while sentence was suspended on six.

HOME RULE IS AT REPORT STAGE

London, Dec. 30.—The Irish Home Rule Bill reached the report stage when the House of Commons met again this afternoon after the Christmas vacation.

Premier Asquith announced that seven days would be given for the discussion of this stage of the measure. There was much criticism of the government method of guillotining the debate, but the Premier refused to prolong the time allowed for the discussion.

Sir Edward Carson on behalf of his fellow Unionists notified the Government that he intended to move an amendment excluding the Provisional Ulster from the operations of the Irish Home Rule Bill.

The debate on this amendment will take place on Wednesday.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—South and south-westerly winds; unsettled and mild with occasional light rain or snow to-day.

EASTERN ONTARIO DAIRYMEN WILL CONVEGE AT KINGSTON

A meeting of local interest, but of particular interest to the farming community of this county, is to be held in Kingston, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 2nd, 3rd and 4th. This meeting is the 36th Annual Convention of the Dairy-men's Association of Eastern Ontario.

The following letter is self-explanatory and possibly describes the scope and purpose of the Convention better than otherwise could be presented. It will be noticed that the letter is signed by Ald. G. A. Gillespie, acting president. There will undoubtedly be a large delegation from this city and county present. The letter reads as follows:

To the Farmers and Dairymen of Eastern Ontario

Gentlemen.—We have much pleasure in inviting you to attend the 36th Annual Convention of the Dairy-men's Association of Eastern Ontario, to be held at the city of Kingston, on the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th of January, 1913. The programme on the following pages of this book should assure a good attendance. It has been the aim of the officers of the Association to secure speakers of national reputation to address those who may attend, and they are sparing no pains to make this the best dairy meeting ever held on this continent.

Since the holding of our last Convention, a large number of Special Dairy Meetings have been held in the eastern part of the Province, and we believe good results will follow. The meetings have been well attended and great interest has been manifested.

That part of Ontario over which our Association has control is divided into twenty-four (24) Groups or Syndicates, each being in charge of a competent instructor, and each of these twenty-four instructors was under the personal supervision of Mr. G. G. Pablow, Chief Instructor for Eastern Ontario. These men have done good and efficient service, raising our Creameries and Cheese Factories, giving practical instruction to both makers and patrons.

We are pleased with the work our Association has been able to do for the dairyman during the past year, and we want your presence and cooperation at the Convention to be held at Kingston on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th of January, 1913. Every dairyman, who can reach there, will be amply repaid for attending. In those days of keen competition every man engaged in business of any kind should get all the assistance possible from those who have given time and practical study to that particular branch of business in which he is engaged, and every dairyman who attends this Convention will go home better fitted to make a success of his business, by not only having more skill, but more of the equipments necessary for success and an enlargement of profit.

"COMING RICH GIRL" IS PLAYING AT THE GRAND

Few people of our city, realize that a coming vastly rich girl is now playing with the Joe Marks Co. at the Grand. Incidentally, it might be noted that last night, despite the counter attraction of the hockey match, the Opera House was crowded. To revert to our original subject, Miss Luella Green, born in Sault Ste Marie, U.S., is the daughter of Mr. Green, a rich property owner in Halesbury, who died two years ago. Miss Green was a soprano voice charms the audience nightly, is now 18 years of age, and she attains her majority in two years, she comes into a large fortune left by her father. Another interesting feature of this company, is a picture carried serially by Joe Marks in a massive gold locket. The photograph is that of his old sweet locket mother now 83 years of age. Mrs. Marks now spends her days between Christy's Lake and Perth, Ont.

DIVORCE INCREASING IN ONTARIO

Almost As Many Divorces In Last Six Years As In The Previous Thirty-seven Years.

That the number of divorces in Ontario is rapidly increasing is revealed by the statistics in the "Canada Year Book" for 1912, recently issued by the Dominion Government. This is a strange development considering that the prohibitionists have long declaimed against drink as the cause of divorce and other family evils.

Although, however, nearly 400 Ontario municipalities have at various times in the last few years gone "dry," there were almost as many divorces granted in Ontario in the last six years as in the previous thirty-seven years.

From 1880 to the end of 1905—a period of 27 years—there were 63 divorces obtained by Ontario residents. From 1906 to 1912—six years in all—56 divorces were granted to Ontario people.

A considerable number of Canadians, estimated at more than 400 a year, have also gone to the United States, where the facilities are easier to procure divorces.

If the claims of prohibitionists were to be accepted, it would logically follow that divorces would diminish as the number of local option communities increased.

But the contrary has been the case, proving that the prohibition theory is shattered when confronted with the facts. True enough, Ontario's population has increased, but the growing ratio of divorce out of all proportion to the growth of population.

That drink does figure largely in divorces is a fact, however, but it is a factor resulting from the ill-considered course of the prohibitionists themselves.

Because a community votes local option or because it is placed under non-licence, does not by any means signify that it goes "dry." The immediate and injurious effect is to stop the sale of such a beverage as beer, which, if taken in moderation, is practically non-intoxicant. Packaged as it is, it is a cumbersome commodity to ship or otherwise transport, and thus can be easily detected. Moreover, it is not a palatable when warm. Whiskey, however, a 50-per-cent-alcoholic drink, can be transported and sold with either in "blind pigs" or by "pocket peddlers."

It is no exaggeration to say that great shipments of whiskey have continuously gone into local option communities, either shipped to private homes or to "blind pigs" or "pocket peddlers." In less than three years the Provincial Police have seized 23,000 bottles of whiskey largely in the non-licence districts of Cobalt and Porcupine, and many more shipments have escaped detection. The public statement has been repeatedly made and not denied that an average of 1,500 bottles are shipped into Owen Sound every week, 400 bottles of whiskey weekly into Orillia, 180 bottles of whiskey into Orangeville every week, and similar proportions into other local option places. The license officers and police are active, but they cannot suppress this traffic.

It must be obvious to the simplest intelligence that such a traffic must have a demoralizing effect in many households, and—undoubtedly—has its relation to the increasing number of divorces.

Harold Runions, Esq.,
Mgr. Runions Brokers Ltd.
Calgary, Alta.

Dear Harold,

I have just returned from inspecting those two sections of fruit lands at Renata on the Lower Arrow Lakes. I found this land on a bend sloping gently south and 600 feet above the lake level. This land can be easily irrigated but does not require irrigation for best fruit, as I found out from Renata fruit growers who are holding their lands as high as $1000 per acre.

I stopped off at Castlegar, Grand Forks, Spokane and Seattle, studying the fruit and fruit lands question, and have also gleaned a fund of encouraging information from the Government here, the Chambers of Commerce in Spokane, Lord Aberdeen's Ranch at Vernon and from other sources which has so enthused me that I have taken one section myself and am selling it off in 10-acre blocks at $40 per acre, and I am forming a small syndicate of a few good men for the other section at $20 per acre, the price of prairie grain lands. I've divided the syndicate into tenths—one tenth requiring $480 cash, $400 in one year and $400 in two years. Int. 7%.

The people from whom I am buying this land are taking two tenths themselves, seeing I have put the syndicate price so low, and I am taking a couple shares myself in the syndicate, which quite well shows our faith in the proposition. It is our intention to cut this into 10-acre blocks also and put it on the market this spring at $40 per acre, which will mean a nice profit on our cash payment. This is a very reasonable price, as I found such land usually selling at $100 per acre and upwards, while improved lands have sold as high as $5000 per acre over in Washington State.

About 70% of the area of Manitoba, Sask., Alta., and B.C. is adapted to grain growing, while less than one % of these areas are adapted to fruit growing, and this small area is found only in Southern B.C. That the rate people are flocking into these provinces and the cities growing so rapidly, the demand for fruit and fruit lands must necessarily grow as rapidly, with a corresponding increase in the price of the latter.

I wish you to lay the particulars of this syndicate before a few of our Calgary clients and recommend that they take a few shares with us.

Sincerely Yours

RUNIONS BROTHERS, LIMITED

PRES.

For the benefit of our Peterboro clients and prospective clients, we reproduce above, an exact copy of the letter to our Calgary Office, and recommend you to come in with us on a share or more in this syndicate. OUR GROWING INSANE ASYLUMS

Total of 1,140 Cases Admitted
Last Year. Only 64 Cases Traced To Alcoholism.

The sweeping assertion made by the prohibitionists that "liquor kills the insane asylums" is effectively disposed of by the 1912 report of the inspectors for the hospitals for the insane of the Province of Ontario.

This report shows that of a total of 1,140 cases admitted during the year 1911, only 64 cases were due to alcoholism. This certainly is an insignificant proportion. Of these 64 cases, 11 were women, and a total of 25 of the 64 were cases of inherited predisposition.

Other factors having no relation whatever to liquor are far more responsible for the great majority of cases. Thus, adverse conditions, such as loss of friends, business troubles, mental strain, worry and overwork were the causes of 192 cases of insanity admitted into the Ontario asylums last year. Religious excitement, love affairs (including seduction), fright and nervous shock caused 37 more cases. Accidents or injuries caused 15, senility 7, abuse of drugs 10, privation and overwork 7, and various diseases and fevers caused several hundred more admissions. Of the 1,140 admissions during last year, 580 were the cases of women.

In view of these official facts—and the reports of previous years all concur very much the same—it is remarkable that the prohibitionists should continue making such preposterous assertions, having no foundation whatever in fact. Perhaps it is because of such gross exaggerations as this that they have so rapidly lost influence with well-informed people.

Of the small number of 64 cases of alcoholism admitted into Ontario asylums last year, the liquor prohibitionists practically all of them were whiskey. It is an unquestionable fact that wherever local option or prohibition is introduced the spread and secret use of whiskey begins. This result comes from the driving out of beer which is too cumbersome to be shipped or concealed, and which is substituted, and is retailed by the bottle or glass in "blind pigs" or by "pocket peddlers" or by the "suit-case brigade."

Of the 1,140 cases admitted into the Ontario insane asylums last year, the vast proportion came from rural counties, many of which are largely under local option.

Carleton County is one of these. It contributed 36 cases of insanity last year. Hastings County is another. 24 cases last year came from there. In the Niagara district, however, there is a largely prevail, yet 29 cases came last year from that section. It is in this district that in less than three years the Provincial Police have seized 33,000 bottles of whiskey, and no one knows how many more bottles escaped detection. From Middlesex County, 2 of the 23 municipalities of which are under local option, 99 of the insane last year came. Simcoe County contributed 27 cases, yet this county is greatly rural, including such places as Orillia and Midland. Five of the eleven municipalities in Wentworth County are local option; nevertheless last year this county sent 81 insane to the asylums. These are some typical examples. Of the entire number of 1,140 admissions, only 338 came from York County with its large and rapidly increasing population.

TO TEACH MANNERS

Paris Starts a League to Promote Courtesy and Politeness

A picturesque league for the propagation of politeness and courtesy has just been founded in Paris and it has the presidency of Mme. Andree d'Albert, who represented the women of France at the last Peace Congress at The Hague.

The object of the league is to erect a crusade against rudeness and vulgarity in every form, and to re-establish that reign of courtesy and true gallantry for which France was so long renowned, but which alas has so nearly disappeared under the pressure of the twentieth century conditions of life.

"In default of real benevolence and self-abnegation," which are to day the characteristics of only a privileged few we want," said Mme. Andree d'Albert in an interview, "to induce people to be at least polite, and courteous towards one another, instead of rudely manifesting unnecessary hostility on every possible occasion."

"For instance, when a little boy in a crowded carriage rises to offer his seat to a lady, we do not want his mother to say—as many mothers do at present—'Sit down, you have paid for your seat.' A little boy, however good his natural disposition, brought up with these ideas would never grow up courteous and gallant as Frenchmen were formerly, and if his natural instincts are bad such a method of education will develop them."

"It is to the failure of parents to teach their children consideration for others that we must largely ascribe the rise of the 'Assholes' and the exploits of such scoundrels as the motor bandits who recently terrorized the whole country. Small causes have great effects."

"Politeness costs nothing, and yet it will do much to remove the sharp angles of life."

University professors, school teachers, students, and even Paris cab drivers, are among the thousands who have already joined the league, and its membership is increasing daily.

QUEEN'S GIFT OF A NOSE

Not Her Own, But Artificial Nose Organ, Supplied to Poor Woman

One of the strangest Royal presents ever made is that of which Signora Papa, an Italian woman, recently ascertained from Asiatic Turkey, has been the recipient.

Signora Papa, who was a restaurant proprietor at Beyroust, was attacked by a band of robbers during an Italian riot and her nose bitten off. The Queen of Italy saw the unfortunate woman in the hospital at Pisa, and gave orders that she should be attended by a Royal physician. The Queen paid all the expenses of the operation which was necessary in order to fit an artificial nose.

DESCENDANTS OF ARCADIAN

They Live on Magdalen Island, in Gulf of St. Lawrence

Up in the centre of the Gulf of St. Lawrence the small group of Magdalen Islands are populated by three or four of the lineal descendants of the Arcadians under Champlain and De Monts, who were driven out of New France, Nova Scotia, by the English. Since the first settlement in 1534, states a writer in Rosary Magazine, generations of the same families have raised scanty crops in the valleys and fed sheep and cattle on the high conical hills which constitute a prominent feature of an insular landscape.

Year after year men have gone out on the waters of the gulf in search of the cod, mackerel and lobsters on which a livelihood depends. They are a simple, primitive people, these natives of the Magdalens, laboring all the while under circumstances that are most discouraging.

The archipelago contains twelve or thirteen distinct islands, including several grim rocks which are not inhabited and never will be. But the remarkable feature about the physical formation of the whole group is the way in which one island and its inhabitants are connected with another by a long stretch of sandy beach, enabling a person, if he desires to do so to go for a score of miles or more along the most barren shore in the world, one that is uninhabited and unrelieved by vegetation of any kind, the only animal life being the thousands of gulls, terns, gannets and other sea fowl which are extremely numerous in all this region.

THE PECULIAR CUTTLEFISH

Little Creatures Kept in Tanks to be Milked of Their Ink

A curious thing is the cuttlefish with its long arms and bulging eyes. At several points on the British coast there are located cuttlefish farms where the little creatures are kept in tanks to be "milked" of their ink. This ink, which is kept in a little bag or sack, is very valuable and each little cuttle will yield about $3.50 a year. The tank or pond is connected with the sea by a pipe and a thousand or more cuttles are kept in a single one. When it is considered an opportune time the sluices of the ponds are opened and the water is gently agitated. The cuttles then swim around the pond and as soon as one passes through the sluice is closed. The cuttle passes down a small channel into a basin of metal receptacle and as soon as it is securely there the water is drained off. This frightens the fish and once it is in the basin the ink is squeezed into the basin. In this way, one at a time, the "milking" is completed.

TO THE POINT.

The British working man came home late on Saturday evening. His face was red, his voice hoarse, and there came no welcome from his pocket.

"Oh, I've had a fine time!" he said. "I've been to an Empire meeting. It was grand!"

He ceased speaking, and there was an ominous silence. He looked round suspiciously.

"What's the matter with supper?" he asked angrily. "Ain't it ready yet?"

His wife, who was sitting peeling potatoes, and trying to quiet a crying baby at the same time, rose slowly, as if haunted by the infant.

"Here," she said, "take hold of your bit of Empire while I fry the potatoes."

A QUESTION OF SHAPE.

Walter (who had ordered a pancake as usual): "No, sir, it'll be round."

KILLING OFF THE WOLVES

Algonquin Park Rangers Have Bagged Sixteen Animals in December

Sixteen wolves were bagged in December by the rangers in Algonquin Park, according to T. W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines. The animals are being poisoned and at the present rate of progress their extermination will virtually be accomplished this winter. Numbers of deer were killed last year by the wolves, and more aggressive protection of this game has been decided on. The poison is being supplied by the government, and the rangers are being allowed the usual provincial bounty on the head of every wolf.

ENGLISH PHEASANTS

Not Many Killed During the Last Open Season.

St. Catharines hunters who had been keeping tabs reported that during the last open season for English pheasants even fewer birds than in previous years were killed. The birds themselves appeared more able to take care of themselves to keep out of the way of the hunter's shotgun—and many a hunter failed to get so much as a pot shot at a bird. One man reports that he killed twenty-five, but this was on his own farm and nobody else was allowed to shoot there. The previous year he got only about half that number. One was allowed to shoot the male birds only. The killing of a hen pheasant making one liable to a heavy fine. It was feared that when the Government last year declared an open season there would be such a slaughter that all the birds would be killed off, but they have multiplied it is said and are so hard to shoot that it looks as though the species would be preserved. Unfortunately too many of the pheasants die of cold in the winter and many a lone bird shut off from its mate is killed by famished crows who chase it till it drops and then make short work of it. The English pheasants around St. Catharines were "planted" in 1893 by some local sportsmen who have done much to preserve the birds. The season of 1912 was the first open season.—Rod and Gun.

AMBER AND AMBERGRIS

A Writer Points Out the Difference Between the Substances

Amber, which is used in making pipe mouthpieces, is a very different sort of thing from ambergris, and while valuable, of nothing like the almost fabulous value of the much rarer substance. It is from the Greek name of ambergris, elektron, that we derive the name of our greatest modern force, electricity, because amber, on being rubbed, exhibited the "sawry" now known as electric.

Ambergris is the product of the sperm whale, and is therefore organic, while amber is a mineral produced in not distinctly known. Some consider it a biliary product, others a secretion of the whale's brain. Frank T. Bullen has a good deal to say about it in his writings. It is sometimes found floating on the ocean, and sometimes, as in the recent case at Nantucket, cast up on shore.

Its value depends upon its use as the basis for the most delicate and expensive perfumes, and it is worth of course very much more than its weight in gold. Twenty thousand dollars is a heavy burden in gold, while the lump of ambergris could not have weighed more than a few pounds.

SALT AND PEPPER BOX

Shaker of Each Kind Joined Together by Set of Plates.

A device for transforming a salt and a pepper shaker into a combination utensil, so that both may be used simultaneously, has been invented by a Kansas man. The device themselves are of the ordinary cylindrical type, but each has a thumb lever on the side. A set of plates consists of one that fits across the top and another that runs down the side of the shakers when they are placed together. The top plate has two circular holes that fit over the neck of the boxes after both used simultaneously. The tops are then screwed down again. To make the connection even firmer, the side plate has slots in it and the thumb levers pass through these slots and clamp the plate fast. There are also movable caps at the top of the shakers so that one can be closed if the user wants either the salt or the pepper without the other.

"There is nothing so health-giving as a sliver of salt," says a doctor. It is the neighbors who have the corn salve."

5 YEARS THROAT TROUBLE AND INFLUENZA CURED

EMINENT DOCTORS FAILED TO CURE—HAD GIVEN UP.

This Case Does Prove That When Catarrh is Breached Every Trace of Catarrh Disappears.

Milford Haven, Dec. 31.—Everyone in this neighborhood knows of the long suffering from influenza and catarrh endured by Mrs. D. Gurney. Today she is well. Her recovery is due entirely to Catarrhose. This is her own statement: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh in the head, throat and nose, and endured the manifold tortures of influenza for five years. My life was a despair. Catarrh was undermining my strength very fast. I used treatments from eminent doctors, but all failed to cure me. I had given up hope of ever being well. Then I read of a wonderful cure made by Catarrhose. Immediately I sent for Catarrhose, and before I had used one bottle I was greatly relieved. Today I am cured. We would not be without Catarrhose in our home—so sure in colds, coughs, bronchitis and throat trouble. I feel it is my duty to publicly recommend Catarrhose."

Get the large dollar size of Catarrhose; it is a beautiful hand rubber inhaler, and medicine that lasts two months. Smaller sizes, 50c and 25c. Beware of imitations—accept only Catarrhose, sold by all reliable dealers or by mail from The Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y.

DR. AND MRS. ROBERTSON MADE CHARMING HOSTS

Last night one of the largest and most elaborate social functions that the city has seen in many a day, was held at the Dumble Homestead, that beautifully situated residence, so charmingly set in arboreal surroundings. The present occupants, Dr. and Mrs. Robertson were host and hostess to a large gathering of the elite of Peterborough. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants for the auspicious occasion. Music was furnished by the Grand Opera House orchestra. Over one hundred and fifty invitations had been issued and were invariably accepted by all able to avail themselves of such pleasure. The guests were received by Mrs. Robertson, beautifully attired in a black satin with bead trimming, and her daughter, Mrs. Birk, who was gowned in white satin with court train. Miss Robertson looked charming in white satin with white mignonette and green. Miss Phyllis Robertson was equally charming in pink satin.

Mrs. J. R. Stratton, most becomingly gowned in white lace with white overgown and diamond ornaments, and Mrs. Leck in a charming creation of latest fashion, assisted. Supper furnished by Mr. Hooper was served at midnight. Dancing was kept up until the wee sma' hours.

MILLION DOLLAR FUND NEARS COMPLETION

Toronto, Dec. 30.—With the approach of the New Year, the time set for the completion of the task of raising one million dollars for the King Edward Memorial Fund for Consumptives, the prospects are bright for the realization of the ambitious project outlined less than a year ago by the trustees of the National Sanatorium Association. During the past week, a flood of subscriptions of various amounts have been pouring in, and as it is probable that the ratepayers of Toronto will inaugurate the New Year by carrying the By-law providing for a civic grant of $200,000 to the Fund, there is little doubt that the Association will find itself for the first time financially equipped to grapple adequately with the big problem presented by the persistence of tuberculosis in the urban and rural regions of Ontario. Among the largest subscriptions acknowledged within a week by the trustees of the fund are:

The Bank of Commerce, $5,000
The Massey-Harris Co., 5,000
J. and W. A. Firstbrook, 5,000

BLOSSOM BAIRD PLAYS SOON, "THE CUP OF LIFE"

Story of An Artist's Struggle in Bohemia, That Land of Art, Actors and Music.

"I'd rather live in Bohemia than any other land."

So sang the poet, and whether they actually desire to live there or not, Bohemians undoubtedly hold a strong fascination for the average man and woman. It is in Bohemia—that delightful country, the home of genius, the resort of actors, authors and artists—that the some of "The Cup of Life," in which Blossom Baird appears at the Grand Opera House next Saturday, January 4th, matures and is laid, and the story of Elsie Norton, the struggling young artist, her love, her hopes and her ambitions is one of intense interest. It depicts the struggle of a woman's heart between love for her art and love for the man whom she idealizes and tells how her human soul was shattered, but her art remained her consolation. The play is the work of W. A. Trueman, the well-known playwright and the author of a number of other successes. It abounds in clever character drawing and bright dialogue, and was specially written for Miss Baird. Sale of seats at Box Office Thursday morning at 9 a.m.

MAKING DRUNKARDS OF CHILDREN

"Blind Piggers" in Non-License Districts. Convicted for Selling Whiskey to Minors.

The annual report, just published, of the Ontario Provincial Police, reveals the shocking fact that in the prohibition districts of New Ontario not less than seven "blind piggers" were convicted during the current year for supplying liquor to minors. If this number were convicted it can be reasonably assumed that other "blind piggers" engage in this demoralizing practice, since the "blind pigger" necessarily conducts his operations with the greatest secrecy, and often succeeds in escaping detection. This is one of the sinister results of prohibition and local option. In license districts the vendor of liquor has to be extremely careful when, and to whom, he serves liquor. He knows that it is to his paramount interest to conduct his place properly and otherwise keep strictly to the law. If he fails to do this, his license may be taken away. But the "blind pigger" operates outside the law. He is irresponsible and often directly contrary to the law. He does not care to whom he sells liquor so long as he makes profits. He will frequently debauch children simply to make money. This condition likewise prevails in the local option districts of Old Ontario, as for instance, Owen Sound, where a number of "blind piggers" and "pocket peddlers" have been convicted for supplying whiskey to children. The greater part of the liquor actually sold and consumed in these places is whiskey. During the current year the provincial Police seized 9,292 bottles of whiskey in New Ontario, chiefly in the non-license districts of Cobalt and Porcupine. Many more bottles escaped detection. It is disgraceful that children should be given this poisonous stuff, containing more than fifty per cent. of alcohol. The conclusion is becoming more and more general that a condition exists under which children are corrupted with whiskey and must be abolished. Many public officials, knowing the evils of the "blind pigger" (who always comes in with local option) favor the granting of separate licenses for the sale of a mild beverage such as beer, and the placing a high tax on the sale of the hard intoxicants whiskey, gin, brandy, etc. The probabilities are that this is the plan that will be adopted.

WIFE OF COPPER KING, GETS $15,000 ALIMONY IN A QUICK DIVORCE

F. AUGUSTUS HEINZE
COPPER KING OF LAKELAND

In a remarkably expeditious suit, Mrs. Bernice G. Heinze has obtained a decree of divorce from her husband, Fritz Augustus Heinze, familiarly known as the "copper king." She is granted alimony in an amount approximating $15,000 a year, which is said to be the second largest alimony ever ordered by a court in New York State. Mrs. Heinze, who was an actress, was formerly Bernice Golden. She was married to her first husband, Charles A. Henderson, in 1906, and obtained custody of her daughter and three-month-old child. By her second divorce, Mrs. Heinze obtains the custody of her one-year-old child, Fritz Augustus Heinze, whose education must be paid for after he is five years old by his father. Heinze and the wife from whom he is now divorced were married in 1910.

CAMPBELLFORD CONDITIONS WERE SLANDERED

Indignant Protest By Leading Citizens—Four Year Old Slanders, Revived in Tuesday Night's Papers, Exposed—Local Option a Great Success in All the Places Mentioned

In Tuesday night's issues of the Peterborough evening papers appeared the results of the first efforts of the Anti-Local Optionists to discredit the Local Option By-Law. Their chief effort was in the form of a four-column advertisement headed "Campbellford Citizens Protest Against Local Option." The advertisement was published a copy of what claimed to be a statement signed by what purported to be eighteen citizens of Campbellford to the effect that they had weighed Local Option in the balance and found it wanting, that liquor selling seemed to be on the increase, that business had left the place and that the day was undesirable. Down the side of this petition appeared statements apparently signed by Joseph T. Beatty, ex-Reeve of Omemee; J. H. Burgess, druggist, of Lakefield; Jno. J. Rogers, of Norwood; A. C. Barrett of Havelock; Henry Snider, of Brighton; and one or two others. These parties claimed that local option had proved a failure in their respective districts and in most cases indicated that more liquor was being sold than formerly. The significant feature of all these statements was the fact that without an exception not one of them was dated. MISREPRESENTATION EXPOSED. On seeing this advertisement the officers of the Citizens' Local Option Committee immediately sent a representative to Campbellford, who reached there about ten o'clock yesterday morning. He soon found that the statement published in the Peterborough papers was four years old. It was circulated in Campbellford four years ago when Local Option had been in effect for only about a year. Investigation revealed the fact that among the eighteen names appearing on the paper were those of some men who have since lost their business through excessive drinking. Two of the men have never been citizens of the town. Another is dead; another lives in Toronto and several when seen stated that they are now in favor of Local Option although for a while some years ago they thought it was going to prove a failure. Others of those on the statement agreed to furnish interviews during the afternoon. COUNTER-PETITION. When it was found yesterday morning that false statements were being published in the Peterborough papers about the success of Local Option in Campbellford, arrangements were immediately made to circulate a counter-petition expressing the unbounded satisfaction of the professional and business men of Campbellford as well as of the manufacturers with the working of Local Option. By one o'clock this petition, which stated emphatically that the town of Campbellford is thriving under Local Option, that hotel accommodation is good, and that the town is a cleaner and better place in which to live than ever before, had been signed by Mayor C. L. Owen, Police Magistrate G. A. Payne, Editor G. A. Kingston, of the Campbellford Herald, F. C. and R. C. Weston of the Weston Shoe Co., Limited, Charles Davidson, Cammell, W. A. Ashton, foreman in the Woollen Mills, and by many others. This statement is dated December 31st, 1912, and by last evening was largely signed by the most representative citizens of the town. OTHER PLACES HEARD FROM. In addition to sending a representative to Campbellford the long distance telephone was used with the result that J. H. Burgess, druggist of Lakefield, and Jno. J. Rogers, of Norwood, both stated that they had never signed such a statement as was published in the Peterborough papers Tuesday night by the liquor interests, that they had never authorized the publication of such a statement and that they had repeatedly endeavored to prevent its circulation. The Reeves of Lakefield and Norwood, as well as Mr. Rogers, of Norwood, declared Local Option to be a success. BRIGHTON CONDITIONS. Reeve Wade, of Brighton, stated that no one of the name of Henry Snider lived in Brighton, that Local Option in Brighton is a great success, that it has been in force for several years and that there is no mention of repealing it. Reeve Joyce, of Havelock, stated that there is no one of the name of A. C. Barrett in Havelock, that the people of Havelock are well satisfied with Local Option, that he does not know of any liquor selling in Havelock, and that he has not heard any talk of a repeal contest. Reeve R. J. Mulligan, of Omemee, stated that it is over three years since Joseph T. Beatty was Reeve of Omemee, and that he heard recently that Mr. Beatty is now a brewer in Local Option, especially if Local Option can be carried in Landay and Peterborough. Reeve Mulligan stated that Local Option is a great success in Omemee. The bank, he told him Monday that business is thriving, and a hog buyer told him that the farmers never shipped so many hogs as at present. There is no drinking among the boys of the district that he knows of, and he believes he would know of it if there was drinking. A former official of the License Department in Toronto stated that the party in Wyoming whose name was published in Tuesday night's papers, was a hotel-keeper who had frequently been convicted for selling liquor illegally, both under license and under Local Option, and that he is practically an outlaw in his own home district. May not the citizens of Peterborough conclude, when the liquor interests are forced to resort to such tactics to uphold their case, that Local Option must be a splendid thing for any town or city. All the citizens of Peterborough should be careful about believing any statements published the next few days by the liquor interests, because the evidence here given shows that they are not to be depended upon.

MR. LANCASTER AND NE TEMERE
Mr. A. E. Lancaster, M.P., is severely criticized by the Catholic Record because he has intimated his intention to introduce an amendment to the Criminal Code making anyone guilty of an indictable offense who would promulgate the Ne Temere decree. Our esteemed contemporary the Orange Sentinel, think that notwithstanding the opinion of the editor of the Record, there are many thousands of Canadian citizens who believe that the severest punishment should be provided for those who destroy the domestic peace of a family by enforcing the Ne Temere decree. In this connection it is interesting to note that the very thing which Mr. Lancaster is trying to do in Canada has already been done in Italy. For nearly twenty years the criminal code of Italy—a strictly Roman Catholic country—has provided imprisonment for any priest or ecclesiastic who questions the validity of the civil marriage laws of that country. Mr. Lancaster therefore is proposing to do just what the people of the most Roman Catholic country in the world have already done. This will not appear an unreasonable attitude to those who can regard the question impartially.

SECURE ANOTHER INDUSTRY
The Henry Hope & Sons By-law is to give a site and an exemption from taxes (except school taxes and local improvement taxes) for ten years. The Company agree to erect a building 80 x 200 feet, and invest at least $60,000 in building and plant, and to employ from the start at least fifty persons. The cost to the ratepayers at the present assessment will be less than 12 cents a year on an assessment of $1,000 for twenty years. But the increased population will mean an increased assessment to bear the small necessary rate and reduce this 12 cents. At the present assessment of the site the City receives from the land $97.00 in taxes, and at a moderate assessment the Company will pay $250.00 in taxes over the exemption. Each new factory means more employment, more population, more business and more prosperity. VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW

COST OF LIVING BOUNDING UPWARD

Wages Not Keeping Pace With Continued Increase of Prices According to Official Figures

That the cost of living in the United Kingdom is still on the increase is shown by the Board of Trade statistics the figures showing that $1.09 3-10 cents was required in 1912 to buy the same quantity of goods as $1.00 in 1911. Thus in the last fifteen years prices and the cost of living generally have advanced 25 per cent. What cost 24 cents in 1896 cost 30 cents in 1911, or, to put it in another way, rather more than 5 cents, by an invisible process was deducted from every 24 cents of wages paid.

In foodstuffs the rise in prices has been remarkable; $1.13 4-10 was required in 1911 to buy the same quantity of foreign corn that could have been bought for 80 3-10 cents in 1896. The latter and rice have altered little in price in recent years, but the advance in the price of hops has been more than 100 per cent. In 1911 $1.61 4-10 cents would only buy the same quantity that could have been purchased for 71 3-10 cents in 1896. Beef and mutton have changed but slightly in price, but eggs have advanced. Bacon touched its lowest figure in 1896, when $2 7-10 cents would buy that quantity for which $1.42 3-4 had to be paid in 1911. Eggs were at their lowest in 1897, when $6 9-10 cents would buy as many as $13.90 4-10 in 1911.

The Board of Trade figures show that in 1911, but from the calculations published by Mr. Sauerbeck, the statistician, it is known that the rise in prices has continued at an even more disquieting rate. Thus what 80 cents would buy in 1911 now costs $1.30 3-10 cents. Thus it is certain that the cost of living has risen since 1896 to about one third, so that 24 cents today only buys what could be obtained for 16 cents in 1896. That wages have not kept pace with the advance in the cost of living is shown by the Board of Trade figures. Where $9 9-10 cents was paid to the worker in 1896, the year of the lowest average prices, in 1911 100 3-10 cents was paid, and in the fifteen years 1896-1911 wages rose 11 4-10 per cent.

THE PRINCE AT OXFORD

To Take the Undergraduate's Course of Living in College

There is to be one remarkable difference between the Prince of Wales in Oxford and that of King Edward when he went there as an undergraduate. For King Edward a house was taken during his time at Christ Church, and he lived in a college, but at Exeter Hall, beside the Embankment, the Prince of Wales is to live in college. Magdalen, has a royal residence, and it is in the foundry tower which was the residence of the Prince of Wales when he was in college in 1896.

The Prince of Wales will have three rooms of one of the "old fellows" rooms in the new building overlooking the river, which are large and light and, of course, more extensive than the undergraduates' rooms. Living in college will give the Prince more of an understanding of the life of the undergraduates than if he were to live in a private house. It is not to join to college again. Possibly, that would be too demoralizing a step. It may have been so, but not taking a course specially for him is as far as can be gone.

As he gained a footing Dubois discovered that he had saved his mother-in-law, with whom he had been on bad terms for a long time. Witnessing the rescue, the seriousness of his act, he threw the woman in the water again, and walked away swearing without taking any more notice of her. Fortunately, at the first cries for help, a boatman had put out into the river, and he picked up the woman, who otherwise would have been drowned.

THE ITALIAN FAILING

Not Likely to Make Much of a Success of Tripoli Colony

According to Lawrence Mott, who has had many opportunities of studying the Italian character and the trend of Italian policy, the chances of Italy making a success of the Tripoli colony experiment are quite as doubtful as the question of her success in war. Mr. Mott recalls Italy's failure in Abyssinia, and declares that unless the Italians are prepared to abandon the policy of centralization that they have been wedded to they will fail in Tripoli. To the Italian, Rome is the headquarters of everything. Every Italian looks to Rome for his instructions, and the officials who will act on their own initiative if they happen to be serving their country anywhere but in the capital are few indeed. Mr. Mott says that if the Italians had left the conduct of the military operations in Abyssinia in the hands of the generals on the spot they might have defeated Menelik. Even in the present war there is a disposition to act on advice from Rome rather than according to the exigencies of the situation as they present themselves to the generals in the field. Tripoli will not be a successful Italian colony if the Italians attempt to govern it as they have governed of Tripoli to grant a sum of not exceeding $3,000 to each of the nine provinces for the encouragement of agriculture along this line. Very favorable replies had been received to such a request from the Liberal Government, but owing to the change at Ottawa it has been necessary to renew the request.

GIANT SEA WEEDS

Some Unable to Survive in Cold Water Some in Warm

Climate affects the inhabitants of the sea just as it does those of the land. As Arctic land plants cannot grow at the equator, so in the Arctic and Antarctic oceans marine plants are found only in the temperate and tropical waters. Among the most numerous of these are seaweeds, which sometimes grow in great size, exceeding in height the tallest climbing plants of the tropics. Seaweeds are found in all the warm waters of the world, and they never advance further from their frigid homes than to the limits of "summer temperatures" in the ocean. The gentle warmth destroys them, just as a polar blast shrivels the flowers of a tropical garden.

ARMY'S WIRELESS

An instrument for wireless telegraphy has been fixed to the top of Blackpool Tower, and is to serve as the western wireless station of the British Army. The apparatus has a certified range of 100 miles, but it is much greater capacity than this, and it is hoped eventually to communicate with the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

PLOWMEN'S WORK BASIC

Good Tillage Essential to Advancement—Federal Aid Sought

"If there is to be the forward movement in agriculture that is talked of as necessary in this province, the foundation of it must be a proper cultivation of the soil," declared Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of Agriculture and Horticultural Societies. Mr. Wilson was hopeful of considerable revival of interest in the matter of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, which will hold its annual meeting on February 2 in the Toronto City Hall. The association gets a grant of $25,000 a year from the Dominion Government.

WHY VOTE FOR LOCAL OPTION?

It Increases Drunkenness and Encourages the Secret Gazing of Whiskey—Creates "Blind Pigs"—Demoralizes Youth and Injures Business—Facts vs. Fiction

Local option, according to the placards, was going to do wonders. Its promises were large and attractive. By the simple process of voting out all licenses it would—so its advocates proudly declared—eliminate drunkenness and crime. It was an extensive order, but the local optionists promised they could fill it, and a number of communities were voting for the new dispensation, which was to inaugurate an era of unprecedented lawlessness.

Midland was one of these municipalities. To-day the thoughtful citizens of Midland know better. They know what Local Option means. They have seen the convictions for drunkenness and other offenses go to such a figure that compared to it the years before Local Option went into effect were peaceful and law-abiding years.

In the year 1907 when Local Option went into effect in Midland there were only 12 convictions for being drunk and disorderly. Since that time there have been more than 125 convictions of drunks and disorderlies. From May 1st, 1909, to May 1st, 1910, there were 17 convictions of drunks and disorderlies. The next year there were 30 convictions. In the year ending May 1st, 1912, there were—thirty-three convictions of drunks and disorderlies. Seven convictions for being drunk and driving, and using profane language. Twenty-four convictions for being drunk and incapable. In the last three years up to May 1st, 1912, there have been 32 convictions of drunks and disorderlies.

These are the facts. They cannot be ignored. But they are not all of the facts. The arrests for drunkenness are but a part of the whole; only the drunks who make scenes on the streets are run in.

Licenses have gone out in Midland. But large shipments of whiskey have regularly gone in, as every well-informed person in Midland knows. In varying experience shows that wherever license is abolished, a light beverage like beer which contains only three to four per cent of alcohol is driven out because of its difficulty of concealment and unpalatability when warm, and whiskey, which contains 50 per cent, or more of alcohol, is smuggled in.

The regularly licensed place would not under any circumstances sell liquor to minors. If it did, its license could be taken away. But the irresponsible "pocket peddlers" and "blind pig" operators, caring only for profits and having no license to lose, sell whiskey even to boys, directly causing their ruin.

Midland is only one of many Local Option municipalities which had this experience. It has been a hard-learned and humiliating experience, and has convinced many former believers in Local Option that it is far better to have licensed places, than to encourage the secret and indiscriminate sale of whiskey by lawless characters. They are convinced, also, that it is immeasurably better to have liquor dispensed in public places than to have the same clandestinely driven to the homes as is often now the case.

The inventor claims for his new dirigible airship that it is suitable for trans-oceanic, naval, or military purposes. The principal features of this invention are as follows:—The gas envelope is constructed of fire proof material and is arranged as a large spiral tube to allow of expansion and contraction, and to minimize risks of explosion. This spiral winds round about an open cylinder of minimum alloy, or other light material. The object of the cylinder is to increase mobility, and to allow of travelling against the wind when necessary, which the present balloons in use will not always do.

This cylinder is provided with a "wind metal sheath, to which the gas envelope, elevators and bracing are attached, and may allow of a Juome engine and aviator to be fixed and seated within. The current of air passing through the cylinder also acts upon a large tail aeroplane, combined also with continuous and sectional aeroplanes on either side to steady the balloon.

Communication within the cylinder and the boat-car, which are detachable and waterproof, is maintained by flexible tubes and ladders. The boat-car is provided with small water propellers, in case of accidents when over the ocean.

The additional objects aimed at to increase the speed and mobility are to combine the advantages of a "lighter-than-air" ship with a "heavier-than-air" one, to prevent sudden ascension, etc., also to regulate and steer by means of flexibility desired. Continuous steel or other metal chains link up the external balloons which support the aeroplanes, not tugs, etc., from end to end of the balloon, which has been designed to provide against almost any contingency.

The envelope or gas-bag is constructed of asbestos and is bagged with the former as a guard against inflammation, and the latter against leaks through porosity. There would be a crew of about four men in each of the "boat-cars" under the balloon and

South Africa Ready to Participate in Wireless Scheme

One of the first of the "Britains" beyond the seas, to express willingness to participate in the scheme of Empire wireless stations for the purpose of important defence, and as for commercial needs, is South Africa. The Union Government has selected a site at Port Natal, where a high power station is to be built, which will be to be included in other parts of the Empire, will be built. General Botha through Sir David Graah notified the Secretary of State for the Colonies and the Postmaster-General of the intention of his Government to defray the cost of the installation, which is estimated at $100,000.

From the point of view of defence, the scheme is highly important, for from the Pretoria station the administrative capital of the Union will by day and night, by means of its high powered duplex station, receiving and transmitting at the same time and with automatic apparatus, be in communication with both England and Australia.

ARMY'S WIRELESS

An instrument for wireless telegraphy has been fixed to the top of Blackpool Tower, and is to serve as the western wireless station of the British Army. The apparatus has a certified range of 100 miles, but it is much greater capacity than this, and it is hoped eventually to communicate with the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

PLOWMEN'S WORK BASIC

Good Tillage Essential to Advancement—Federal Aid Sought

"If there is to be the forward movement in agriculture that is talked of as necessary in this province, the foundation of it must be a proper cultivation of the soil," declared Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of Agriculture and Horticultural Societies. Mr. Wilson was hopeful of considerable revival of interest in the matter of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, which will hold its annual meeting on February 2 in the Toronto City Hall. The association gets a grant of $25,000 a year from the Dominion Government.

these boats were made of canvas and quite navigable in the event of a descent into the sea. The propellers are situated on each side, with an optional additional propeller, as stated, in the bow of the balloon where the auxiliary Gnome engine would be placed. The shape of the gas envelope and the balloon generally, and the optional central cylinder, it is claimed, not only give far less air pressure, thus enabling the airship to travel against the wind, but also gives much greater strength and safety.

WHAT JOE MAKES GOT ON AN EIGHT OZ. ROD

The Joe Marks Co. once more lifted the Grand Opera House last night. Their "show," what is the correct word? "made" a hit by his (nearly) new speech, wishing the audience happy New Year, and advising them to begin the year by coming to the Grand to today's matinee and evening show. This reminds us that Joe Marks, told one of our reporters a story on himself. When Joe was fishing at Christie's Lake, his summer home, one hot day last July, seated in a Peterborough canoe, and winded an 8 ounce rod, he felt a tug at the butt end of the latter. He quickly reeled in. Suddenly his prey seemed to be coming too quickly, and as quickly sped away. To save the strain on the line, Joe let 60 or 70 feet of line out. The crisis was all the war correspondents say came. Again he reeled in and to the surface, with hook firmly imbedded in its thin end, came a waterlogged shark. That the traction of the line had caused to shoot through the water.

DISPATCHING PHONES

C.P.R. Will Equip One Thousand More Miles With Device

Over a thousand miles of new telephone circuits will be added by the C.P.R. to their present system next year. On most of the eastern lines the service has already been installed and has proved highly successful. In dispatching trains a phone will be installed on the C.P.R. line to Ottawa, and with this connection it is expected that all the phones will be placed out of P. M. Arthur. The C.P.R. have already equipped one thousand miles of line with dispatching phones, and the program for next year is completed. It is expected that the railway will have the largest phone circuit mileage of any railway in the world. At present it stands second in this respect.

IMMORALITY UNDER LOCAL OPTION

Despite Prohibition Promises, Conditions Reveal Flagrant Exits.

One of the promises held out by the prohibitionists was that if local option was adopted, immorality would cease. The prohibitionists claimed that vice and immorality resulted from the sale of liquor, and that if licenses were abolished, there would be a model state of morality.

It is of importance to learn from the reports of the Provincial Bureau for the Neglected and Dependent Children of Ontario, that the contrary has been the result. For example, local option was adopted in Owen Sound early in 1909. In that year 18 children were rescued by the Owen Sound Children's Aid Society from immoral or destitute conditions. Of these 18 children, four were illegitimate, three of them babies.

In 1910 the Owen Sound Police Magistrate committed 27 children to the Society. Three of them were illegitimate infants. A number of the cases of the older children were rescued from immoral surroundings. "One of the discouraging features of our work," reported the agent of the Owen Sound Children's Aid Society, "is the prevalence of immorality among young people. The history of this year's work proves this all too sadly and fully."

Last year no less than 27 children had to be taken care of by the Owen Sound Children's Aid Society. Some were taken from extremely immoral environments. Of two other of the rescued children the Agent's report says, "two children, a girl of about eleven and a boy of six, were taken from a home where the parents were charged with drunkenness. On a promise of sobriety for the future the children were returned to their

WOMEN FOR GERMAN ARMY

German women are discussing a project launched at Düsseldorf for the establishment of feminine conscription. The proposal is that women shall be compelled to do military service the same as men, particularly as nurses in war time and as helpers in the commissariat, transport and uniform departments of the army, both in peace and war. Such expressions have been obtained from well-known feminist leaders indicate only moderate enthusiasm for the scheme.

THROW UP WINDOWS

Dr. Nasimith Says: This Is Best Way to Ventilate Schools.

All the windows in school classrooms should be thrown wide open for at least half an hour before 9 o'clock, at noon, and after 4 o'clock, and for ten minutes at recess, says Dr. G. G. Nasimith of the Toronto Medical Health Department.

Dr. Nasimith says that the windows are the most valuable means of ventilation, and the classrooms should be thoroughly flushed frequently and thoroughly with fresh air. He also thinks that the sense of smell of a normal person is as accurate a means of judging of the purity or impurity of the air as a chemical or bacteriological analysis. The stuffiness or freshness indicating a high or low carbonic acid gas count, and a large or small bacterial count.

These conclusions of Dr. Nasimith, from the analysis of air in six schools with as many different systems of ventilation, are confirmed by reports of observations in other cities.

EXPORTS OF BUTTER

The Year 1911 Was Good for Dairy-men Despite the Bad Weather

During the eleven months ending November 30, 1911, there were exported from Canada 1,659,261 boxes of cheese, valued at $18,067,450, and 134,000 packages of butter, valued at $1,733,360. This was an increase of $1,395,607 in butter over the entire year of 1910.

SKIRT MARKER

Fastens to Edge of Table and Marks Top of Garment.

There are a number of devices for marking the bottom part of a woman's skirt, but it remained for a North Carolina woman to patent the ingenious contrivance shown here for marking the upper part. This little tool is also designed to mark coat and jacket lengths. A holder is clamped to the edge of the dining-room table, or any table for that matter, and the marking point is held in this holder adjustably. It can be turned up or down. To mark the upper portion of a skirt the woman for whom the garment is being made puts it on and stands at the edge of the table. When she turns around in a circle the chalk point marks a circle on the skirt, or at the bottom of the coat or jacket, as the case may be. Unless the marker is stationary, as in this instance, it is impossible to describe such a circle that is the same distance from the ground at all points.

REMOVES ICEBERG DANGER

An Instrument Which Will Be Tested by the Marine Department

An invention which will minimize if not abolish altogether the risk from icebergs to steamships has been presented to the department of marine and fisheries by Professor Howard Barnes of McGill University. One of the department's vessels will be placed at the disposal of Professor Barnes for experimental purposes.

The instrument is claimed by Professor Barnes to detect at a distance of several miles the presence of masses of ice.

The cruise of Professor Barnes, who will be accompanied by several experts, will be in the Straits of Belle Isle, at a period when the iceberg season is in full swing. The government vessel will poke its way through the ice, and the instrument will record as in the manner of a thermometer the propinquity of the ice floes.

It is also claimed that the little instrument will not only register by its fluctuations the nearness of ice, but also of land. Experiments for this purpose will also be made.

A little more capital will do the work and we feel quite certain that we will be well recompensed for our time, money and labor. By placing up-to-date machinery in the mill, we can add fully 20 per cent to our profits. This is what we want capital for and our reason for selling stock. CANADA'S FIRST FLAG
Union Jack That Came Here After The Union of England and Ireland

A walk through the rooms of Mr. McCord's home on the Côte des Neiges road, Montreal is a walk back through the troubled history of early Canada. With Mr. McCord as your guide, one hears many interesting things about the history of Canada that he never heard before and standing before the battle-scarred weapons and blood-stained uniforms of early Canadian heroes, gain some appreciation of the bravery of their forefathers. A catalogue of the interesting and rare things which the museum contains it would be impossible to give, but some idea of what it contains may be gained from the following list of some of its treasures:—
The scarlet tunic and sword of General Brock, the hero of Queenston Heights; General Wolfe's paint box; De Salaberry's battle flag, the first Union Jack that came to Canada after the union of England and Ireland; a piece of oak from "La Petite Hermine," one of Jacques Cartier's ships; letters signed by de Vimont, Bellair, de La Roche and Tavernier, Nelson and the Duke of Wellington; Queen Elizabeth, Charles the First, and Second George Washington; Henry the Fourth of France; a piece of the corn grown by the Indians who were living on the site of the city of Montreal when Jacques Cartier landed.
It is a collection in Mr. McCord's opinion, which the British Museum would be glad to get.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 30,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the well last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS

Are becoming more popular; every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway system to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the everyday grind, the monotonous of strenuous life to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides it pays. Round trip tourist tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway system at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between these cities, carrying through coaches and electric lighted pullman sleeping cars, via the only double track line—making connections at these cities with through trains for the south.

BERMONS IN SENTENCES
Short prayers often last long. Friends do not freeze to a frozen heart. Easy times often account for hard habits. Nothing is really sacred until all things are. Big plans do not balance small performances. Short cuts to fortune are often bottomless cuts. If wishes were wings good works would soon cease. That soul is truly lost that path of darkness of the night. Many think they are going for ever because they fear to go. There is sorrow without selfishness at never selfishness without sorrow.

REMARKABLE TRIP OF A SCIENTIST

R. W. Williamson Tells of His Observations of the People in British New Guinea

Mr. R. W. Williamson, fellow of the British Anthropological Institute, who has returned from a scientific expedition through hitherto unexplored parts of British New Guinea, has given an account of his journey to the Institute, which by reason of the thrilling personal experiences of the narrator, and the remarkable conditions prevailing among the Mafu people, the most retrograde tribe on the island, surpasses in interest most trips of the kind. In these modern days, most of the adventures that are told have been revealed.

Accompanied only by a Chinese servant and two of the most civilized natives of Papua, he spent nearly five months in the country. After a long and perilous trip through almost impassable bush and undergrowth, infested by most venomous reptiles and wild beasts, the party who had been attacked by leprosy and other dangers of the forest, reached the Mafu Mountains.

"By this time," says Mr. Williamson, "my legs were covered with sores from bites of animals and tears of the scrub. There is, I am sure, subtle poison in the atmosphere, and even a slight hurt will be fatal."

"It was between 4,000 and 5,000 feet up the mountain that we came upon the Mafu, a small people entirely naked save for a strip of bark worn around the loins and under the legs. Their skin is a dark sooty brown, color half a grizzly, frizz brown and across their faces are woad splashes of color, chiefly bright red."

"Here in these wild out of the world regions I found two French Jesuit priests. I cannot express my immense admiration for these two men who lived there quite alone and unprotected."

"The Mafu, I discovered, though they are cannibals, are not a really head hunters. They only eat human flesh when the victim is killed in battle or private vendetta; but then the actual slaughter is not permitted to assist at the feast."

"At the big feast pig flesh is largely eaten. One village of about 100 people killed 120 pigs for their meal."

"The religion of the Mafu is simply primitive fear of spirits and spirits. They have not reached the stage of idolatry."

"They believe, for instance, that the fig tree and certain trailing plants are spirit haunts."

"A Jesuit priest who wanted to build a house was warned by the Mafu not to cut through one of these trailing plants. He laughed at their fears and cut it through."

"Strangely enough he was taken very ill the next day and had to be removed to the coast. And the natives were only strengthened in their superstitious fears."

"Marriage is a very simple process. A boy sees a girl he wants and goes to her house. A price is arranged for her, some pigs or a tomahawk and the girl's parents accompany the boy back to his home."

"Then they all sit outside the house and the wedding is over."

"Mafu bury their dead under the ground, except the chiefs, who are put into boxes above the ground or placed in the branches of the fig tree."

There is a difference of a degree between English and French charts as to their situation. A steamer left Sydney to try to rediscover these missing islands. They were 13 years 30 years ago.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A FAILURE

Frank Admission by a Man of Good Training—Lacks the "Essentials"

The following letter headed "The Autobiography of a Failure" received by the Globe from London, Ontario, is accompanied by the writer's full name and address, and a short note in which he says: "It is not written as a story for aid or a cheap advertisement but is written in the belief that the reading thereof may be profitable to some young men who have nothing but lack some of the essentials."

The letter follows:
Yes, thirty years of age I am a failure, and I know it. A sad admission, you say? Wait until you have read this little story, which is also late fact from beginning to end, and you will see that I am not in despair.

Successes are blazoned forth in almost every newspaper or periodical we read, but failures are rarely recorded. This fact emboldens me to write this account, for I believe that the reading of my record may, in some way, be of benefit to some who youthful experiences promise to be the same as mine.

Of good Scottish birth, carefully nurtured and instructed at an early age I manifested symptoms of an intelligence above the ordinary by taking the lead in my classes of school, both in mental and manual dexterity. At the age of twelve the symptoms became more prominent, for I obtained, without any preparation or study, a valuable scholarship in open competition at one of the well-known English public schools. From the age of sixteen until twenty there is nothing of importance to record, except that perhaps I was full of a glowing ambition which did fair to be realized for I was the recipient of frequent "raises" and a meed of praise from my employers. At the age of twenty-one I made my second change of employment. Hitherto I had been in the office and warehouse, now I went to the road.

A ready tongue, a "savoir faire," an extensive general knowledge, made me appreciated and after a year, the retail of the manager in charge of the firm's works made a salary which I promptly asked for. I obtained it so at the age of twenty-three. I found myself in charge of the affairs of a company employing upwards of 300 men, and I was quite competent to undertake the work. I continued in this position for four years, but, and this, to my mind, the central fact of my story—before I had discovered by a process of self-analysis, to which I am prone to subject myself, that I was lacking in those essentials to success, concentration and application, or "stick-at-it-ness," though I was well equipped, mentally and physically, for almost any job.

At the end of that time the raw material we mined for manufacturing showed symptoms of exhaustion, so I gave up in order to come to this land of opportunity. Landing here with $200, a heart of hope, and a firm determination to overcome my failings, I soon obtained employment of a kind but the exact nature of it I could make no idea. I was told it was a false sense of security and my failings again showed themselves. I had never any of the vices of youth, I never gambled or drank, or had an undue fondness for amusement.

My natural ability and handiness enabled me to perform the regular journeyman's work in quite a few trades, but the intermittent character of some trades in Canada, the "waits between jobs" so to speak, soon dimmed my store of savings.

I applied for better work, but I found to my regret that my own experience, which was solely in the direction of manual labor, did not commend itself to those prospective employers. I do not blame them in the least, but I felt like saying sometimes, "Well, I'll never get the experience you want if I never make a beginning, nor will anyone else." I, however, refrained from uttering such a childish remark.

Now, we are in the year of grace 1912; for seven weeks I have been unable to secure employment of any kind in the town in which I write this. I have not the slightest idea where to go, and this is the land of opportunity! I say so without a tinge of sarcasm.

I will not throw up the sponge and write for aid to those I know in the old land. Perhaps this will be a turning point in my career; the mere writing of this makes a stirring of hope within me.

At the present time, however, I am in a very bad way, but not for the first time. I must be paid and in most I must go out—
I shall I go!

FLIGHT TO EUROPE

Possible for the Aviator to Alight on Land or Sea if His Engine Stops

Pontoon of an entirely new type, which can be inflated or deflated and attached to an especially designed aeroplane that will fly over land or sea, have been patented by Harry N. Atwood, of Lynn, Mass.

The invention, devised of this aviator, promises to revolutionize the art. With his improved type of pontoon and other attachments, which will be added to a machine he is designing, Atwood's projected flight to Europe seems certain.

According to the young aviator, but one other improvement is necessary to ensure absolute safety on a long flight such as that proposed. It is an engine which can be started without the assistance of anyone. The new engine would be so constructed that it could be started at a moment's notice by the aviator, without passing from his seat. Atwood has indicated that he has ideas along this line, which will develop in the near future.

When the engine is started, the structure of the pontoon is constructed of an eight inch rubber over a light framework of fabric, which gives them shape. Despite their frailness these pontoons, Atwood claims, will stand up in any sort of sea or wind.

Muskrat on Water Conservation.

Bobcatgeon Independent, reports a muskrat's conservation overboard as follows: "Those muttheads around Peterborough who are having the water held up to spring level, ought to be held up by their heels for a few hours, to see if any sense would run into their brain pans. High price of living, indeed. It is as much as my life is worth, to dive for a clam, the water is that deep. Water seems to be getting on the brain of everybody, for the whole country is going daffy over Local Option and Natives."

The bride wore a beautiful gown of ivory duchess satin, trimmed with Maline lace and pearls, made en traine; a veil of Brussels lace was arranged in a Juliet cap effect, with pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a glorious shower bouquet of bridal roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a diamond and sapphire pendant, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Irene Pontland, the maid of honor, wore a crystal and chamoisee, trimmed, made en traine, a Juliet cap of dew drops, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. W. S. Canniff of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Mr. H. W. Fleming, brother of the groom, attended the bridegroom.

At the conclusion of the service the signing of the register was being carried out. Mr. George Chandler sang the solo, "O Fair! O Sweet! O Holy! O Holy!" After this, Mr. Devey played in a masterly manner the wedding march of Mendelssohn.

NEARLY 20,000 BOTTLES OF WHISKEY SEIZED In Prohibition Regions in New Ontario in Two Years and the Shipments Are Still Going In

A remarkable object lesson of the practical results of prohibition may be gathered from the reports of the Ontario Provincial Police. This force, among other powers, has jurisdiction over the entire stretch of the immense territory comprised in New Ontario. Part of its duties is to see that the prohibition laws are properly enforced, and to this end it seizes whatever liquor it finds where there is no destination or in "blind pigs."

For the last three years its seizures of whiskey have been at the rate of 8,000 to 9,000 bottles a year. During the year ending October 31, 1911, the Provincial Police seized 8,898 bottles of whiskey, and during the year ending October 31, 1912, its seizures were more than 9,000 bottles of whiskey. Since the Provincial Police assumed control of New Ontario, on January 1, 1910, the seizures have been considerably more than 20,000 bottles of whiskey.

But these seizures represent only a portion of the total shipments. The Provincial Police are an efficient force, ably administered, and extremely vigilant in the discharge of their duties. But great as is their vigilance it is admitted that a large number of bottles of whiskey are smuggled in successfully. The methods of smuggling are many and ingenious. Whiskey is concealed in merchandise, vegetables, hay, tubs of butter, barrels of lard, in lumber and in multifarious other ways.

It is also hidden on the person of travelers or in suit cases. At a very conservative estimate it may safely be assumed that a very large number of bottles of whiskey have been successfully smuggled in and their contents consumed. Perhaps the number has been equal to the amount seized.

Moreover, whiskey in the bottled form is only one way in which that intoxicant is shipped. Last year the Provincial Police seized 5 barrels of whiskey, 164 gallons of whiskey, and a large quantity of gin and other liquors, and 237½ gallons of "dog wine." Made from the refuse of sugar factories "dog wine" is almost all alcohol. One gallon, costing $4.25, can be diluted so as to make approximately five gallons of "dog."

The "dog" is saved by citizens who have arrived at the conclusion that it is the only feasible remedy. In the whole of the great New Ontario region there are only a few

ANTI-LOCAL OPTION NOTES

The intimation that the fathers and mothers of Peterborough cannot bring up their children as well as their fathers and mothers brought them up is an insult to their intelligence.

The opponents of local option do not seek to provide drink for boys who do not drink, but for men who do drink. There should be legalized places in Peterborough where such men could go to drink without patronizing a law breaker.

Local Optionists vociferously assert that seventy-five per cent of crime is due to the hard drink. It is not true. Nine per cent of crime is due to four things greed, jealousy, lust and revenge, leaving but ten per cent due to drink and all other causes combined.

A Local Option town is invariably a dull town. If you do not wish to drive business away from Peterborough and boost the business of the mail order houses of Toronto vote against Local Option.

Another direful effect of Local Option is to encourage drinking in homes. A man who buys liquor for home consumption buys by wholesale, and a man who buys by wholesale drinks by wholesale, and drunkness is increased. And again, if a bottle of liquor on a shelf in a hotel is a menace to the safety of a boy, a bottle of liquor on a shelf in his own home is a thousand times greater menace to his safety.

If you do not wish to drive people away from Peterborough and boost the business of the mail order houses of Toronto vote against Local Option.

There are twelve hotels in Peterborough at the present time. Local Option would immediately reduce the number not less than fifty per cent, and ultimately there would not be more than three places that, by any stretch of imagination, could be dignified by calling them hotels.

Reduced to its last analysis the question of what we shall drink with our meals and between meals, is a question that every one settles for himself, and we settle it for ourselves just as promptly in Local Option territory as we do in anti-Local Option communities.

There were four gentlemen in Peterborough last night, such as claiming the advantage of Local Option towns, two from West Toronto, one from Newmarket, and one from Orillia. Did any of these gentlemen patronize The National?

licenses—one at Cochrane and a few at Halesbury, and other places. Under the Ontario Mining Act no licenses are allowed in mining districts; they are strictly prohibition territory. These mining districts are the very districts where the greater part of the enormous seizures of whiskey have been made. In Cobalt there are more than 100 "blind pigs," dozens of them in the Porcupine district, and more than 50 in Cochrane. Many of these are in private homes.

Prohibition and the whiskey trade thrive together. The manifest evils are so notorious in New Ontario, the "blind pigs" so numerous in the prohibition districts, and the number of arrests of drunks and disorderlies is so great, that public opinion everywhere demands licenses. The municipal officials of Cobalt, Porcupine and other towns have publicly declared that the only way to get rid of the large surreptitious traffic in whiskey and the consequent intoxication and demoralization is to grant beer licenses. By allowing such licenses, they hold, the selling of beer (which contains only three or four per cent alcohol) will discourage the sale and consumption of a heavy intoxicant such as whiskey which contains 50 per cent, or more, of alcohol. Magistrate Dempsey of Cochrane who has convicted dozens of "blind piggers" and landladies of drunks, openly declares for beer licenses.

Something must certainly be done to discourage, and, if possible, stop the whiskey trade. It is a trouble and encourages that trade which prohibition must be discarded. License reduction will not do it, there is only one license in Cobalt, and if license reduction is away with intoxication, then drink is ought to be nil in Cochrane. But in a single year there have been 12 cases of "blind piggers" and 12 cases of drunks and disorderlies before Magistrate Dempsey in Cochrane. These cases did not burden the "home" drunks.

The only solution seems to be the granting of beer licenses which will allow the sale of this beverage. Such a measure has powerfully promoted temperance in Europe, and growing public opinion believes it will do so here. Milton Carr, M.P.P., the most prominent Liberal in Cobalt, favors this plan and he is only one of an increasing number of earnest ones, and citizens who have arrived at the conclusion that it is the only feasible remedy.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The price of eggs is now so high that a human actor considers it a great compliment when one is thrown at him.

A local physician says that rattlesnake venom is now used to cure epilepsy that is often caused by a too free use of the old time remedy for snake poison.

A New York clergyman says: "Nothing can get so cold as the human heart." Evidently he has never felt his wife's cold feet against the middle of his back when the mercury was below the freezing point.

The Review says that the moon is superior to man in one respect, and that is that it can get very full and yet be bright and pleasing to look upon. Our contemporary evidently knows all about it.

When the Conservatives came into power there was a big rush for Government jobs, by men, many of whom were not deserving of them. Unfortunately for these people, there was not enough positions to go around. So that they will have to stick to the old job of working for a living indefinitely.

The Globe printed a paragraph the other day that the stomach of a physician died a short time ago on the Upper Saguenay River, in Quebec contained a couple of whiskey bottles, a number of pipes, a couple of 10-pound fish and a pair of trousers. The story would pass as the gospel truth were it not for the trifling fact that there are no poisons in the Saguenay.

We would suggest, in view of the weaker the Examiner is kicking up over the Rockham bridge and other matters, that our contemporary be placed under the ban of the Society for the Suppression of Unnecessary Notes. To this G. F. J. Hon. Jim is interesting only when in a state of violent emotion, which has been more or less continuous since September 21, 1911.

THE TURK'S "INFLEXIBILITY"

The attitude of the Turkish peace commissioners would suggest that the Ottoman government is proceeding on the notion that the Balkan states, instead of being "victors on the battlefield," were, in fact, the losers. The counter-proposals submitted to the Balkan Commissioners are, of course, preposterous in their relation to Turkish ability to maintain them. Probably no one knows this better than the Turkish commissioners themselves.

It is the Oriental nature to procrastinate and bargain, to give the appearance of firmness when at the same time they are preparing to yield. The failure of the conference to finally agree upon terms of lasting peace is not, therefore, indicated by the course of the Porte. The Turk likes to imagine himself inflexible, as a matter of fact he is done for, and knows it.

The great powers, moreover, must be reckoned with. They did not, it is true, prevent the Balkan war from breaking out. But they did keep it within the limits of the Balkan states and they are not likely to stand by and see that war renewed when renewal may involve themselves in a Titanic struggle.

INSTRUCTING ASSESSORS.

On the subject of Tax Reform Sir James Whitney has been the object of much abuse and misrepresentation. He suggests that assessors are largely responsible for existing irregularities and injustices. It is the intention to instruct assessors in their duties, and when the law has been intelligently interpreted and applied to determine whether or not there should be amendments. As the Premier told the Assessment Committee if the results are not satisfactory it will be the duty of the Government to provide a remedy by new legislation. The News thinks that there is no doubt the leaders of the movement for tax reform aim at Single Tax by gradual approaches. This Sir James Whitney will oppose, and unquestionably in doing so will have the support of the great majority of the people. So local option may be undesirable both in the interests of the municipalities and out of regard for the general financial reputation of the Province. Probably it will be found that some amendments to the general law are necessary, but there is no prospect that Sir James Whitney will go the whole way with the single taxers as it is very doubtful if the leaders of the present agitation will be satisfied with any less radical action.

Bright, Ruddy Cheeks For Pale Girls

NO LONGER ANY NEED TO BE PALE, WEAK OR ANAEMIC.

By Following the Advice of Miss McEwen You Can Quickly Become Strong Again.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly. Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general building take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton has invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up young women as his vegetable pills of Man Drake and Butterbur.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated. Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter, from Miss Etta McEwen, of Hamilton, Ont., speaks for itself.

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed."

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. At I looked as if a severe illness were hanging over my head."

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00, by mail from The Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

POLICE FORCE GIVE UP HOURS TO AID SPORT

Although the local police force stole many hours from their private time to attend officially at the baseball games last season, they made no charge for the same. The following letter explains itself:

To the Secretary of the Peterborough Canadian League Club:

Understanding that you have had difficulty in financing your club during the past year, the members of the Police Department have advised me to ask you to accept this letter as a receipt for your account and a donation towards your debt.

THE LOCAL OPTION BY-LAW

Directions to Voters Whose Names Appear on More Than One Place on Voters' List.

The revised Statutes of Ontario state that a voter has only one vote in a municipality on a Local Option By-law, even though his name appears on more than one place on the Voters' List. He is restricted to one vote on this By-law.

A voter must cast his ballot on the Local Option By-law in the Polling Division in which he resides or did reside at the time of the assessment. If a voter is not assessed as owner or tenant where he is now living or was living at the time of assessment, and his name is on the Voters' List in more than one Ward he must cast his ballot on Local Option at the first place he votes.

On the Municipal By-laws etc., a person can vote in each Ward where he is assessed as owner or tenant. But on Local Option By-law there is only one vote. A person must also be resident on day of vote and for three months previous to the day of vote.

We issue these directions to guard voters against any disappointment on Election Day that might occur through recent changes in the Law enacted during sessions of 1910, 1911 and 1912.

SECURE ANOTHER INDUSTRY

The Henry Hope & Sons By-law is to give a site and an exemption from taxes (except school taxes and local improvement taxes) for ten years.

The Company agree to erect a building 80 x 200 feet, and invest at least $60,000 in building and plant, and to employ from the start at least fifty persons.

The cost to the ratepayers at the present assessment will be less than 12 cents a year on an assessment of $1,000 for twenty years. But the increased population will mean an increased assessment to bear the small necessary rate and reduce this 12 cents.

At the present assessment of the site the City receives from the land $97.00 in taxes, and at a moderate assessment the Company will pay $260.00 in taxes over the exemption.

Each new factory means more employment, more population, more business and more prosperity.

NEW CANADIAN PLAY FIRST PRESENTED HERE

New Year's night, Messrs. Joe Marks Co. presented for the first time here a play by a Canadian playwright, with its scenes dating from the Canadian Prairie Province of Alberta, in which a Canadian girl gets the true love of her heart.

Messrs. Turner & Sons, seem to realize that the people of this city want, and Wednesday night the orchestra chairs, the parquet, the dress circle, and even the "pods" were crowded.

Now, right here begins a hard proposition to criticize a new play for the first time presented. The scenic come drama, "The Girl From Sunnyside," is a typical Canadian play, of deep interest. "The Girl From Sunnyside" is a typical Canadian play, of deep interest.

ONTARIO'S FIGHT AGAINST DISEASE

ONTARIO'S FIGHT AGAINST DISEASE.

34,341 Deaths Last Year Due To Various Diseases. — Only 98 Caused By Alcoholism.

While prohibition advocates are seeking to concentrate public attention on the liquor question and wildly exaggerating the number of deaths attributable to alcohol there is a really serious question vitally concerning every family, that is pressingly engaging intelligent minds.

Recently the Rev. Dr. Chambers, Governor of the Toronto Jail, made the public statement that last year there were 5,000 deaths due to strong drink in the Province of Ontario. The annual report, just out, of the Registrar-General of Ontario, reveals that there were just 98 deaths in the entire Province due to chronic and acute alcoholism. How there is a discrepancy of 4,902 deaths between the figure named in the Rev. Dr. Chambers' assertion and the facts as stated in the Registrar-General's Report.

Such inexcusable and irresponsible exaggerations not only discredit the statements made by the prohibitionists, but they show that the whole tendency of the prohibition movement is to belaud the popular and pressing evils demanding remedy.

Those who are interested in preserving human life and in reducing the exact status of mortality in the Province of Ontario may know these startling facts now set out in the Registrar-General's Report:—in the 10 years from 1902 to 1911 there were 9,012 deaths from diptheria, 3,795 deaths from typhoid fever, 7,215 deaths from diphtheria, 12,555 deaths from cancer, 29,923 deaths from various heart diseases, and 29,937 deaths from tuberculosis. In a single year, 1911, 3,235 children died before completing their fifth year, and in a number 6,421 died under one year of age.

There is a problem to cause you to think. When out of 34,341 deaths in 1911, only 98 could be attributed to alcohol, what can be attributed to the other 34,243 deaths?

astros results of alcohol can be dismissed from consideration. No doubt, excess in such and intoxicants as whiskey, gin, brandy, etc., may have had an indirect influence in superinducing a certain number of deaths, but the number was very small compared to the whole. Moreover, it is a not-worth fact that wherever prohibition is introduced a mild beverage like beer is driven out because of its difficulty of transportation and consumption, and the large and surreptitious use of whiskey goes on. Beer which has but 3 or 4 per cent. of alcohol has no such ruinous effects as the poison whiskey which has 50 or more per cent. of alcohol.

But whatever may be the problematical effect of alcohol in its direct relation to disease, it is certain that few, if any, of the greater number of deaths was even remotely associated with drink.

Diphtheria is a distinct germ disease, and like other infant diseases, usually originates, as the Registrar-General's report remarks, in bad housing, impure milk and inferior food, and other such causes. Great numbers of cases of bright's disease result from privation, overwork, worry and improper food. Of cancer, the report says, "it is unfortunate that the medical fraternity are, more or less, in a state of perplexity as to the cause of cancer." Tuberculosis, another germ disease, flourishes in unsanitary or overcrowded quarters where there is a lack of air and sunshine. As for typhoid fever the report remarks, "The greatest cause of typhoid in the Province is undoubtedly sewage-contaminated water. Several very extensive epidemics can be traced to this cause."

If prohibitionists are so much concerned about the rate of mortality, they have an opportunity of joining in some real work that will be productive of salutary results in thus eliminating or reducing the causes of these diseases. Instead of denouncing the fancied effects of drink they might, for example, learn that impure water has swept away nearly 6,000 persons in ten years, and with that knowledge, give their time to agitating for a better water supply in quarters where it is badly needed.

VIOLATION OF LAW IN NEW ONTARIO

The liquor interests are striving to make a great deal out of the fact that large quantities of liquor have been seized in New Ontario during the last three years. They claim that over 9,000 bottles of whiskey were seized in New Ontario this year and that perhaps an equal amount got through undetected. From this they try to prove that local option could not be enforced in Peterborough.

Suppose that 18,000 bottles of liquor were consumed in the thousands of square miles of territory in New Ontario in one year, that amount does not represent as much liquor as is consumed in only one of the large bars of Peterborough in a year. We have fifteen houses which condone their own showing of the fact last year.

But New Ontario is not under local option. It is simply a non-home district. The local option law has been more strict of the two. Any one found drunk in a local option district can be sent to goal until he tells where he got his liquor. This new provision of the law is scarcely the life out of the liquor seller. There is no such provision in New Ontario.

Under local option a man found selling liquor is fined from $100 to $500 and on a second conviction is sent to goal for four months without the option of a fine. This is not the case in New Ontario. WHAT IS THE USE THEN OF COMPARING CONDITIONS IN NEW ONTARIO WITH WHAT THEY WOULD BE IN PETERBOROUGH UNDER LOCAL OPTION?

Stops a Cough IN ONE NIGHT CATARRH AND WEAK THROAT NOW CURED WITHOUT SWALLOWING DANGEROUS DRUGS.

By Breathing the Soothing, Healing Vapor of Catarrhoxone All Throat and Catarrhal Troubles are Quickly Cured

It's simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or catarrh can be cured by Catarrhoxone. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath into the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes, and chest, making it impossible for the germ of any disease to live. This vapor in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and expectorated from the throat, old-standing coughs are removed.

"I suffered from an irritable, weak throat for three years. I had a severe cough, pain over the eyes, constant bad taste in my mouth, and hoarseness in my voice. It was chronic catarrh. Nothing gave permanent relief till I used Catarrhoxone. In one hour it relieved, and in a few weeks drove all trace of catarrh from my system."

"TIMOTHY'S A. SALMON, No. 6 Lorne street, Kingston, Ja. REMEMBER THIS—You breathe Catarrhoxone and it will cure your throat, chest or bronchial colds. Large size, guaranteed costs $1.00, and lasts two months; smaller sizes, 25c and 50c. Beware of imitations, and insist on 'CATARRHOXONE' only. By mail from the Catarrhoxone Co., Buffalo, N.Y. and Kingston, Ont."

Mr. Chris Moffatt, an old Peterborough boy, now having headquarters in Minneapolis, is among those who have made good. Some years ago, Mr. Moffatt, then a journeyman carpenter, left Peterborough for his present address. He is now superintendent of construction for one of the largest mill machinery plants in the United States. Mr. Moffatt has travelled extensively throughout the Southern and Western states installing mill machinery plants. When the quondam Canton No. 10, I.O.O.F. was installed on the exhibition grounds nearly a quarter of a century ago, by General Underwood, Mr. Moffatt was one of the charter members. He is still a member of Peterborough lodge No. 111, I.O.O.F. a member of the Masonic Order and of the Elks. He has frequently had as many as 400 men under him on one job. Mr. Moffatt is spending the Christmas holidays with relatives in the city.

Applause.

The profits from Hydro do not go into the Provincial treasury, but into the pockets of the various municipalities. The Government will advance the money to buy the Ontario Co. plant. The Government will advance the money at 4 per cent. If it takes five years before it suits the party back, the Government will not press the payment. Peterborough's misfortune is that she has allowed her valuable water powers to get out of her possession. Ontario, from Toronto to Cornwall is watching what the people of Peterborough will do with Hydro. Applause. He hoped to see the power of Peterborough owned by the people of Peterborough.

Mayor Bradburn said he hoped to see the Hydro Bill carried next Monday. We can pay for our outlay out of reduced rates.

VERY STRONG TESTIMONY

Oshawa's Leading Citizen and Financial Man Scores Local Option.

Mr. W. F. COWAN
President, The Standard Bank of Canada,
President, The Ontario Loan & Savings Company, President, The Ontario Mallicoate Iron Company, etc., etc.
makes public the weaknesses of Local Option.

From OSHAWA VINDICATOR, Dec. 26th, 1912.

WHAT ONE OF OUR MOST PROMINENT CITIZENS THINKS OF LOCAL OPTION

Oshawa, December 24th, 1912.

To the Editor of The Vindicator:

Oshawa is generally admitted to be the most prosperous town on the Grand Trunk Railway between Toronto and Montreal, and it is growth is not interrupted by adverse municipal legislation, will in the near future be in a position to demand a city charter.

Its eligibility, however, as an attractive residential centre is seriously marred by the fact that the street cars are debarred from connecting with the Sunday passenger trains, and the only conveyance available for visitors on that day is a dilapidated old vehicle, which would not be tolerated by the most remote backwoods village in the country.

Strangers naturally ask why an intelligent community does not remedy such an aggravating traffic condition, and on whom the responsibility for its origin and continuance rests.

This serious drawback to the advancement of the town I may inform them was the work of a bigoted majority in the town council, who had a clause inserted in the charter given to the Oshawa Railway Company debarbing it the privilege of running any cars on Sunday.

One might reasonably suppose that this mortifying specimen of puritanical legislation, resulting as it has in the permanent injury of the town, would have warned our municipal representatives from any further attempts to curtail the liberties and legal enjoyments of its citizens.

It would appear, however, that our cup is not yet full; the sword of Damocles so long suspended over our unfortunate heads is about to fall, and if not averted is certain to strike a deadly blow to our most cherished hopes and aspirations.

As an example of what may be expected here if Local Option is adopted I beg to cite that the neighboring town of Bowmanville many years ago adopted the "Scott Act," thereby closing up all its hotels, but it soon realized its folly, and after a short season of gloom it repented figuratively in sackcloth and ashes and embraced the first opportunity to repeal the tyrannical edict. But history is ever repeating itself, and a new generation has arisen here which under the leadership of impracticable demagogues has imposed the Local Option Act upon the little town which had never fully recovered the blow struck at its welfare by the passage of the "Scott Act."

Again, however, the fatal mistake has been realized, and the heads of the great manufacturing enterprise which is lifting up the dead town on its shoulders are demanding relief from the disabilities it imposes upon the liberties of their great army of intelligent employees.

In a simple letter of this nature it would be idle to enter into any abstract argument covering the use of alcoholic stimulants. It has been a bone of contention for centuries and will continue to be fought over until the advent of the millennium in the dim and distant future.

What we have to do with in this enterprising town is to realize clearly how it is going to effect us. Our hotels are now inadequate for the entertainment of the travelling public and many individual residents find it difficult to obtain rooms at certain seasons or partial board aside from lodgings.

What we really want is a large substantial increase in our hotel accommodations, of which there is practically no hope owing to the baleful shadow thrown upon all hotel property by the threatened Local Option Act.

In order to squarely realize our position in this matter let us suppose what course the inhabitants of this town would pursue if say the C. P. Railway would offer to build a fine hotel similar in class, but not in size of course, to those it has constructed in Quebec, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. Would not every impartial man warmly welcome the proposal and decide to consign to perpetual oblivion the Local Option Act with all its confusions and remorseless attacks on private property of law-abiding citizens?

Rely upon it if this unjust act should be carried it will reduce the value of all real estate in this municipality to an extent far below the figures now ruling, it will be found indeed a formidable check to our future prosperity.

Local Option, in my opinion is responsible for the developing of more drunkards than the open bar, because the pocket flask is of easier access than the remote barrel in the public house, pretty much in the same ratio that far more suicides are connected with the ever present handy revolver than with the long-range rifle.

In conclusion, let me call the attention of the Utopianists who have entered upon a crusade to restrict the liberty which is the heritage of the humblest citizen to the report recently issued by the "Committee of One Hundred" on the relations of drunkenness to crime in America which states that "One Prison Warden whose prisoners came for the most part from a great city with free saloons in which he declared that less than two per cent. of the inmates of his institution came there through drunkenness; while another Warden in a Prohibition State declared that nearly half of his inmates were there through the liquor habit."

I submit that no stronger confirmations of the futility of prohibition enactments could be submitted for the consideration of an impartial tribunal.

Yours truly,

W. F. COWAN.

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses, and you will never regret it. In this case you get a real likeness—a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

Sir,—Mr. Lancaster possibly denies that he has anything on the marriage question further on his mind. You and The Sentinel have not seen his energetic denials of a similar report a few weeks ago in all the newspapers. He is perfectly satisfied with the outcome of the agitation and reference to the courts. In fact there is no necessity for such a clause as you suggest. The machinery of the law is equal to the occasion now.

Mr. Burnham's question were the last word on the marriage question. They brought the matter to its full and logical conclusion.

BUDDHISM IN LONDON

Not a Creed for Aggressive People of the Occident—Monks Beg Bread

The Buddhist Society of Great Britain and Ireland have raised funds to found a Buddhist sangha or monastery in London. The society was formed in 1907 at a meeting over which Professor Rhys Davids presided.

In the following year a Buddhist monk paid a visit to London and gave several lectures on the Buddhist faith, and during his prolonged stay interviewed also a large number of people who were interested in the subject.

There are, moreover, several Buddhist monks of British birth in Ceylon and Burma, the most notable being Allan Bennett MacGregor, who was born in London but is of Scottish descent.

The life of a Buddhist monk is by no means an easy one. Shortly after rising at about four o'clock in the morning and performing his ablutions he repairs to the temple adjoining the monastery, where, after a recital of a portion of the Law, he stars on his begging round. One of the rules of the order is that all monks must beg for their daily food, but they are not allowed to receive gifts of money or flesh meat, their diet being strictly vegetarian, all animal products, eggs included, being prohibited. Monks also partake of one meal only a day, and that must be finished before noon, after which hour no food may be eaten.

Commenting on the activity of the Buddhists in London, the Standard says:

"A few Europeans have been attracted by the morality of the pure Buddhist creed, but on the whole it is not a religion that appeals to Western people. It lacks the powerful incentives to conduct of Christianity, and is equally destitute of Christendom's religion and intolerance. On the other hand, of Eastern Asia it contains a somewhat nervous hold, there are over nine million Buddhists in the Indian Empire, the vast majority of whom belong to Burma. But very rare in whom love of action is a passion turns cold aside from the Buddhist life. Nirvana—the dying out of the three cardinal sins of sensuality, ill-will, and stupidity—is no ignoble perception; but it lacks the driving force of the creed of Islam. Islam is active, Buddhism is passive, and in any equal contest between the two the fiercer and more positive system wins. Buddhism, too, whatever its original merits, has become enervated by innumerable corruptions, and its success in uplifting a people is not conspicuous in those regions where it has had uninterrupted dominion. It is significant that the creed has lost all hold on the progressive Japanese."

LLOYD GEORGE ON PENSIONS

At the meeting of the Pensions Congress, at the Hague, the President read a letter from Mr. Lloyd-George expressing his sympathy with the old age pension movement in Holland.
Mr. Lloyd-George gave his own experience in Great Britain and dwelt upon the great benefits derived by the pensioners. "Instead of being a burden," he said, "the old people are welcome in their families. Like soldiers at the end of their service the aged people have a right to a pension. It is the duty of the whole nation to care for the sick and the old."

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 30,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined?

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

Are becoming more popular every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway system to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get a way from the everyday grind, the monotonous of strenuous life to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides it pays. Round trip tourist tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway system at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo.
Fast trains are run daily between these cities, carrying through coaches and electric lighted pullman sleeping cars, via the only double track line making connections at these cities with through trains for the south.

NIGHT WATCHMEN IN ROYAL PALACES

Every night the palace at which King George is sleeping is patrolled by night watchmen, who pass along the corridors, inspecting doors and windows. These watchmen wear cap-slipppers to deaden the sounds of their footsteps, and are specially trained to know exactly what to do in case of fire. In addition to the night patrol there is always a sentry on duty outside the chamber in which the King sleeps.

King Alfonso of Spain is guarded at night by specially selected soldiers who take charge of the keys of all palace doors each night. These men pledge themselves that the doors shall not be unlocked until daylight, and no one is allowed to enter or leave the palace until night is over. The guards sleep outside the Royal bed-chamber, so that no one may enter during the night.

King Albert of Belgium is another carefully guarded monarch whom no one may disturb once night has set in. Soldiers patrol the corridors of the King's palace, and his special valet locks himself in the King's chamber, which no other person is allowed to enter. The valet is for-bidden to open either door until morning under penalty of death.

The Czar of Russia, the closest guarded of any monarch, is protected at night by several companies of soldiers, including Englishmen, members of the secret police, and a body of Cossacks. The various companies work independently of one another.

The Sultan of Turkey is nightly watched over by a very large number of soldiers and councillors, who remain within the neighborhood of his bedroom until morning. The Sultan changes his sleeping apartments often, and no other monarch has the choice of two-score bed-chambers, and he visits many of these in turn throughout the year.

The Pope is guarded by an attendant who is able to watch the welfare of his master through a spy-hole in the wall of his bedchamber, so that the Pope is always under observation.

MONEY FOR A BRIDE Emperor of Austria's Recognition of Military Aviator's Feats.

Lieut. von Blumke, the military aviator, has been presented by the Austrian Emperor with $5,000 to enable him to marry the lady of his choice.
The Lieutenant, who made a world's record by ascending over 13,000 feet with a passenger in his aeroplane, was engaged to a Fraulein von Csaky for some time, but she did not possess the $15,000 dowry necessary under the regulations for an Austrian lieutenant's bride.
Recently, however, the Lieutenant had made $7,500 himself towards the sum from prizes in flying competitions, and, in recognition of his brilliant flights, the Emperor gave him the balance out of his privy purse.

Baby Sea Elephant

London has a sea elephant which is an object of interest to zoologists throughout the world, because this is one of the few members of this branch of the elephant family in captivity.
The sea elephant is not really a member of the elephant family, being a seal and called after the big land pachyderm because of its tremendous size. The London acquisition is only a baby, but it appears to be in the best of health and will doubtless grow to the average size of its kind, some of which have been known to reach a total length of 30 feet, with proportionate girth. King George was donor of the animal to the Zoological Gardens, his Majesty having received it from the director of the South African Museum at Capetown. The sea elephant is an inhabitant of the seas of the southern hemisphere, and this particular specimen came from the Crest Islands in the Antarctic.

WOMEN AND THE MAN

Most Women in Jail are Married
While Men are Unmarried

An English statistician shows that nearly all the women in the London Jail are married, while nearly all the men are unmarried.

This is a fact which every woman will see at a glance, is a very bad showing for the men. It seems to mean that the influence of a woman on a man is to make a good citizen of him and keep him out of jail, where he would remain single, he might have

How to Live 100 Years
Dr. Edgar Jones, who died at Little Burestead, Essex, aged 102 years, was believed to be the oldest doctor and J. P. in England. For 78 years he was a member of the Royal College of Surgeons.

In his early days Dr. Jones was a keen sportsman and an excellent cricketer. He played tennis when over eighty. He was very fond of mountain-climbing, and was over sixty in himself. He lived in an hour and twenty minutes, descended, and took some friends for a row. He was a very good shot, and took great pleasure in rifle-shooting, although he had little liking for the modern batter.

When interviewed on one occasion,
Dr. Jones gave the following advice:
"If you want to live to be 100, do not smoke, drink no alcohol, take plenty of exercise, and, above all, be cheerful."

Dr. Jones added that at Vienna, in 1862, he tasted the only glass of beer he ever drank in his life. He was a firm believer in fixed hours for meals, and attributed much of the illness of the present day to irregular and hurried eating. Up to a year or two ago his meals consisted of "breakfast," tea, bread-and-butter, and an egg.
Midday dinner, meat and vegetables, and in the evening tea and toast as the last meal of the day.

Dr. Jones came of a long-lived family. His father died at the age of ninety-one, and his eldest brother at ninety. His sister lived to be almost a centenarian, and he has a brother still living who is over ninety.

A Wolverhampton man, who is now settled in Canada, had quite a unique adventure before being accepted as a suitable immigrant. The Canadian authorities do not admit people deficient in limbs, which would prevent the person from earning a livelihood.
The man in question had the misfortune to lose a foot and was rejected as "unfit." He had perforce to return to England, a little disheartened but not discouraged. If he could not land with one foot he could with two,
and immediately ordered an artificial limb. Then he started off with his Canada, and this time, as he was officially safe. He is now a well-settled man, settled with his family and well.

Scenes Changed in Public.

A new and interesting feature was introduced by Messrs. Turner & Sons at the Grand Opera House on New Year's night. This was showing the immense audience present how scenes are shifted between the acts. This is invariably done whilst the curtain is down, so that few theatre goers realize the dexterity and celerity with which drops, floor, wings, etc., are rearranged to present the next act. On Wednesday night, at the termination of the first act, the scene represented a drawing room in an English castle. Without lowering the curtain, this scene was changed entirely to present a saloon view.
The time taken was exactly three minutes. It is understood that Messrs.
Turner will repeat this instructive and interesting feature on the evening of January 6th.

ORILLIA PORSPERS WITHOUT THE BAR

BY MAYOR FROST, WHO WILL SPEAK IN PETERBOROUGH ON SUNDAY.

"Local Option will kill the town; grass will grow on the streets, farmers will deal elsewhere; hotels will close their doors and sheds will be boarded up; factories will lose their men; stores will lose their trade; houses will be empty; commercial men will give the town the 'go-by' and Orillia will be dead." These are some of the things that were said by those who bitterly opposed the passing of the Local Option law in Orillia some five years ago. Not one of these predictions ever came true, and the exact opposite has been our experience. Orillia was never more prosperous in all her history. Instead of killing the town Local Option has proved to be a blessing and advantage from both a moral and commercial point of view.

Instead of the grass growing on our streets the traffic has grown so rapidly that the Council must immediately face a large expenditure to put them in anything like decent repair. The farmers appreciate conditions so well that they come from long distances to trade in a town where they and their sons are not tempted by the open bar.

Hotel accommodation was never better under license—hardly as good. The sheds are still open. The factories are more busy than ever, and the merchants never did a greater trade. Houses never commanded higher rental. We still see an occasional commercial man and Orillia is about as lively a place for a "dead town" as one would wish to see.

When Local Option came into force our population was 5,571. Today it is over 7,000. Our assessment was $2,178,250. This year the assessor makes it $3,914,335. Our postoffice receipts were $16,814. This year they were $22,251. Our customs returns amounted to $86,252. This year they amounted to $112,000.

Our power plant, costing in the neighborhood of $100,000, will have to be considerably enlarged to meet the demand for increased service.
Over five hundred houses, many stores, and several factories, employing thousands of hands, have been built during the past three years.

The churches have shared in the general prosperity. A new Catholic church has been erected at a cost of over $40,000. The Methodist Church has spent $20,000 on a modern Sunday school, and the Baptists have for the same spent $10,000. The Y.M.C.A. have doubled the size of their plant at a cost of $33,000, and at the present moment the Presbyterians are erecting an addition that will cost about $70,000.

The law is very strictly enforced. Drunkenness is a rare thing on our streets. Of course there is a certain amount of bottle drinking, as there always will be, but the percentage is very small. There are no "blind-picks" operating in Orillia. I have this on the authority of the Chief of Police, and a Government Detective who recently investigated the matter fully. In the last year under license there were 126 convictions in our Police Court, five men were sent to the Central Prison and six to Kingston Penitentiary, with sentences aggregating over eighteen years.
Last year's record was 60 convictions, mostly for minor offences, one man being sent to Central Prison for six months surely a great difference.

The truth of the matter is, the work of our Local Option, in so far as this municipality is concerned, is no longer an experiment, but a distinct success, amply justifying the adoption of the measure.

The opinion of the great body of our people, the testimony of manufacturers, business men and representative workmen, coupled with the records of our Police Department, all bear out the assertion that closing the bars has proven entirely satisfactory. There are few indeed who would wish to return to the former conditions.

In fact I am persuaded our people will never again tolerate the open bar, consenting to receive in return for the privilege of safe gold that is blistered with tears, smeared in blood, and cumbered with a thousand sins.

W. S. FROST, Mayor.

Orillia, Dec. 27, 1912.

City: Mrs. Albert Gray, Mrs. W. C.
Forde, and Mrs. W. Northcott, of the city.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon to Little Lake cemetery, under the auspices of the Salvation Army.

A BY-PRODUCT OF PROHIBITION

Says the New York World: Royall E. Cabell, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, is quoted as saying "here is more whiskey stored in Kentucky to-day than ever before."
He attributes the increase of whiskey largely to prohibition.
The argument for the conclusion as to whiskey is simple. "It appears," says the Commissioner, "that in 'dry territory' whiskey, being of smallest bulk in proportion to alcoholic content, is more easily handled than beer, ale or wine. A bottle of the one contains many more drinks than a bottle of either of the others."
"Sumptuary legislation never yet failed to have a recoil of some kind, often more pernicious than the evil
the legislation was designed to suppress. This seems to be one of that kind."

EDITORIAL NOTES

A few months ago a Port Hope man was charged with "being too drunk to stand." The prisoner indignantly replied: "That's not true, your worship, I stood the drinks about ten times."

If the Hon. J. R. Stratton will, in future stay away from all banquets attended by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., as it is said he will, he is going to miss some mighty swell feeds, this winter, and that's no joke.

The year 1912 saw great progress in many ways. Aviation, office buildings, the price of gasoline and the cost of living reached hitherto untouched altitudes, and automobiles became so cheap that no men with $500 will be safe hereafter.

Shakespeare produced all his plays with about 15,000 different words. Milton's vocabulary comprised about 8,000, and the Old Testament's limit is 5,642. A person of good education seldom exceeds 4,000, while many people are limited to about 300.

Probably no sport in the world is so lucrative as bullfighting. It is stated that twenty-three of Spain's most famous toreros earn annually between ten £200,000. There are at present two toreros who earn any thing up to £50,000 a year.

A young man named Dubois, telegraphing in action against his sweetheart at Marseille because she boxed his ears for being late to take her to the theatre, he can be said to have been acting in a very short time.

In the all Australia's soldiers wear the same uniform, irrespective of the branch of the service they represent. The only distinction between the different corps will be found in the colour of the hat band. For instance, the Light Horse will have a white hat band, artillery, scarlet, infantry, green, engineers, dark blue, etc.

Some of the power of an air brake may be gained from the following fact: It takes a powerful locomotive drawing a train of ten passenger cars a distance of about five miles to reach a speed of sixty miles per hour on a straight and level track. The brakes will stop the same train from a speed of sixty miles per hour in five feet.

The visits of homes as indicators of fair or foul weather have been catalogued for the captain of an Italian steamer carrying a cargo of homes from the South American port of Buenos Ayres to New York. When the ship was sailing towards a storm recently the skipper stated, the bones cracked and moaned, and when fair weather was ahead they were silent again.

Undoubtedly the longest lived animal on earth is the whale, its span of existence being estimated by four years at 1,000 years. The next largest animal, the elephant, will, under favorable conditions, live 100 years. The average life of cats is fifty years, of apes, seven or eight years, of rabbits, seven. A bear rarely exceeds twenty years, and a wolf fifteen, a fox fifteen to twenty.

BADEN POWELL, EXPLAINS.

In an attempt to remove some very definite objections to the Boy Scout movement General Baden-Powell has recently been making some explanations.

In the Christmas number of the Windsor Magazine the chief of the Boy Scouts seeks to dispel the too prevalent misconception of the organization. General Baden-Powell makes it perfectly plain that far from encouraging "militarism" the Boy Scouts have been established to destroy racial animosity. "Every Scout is a brother of every other Scout, whatever may be the creed or clan to which he belongs," is one of the fundamental axioms.

Far from encouraging animosity or, among classes or nations, the Boy Scouts, if the intention of their founder is observed, are taught the duty of practical comradeship, of universal comradeship and sympathy. It may be true that this movement, which so strongly appeals to boy instincts, is capable of misuse, but that possibility should not encourage opposition, but rather insistence that its primal purpose shall be observed.

The general says emphatically to those who see in the Boy Scout movement only a form of military cadet service, made attractive under another name and with a sporting uniform, that if they would look into the methods they would see that military training is particularly avoided. "In principle," he writes, "our aim is far higher than to make soldiers. It is to make citizens. We avoid military drill because it tends to make boys part of a machine, whereas our aim is to develop the individuality and responsibility of each lad."

"Military discipline is a fear of punishment put on with the uniform and dropped the moment parade is over. The boy scout's discipline is a sense of duty which he is expected, in his honor, to carry out at all times, day or night, in uniform or out. It becomes his character."

Natural Cure for Catarrh Obviates Taking Drugs

It Has Superseded the Old-fashioned Stomach-dosing Remedies, and Invariably Cures Quickly.

It was their inability to reach the real source of catarrh and bronchitis that caused the medical profession to drop liquid rough medicines and adopt "Catarrhoxone" instead. Catarrhoxone provides a method of breathing right into the lungs certain rare medicinal vapors which are so healing and comforting as to entirely banish coughs, catarrh and throat trouble in a very short time.

The most wonderful thing about Catarrhoxone is that no matter where the germs of bronchitis or catarrh are hidden, Catarrhoxone will reach and destroy them.

"About five years ago I took a cold in the head and catarrh set in. I kept increasing by leaps and bounds. I kept putting off getting anything until at last I found I would have to. After trying several things I heard of your remedy, Catarrhoxone, and procured a bottle and began using it. I was not long in finding out I had struck the right thing. I am recommending Catarrhoxone to all who have Catarrh, etc."

"Signed Everett L. Wasson."
 "Hair P.O., Queen's Co., N.B." Catarrhoxone has made an astonishing record of cures. Its method is right; no drugs; just healing balsamic vapors, that bring instant relief to Catarrh and all throat, bronchial and chest colds. Get the large size, lasts months, is sure to cure you. Price $1.00; smaller size 50c. Sample free. Trial size 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhoxone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

PROPERTIES.

This Company owns 327 acres of rich Phosphate, Mica and Asbestos Mines in the Townships of Masham, Templeton and Portland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 40 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Porcupine Gold District.

As Phosphate and Mica Mining produces quicker and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining, and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich Phosphate and Mica Mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY REQUIRED.

The Mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication.

Labor and provisions are much less expensive than in Cobalt or Porcupine.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from Phosphate and Mica Mining.

Mining can be carried on all the year round.

A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHAREHOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a number of other mines to fall back upon.

The large acreage, the low capitalization, the large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious and honest enterprise and administration.

J. T-ARMAND & CO.,

It will pay right from the start. The Company will start operating early in Spring, so as to be able to ship Phosphate and Mica when the navigation opens. We are authorized by the "Progressive Mining Co., Ltd." to offer a limited number of shares.

AT 10 CENTS EACH
 Until January 15th, after which date, they will be 15 cents.

Don't wait till the Company starts operation or shipping as the shares will then sell out at 10 cents not at 15 cents, but at 50 cents. You can buy the shares now at the same price as promoters generally buy them. Here is your chance.

LOCAL OPTION LEADS THE WAY TO BETTER THINGS

he was under the influence of liquor. Was her death not due to the liquor traffic? The figures given would not show it. Not long since a man died in the Peterborough jail after a prolonged debauch. His death was reported in the papers as heart failure. The fact is, as everyone knows, that thousands of deaths come from one cause or another and due to indulgence in liquor. The statement made by Rev. Dr. Chambers, Governor of the Toronto jail, that last year there were 3,000 deaths due to strong drink in the Province of Ontario, is a good deal nearer the mark than the advocates of the bar would like to let us believe.

INCREASED CONSUMPTION AND LOCAL OPTION

In an effort to prove that local option has led to an increased consumption of liquor, the advocates of the bar have recently been stating that the consumption of liquor in Canada has increased in proportion with the spread of local option. If that is the case we would expect to see them working tooth and nail to carry local option by law.

If the advocates of local option in Peterborough are likely to lead to an increased consumption of liquor in Peterborough as they are trying to make us believe that is all then if their own contention is right they ought to be on the Citizens' Committee and working hard for the passage of the law.

SECURE ANOTHER INDUSTRY

The Henry Hope & Sons By law is to give a site and an exemption from taxes (except school taxes and local improvement taxes) for ten years.

The Company agree to erect a building 80 x 200 feet, and invest at least $60,000 in building and plant, and to employ from the start at least fifty persons.

The cost to the ratepayers at the present assessment will be less than 12 cents a year on an assessment of $1,000 for twenty years. But the increased population will mean an increased assessment to bear the small necessary rate and reduce this 12 cents.

At the present assessment of the site the City receives from the land $97.00 in taxes, and at a moderate assessment the Company will pay $260.00 in taxes over the exemption.

Each new factory means more employment, more population, more business and more prosperity.

VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW

SOME QUESTIONS FOR VOTERS

Would you go behind a bar and sell liquor? Would you make money by supplying a drug that you know would degrade your neighbor? Would you personally amass wealth, to supply you with which, children were starved, and weary mothers toiled hard for a living to the neglect of their household duties? Would you be willing to grow rich at the cost of the boys made drunks, girls driven to the streets, homes broken down, and lives wrecked?

If a man asked you to give him in writing a declaration of your approval of his carrying on a business which produced the results just set out, would you write such a letter for him, even though he offered you the bribe of helping to pay your tax bills?

To-day, men say to you practically "Give me your vote in favor of a bar-room system, that is, make carrying on a liquor business with nominal respectability, and without fear of the punishment that I would incur if I sold without a license."

You cannot escape the responsibility that goes with your consent to the liquor business, if you vote in favor of it.

As a patriot, as a citizen, as a Christian, as one who desires the welfare of Canadian homes, and the uplift of Canadian manhood and womanhood, will you be induced by any sophistry or prejudice to vote in favor of the degrading traffic?

Vote for the right and against the wrong.

Harry Morgan, as Alderman in the East Ward, will see that East City gets her rights and that Peterborough shall do all in her power to get new factories on an equitable basis. Vote for Morgan.

CANADA'S INCREASING DRINK BILL

Consuming 1,050,691 More Gallons of Spirits Than it Did Five Years Ago.

Canada is drinking more than 1,000,000 more gallons of spirits than it did five years ago.

Evidently a slight relaxation of the enforcement of local option laws has been a great boon to the high spirit manufacturers. According to the latest report of the Dominion Department of Trade and Commerce a half million more gallons of spirits, gin, rum and whiskey were imported from Great Britain in 1911 than were imported four years previously. In 1907 the total of these imports was 641,922 gallons. Year after year the imports rose until in 1911 they reached a total of 1,106,879 gallons. During the same period the imports into Canada of spirituous liquors from other countries greatly increased. Excepting the United States, the imports from these countries increased from 825,459 gallons in 1907 to 1,452,691 in 1911. From the United States the imports of spirituous liquors increased from 11,684 gallons in 1907 to 22,989 in 1911.

In all, this makes 1,050,691 more gallons of spirituous liquors imported in 1911 than were imported in 1907. The great bulk of these imports was whiskey.

At the same time the whiskey distillers have been making and selling an average of 5,600,000 gallons a year.

These official statistics form the admission that years of prohibition campaigning have had no other result than to increase the consumption of whiskey and similar strong liquors, and benefit the whiskey interests which seem to be rolling a profit. If further convincing evidence is wanted, it is supplied by the 1912 report of the Dominion Land Revenue Department which shows (page xviii) that the per capita consumption of whiskey in Canada is now higher than at any time during the last twenty-seven years.

Local Option and prohibition laws have had, it must be acknowledged, the paradoxical effect of driving our weak beverages out, including the so-called sale and consumption of heavy intoxicants.

Beer, for instance, is a drink having only three to four per cent. of alcohol. But put up, as it is, in bulky kegs or bottles, it cannot be transported with anything like the ease and secrecy that whiskey can. Another factor militating against the use of this mild drink in local option regions is that to insure a sale it must be kept properly cold. People reject it when warm.

Whiskey, however, needs no such treatment, and can be conveniently and surreptitiously sold from the pocket or suitcase as well as from hidden receptacles in the "blind pig." When it is considered that whiskey contains 50 per cent. or more of alcohol, it is not surprising that its widespread use under these conditions has resulted in summary convictions for drunkenness increasing in Canada from 29,802 in 1907 to 34,068 in 1910. The returns from many local option and other non-license places in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and elsewhere show a great increase in convictions for drunkenness.

SAD RESULTS OF PROHIBITION

106,500 Arrests of Drunks in Twenty Maine Municipalities Since 1890.

Those who have insisted that prohibition would do away with the consumption of liquor and intoxication will be put at a loss to explain the startling conditions in Maine as disclosed by a recent tabulation of statistics.

The State of Maine was the first to adopt prohibition, and by constitutional amendment, prohibition is still organic law. At a recent election virtually one-half of Maine's voters tried to repeal it, and came within a few hundred votes of succeeding.

Official returns show the appalling extent of intoxication in Maine, notwithstanding the fact that there is not a licensed place in the whole State.

In the year 1895 there were 8,698 persons committed to Maine jails and prisons for intoxication. The next year, 1910, the number was 4,728. Last year 4,003 were committed for the same offense.

But the number of commitments does not give an adequate idea of the prevalence of intoxication. To get this, we have to consult the statistics of arrests for intoxication. In 1909, a total of 8,594 persons were arrested for intoxication in twenty Maine cities. In the same cities 8,540 were arrested for intoxication in the year 1910. During the following year the number arrested for intoxication in these twenty cities increased to 11,846. The largest of these twenty cities is Portland, with 58,771 population. The number of drunks in the rural lock-ups cannot be ascertained.

Leaving aside the years previous to 1895, there has been since that year to 1911 the enormous total of 108,596 arrests for intoxication in those twenty cities, the total aggregate population of which is now 232,845.

During the same time there was also an average of 363 commitments to jail and prison every year for violations of the liquor license law.

Prohibitionists vaguely assert that the bar fills the jails and prisons. But here is a prohibition State where the jails and prisons are constantly filled with drunks and violators of the license law. Many of the commitments for other offenses such as assault often result from intoxication.

The curse of Maine is the immense quantity of whiskey secretly consumed, and the hypocrisy under which it is done. Prohibition has driven out the real temperance.

Drinks such as beer, and has fostered the use of whiskey and other spirituous poisons which can be easily converted and sold.

Beer is too bulky to be concealed or sold surreptitiously, and is unpalatable when warm.

If Maine allowed beer licenses it is safe to assume that there would be no such under-prohibition and crime as there is under prohibition. It is also probable that there would neither be the hundreds of "blind tigers" there are, nor the greater number of the fifty-eight express companies which now make large profits by almost exclusively transporting whiskey. It is a matter of fact that the real headquarters of many of these express companies is in Boston whiskey jobbing houses.

It was the biggest mistake to make to think that by closing the saloons the community would be made more temperate.

The Local Option friends have taken a piece of paper and a pencil and written down the names of all the men in your acquaintance who are doing things that you can conscientiously characterize as drunkards. You will be surprised how very few you can call to mind.

The distinctive feature of Local Option is the frequency with which we see men telling other men they shall not drink something when they themselves are doing things a thousand times more than the thing they seek to prohibit.

Our Local Option friends are constantly proclaiming that Local Option is the only way to remove temptation from men and boys. Cannot the blind pig, the pocket peddler and the man on horseback remove temptation from them, will tempt them to become sneaks, liars and hypocrites.

We have had beautiful word pictures lately of the lovely conditions existing in Orillia. The following are from the Orillia Advance, Barrie, August 4th, 1912, will throw a slightly different shade on the picture.

The continual dragging of Local Option into almost every news item of the Orillia Packet and the Collingwood Bulletin is becoming nauseating.

Here's one of the latest "wild goose chase" for the Local Option men. Home town there is said to be as much "booze" consumed as in any other town under license in Ontario.

The latest report of the House of Commons is that it only cost $78,62 for the keeping of the indictments of Orillia, while those of Barrie, with a smaller population, cost $25,45, or more than three times as much for the same thing.

No Local Option has nothing to do with it whatever. Brother Hale, in fact, the fact that the Local Option men are so busy with their own "booze" that they have no time to do anything else.

Let us take a peek at some other phases of life in Orillia. The Good and Beautiful Wicket. How long since a serious criminal case has been heard in the Court here, the principal witness being a local option man.

Not for some years. To the writer's knowledge. What about Orillia? Two or three murder trials in about as many years, rape cases and several others in fact the Courts are hardly over-free of the task of washing Orillia's dirty linen.

Brother Hale, if you are so solicitous for the moral welfare of the citizens of Orillia and so honestly think you can do it by the Local Option, why do you not start a crusade against the wholesale drinking bouts and the night going on in some of the houses of the town?

Did you ever hear a Local Option man say to a man who was drinking? "You never did for that you are taking the man away from the drinking place and would be drinking and possibly following the man." Spend all their time trying to take the drinking place away from the man, and that is unpardonable.

Did you ever hear a Local Option man say to a man who was drinking? "You never did for that you are taking the man away from the drinking place and would be drinking and possibly following the man." Spend all their time trying to take the drinking place away from the man, and that is unpardonable.

above that of either of the aforementioned places, under Local Option.

Let be that is without sin, let him first stone. It seems appropriate to the case in mind, and if the Editors of the Packet and the Bulletin would send a sampling to their own backyards, there would be more justification for this continual harping on the theme, and the apparent desire to do more harm than good.

It is not fair to attend the mass meeting at the Opera House, Friday evening, in opposition to Local Option in Peterborough. Mr. Wright will tell the truth about Owen Sound and Mr. Durand will discuss generally the failures and successes of Local Option.

There will not be a dull moment from start to finish. Good music, some admission fee. No collection.

There will be another meeting in opposition to Local Option in Peterborough at the Opera House, Sunday evening, January 5th, 1913.

The speakers at this meeting will be Mr. James A. Livingston of Grimsby, Editor of the Grimsby Independent, and the Rev. Thomas B. Wadleigh of Illinois.

Mr. Livingston has given much thought to the liquor question and has observed the working of license regulation and control, and the effect of Local Option, where it has been tried in the Province of Ontario.

Mr. Wadleigh is a Congregational Minister and an excellent speaker.

Mr. Wadleigh has been in India for many years. He has been in the ministry for twenty years and was on the London Convention of the W.C.T.U. and Prohibition party.

Having seen the rank failure of Local Option he has repudiated the same, and stands for high license and Government control.

Mr. Wadleigh has travelled around the world for four years in India, and has studied the liquor problem from a world-wide viewpoint. Every corner of the Province should hear him.

An orchestra will furnish music at this meeting, the admission will be free, and there will be no collection taken.

The electors of the North Ward are respectfully asked to elect their representatives for R. J. Kidd as alderman for the North Ward.

A GREAT ATTRACTION COMING TO THE CITY

Motion pictures have furnished much in the way of interesting entertainment to the public in the course of the past few years, but seldom has the opportunity been afforded to witness a more remarkable collection of animals than those which were taken by Mr. Paul J. Hume during his recent African big game hunt, which will be seen at the Grand Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, January 6 and 7, at half past seven, and evening exhibitions being given daily.

The wild beasts of the jungle, the lion, the elephant, the rhinoceros, the giraffe, and other animals, which make their home in the densest of the jungle, are shown in captivity or in drawings, are shown in their native haunts.

Mr. Hume's hunting trip to Africa, the exciting incidents which marked his search for the wild beasts of the jungle right to their very haunts, the trophies, including many live specimens of the denizens of the equatorial region which he brought back, is a story that has already been given to the public. There is no nature picture in the motion picture gallery.

Exposition into the jungle. Neither is there any posing. The lion is shown trailed to his lair by the American dogs, which accompany the party. The king of the forest is run to earth and actually killed by trained American bear hounds.

Among the most interesting views shown by the motion pictures are the animals at the water hole. The water hole with ten degrees of the equator, furnishes water to the wild beasts during a drought, and makes their way to it for many miles. Pictures of the expedition, including the small army of natives which accompanied the party of big game hunters from America, England, and the Transvaal, the many thrilling escapes of the photographers in their quest for something out of the ordinary, are shown in the pictures, which have been pronounced an invaluable addition to the world's knowledge of natural science.

The graphic descriptive pictures which accompany the showing of the pictures adds greatly to the enjoyment of the exhibition.

A more attractive theatrical offering than Canadian amusement lovers could hardly be imagined than "The Rainey African Hunt" motion pictures. Taken in British East Africa, the greatest natural big game hunting region in the world, the pictures show the exploits of the world's greatest sportsmen gathered together in Mr. Rainey's large party, and Cape Town, the Transvaal and America.

R. J. Kidd is a candidate for Alderman in the North Ward. Mr. Kidd stands for a progressive civic policy, with conservative production of the taxpayer.

Seven Years of Turmoil

(From Owen Sound Herald, Dec. 27, 1912.)

The people of Owen Sound have had seven years of practical experience with Local Option, and every citizen can judge for himself, and will judge for himself, whether our people have been benefited either morally, socially or financially through the cutting off of restrictive licenses in Owen Sound.

They are not going to take the word of the brewer or the hotel-keeper on this question; neither are they going to accept the opinion of the Local Option fanatics who would vote "dry" if everything went to rack and ruin. Neither will they be guided by any Anti Bar-room League and its hired band of spellbinders, who have waxed fat and rich at the hands of our people.

The people of Owen Sound have eyes to see and ears to hear. They had seven years of practical experience with a Local Option law. If they take anybody's advice it will be that of the Citizens' Committee of Owen Sound, men who have lived here and who expect to continue to live here and pay taxes long after these imported orators have shaken the dust of Owen Sound from their feet.

The Citizens' Committee Organization of Owen Sound is composed of 400 merchants, professionals, artisans, laboring men, and not a single member is connected with the liquor business and not a single member therefore intends to engage in the license business if Owen Sound restores a prohibitive license system.

The men are nearly all men of family. They have boys and girls growing into manhood and womanhood. They are just as anxious to surround their children with a pure moral atmosphere as is the most ardent social reformer or religious worker. Bear this in mind Mr. Voter. If the promises made by the Local Optionists seven years ago have been fulfilled, would it be natural to suppose that these business men would now be advocating the reopening of the license system in Owen Sound?

If drunkenness and poverty have been almost wiped out through the closing of the bar-rooms, do you suppose these business men, who stand for morality and decency, would be asking for the return of the license system?

If the money that was spent for liquor when Owen Sound had bar-rooms had gone into other channels of trade, as the Local Optionist advocates seven years ago told you it would, would it not be the most natural thing to find these same business men now championing the Local Option cause? Would any sensible business man who has enjoyed unbounded prosperity through the shutting off of the license system ask for its restoration? No, gentle reader, it is not a theory but a condition which confronts us now.

Over and over again, whenever Local Option has been tried, whenever the man who does not drink has been allowed to say to the man who does drink, "You shall not"; whenever the drinking of mild stimulants has been made illegal, the drinking of stronger alcoholic stimulants has increased. This is not only the case in Owen Sound, but in every community where there are a considerable number of people who want to drink liquor.

From the earliest days of this planet men have taken alcoholic stimulants in one form or another, just as they have taken meat in one form or another. And the exceptions, the races that have abstained from alcohol and have abstained from meat have always been the inferior and conquered races.

We must all believe that a day will come when man will arise from his animal condition, when the eating of flesh will be unknown and when drunkenness will be unknown. But you cannot change human nature by legislation. Laws must be made in accordance with the nature of man and not in violation of his nature.

Among the Local Optionists are many of the most admirable, earnest and good men and women of Owen Sound and not a few warm, personal friends of THE HERALD, and we ask them isn't it time to try something in place of Local Option, which has failed. For many years past drunkenness has steadily diminished throughout the world. And drunkenness has diminished where prohibition or Local Option is unknown, whereas drunkenness has increased where a vain effort has been made to prevent drinking by legislation, because Local Option makes drinking secret and shameful.

It makes the hidden sale of mild stimulants difficult or impossible because of bulk. It makes the sale of strong liquor easy and profitable. One "boot legger" can conceal and sell enough bad whiskey to make a whole village drunk.

Temperance must be taught, it cannot be enforced. You can make men temperate by education, by prosperity, by good food, by providing healthy amusements in place of false excitement of drink. You can educate and persuade men to be temperate. YOU CANNOT FORCE THEM.

The issue is not "The Boy and the Bar-room." The issue before the people of Owen Sound, who have tasted seven years of Local Option, is simply this:

IS THE OPEN, WELL-REGULATED LICENSE SYSTEM MORE CONDUCTIVE TO TRUE TEMPERANCE AND MORALITY THAN THE BLIND PIGS AND STEAK KASY?

Your vote on January 6th, 1913, will not wipe both of them out. It will only decide which one shall remain in our community.

And Mr. Voter, bear this in mind. Local Option is beautiful in theory, but a monumental failure in practice.

The Local Option law does not stop people from drinking and never was intended to.

LOCAL OPTION ANNOUNCEMENTS

To-night and to-morrow night will see the last shots fired in the local option campaign. The local option advocates are going to have a busy time of it. This evening at eight o'clock a public meeting will be held in the Market Hall, at the corner of Charlotte and George streets. This meeting, as well as one to be held tomorrow afternoon in the same place, will be of special interest to working men as the principal speakers will be Mr. James Simpson, the well-known labor leader of Toronto, and several speakers at both meetings will be Ben H. Spence, of Toronto, the secretary of the Dominion Alliance, and one of the best temperance speakers in Canada. Mr. Spence will devote special attention to this evening's meeting to the arguments advanced at the anti-local option meeting held in the Opera House last night.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM. Sunday afternoon there will be held a parade of the Sunday schools of the city. This will start from the corner of George and Murray streets at half past two and proceed by way of George, Hunter, Aylmer, Charlotte and George streets back to Murray and George and St. Paul's churches, in each of which meetings will be held simultaneously. Entertainment views dealing with temperance will be shown at each meeting, and of which will be for children and women only.

The Salvation Army band will head the procession to the churches, after which it will fall out and march back down George street to the Opera House where a meeting for men will be held.

In the evening there will be a meeting in the Market Hall at 8 P.M. At these meetings addresses will be given by Messrs. Simpson and Spence and by Mayor Frost, of Orillia. It is possible that a speaker will be present from Campbellford.

SPECIAL MUSIC. A special feature of all three meetings will be solos by T. Oates Lockhart, tenor soloist of Toronto, who has twice sung by special request before His Majesty, the King Edward.

HOW TO SHED A ROUGH, BLOTCHY, OR FADED SKIN. (From Beauty's Mirror). This is what you should do to shed a bad complexion. Spread evenly over the face, covering every inch of skin, a thin layer of ordinary mercerized wax. Let this stay on overnight, washing it off next morning. Repeat daily until your complexion is as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. This result is inevitable, no matter how sordid or withered the complexion. The wax actually absorbs the filthy surface skin, exposing the lovely young skin beneath. The process is entirely harmless, so little of the old skin coming off at a time. Mercerized wax is obtainable at any drug store; one ounce usually suffices. It is a veritable wonder-worker for rough, chapped, reddened, blotchy, pimples, freckled or sallow skin.

Pure powdered camellia is excellent for a wrinkled skin. An ounce of it dissolved in a half pint with basil makes a refreshing wash. This renders the skin quite firm and smooth; indeed, the very first application erases the fine lines. The deeper ones soon follow.

TIMES BUILDING, PETERBORO

lished, and spent his declining years in Paris. His daughter Isabelle married the Comte d'Eu, whose son is the present pretender.

Some months ago three jewelled stars of the crown and some valuable rings vanished, appropriated by an unknown hand. A diligent search gave no clue, and the Comte reconciled himself to the loss. Now, through his adventure with the burglar, he again has possession of the jewels.

Prince Louis discovered a man whom he recognized as Louis Nieuftin, who had formerly been employed as a footman, crouching on a staircase of the castle behind a door. Nieuftin, a muscular young fellow of twenty-three, made a rush at the Prince, but the latter's athletic training enabled him to overcome the intruder quickly.

When searched, Nieuftin's overcoat was found to contain the Imperial crown of Brazil, which he had bent and twisted so as to be able to conceal it in the lining of his ample coat. In the same garment was another smaller crown which had belonged to Dom Pedro, and the stars, and on the burglar's left hand were three of the late Emperor's priceless rings. Apparently, he had stolen them and hid them in the castle with the intention of returning for them when the search had been abandoned. In addition to his booty, Nieuftin carried a loaded revolver and a huge dagger.

It is said that after being discharged from the castle Nieuftin had enlisted in an artillery regiment in Corsica. For some reason that is not clear Nieuftin had been discharged from his regiment at the end of six months.

He arrived in Paris with a well filled trunk and took a room in an hotel in the Montmartre district.

He paid his bills regularly and spent money liberally. He disappeared occasionally for a day or two, and, on returning, explained that he had been on a trip to the seashore. The hotel people little dreamed that his seaside trips were burglary expeditions.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future
In 1911 California produced more than 77,000, 000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California.
Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!
Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.
Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product.
Katalla, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.
The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

vast concern during the life of a single Government, and, moreover, regards the office merely as a step-pingstone to promotion in the Cabinet. The suggestion is that there should be a permanent chairman who would rank before all permanent secretaries of departments and all Under-Secretaries of State, with the same freedom of access to the Prime Minister as the other members of the Cabinet, and that he should be made a Privy Councillor.

With this official, as permanent co-leagues, the plan is that there should be a Director of Posts and a Director of Telegraphs. These, it is proposed, shall be assisted by five business men who should receive substantial directors' fees, and who should be summoned to fortnightly meetings. The five might be nominated by the directors of the Bank of England, a committee of Lloyd's, a committee of Lloyd's Register, the Association of Chambers of Commerce and the aldermen of the City of London.

FIRE PROTECTION FOR OLD ST. PAULS

Although St. Paul's Cathedral is burned to the ground twice in the last 1888—it was only lately that was discovered that the existing system of fire fighting apparatus was together inadequate, and work begun on an extensive scheme of protection.

An experiment showed that the motor engines of the London Fire Brigade, working in unison, could throw a jet of water over the main dome, a clear, still day, but with so little force as to be practically useless.

The new protective system is on a large scale, consisting of twenty-two new hydrants and over 2,000 feet of hose, besides a special installation of fire alarms. In each corner of the cathedral four-inch cast iron pipes protected from frost by cowhairs and canvases are carried to the sixty feet or cornice level. Similar pipes al-extend into the crypt, the organ loft and the stone gallery. The system is continued by smaller pipes to the top of the dome.

The novelty of the arrangement is a dry main laid from the outer wall of the cathedral to the height of sixty feet. No water will be kept in it and in case of fire the London Fire Brigade will couple its engines to the outer ends, and at the same time sink short lines of hose to the outlets nearest to the scene of fire. It is expected that greater efficiency and speed will be gained by not having to lay long lines of hose direct from the engine.

POLICE USED PEPPER

It Enabled Them to Capture Man With Iron Bar

Cayenne pepper, burned on cotton wool, was used by the Leeds police in capturing a man who took refuge in his bedroom. The story was told when Thomas Griffin was charged with assaulting Police Constable Wain right. The constable came across the prisoner lying drunk on the footpath and told him to get home. Griffin obeyed, but later he came out of his house and threw a mug at the policeman.
Inspector Ellis, on going to arrest him, found him at the top of the stairs with a heavy iron bar in one hand and an iron bar in the other.
He threatened murder, and for two hours kept the police at bay. It was then that the police attacked him by burning cayenne pepper on cotton wool. Fifteen previous convictions were recorded against him, and he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

BIG STORES PLUNDERED

A Million Dollars Worth of Goods
Taken From Counters in London

Shoplifting is fast becoming a serious problem to the retail merchants of London. It is considered a conservative estimate that the combined operations of professional and amateur shoplifters cost the big stores of the West-end alone an average of $1,000,000 a year.
"That is the price the merchants of London have to pay for displaying their wares so attractively," said the manager of one large establishment.
"But if they didn't display them, how much more they sell? It is a most serious problem, made additionally difficult by every arrest being a public one, and no reputable establishment would have it become known that a prominent prey of the shoplifters had been kept possible to keep the thieves away. This is comparatively easy with the amateur—usually a woman—who is caught committing her first offence. She readily promises never to enter the store again if she can escape the shame of arrest and trial. The great trouble is that these first offenders are always cropping up.
I don't know how to account for this fact, unless it is that the swift advance of material civilisation has resulted in warping the moral sense of right and wrong in populous centres."
The plunder of the amateur is poorly allied to the little luxuries and fineries of dress, such as dainty blouses, laces, ribbons, gloves, handkerchiefs, and silk stockings. It is only the professional who carries away whole boxes of silk, jewellery, clothes, ornaments, books, and similar articles. The man or woman who presents us with a system that will effectually check shoplifting remains a small fortune. So far, we have tried every known means of defence. Every big store employs a staff of competent and vigilant detectives, but there is something defective in the system—just what, we don't know. Meanwhile it is costing us a lot of money, between the salaries of the detectives and the plunder of the shoplifter."

WANT TO CHANGE POSTAL SERVICE

Suggestion That it be Taken Out of Politics and be Pleased Under Permanent Chairman

Britons have always been exceedingly proud of their postal telegraph service, which, they are fond of boasting, is the best in the world, but since the Government has taken over the telephones they have begun to think that there is room for improvement.
The Times now advocates the abolition of the office of Postmaster-General and the substitution of a board of directors, with a permanent chairman. A similar suggestion was made by W. H. Smith, the great news-agent, in 1877. The continuity of management by practical business men is urged as essential. It is argued that the Postmaster-General cannot master the details of such a

SOME FACTS ABOUT PROHIBITION IN MAINE

Of the 20,999 cases in the superior and supreme courts of Maine, in the twelve years from 1899 to 1910, the enormous total of 13,704 cases were for violations of the liquor laws.

The rate of criminal prosecutions in these twelve years were $855,000, the larger part of which was spent in prosecuting liquor cases, or other cases indirectly caused by liquor.

The sum of $666,407.44 was paid for the support of prisoners in Maine jails during those twelve years. Most of this sum was expended on prisoners committed for intoxication or other offenses indirectly due to liquor.

Of the 5,727 prisoners committed in 1911 to Maine jails, 4,003 were committed for intoxication.

In 1911, the great number of 11, 946 arrests for intoxication were made in twenty Maine cities with populations ranging from 3,000 to 38,000.

In Bangor alone (population 24, 853) the police have made more than 2,000 arrests a year for intoxication during the last few years; in 1911 the arrests in that city for intoxication totalled 3,052.

In the city of Portland (population 58,571) nearly 5,000 arrests for intoxication have been made annually during the last five years. In 1911 the number of arrests in Portland for intoxication was 5,655.

ONTARIO'S GROWTH IN PAUPERISM

Instead of Decreasing Under Local Option, Paupers Have Increased.

One of the chief arguments used in bringing about local option has been that if the bars were closed out, pauperism would greatly decline, if not altogether cease in the local option districts.

This argument was based upon the supposition that liquor was the chief cause of pauperism. But although the number of bars in Ontario has been reduced from 2,002 to 1,532 from 1908 to Jan. 1st, 1911, and although 389 Ontario municipalities are under local option, and 154 others have no licenses, nevertheless the number of paupers has increased.

In 1907 there was an average of 1,532 paupers in the County Houses of Refuge. According to the latest report of the Provincial Secretary there is now an average of 1,644 paupers in the 39 County Houses of Refuge. These figures do not include such cities as Toronto, Ottawa and others. Many of the most concentrated almshouses are in the counties where local option generally prevails.

In Brant County, for example, six of the eight municipalities are under local option, yet there are, according to the report issued this year, 60 inmates in the County House of Refuge. In the County of Middlesex, nine of the municipalities which are under local option there are 52 paupers in the County

GREAT BOOM IN BOOZE

Per Capita Consumption of Whiskey
In Canada Is Now Greater Than Any Year In Last Twenty-seven Years.

The recently issued Dominion Inland Revenue Report for the year ended March 31st, 1912, makes the startling revelation that the per capita consumption of whiskey in Canada is greater at present than in any year since 1885.

In that year the per capita use of spirits was 1.126. As the production of beer increased, the consumption of whiskey decreased. This fact was a great help to the temperance movement, for beer contains only from three to five per cent. of alcohol, whereas whiskey is a hard liquor containing fifty per cent.
and often more of alcohol. Intelligent people learned to use beer instead of whiskey.

But the per capita consumption of whiskey is now up to the high mark of 1.630—a far greater total than any year in the last twenty-seven years. It might be supposed, naturally, at any rate that with the growth of prohibition, the consumption of whiskey would grow less and less.

In recent years 623 bars have been closed out in the Province of Quebec. The whole of Nova Scotia is under strict prohibition laws except Halifax which has the power of local option. The number of licenses in Ontario have been reduced from 2,366 in 1905-1906 to 1,521 in 1911. There are 289 municipalities in Ontario under local option and 154 other municipalities in which licenses are issued, making a total of 333 Ontario municipalities without license.

This being the case it seems strange, on the face of it, that the per capita consumption of whiskey is much greater than at any time in the last twenty-seven years. Another significant fact stated in the Inland Revenue Report is that although Canadian whiskey distillers have for years been producing about 5,000,000 gallons of whiskey a year, the exports have fallen from 472,519 gallons in 1907-1908 to 288,769 gallons in 1911-1912. This

SHE MOURNS HER DOG

Its Body Was Embalmed and Lies in a Glass Vault

Polare, the little vaudeville actress-featured woman, who is the latest world, is now mourning at the loss of her pet dog, that died a few days ago. She is now in England, and is in a little glass vault in her garden.

The little dog was Polare's only real friend, and she missed the tiny thing. It never left her once during the twelve years of its life. She used to take it everywhere—to America, to Berlin, to London, and to the Villa
Clandine, where she spends her holidays.

Some Stern Realities

Many of the young men of this town who formerly drank beer now carry a regular hip supply of whiskey, and our people go in car loads at times to Aurora and other places to get a supply. There is not the number of men doing business in Newmarket on Saturday afternoons that there was formerly. The town no doubt loses a percentage of its trade through the operation of this law. I feel that the licensed law is enforced under the present Government is very satisfactory. Under license it was a total impossibility for any one to get liquor during prohibited hours.

I had a talk with one of the principal business men of Midland, who acknowledged to me that their experience in regard to trading with men is similar to ours. I had occasion to visit Collingwood on business recently, and knowing that local option was in force, I started on the Grand Central Hotel, where I formerly stopped, only to find it closed. This was a hotel that was always looked upon as the best of the place.

Morally or socially, I cannot say intelligently that this law has brought about improvement. When in Collingwood, I put the question to a gentleman who is a large shareholder in the ship building industry of that town. I asked him "Is Local Option doing this town any good?" His answer was "It is a curse."

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy Is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. R. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleaning my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system was normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Catarthzone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Local Option Has Depreciated

the Value of Property in Orillia

Police Magistrate Clark, of Orillia, has spoken in a number of places throughout Ontario in favor of Local Option. He has publicly stated that Local Option has been the means of increasing the value of real estate. The advertisement below has appeared in the Orillia News Letter for a number of weeks. That no one can be found to buy a modern house costing $9,000.00 for a little over half the cost is the best proof that Local Option has not improved the value of real estate in Orillia.

A Lindsay contemporary, in its issue of Thursday, conveys the pleasing intelligence that the Industrial Commissioner, W. Rudkins, of this city, had secured a big Swedish factory for that town. The Times told of this several weeks ago.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Readers of the Times are requested to please stand ready to receive the other day of personal news or any social events that may come to their knowledge.

Mr. John J. Kyle spent the holiday with friends in Lindsay.

Mr. Douglas Johnston, Winnipeg, is the guest of friends in the city.

Miss Sarah Diamant and Miss Marcelle Simons, Lindsay, spent New Year's day in the city.

Mrs. James Skinner, who has recently come to the city from Owen Sound, will receive the 3rd Thursday in each month, 176 Antrim street.

Misses Nora, Dollie, Carrie O'Reilly and Miss Margaret Meehan, have returned to Lindsay after spending the holiday with friends in the city.

Mr. Norman O. Lee, manager of the Bank of Ottawa, Kenora, was in the city a few days, the guest of the Misses Thompson.

Mr. William Boydland and family, who were visiting Mr. Boydland's parents, Weller street, have returned to their home in Kingston.

Mrs. Alex Paton and Miss Helen Paton, Lindsay, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Harstone, Homewood avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. Durbin have returned to their home in Westhope, North Dakota, after spending the holidays with Mrs. Durbin's sister, Mrs. Harry Beal.

Harry Morgan, candidate for Alderman in the East Ward, stands for an intelligent, honest and progressive city administration. Give him a boost.

ALL NIGHT LIGHT ON RICE LAKE

During last season Mr. Burdham, M.P., Mr. Seysmith, M.P., and Mr. Munson, M.P., had the Department of Marine & Fisheries build a light-house on Tick Island, Rice Lake. This light has been maintained by the Department of Railways and Canals, and has been much appreciated by the steamboat men. A large number of people in Northumberland, who cross Rice Lake in the winter, coming to Peterborough, and also a number of farmers who cross on the ice from the Peterborough to Northumberland County, asked to have this light burn all winter. On the recommendation of the three men here interested, the Department of Railways and Canals have issued an order that this light be lighted every night of the year. This will be good news for the people who are compelled to use this road. This is the direct road travelled in winter between Peterborough and Cobourg.

CONCRETE HOUSES FOR LINDAY.

Ten fine new cement houses, and possibly twenty-five will stand near the corner of the land opposite Mr. Isaac Deyell's on Angelina-st., Lindsay. These houses, one of which is already almost complete, will be a new departure for that town, as they will be built of concrete throughout.

Hastings' Hard on Horses.

Hastings' Star, Mr. J. Douglas has lost a very valuable horse from the bursting of a blood vessel while coming over the hill on the river road, just west of town. This is the third horse Mr. Douglas has lost lately, two being killed by a railroad train near Birdsall a few weeks ago.

Harry Morgan respectfully asks the electors of the East Ward to vote for him as Alderman. Peterborough must have honest government and Morgan is for that.

Lindsay Hockey in June. Lindsay Post of Jan. 2nd, which incidentally is strongly advocating local option, says: "The Lindsay O.H.A. Intermediate hockey uniforms are on display in Gode's west window. They are a combination of royal and white with tongue and hose to match. Our boys should have success in their new uniforms. Their first game is on June 10th at Markham."

Big Increase in Local Customs.

The summary of the customs receipts for the past year reveals that the substantial sum of nearly $50,000 has been realized. This, however, does not represent the customs year. The fiscal year commences on April 1st and ends on March 31st, while the figures given below represent those from January to December.

Total 1911 $443,005.16 1912 $593,486.41 Increase 1912, $150,481.25

Local Boy Killed Out West.

The parents of Nelson Gilgour, who resides in Peterborough, were yesterday in receipt of a telegram from Big River, saying that their 21 year old son had been accidentally killed there. Although three telegrams were received none of them gave particulars of the accident. The deceased was employed by the C. H. Henry Co. at Big River. The company are engaged extensively in construction work. The body will be brought here for burial.

Peterborough's Small Fire Loss.

Peterborough has been singularly fortunate in escaping heavy loss by fire the past year. Chief Howard says that during the year the brigade responded to 131 alarms and that the total amount of fire loss during the twelve months was the very small sum of $20,134. In 1911 there were 126 alarms and total damage of $22,796. The biggest fire during the year just closed was that in the Cameron store, a few weeks ago, with a loss of $7,000.

Has Mr. Gibbs Sold Out.

It was currently rumored on the street yesterday that Mr. R. Gibbs, the Water Street livestock man has sold out his business to Mr. Stanley, of Uxbridge, near Crawford's farm, and appliances were valued last Monday, by Mr. Crankshaw, at $15,000. In response to a question put by the Times yesterday, Mr. Gibbs denied all knowledge of the deal. It was further rumored that Mr. Gibbs had taken Mr. Blewett's $10,000 farm in part payment. The rumor is given as heard in several places.

Peterborough Man in Trouble.

Hamilton Herald. The pen at the police court was filled and the Magistrate handed down some good advice to the would-be thieves. Three charges of false pretences were read, a gainst William Stewart alias Montgomery, who gave his home address as Peterborough. He was fined in every case, but wanted to be tried by a jury and was committed for sentence. He used worthless cheques as his money making method, and got away with $20 from W. J. Dore and $127 from the Dominion Bank and the Bank of Montreal. He was arrested in Buffalo and brought back here by the detectives.

OBITUARY.

Miss Lizzie Stinson. The death occurred suddenly in Moose Jaw, on Dec. 31st, 1912, of Lizzie Stinson, the daughter of the late Matthew Stinson, of Peterborough. The deceased lived for a number of years in Peterborough, but for the last 11 years has resided in Moose Jaw. She leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. John Samson of Mount Pleasant, and two brothers, Mr. Samuel Stinson of Ononago, and Mr. W. J. Stinson, of 61 Robinson street, city. The funeral was held in Moose Jaw.

WEDDING BELLS.

Edmonson-Switzer. A pretty wedding was solemnized New Year's Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Switzer, East Emily, when their daughter Olive was united in marriage to Mr. Norman B. Edmonson, of Smith. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. W. McCall of Fairmount avenue Methodist church, Montreal. The young couple were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmonson will reside in Smith, near Peterborough.

LOCAL OPTION HAS DEPRECIATED THE VALUE OF PROPERTY IN ORILLIA

Police Magistrate Clark, of Orillia, has spoken in a number of places throughout Ontario in favor of Local Option. He has publicly stated that Local Option has been the means of increasing the value of real estate. The advertisement below has appeared in the Orillia News Letter for a number of weeks. A BARGAIN IN REAL ESTATE

Large, Modern, Well-Built, Centrally Located Residence for $5,000

The assignee of the estate of J. H. Lavale has instructed me to offer for sale the splendid residence at the corner of Mary and Nottawassa Streets. The house is exceptionally well built, all the wood in its construction having been specially selected by a first-class judge of lumber. The hardwood is particularly well matched and beautiful. There are six bedrooms; three fireplaces, bathroom and every modern convenience.

The situation is central, within less than two blocks of the Town Hall. The five points ensure a good breathing space for all time.

There is a good garage and other out buildings. The whole property is in excellent repair. As it stands it cost over $5,000, and I am instructed to sell it to the first comer at the astonishingly low price of

ONLY $5,000

This is a great snap for anybody wanting a good home.

THE PALMA TROPHY

First Known as Centennial. Took New Name From Donor of Prize

The Palma Trophy which was won this year by the United States team by a score of 1720 to 1712, both marks breaking the previous world's record, has had an interesting career. The competition was inaugurated in the United States in 1876, for the military rifle championship of the world, and was called the "Centennial." Upon that occasion it was competed for by teams from Scotland, Ireland, Australia, Canada and the United States. The match taking place at Creedmoor, Long Island. The trophy was won by the United States team by 22 points over the Irish team which finished second.

In 1877 a team from Great Britain competed for the trophy at Creedmoor but was defeated by the United States by a majority of 82 points. In 1878 the competition was first called the "Palma" in honor of Senator Palma of the United States, who had donated $1,000 to the competition as prize money. No further contest for the trophy occurred until 1901 when, upon an invitation from the United States, a Canadian team entered for the contest which, upon that occasion was held at Seagirt, New Jersey. The Canadians won by 32 points and thus the trophy came to Canada. In 1902 Canada defended the trophy at the Rockcliffe ranges, when teams representing Great Britain, the United States and Canada competed. The trophy being won by Great Britain with 12 points over the United States and 87 over Canada. In 1903 Great Britain ended the trophy at Bixley the competing teams being from the Mother Country, the United States, Canada, Australia, Natal, Norway and France. The United States team won by 15 points over the British team, but as a result of a protest against the rifle barrels used by the Americans, which were not those of the military arm of that country at the time, the trophy was returned to England by the United States, and as a result of this no further match was held until the year 1907. In the latter year the trophy was again shot for at the Rockcliffe ranges by teams representing Great Britain, the United States, Canada and Australia. It was won by the United States, Canada being second, Great Britain third and Australia fourth.

Files That Kill Spiders.

Flies are the natural prey of spiders, yet, strange to say, there are in Brazil some flies which prey on spiders. These daring little insects do not differ much from ordinary flies. They are hynopodera, and Pepsis made in a typical insect of the type. They usually come upon the spider when the latter are unprepared and sting them to death. A spider once stung by these flies has no chance of escape, and his smaller prey, which he has been devouring, is left to the mercy of the insect.

TIPS FOR CONDUCTORS

German Passengers Are Liberal with Street Car Fare

A feature that surely must distinguish the street car system of Germany from that of any other country is the practice on the part of a large percentage of passengers of giving the conductor a "tip." The average fare on German street cars, including those of the capital, is two cents; but at a moderate estimate fully one-third of the passengers hand the conductor another cent. This is usually done by ladies, though it is common enough with the men, the idea probably being that of securing the support of the conductor in case of trouble. That the gratuities amount to a considerable sum in the course of a year is shown by a trial in Hamburg, arising out of a dispute between the company and one of its conductors, in which the court assumed the gratuities to amount to nearly $100 each year. The court wisely deduced that the income from tips must be considerable from the fact that very low wages were paid to the conductors in comparison with the motormen.

EDUCATION IN BERLIN

Controversy Between the "Classical" and "Moderns."

The long-standing controversy between the supporters of "Classical" and "modern" education has resulted in the establishment of commercial schools and colleges in Berlin, where, in the classes, especially Greek, can be entirely dropped. The Minister of Education has now come forward with an edict applying to all higher Government schools and aiming generally at wider and better acquaintance among the scholars of classical authors and particularly at reducing the time and attention given merely to grammar.

SOIL STILL RICH
AFTER 80 YEARS

Farnham Farm, in Wellington county, Ontario, owned by Mr. Henry Arkell, after eighty summers' constant cultivation, possesses soil as rich if not richer than when it was first broken in 1831. The following methods of farming, rigidly adhered to by Mr. Arkell, may be cited as reasons for this happy situation.

The owner's interests are evenly divided between crop production and live stock raising.

Everything, known on the farm in the way of food is fed on the farm.

A system of crop rotation prevents any needless waste of soil fertility.

The application of barnyard manure, after specially absorbent crops are planted, enriches the soil with plant food.

Hay area is pastured two years and crops cut from it two years, then plowed under.

Rape seed is sown with oat crop, providing pasture for cattle and sheep for more than three months after harvest.

The general conduct of the farm is closely in accord with mixed farming principles, which protect any soil from depletion.

LOCAL MARKETS HELP FARMERS

Extension of Industries Provides a Market for Produce

A despatch to the Toronto Globe from St. John, N.B., says: "An encouraging feature of the outlook for farmers in the Maritime Provinces is the growth of the towns, which provide a growing market for produce.

While there is no phenomenal growth, it is steady. Take for example, the town of Amherst. The Board of Trade met last week to discuss the housing problem. It was stated that from 100 to 150 men working in Amherst factories lived elsewhere, because of a lack of houses in the town, and President Curry of the car-works stated that the population of Amherst would be increased by 1,000 this summer if houses could be provided. The increase would be at most wholly due to enlargement of the number of industries requiring skilled workmen. In Sydney a new mill is nearing completion, which will give employment to about 800 hands, and other industries in that town are also growing. Other towns in Nova Scotia are showing substantial growth, and this all means a better local market for the farmer."

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

HISTORIC PRISON CELLS

The Criminal Relics of London Will Be Stored Therein

The authorities of the new London Museum, at Kensington Palace, have secured possession of some historical prison cells, wherein will be housed the criminal relics of London.

The cells were discovered in a common lodging house in Wellclose Square, St. George's-in-the-East, and are believed to date back to the times of Charles II. and to have been subsequently used in connection with the Whitelyard Police Court. In the walls of the new museum, and will be re-erected in their entirety in the annex at the museum at Kensington, where visitors will be able to pass inand out of them and inspect the many quaint inscriptions on the walls. An old oak staircase still stands in the house in Wellclose Square, and this will not be removed.

DON'T VOTE AWAY YOUR PERSONAL LIBERTY

When a man has not the liberty to enter a restaurant anywhere and order for himself what he wants to eat and drink, he has no liberty worth fighting about.

Evil consists in the abuse of good things, and it would be idiotic to abolish all good because some men abuse freedom of choice.

Without freedom of choice there can be no manhood, and no morality, as God cannot credit any man with morals for doing a thing which others compel him to do.

The cause of local option is based upon false assertions, mutilated statistics and hysterical imaginations.
The leaders hope to arouse suspicion, warp the judgment of honest men, and by delecting reason, create enough local option sentiment to blind thousands of good citizens to the weakness and injustice of their crusade.

The opponents of local option deplore its capacity, but can see no reason why all well people should be compelled to take medicine because a few get sick.

You can abolish the bar-room by a popular vote, but a man's appetite does not depend upon majorities, and so long as appetite remains it will call for the supply and get it.
It will be met by the lawful barroom, or by the lawless blind-pig, pocket peddler, or mail order house.

Local option is the best-kept in which blind-pigs and pocket peddlers are bred, fostered and fattered. It is a system of legalized perjury and petty criminality, which menace the morality of every local option community in Canada.

A man may grow and then misjudge his capacity, but can see no reason why all well people should be compelled to take medicine because a few get sick.

The proposition that a man who has sense enough to fight life's battles, to decide for himself the kind of a woman he would like to marry, to select a church to attend, to conclude what party he should give at wedding, and at the same time does not know enough to decide for himself what he wants to drink with his meals, and between meals, is an insult to his intelligence.

Freedom of choice which local option would destroy, is the basis of all morality.

You can never tell how badly local option hurts business until you try it. When a man who lives midway between a local option and a license town, starts to market, his horses know which way to turn as soon as he drives out of the gate. Most people prefer to trade in a city where they neither have to wear a muzzle nor become a criminal in order to exercise their natural rights.

When one man governs another on an act of temperance, it is an act of tyranny.

Bring up a boy in the way he should go and go in that way yourself.

The evils of drink are greatly exaggerated. A man gets drunk 365 times, the record shows 365 drunken men, when in fact it is the same fellow all the time.

How long has it been since you saw a drunken man in Peterborough?

How many drunken men have you seen in Peterborough within the past seven days?

If a burglar should break into a hotel in Peterborough and do not smell small wale local option advocates propose to do on a large scale, he would be arrested, convicted and sent to prison. If it is a crime to boot a hotel keeper's safe, it cannot be a virtue to "wipe out" his entire investment.

A man who needs a law to make himself temperate needs brains more than anything else.

A man who is incapable of choosing for himself between good and evil makes a poor guardian for others.

It is wrong to abuse the right to drink, but worse to rob all men of that right, because a few abuse it.

A blind-pig is worse than the worst bar-room.

Regulation is better for temperance than local option.

The boy who needs a local option straight jacket to prevent him from becoming a drunkard needs parents a blame sight worse.

Only through freedom of choice can man develop the faculty of self-control.

Without self-control true manhood cannot exist.

Without personal liberty there can be no personal responsibility, or personal morality.

God made man able to stand but free to fall.

Local option parents cannot hope to keep their boys always tied to their local option apron strings.
They will get away after awhile.

A COSTLY EXPERIMENT

An experiment which is being tried in some parts of Canada seems to be having as disastrous results as one tried long ago in the time of King George II.

The distilling of gin was introduced in England in 1684. Its use became so general that to stop increasing intoxication, Parliament passed an act to arrest the sale of such spirituous liquors as gin by prohibitory laws. But although the act was stringent, and the whole country was filled with paid inform-ers, the people used gin all the more.
They did not like laws aimed against what they considered their personal liberty. The annual production of gin increased from 948,
000 gallons in 1694 to 3,520,000 gallons in 1724, to 4,947,000 gallons in 1734 and to not less than 7,160, 000 gallons in 1742. Finally, Parliament seeing that the act only had an effect the opposite of that intended, repealed that act in 1743.

The Canadian prohibitionists have been sincere men and women.
They have honestly believed that prohibition and local option laws would immediately wipe out intoxication. But if they had learned a lesson from England and other countries, they would have been spared many severe disappointments.

Although prohibitionists in this state in many municipalities in Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia the only result seems to have been to increase the production and consumption of whiskey, of which about 3,000,000 gallons are being distilled in Canada every year. That more and more of this output is used in Canada is evidenced by the declining exports of Canadian distilled whiskey.

In recent years 836 bars in the Province of Quebec alone have been closed out. The natural inference would be that the whiskey trade would become more and more unprofitable with the decline in the number of bars. But it has been in these very years that new whiskey distilleries have been opened in the Province of Quebec, proving that side by side with the adoption of prohibition, the whiskey traffic flourishes.

The same is true of the Province of Ontario. Notwithstanding the fact that more than 380 municipalities in Ontario have no licenses, the whiskey distilleries in Ontario are now producing 3,678,000 gallons a year.

These facts, however, are only apparent phenomena. They can be easily explained.

In the progress of the Modern Temperance movement it was found that beer, which is a beverage with not more than three to four per cent of alcohol, was a telling factor in discouraging the use of hard intoxicants like whiskey. But the prohibitionists, unaware of the difference between beer and hard intoxicants, elaborated for total prohibitory laws, ignorantly classifying all drinks alike in composition and effect. The result of prohibition and local option laws has been to drive out beer which necessarily unobtrusive and bulky in transportation, and undesirable when warmed, and conceal and sold in whiskey.

The consequence has been that all the local option and prohibition regions large surreptitious imports of whiskey are constantly received. In the prohibition experiments of New Ontario, for example, the Provincial Police have some 23,000 bottles of whiskey in stock more than three years, and this number probably small compared to the quantity successfully smuggled in.
This brief outline explains why the whiskey traffic is flourishing. It will be a fortunate day for the temperance movement when a law is passed granting separate beer licenses, and putting the highest possible tax on the sale of whiskey and other hard intoxicants.

CATHOLICS AND PROHIBITION

From the Western Watchman, organ of the Roman Catholic Church in the West, we quote the following editorial utterance.

"Nothing has hurt the total abstinence cause in the United States so much as the Intemperate zeal of some of its advocates. The Church does not condemn the use of wine.
She inculcates temperance in all things. She approves total abstinence as a mortification; she sometimes counsels it as a protection.
The men who have been preaching the obligation of total abstinence for all, and have proclaimed probi-tution as the crying need of our time, have been singing a false and farrago note in the chorus of reform."

"At the late national convention of the National Total Abstinence Union the Holy Father's blessing was read, accompanied by the fattering admonition to steer clear in future of prohibition and all extreme views on the liquor question.
The advice of the Holy Father was received with the profoundest reverence, and it is safe to say that the Prohibition cause will no more look to Catholic organizations for encouragement and support."

HOME INDUSTRY

How it Has Been Injured in the Case of Wool Manufacture

"Canada an example and warning" is the subject of a pamphlet issued by Thomas O. Marvin, of the Home Market Club, Boston. He says that the wool manufactured in the Dominion of Canada is as old and theoretically it should be as prosperous an industry as it is in the United States, yet the entire production of the Canadian quills is less than that of a single American company. "The fact that three of the inhabitants of the Dominion," he said, "are clothed wholly in foreign fabrics, as compared with one in ten of the American people."

He then proceeds to investigate this extraordinary difference. Fifty years ago the countries were practically on an equal so far as the great branch of textile manufacturing was concerned. The Canadian mills had been managed with shrewdness and ability. There has been no dearth of capital or of skilled operatives.
Many of these capitalists or mill owners, finally despairing of success in Canada had moved to the United States and there had become successful manufacturers. So, too, with the operators. A considerable proportion of the best spinners, weavers and dyers in American mills today had found their way to these mills by way of Canada.

In 1861, an adequate protective tariff in which wool and its manufactures were included, was enacted for the American people by their government, and under this policy the aggregate value of American wool products increased from $3,454,000 in 1860 to $50,719,000 in 1910. Under a policy of late years of inadequate protection, however, the wool manufacture of Canada had entirely failed to increase but was actually decreas-ing, as witness the large number of mills that had closed. The sheep themselves were disappearing. While there were 3,155,000 sheep in Canada in 1871, there were only 2,106,000 in 1910, while in the United States on the other hand, the number had grown from 27,286,000 to 41,999,000.

"In other words," says Mr. Marvin, "inadequate protection robs Canada of a great natural industry once strong and prosperous and has made Canada the best outside customer of the great manufacturing clothiers of the United States."

NEW TRAINING SCHEME

McGill's Rugby Players Under One Roof Under Coach's Paternal Eye

McGill University is contributing the New Idea to football training this season. The boys will live together under the same roof and be at all times under the watchful eyes of coach and captain.

In the past the men have been accustomed to feed together at a training table, but now they are to try out the happy family idea. The premises secured consist of the old law house on the Molson property which was given to McGill University by Sir William Macdonald. Some twenty-four boys will room in the house. Others will also like their meals at the training table which will be run by an up-town caterer.

It is the hope of Coach Frank Shaughnessy that the players will benefit greatly from the "living in" system. They will be right under the eyes of those who are looking after them. Coach Shaughnessy has some radical ideas and he is going to have the full support of Captain Lee. The new coach has an agreement that he is to have absolute control of the men.
What he says has to go, or the man will have to go. Smoking is one of the things on the taboo list, and back talk or even mild criticism on the field must not be indulged in by the players. Suggestions can come at the evening chalk talk. These chalk talks will replace the old signal practices.

TWO ENGINES IN BIPLANE

Satisfactory Test Made of the New Apparatus

A successful trial has been made at the Royal Aero Club's ground, Eastchurch (isle of Sheppey), by Messrs. Short brothers of their two-engine biplane. Mr. F. K. McLean for whom the machine has been built piloted with Lieut. C. R. Samson, R.N. as passenger. The machine weighed about one ton. At starting it required ten men to hold the machine down, the two engines of 120 horsepower exerting such great pull. Mr.
McLean took his machine up and down the ground several times, and although he kept throttling down shortly, quickly, and when the engines were completely shut off her excellent climbing qualities were displayed, the machine coming gently to rest in spite of her great weight. So far the test have proved eminently satisfactory.
Her speed and other tests are to be conducted at the earliest opportunity.

You May Have Catarrh And Not Know It

HEAD AND THROAT BECOMES DISEASE WITH CATARRH FROM NEGLECTING COLDS AND COUGHS.

Catarrh is Treacherous—When Fully Developed is a Horror—Note Its Symptoms.

"Is your breath bad?"
"Is your throat sore?"
"Do you cough at night?"
"Is your voice raspy?"
"Does your nose stop up?"
"Have you nasal discharge?"
"Do you spit up phlegm?"
"Has your nose an itchy feeling?"
"Have you pain across the eyes?"
"Is your throat irritable, weak?"
"Do you sleep with mouth open?"
"Are you subject to sneezing fits?"
"Do your ears roar and buzz?"
"Are you hard of hearing?"
If you have any of these indications of Catarrh, cure the trouble now—stop it before it gets into the lungs, or bronchial tubes—then it is too late. The remedy is a Catarrh-ozone, a direct breathable gas that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on every spot that is tainted by catarrhal germs.

There can be no failure with Catarrh-ozone—for years it has successfully cured cases that resisted other remedies. "No one can know better than I the enormous benefit one gets from the very first day's use of Catarrh-ozone," writes T. T. Hopkins, of Westvale, P.Q. "I had for years a stubborn case of bronchial Catarrh, ear noise, headache, sore eyes, stop-and-go nose and throat. It affected my appetite and made my breath rank. Catarrh-ozone cured quickly." Get Catarrh-ozone, use it, and you are sure of cure—beware of imitations and substitutes. Like size Catarrh-ozone, with hard rubber inhaler, lasts two months, and is guaranteed. Price $1.00, at all dealers, or the Catarrh-ozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

He received severe bruises on the arm and leg and a bad shaking. The engine was not badly damaged.

Who May Vote and How. As there seems to be some little misunderstanding as to Monday's votes on the money by-law and on local option, we might offer a suggestion explanatory. Property owners may legally vote on the money by-law in as many wards as they own property in. On the local option, only one man, or only one duly qualified woman, one vote is the law. Do not try to vote more than once on this matter.

Blossom Baird at the Grand. The matinee and evening performances on Saturday at the Grand Opera House were well attended by audiences who enjoyed the four act comedy drama, entitled "The Cap of Life." The leading star was Miss Blossom Baird, the well known and clever emotional actress. The dramatic society play, "Her Last Chance," presented at the matinee, and also "Nance," a romance of the kind world given at the evening show, in addition to the main drawing card, were well received and demonstrated the histrionic ability of Miss Baird.

ALLEGED LOCAL OPTION EXPOSURE OF REV. T. B. WADLEIGH CHARACTERIZED AS A 'BLOOMERANG'

Noted License Advocates Replies To Charges In The Evening Papers

At the Opera House last night, Mr. Wadleigh prefaced his lecture with the contention that "Unable to answer his powerful arguments against Local Option its advocates have resorted to misrepresentations and abuse, hoping to draw the attention of the people away from the facts concerning the failure of Local Option and outcropping the fight on him as an individual."

He said in part: "He was pastor of Congregational church in Winthrop, Iowa, a so-called 'dry' town. He prosecuted three druggists for violating the law and was hated by many in and out of the church for his activity. He lost his pulpit as a result, was out of the pastorate nearly five months. Had to borrow money to keep his wife and five children out of want, also to travel around and seek a new pastorate and to delay moving expenses. This money constitutes the 'moral financial delinquency' which they refer to—money which he never would have owed had he been wise enough at the time to have refrained from attempting to enforce a law which he now knows to be incapable of enforcement."

Herewith is appended a few letters, written at the time of Mr. Wadleigh's resignation at Winthrop, which speak for themselves. They claim he never was connected with the W. C. T. U. Here is an extract from their official paper the Union Signal, published at Evanston, Ill., dated Sept. 7th, 1903, page 12:

W. C. T. U. ACTIVITIES. Jan. 26, 10.

Rev. T. B. Wadleigh is taking no summer vacation. On July 4 he was at Clinton, Mo., where he known him during the period of his Winthrop pastorate. His work there recommended him to a larger field and as I have come personally in touch with him would deem him worthy. There is nothing in the brevity of his short stay at Winthrop to condemn him. He did good work there. Sincerely yours, WALTER H. ROLLINS

Winthrop, Iowa, 1-25-1910. Mr. A. R. Fancher, Dear Sir,—In reply to your inquiry concerning Rev. Mr. Wadleigh, would say I have only known him during the period of his Winthrop pastorate. His work there recommended him to a larger field and as I have come personally in touch with him would deem him worthy. There is nothing in the brevity of his short stay at Winthrop to condemn him. He did good work there. Sincerely yours, WALTER H. ROLLINS

Winthrop, Iowa, 1-25-1910. Mr. A. R. Fancher, Dear Sir,—I take pleasure in making favorable mention of the Rev. T. B. Wadleigh, our late pastor. In the pulpit he is an orator rarely excelled. His thoughts, expressions and delivery are inspiring and attractive. He is cordial and genial, with all whom he meets. He is a friend to the unfortunate and distressed, a welcome guest in the home of illness and in the chamber of the invalid. He is fearless and fervent in the defense of righteous principle and follows the scripture injunction to be "bold as a lion" yet "harmless as a dove." Our W.C.T.U. women feel that they are losing a sincere, earnest and wise worker along total abstinence lines in the departure of the Rev. Wadleigh. The good wishes of a large circle of friends and parishioners go with this our late friend and pastor. Yours for God and home and native land, F. BRINTNALL, Cashier.

After leaving Missouri, Mr. Wadleigh lectured fourteen months for the W. C. T. U. in Tennessee under the state president, Mrs. Salina Holman, of Fayetteville. Over two years of Mr. Wadleigh's time was spent on the lecture platform for the prohibition party in Illinois and has a dozen letters and two state resolutions to prove it.

No man in the ministry has ever given the matter of Local Option a more general or thorough try-out than Mr. Wadleigh has, and from wide observation and bitter experience he characterizes it as impracticable and a lamentable failure.

MRS. LAURA G. W. EDDY, President Winthrop W.C.T.U.

Evils of Local Option Condemned

Has Raised Taxation, Ruined Business, Injured Property Interests, Demoralized Homes and Corrupted Boys

These are some of its Disastrous Effects as Testified to by Prominent Citizens in Local Option Districts:

Boys Take to Hard Liquor
I believe there is more drinking of hard liquor now than ever there was. Local Option has not been beneficial in any way. Young fellows get bottles that never used to get liquor before. The licence law is a better protection.
JAS. ARMSTRONG, Foundry, Orangeville.
(Ex-Ward in Dufferin County).

Liquor Flows Freely
Local Option has made this a tame town. We do not have the number of transients, celebrations or farmers visit the town as we had before. I believe there is as much liquor used as ever. Newmarket is kept up largely by manufacturing concerns, who do not depend on local business, but we have to go out after trade that formerly came into the agency.
THOS. BLIZZARD, Implement Agent, Newmarket.

Local Option No Good
I am a rectifier. Have never used liquor in my life. As far as Local Option is concerned it is no good. It injures business in my line of work. Young men will not stay here, because they cannot get liquor in a proper way. They go where they can get what they want.
G. EMERY, Machinist and Boiler maker, Collingwood.

Young People Now Get Booze
As far as I am concerned Local Option is a failure. It hurt my business to the extent of $100 per month. As far as I can see there is more liquor coming to town than ever. It goes to the homes, where it ought not to be, and the young people get access to it, and women are using it more than when the town was licensed.
JOSEPH CAISSE, Barber and Tobacconist, Bracebridge.

Business Suffers, Taxes Increase
My opinion is that Local Option is not a benefit to Orangeville. Business has suffered as a result of it. Taxes have increased.
JOHN HOWARD, Orangeville.

Towns Will Go Back to License
I believe these towns will go back to license again. That is the way all this kind of legislation goes.
G. H. BROWN, Mgr of Local Option Hotel, Newmarket.

Has Done Incalculable Harm
As a butcher and cattle buyer I do believe that Local Option has done an incalculable amount of harm to our line of work, not only in Collingwood where I have resided for twelve years, but all over the surrounding country. Under this law we cannot get accommodation. I believe restricted license to be much better than this law.
ALLAN RAUSBOSTAM, Collingwood.

LOCAL OPTION CRITICISM

Continued from page 1. Association and of the brethren and churches at large, by using his prestige as a Congregational minister as an advocate of the saloon and a representative of the liquor interests." A copy of this resolution is signed on behalf of the committee by W. H. Rollins, J. F. Moore and E. F. Day. At a meeting held in Lindsay on Friday, Mr. Wadleigh claimed to be a warm, personal friend of Charles R. Jones, of Chicago, the national chairman of the prohibition party of the United States, and invited any person who desired to do so to telegraph Mr. Jones in regard to his character. This was done. The following is an extract from a telegram following in reply from Mr. Jones: "Wadleigh is a rolling stone with a turbulent career in Illinois. He generally had to leave a town after one year's pastorate in Congregational churches. We cannot vouch for his character or his honesty. He is the type for interested in dollars than in principles or morals." (Contributed)

LAW ENFORCEMENT

A poor excuse is better than none. Weak men make excuses. Strong ones make "good." The "Local Option" leaders blame everybody but themselves for the dismal failure of the By-law, which they admit. They blame the officials. That is an easy way out dilemma. What are the facts?

You know that never in the history of Owen Sound have so many arrests been made for violation of the By-law. Never, have there been so many people fined. Never so much stealing and depravity and yet never were there more "Blind pig" detectives and spies used.

The officials of the city have never been more active. The Citizens' Committee has used every effort in its power to decrease the number of "Blind pigs." Yet we have seen more debauchery, poverty and shame rapidly increasing with each year of the By-law.

What is the reason? Listen. The reason is plain. THE BY-LAW DOES NOT PROHIBIT AND NEVER WAS INTENDED TO. The By-law simply provides that you cannot BUY Liquor in Owen Sound, but it is PERFECTLY LEGAL for you to order it from any other town in the Province of Ontario and drink it here. Buying Liquor makes nobody drunk. It is the drinking of it.

Under the By-law you have a legal right to drink liquor in Owen Sound. Under the By-law you can legally have intoxicating liquor in your home and mark you, under the By-law your home is the only place in Owen Sound that you can legally serve intoxicating liquor to your friends and family. What do the people think of such a law?

Below will be found the record, showing the number of convictions for Drunk and Disorderly persons in the Owen Sound Police Court from Jan. 1st, 1903 to December 1st, 1912.

Year Under License Convictions Year Under Local Option Convictions

1903 10 1906 24
1904 24 1907 19
1905 24 1908 17
1906 24 1909 27
1907 24 1910 228
1908 68 1911 253
1909 68 1912, 11 months 111

The reason for the decreased number in 1912 is due to the fact that the C. P. R. line of steamships moved from here to Port McNicoll in the spring of this year. They employed over 500 men many of these were foreigners, loading and unloading their five boats. We had the same class of men here during License years 1903 to 1906. Do you want this state of affairs to continue and will you lend your approval to the above by your vote?

PUBLIC SCHOOL REOPENS

Large Attendance of Pupils in All the City Schools.

With half concealed aversion, Peterborough's Public School population again entered the halls of learning yesterday morning. Scarce dusted books, drawn from places of concealment again are spread on the knife-scarred desks, and the ferrule again lies handy to the hand of the school mistress.

The Collegiate Institute also reopened with little or no falling off in attendance. The pupils in the separate schools had a holiday yesterday, as it is the Feast of the Epiphany in the Roman Catholic Church. Their schools will open this morning.

RAINEY'S ANIMAL PICTURES GREATEST EVER SHOWN

Have Great Educational Value for the Student—How Animals are Caught, Trained, Etc.

The attention of the parents of the students and children of Peterborough to the pictures now being shown at the Grand Opera House, Rainey's Animal pictures, these pictures are the greatest that have ever been shown in Peterborough, and they are worth years of home study to the student. Parents should make a special effort to take their children attend the Opera House, and see these wonderful pictures of how the wild animals are caught and trained.

BLUFFING

The Examiner continues to balk at Mr. Burnham's proposition to aid charity. However, the member is running the whole matter of the Buckhorn Bridge up in the House of Commons, and then if he discovers that Mr. Graham had committed himself even morally to the cause, he will gladly pay the money, although the Examiner should still fail to accept the balance as it was given. But then, who expected the Examiner to be either fair or square?

EX-PRESIDENT OF VENEZUELA, ON WAY TO AMERICA, NOT TO BE ALLOWED TO LAND

General and Mrs. Castro, deposed President of Venezuela, and known as the most without a country, is on his way to the United States from Paris, after having been exiled for weeks through Brussels and France by the United States authorities. He wishes to prevent his landing, it is understood, as it is believed he wishes to foment another revolution and reassert his influence in the country in which he is said to be suffering from a contagious disease, and on the strength of this, it is said, the immigration officials will prevent his landing.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION HELD IN THE CITY YESTERDAY

W. Langford, Jr., Elected for the North Ward and Mr. Malcolm McIntyre for the East Ward as Councillors, and Messrs Ackerman, Eastwood, Morrison and J. J. Turner for School Board

Yesterday was a strenuous one in Peterborough's municipal affairs. The morning broke with a drizzle of rain, which, however, soon wore off, leaving the pavements so slippery as to be dangerous to pedestrians. As the hours of the afternoon grew older, vehicles of all descriptions, dashed hither and thither to carry belated voters to the polls. Whilst there may have seemed a latent difference to the matters to be weighed in the scales of the ballot, the result at the close of the polls, especially on the local option vote, demonstrated a strong undercurrent of public sentiment to have been in existence. Most interest seems to have been aroused in the local option question, which undoubtedly aided in bringing an unusually large vote for the money by-laws. The new law that prohibits cards or doggers being used on election day, resulted in very little argument and no disturbance at the polls, either inside or out.

In the elections for the Board of Education Messrs. Robert Fair and Robert Ruddy were the unsuccessful candidates. Below is given complete returns of the city's vote.

WAR CLOUD AGAIN BLACKENS PEACE CONFERENCE SUSPENDED

Balkan Allies Refuse to Accept Turkey's Latest Offer of Peace

London, Jan. 6.—The official report of the meeting of the peace delegates to-day says:

"Having examined the new proposals the Turkish delegates made a reply to the declaration of the allies at the last sitting. The latter declared the work of the conference suspended."

Rehad Pasha and his colleagues remained adamant upon the subject of Adrianople. They say that Turkey could not possibly give up that fortress.

The allies emphasize the statement that the negotiations have not been broken off. By suspending the sittings of the Peace Conference the delegates claim to have left the next move to the Turks. Rehad Pasha, the leader of the Turkish delegation, they say, has the alternative of presenting fresh proposals which shall follow closely the demands of the Balkan league.

SUFFRAGETTES TO KIDNAP MINISTER OF THE CABINET

While Their Sisters Pray in Westminster for the Ballot, They Hatch Plot to Waylay Home Secretary

London, Jan. 6. Milder atrocities failing to win the ballot, the militant suffragette now threaten stronger measures to gain their ends. It leaked out to-day that Scotland Yard received reliable information that the suffragettes had formed a plot to kidnap some member of the Cabinet.

The police would give no intimation as to what particular Cabinet officer the women had designs upon, but it was learned that a party of suffragettes last Friday invaded the office of Home Secretary McKenna.

Disbelieving the statements of attacks that McKenna was at the House of Commons, the women broke into his private office, tore open closets and ransacked bookcases, until police reserves forcibly ejected them.

Six noticeably athletic women led the party that stormed the office of the Home Secretary, and the police, it is said, believe they were the would-be kidnapers.

Armed detectives to-day guarded every member of the Cabinet. The men were guarded in their homes as well as in their offices, and detectives were close at hand whenever they appeared on the street.

While the police were guarding all Government officials from the attacks of the militants, other suffragettes continue their daily silent prayers in Westminster Abbey to obtain votes.

appearance. At the base of the frame is an alcohol lamp, and in the top of the frame sets the pan that holds the water. In the top of this pan sets a tray with openings to hold the eggs, and a handle by means of which the tray may be lifted out and stood on the table on the little legs it carries for that purpose. A dome-like lid covers the whole utensil and retains the steam. If the eggs are to be boiled the pan must, of course, contain more water than if they are steamed, but one process is as easy as the other with this.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. de la Roche, a bigamist is not a man to be pitied. He is a man who has more wives than brains.

We judge from the size of the land stock that the silent sale on local option was decidedly boisterous.

The moral yard stick your neighbors use on you is usually a short one about the same length as the one you use on him.

Mr. Bruce Innes's retirement from the directorship of the White Star line adds another to the long list of Titanic fatalities.

The Times' readers will be thankful that the trouble is over, so that they will get something else than Local Option chatter to read.

Mr. Hunter street contemporary remarked the other day that talk is cheap. It is not always so, as it often costs a man a black eye.

It is said that hope deferred makes a man cold feet. This should apply to Anti-Local Option advocates, who refused to give up the fight when things looked darkest.

Those who followed the Local Option movement in Peterborough from the start will probably agree with us that Mr. Cowan, the energetic and indefatigable president of the Association, was the chap who put the cues in discussion.

The report that the Crown Prince of Japan is confined to his bed with rheumatism is not necessarily alarming, but it shows that in those days, when the cost of living is so high, nobody but a millionaire or a member of the royal family can afford to have any kind of chicken disease.

It is said that the submission of Local Option in Peterborough was not to take place, some of the leaders having said that it would not be put on. This looks as though some of our energetic citizens are willing to be reassured of the superior brand of second thoughts.

ANTI-RECIPROCITY WATCH

A signal honor has been paid George H. Bradbury, M.P., the energetic member for Selkirk. Recently he was tendered a banquet in the Royal Alexandra Hotel, Winnipeg, which was attended by over five hundred guests, irrespective of politics, from every part of his constituency. He was presented with this inscription: "To George H. Bradbury, from the Market Gardeners of Kildonan, Man., in recognition of your fight against reciprocity." Kildonan is the market garden district of Selkirk riding, and adjacent to Winnipeg. Two-thirds of the market gardeners are Liberals, and the man who made this presentation is a life-long Liberal. The affair is a striking expression of the fiscal feeling in the West.

THE CANADIAN FINANCIAL OUTLOOK

Mr. E. R. Wood Makes Statement Regarding Present And Future Conditions

Mr. E. R. Wood, of Toronto, who is regarded as one of the best authorities on financial matters in Canada, has contributed an article to the press on Canadian finance. Mr. Wood is an old Peterborough boy and is known to thousands in city and district. His articles are always interesting and very instructive.

"You have asked me to express my opinion regarding financial conditions in our country which will have a bearing upon the Canadian investment situation."

"Money in London is scarce but quite obtainable for good loans, although the prices are, of course high. The London bankers are all very cautious, because they anticipate great stringency through difficulties elsewhere and through the demands for gold arising from the activity in trade in all countries. It is known that Brazil, India and Egypt are all likely to take gold, and it is feared that America may take a great deal also."

Moreover, the complications arising from the Balkan War have not been by any means cleared up as yet. There is still a great nervousness in all capitals, with the result that lending centres have been withdrawing from the borrowing countries, particularly in France and Germany and Austria, causing great stringency of money in these countries."

"In addition, there is the knowledge that every country which has been engaged in war, including Italy, must have very heavy financing as soon as conditions warrant in order to take care of the accumulated debts growing out of the war. They have already secured enormous sums on short term notes."

"The situation in the United States must not be lost sight of. The transportation companies have large loans maturing this year in the form of short term notes, and to meet these, they are on the market for money in a very large way."

"It does not look like either cheap money or abundant supply in 1913, and Canadian banks should govern themselves accordingly."

WEDDING BELLS.

Left Campbell, of Billings, but formerly of this city. The happy couple will reside in Billings.

MacNish-Copperthwaite.
A pretty wedding of local interest was celebrated on the 24th, at Regina, Sask., when Edna Louise, daughter of Capt. F. Copperthwaite of this city became the charming bride of Lawrence R. MacNish, formerly of Millbrook, but for the past 8 or 9 years a successful contractor of Regina. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Mr. McKinnon, of the Presbyterian church of that far western capital. Miss Copperthwaite has been for some months the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Hick at Regina. The bride was becomingly attired for the ceremony. The church had been appropriately decorated with flowers and plants for this auspicious event. After the ceremony in the church, the bridal party returned to the home of Mrs. Hick, where a rehearsal wedding dinner was served. On returning from their wedding tour the happy couple will reside in Regina.

Millburn-Edwards.
A pretty home wedding was solemnized at Calgary, on the afternoon of Christmas Day, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Edwards, when their daughter Miss Frances Chalmers became the charming bride of Dr. Henry Hall Millburn, of Vancouver, son of Mr. Jos. Millburn, of Smith. The only attendant was the ring bearer, Master Harry Gibson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gibson, of Calgary, and a nephew of the bride.

The bride's gown was of white tulle and real val lace over dress and she wore a bridal veil with orange blossoms in Juliet cap effect, and carried white roses and lilies of the valley with fern. The house was prettily decorated with palms and roses.

A BIT DIFFERENT.

Widely familiar as the Chateau Laurier has become already in its short career, the recent publication issued by the Grand Hotel with its elegant features, has served to win for it a host of new friends. One of these is a prominent business man from New England, whose experience of hotel conditions has been both wide and varied, who has written a book of the "Grand Hotel" representing as follows:

"I have just received the Chateau Laurier Booklet, which you kindly sent to us as promised and I am very glad indeed to hand it along to some of my friends who are thinking of a trip to Canada. My wife and I went to Ottawa for no other reason at all than to stay a few days at the new hotel about which we had heard so much and it may interest you to know that we were delighted with the house, the efficiency of its service and the cordiality of its management. The hotel is indeed beautiful and I have no doubt will quickly become a Mecca for tourists who are looking for something a bit different."

and shipping steadily; but we now want you to keep an eye to which is now being operated by this Company. We expect big results from the Seaton Mine because it produced a fortune in the upper workings. We are 800 feet below these and will have an immense block of stopping ground to work on and there can only be one result once this big mine is going good. A little more capital will do the work and we feel quite certain that we will all be well recompensed for our time, money and labor. By placing up-to-date machinery in the mill, we can add fully 20 per cent to our profits. This is what we want capital for and our reason for selling stock. We are preparing to make a big producing mine of this and your money will help us to do it.

PROPERTIES.

This Company owns 527 acres of rich Phosphate, Mica and Asbestos Mines in the Townships of Masham, Templeton and Portland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 40 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Porcupine Gold District.

As Phosphate and Mica Mining produces quicker and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining, and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich Phosphate and Mica Mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY REQUIRED.

The Mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication.

Labor and provisions are much less expensive than in Cobalt or Porcupine.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from Phosphate and Mica Mining.

Mining can be carried on all the year round.

A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHAREHOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a number of other mines to fall back upon.

The large acreage, the low capitalization, the large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious and honest enterprise and administration.

J. T. ARMAND & CO.,

4 St. Lawrence Boulevard, MONTREAL, Canada
Tel. Main 2202

The Company has demands of over 50,000 tons of Phosphate on which it is calculated to realize, at an average, $5.00 net per ton, all expenses paid.

This would net the Company $250,000, or 50 per cent, on the entire Capitalization. Supposing we reduce this amount by one half, it still would net the Company $125,000, or 25 per cent.

The Phosphate profits do not include the profits on the Company's Mica product. The Company has already sufficient demands on hand from large English firms, for all the Mica can produce during the entire year and will yield handsome profits to the shareholder.

Phosphate is largely used as chemical fertilizer. Phosphoric Acid and Pharmaceutical Products. Mica is used for Electricity as a non-conductor, also in manufacture of wall paper, and Ornamental decorations, also as fire-proof material for wall and ceiling, etc.

It will be seen that this proposition is not like Gold or Silver Mining.

It will pay right from the start.

The Company will start operating early in Spring, so as to be able to ship Phosphate and Mica when the navigation opens.

We are authorized by the "Progressive Mining Co., Ltd." to offer a limited number of shares.

AT 10 CENTS EACH

Until January 15th, after which date, they will be 15 cents.

Don't wait till the Company starts operation or shipping as the shares will then sell not at 10 cents but at 15 cents, but at 50 cents.

You can buy the shares now at the same price as promoters generally buy them. Here is your chance.

Terms are Cash on all lots under 500 shares, lots of 500 shares and over are 50 per cent, cash with order, the balance as soon as the shares are allotted to the subscribers.

Prospectus will be sent free on application.

COAL IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Not only has Sir Thomas Tait of Montreal secured control of several coal areas in Queen's County, New Brunswick, but English capitalists have also, according to latest reports, been busy securing options and it is expected that they will make a test to discover if there is not a deeper seam of coal than those at present being mined, which are all close to the surface and cover large areas. The possibilities of the district as an industrial centre are also being closely looked into.

SANITARIA AT WATROUS.

According to Mr. H. W. Boles, the president of the Board of Trade of Watrous, Sask., who is at present in the east, a German syndicate which is also largely interested in Carleton Place, has applied for permission to pipe the medicinal waters of Lake Manitou into Watrous, and are already building large sanatoria, one at the lake and the other in the town.

DIED IN PENITENTIARY.

John H. Staunton, the aged man from St. Catharines, known in the St. Catharines district as "the old telephone man," because of an apparatus he wore for defective hearing, died at the penitentiary. Staunton was recently sentenced by Judge Carman to five years for setting fire to a barn, although he dramatically protested his innocence.

KICKED IN THE FACE.

While clutching a girder seventy feet in the air at the new Arena, Toronto, Abraham Listoff claims that he was kicked in the face by Charles Homer. Both men are ironworkers. WOMAN'S SEARCH FOR SOUL MATE

Wife of Author of "The Jungle Discusses Her Husband—Too Intellectual

The wide fields of love, the psychologies and motives are being discussed in the "Jungle Dis" by Mrs. Sinclair, who is known as a writer on psychological subjects. Both of them have been discussing the reasons why they are so long to come together as husband and wife. Mrs. Sinclair, it is declared, has left her husband and has gone away, a poet, who was also a member of the colony. Nevertheless, husband and wife are still good friends.

Mrs. Sinclair, with the idea of helping others to find an ideal, discusses the causes of her present separation from her husband. She speaks of the difficulties of the marriage. I have the misfortune to be married to a man who is very conservative, although he poses to be a radical. Mr. Sinclair by nature and instinct is a conservative. He is a natural monomaniac, but lacks the qualities that a monomaniac should possess. Now a monomaniac ought to have some time to devote to his wife, but Mr. Sinclair is too busy with his intellectual and his work occupies his attention to the exclusion of the rest of his life.

Search for an Ideal.

In leaving the colony with Mr. Harry Kemp, a Kansas poet, Mrs. Sinclair says she is not sure even now that Kemp is her real soul mate. She overtook another poet, but he was a cross-examining her inmost self. She and her husband hold that matrimony, when love has fled, is a state of bond and slavery from which one is justified in escaping.

Mrs. Sinclair further explains that she discovered an incompatibility of temperament between her husband and herself during the first twelve months of her eleven years of married life. At that time (she continues) I loved him, but I did not love him. I was attempting to attain this freedom. I have pursued several friendships with other men as though I were not married.

I have permanently come out of the doll house, but trust that I shall not be lost in a wilderness that is somewhat unexplored and uncharted. The social stigma of the sex is quite wrong in her opinion. The young man and woman of to-day, she says, "do not have a chance to meet the real personalities of each other under the present system of intercourse. They marry and the woman becomes the man's chattel."

She is convinced that most of the unhappy marriages are not terminated simply because of the wife's financial dependence on her husband, yet for a marriage to continue after it has become burdensome to both parties is, in her opinion, criminal.

Women Warned

In the meantime, she cautions women against marrying men who are unevenly balanced. I know (she continues) that two people of the same temperament do not get on so well together as two people of opposite temperaments. That's true to a degree. A practical person and an artistic person balance each other. But the real requirement is that they shall react towards life in a similar way.

Mr. Sinclair won't decide everything by intuition. He wants to go entirely by logic. He is completely by the pulse and radial by choice. I am emotionally and intellectually radical. Mrs. Sinclair proposes to accept a theatrical engagement to appear in "The Works" of Mr. Kemp also proposes leaving the self-culture colony of Arden for the foothills.

It is only a few days ago since Mr. Sinclair commended Kemp to Americans as "our poet of greatest fulfillment." Mrs. Sinclair announces that she will not defend the divorce suit even though brought on statutory grounds. She adds, however, "This ought to be no disgrace to Mr. Kemp, as he and I are merely friends. Temperamentally we are more alike than Mr. Sinclair and myself, but I have not decided on whether I shall marry him. I am still searching for an ideal. A second marriage," he said wearily, "is a triumph of hope over experience. I shall not attempt it."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

There was a remarkable increase of infantile paralysis in Devon and Cornwall last year. Mr. Reese, reporting to the Local Government Board, suggests the prevalence of the disease in late years may be associated with the dust raised by motor cars.

PORT ARTHUR, ONT.

The Canadian Northern Railway propose erecting a new steel dock. This dock will be about 800 feet long, and will be arranged so that several boats can unload at the same time.

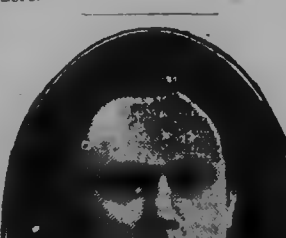

THE SALMON PACK

The pack of all kinds of salmon in British Columbia for the season of 1911 is said to fall not far short of seven hundred and fifty thousand cases. The total pack of sockeye on the Fraser River, it was estimated, approximated three hundred and fifty thousand cases.

TO STUDY CHINESE

Rev. A. J. Brace will Teach in the New Chinese University.

In order to study the Chinese language and conditions among the Chinese, with a view to assuming charge of the religious instruction in the interdenominational university, to be established in West China, Rev. A. J. Brace, Toronto, has given to the Orient. Mr. Brace will spend the first year in Tokyo, among the 30,000 Chinese students who are studying there. He will then continue his studies in Hong Kong and Shanghai until it is assured that conditions in the island provinces are settled enough to allow him to commence his work there.

The average age of rats is 15 years, of squirrels, 7 or 8 years, of rabbits, 7; a bear rarely exceeds 20 years; a wolf, 20; a fox, 14 to 16. Lions are comparatively long lived, instances having been recorded where they reached the age of 70 years.

Pigs have been known to live to the age of 20 years and horses to 60, but the average age of the horse is 25 to 30. Camels sometimes live to the age of 100 and stags are very long lived, one having been taken by Charles VI. in the forest of Schilla, which bore about its neck a collar on which was engraved "I bear his majesty's name."

Whether or not this stag had actually lived since the days of one of the Caesars it is impossible to say, but the evidence seems good.

Eagles occasionally and ravens frequently reach the age of 100 years and have been known to live 300 years. A tortoise has been known to live 100 years.

Efforts have been made to connect the rapidity of the pulse beat with longevity, but no logical conclusion can be reached, as will be seen from the fact that the pulse of a loin beats 4 times a minute; that of a tiger, 90 times; of a horse, 40 times; of a wolf, 46 times; of a fox, 43 times; of a deer, 33 times and of an eagle 160 times. It has been impossible to connect the pulse of a butterfly with that of a butterfly beats 80 times to the minute.—Dumb Animals.

DOG WITH GOLD TEETH

Justin McCarthy, a Terrier is equipped with seven Molars.

An individual with a whole set of gold teeth is rare enough, but a dog with a similar decoration is a curiosity.

Thomas Fitzgerald, proprietor of the New Schiller House, Toronto, is the proud owner of a still prouder, long haired terrier, who carries about with him no less than seven gold teeth in his lower jaw.

Mr. Fitzgerald is very much attached to his terrier and when he found that gradually the whole lower set of the dog's teeth had decayed, rendering the rat-killer useless and causing him considerable pain, he laid the case before Dr. J. H. Smith, a dentist in a new set of gold teeth, seven in all. Mr. Fitzgerald held his pet while the dentist worked, and the task was accomplished without the use of an anesthetic.

The dog with the gold teeth has been the main topic of conversation among Mr. Fitzgerald's friends, and just to show that the teeth were no mere ornament, Justin McCarthy, as the dog is called, killed two rats the morning after.

BROUGHT DOWN HIS MAN

Hon. Martin Burrell was explaining at the live stock men's dinner in Toronto, how hard it was for politicians to please everybody. "I mustn't say much in praise of the horsemen," he said, "for the cattle men will be offended."

"You may have heard the story of the Englishman and the Frenchman who went to fight a duel in a pitch-dark chamber, firing their pistols at a word of command. The Englishman, being courageous and tenderhearted, didn't wish to be his opponent, so he went to the window and looked out. When the word was given he fired up the flue, and brought down the Frenchman."

PRESENTED WITH WATCH

In recognition of his bravery in attacking and overpowering Ardit, the infuriated Egyptian who entered the Montreal fitness office and attempted the lives of Fred Hornsby and others, Joseph Kelly, mechanical superintendent, was presented with a gold watch and chain by F. E. Dougal, the proprietor. The watch presented was one that Mr. Dougal has worn for many years. He had it appropriately inscribed.

DENOUNCED PENSIONS

Sir Richard Cartwright speaking in the Senate denounced old age pension proposals as destructive of thrift. He declared that the worst enemies of the working classes were those who seek to pauperize or degrade them into being recipients of pensions they had not earned, and further, that Canada should not make preparations to relieve the submerged tenth, but to see that no submerged tenth exists in Canada.

DISTRIBUTION OF BIBLES

Sixty-seven thousand Bibles were distributed during 1911 by the Upper Canada Bible Society. These figures far exceed those of any previous year. During 1910, 48,000 were distributed and that was a record year. In 1910, $53,000 was collected from the eastern boundaries of Ontario west to the coast. The net gain over the previous year was in the neighborhood of $15,000, the balance having been collected in the eastern provinces.

THE KINGDOM OF NEPAL

Strange, Secluded Land Where King George Went Hunting

The ancient and interesting little kingdom at the foot of the Himalaya to which the King went for his shoot is nearer to being an independent territory than any other of the Indian States. Since the eighteenth century it has been ruled by the Gurkhas, who furnish to the Indian army some of the most perfect soldiers in the world. For practical purposes, the country is almost as closely secluded from Europeans as Tibet, to which in many respects it is akin.

The Terai, where King George was encamped, is the fertile, jungle tract bordering on the Indian plain, a region extraordinarily rich in wild animals, including elephants, the capture of which is a highly organized and valuable industry.

The Maharaja of Nepal, whose death, by the way, occurred on Dec. 11, was a titular sovereign only, the real ruler being the hereditary Prime Minister, who visited England a few months ago. He has the title of Maharaja, and is entitled to a salute of 19 guns.

One result of the jealous exclusion of foreigners, which the Indian Government thoroughly respects, is that very little is known of a great part of Nepal and that much of the available information is to be obtained only from the few Europeans who are in the country.

FROM THE LABOR WORLD

Features of an industrial review in the Old Country.

A record amount of labor unrest, a slight rise in wages, a considerable decrease in hours, a minimum of unemployed and maintenance of high cost of living are the principal features of the review of industry during 1911, published by the London Board of Trade.

The percentage of unemployed for 1911—4.3—was the lowest recorded since 1901, when it amounted to 8.7, a slight upward movement in wages, which began in 1910, was maintained on the whole during 1911, although it did not at any time become marked.

The net effect of all changes reported to the Board of Trade during the year was an increase of £20,997,700 in the wages of £25,304,448 a year.

Taking the period of sixteen years from 1896 to 1911, the aggregate of net increases of wages exceeds that of net decreases by £19,142,448 a year.

Changes in the weekly hours of labor taking effect in 1911 affected 108,537 work people. Of this number, 4,337 persons had their hours increased by 13,806 a week, 101,200 had reductions amounting to 57,140 hours a week.

QUEEN MARY'S HATS

They are made always according to her directions.

Very few people are aware that Queen Mary's hats, if not actually trimmed entirely by herself, are always made exactly according to her directions, and often, if a hat comes home and is not quite as she likes it, she sits down then and there and with needle and thread alters it. As a girl, she trimmed all her own hats for everyday wear.

Her mother, the Duchess of Teck, gave her a small allowance which had to cover such minor items as these, and the shops in which she bought her hats were chosen for her by the Duchess.

Mr. Fitzgerald is very much attached to his terrier and when he found that gradually the whole lower set of the dog's teeth had decayed, rendering the rat-killer useless and causing him considerable pain, he laid the case before Dr. J. H. Smith, a dentist in a new set of gold teeth, seven in all. Mr. Fitzgerald held his pet while the dentist worked, and the task was accomplished without the use of an anesthetic.

RAPID PROGRESS OF SEA SCOUTING

British Boys Taking up the Idea With Enthusiasm—Chief Scout Recommends it for Colonies

One of the things which struck Lieutenant-General Sir R. Baden Powell during his trip round the Empire was the great possibility of sea scouting for boys. By developing this section of the Boy Scouts' work the Chief Scout was convinced that it would be of inestimable value to the Dominions who are now occupied with the question of building navies. It would, he argued, give the boys the call of the sea, and the training they received would be of a character to make them splendid seamen.

In Great Britain sea scouting is being taken up with enthusiasm by the Boy Scouts. Troops have already been formed all round the coast. At Portsmouth a troop consists of boys of the mercantile marine scattered all over the world. Sea scouting does not necessarily mean that the boys will take to the sea as a profession. The boys are not advised in this sense, though if they wanted to adopt a seafaring career they would be well prepared to do so.

For the present the boys are being trained to render useful service in case of necessity. They are taught to swim well and to manage a boat with skill whether on river, lake, or sea. The chief facts of British sea history are instilled into them. They are trained to effect rescues and to understand signals, and when they are qualified in boatwork, swimming, rowing, and signaling it is claimed that they will be able to help other people at sea. Pilots, rocket work, and lifeboat work also form part of the training of those who desire to qualify as King's Sea Scouts. In these things they are asked a great deal by the coastguards. The Admiralty, indeed, encouraged the movement from the start. Each patrol of Sea Scouts has a certain stretch of coast to look after, and wherever possible a hut and signal pole are erected in the centre of the beat. Their instructions are for them to keep watch in the places assigned to them along the coast. They have to keep watch in pairs, so that when anything unusual is discovered one can at once communicate with the coastguard or Board of Trade coast watchman, while the other remains to keep an eye on the vessel in distress. The boys are instructed as fully as possible in the use of the life-saving apparatus, and to facilitate their tuition they are expected to attend drills, more especially when the life-saving inspector is present.

Scouts in War Time

While the possible utility and value of the Sea Scout, even though a boy in war time cannot be hastily pronounced upon, it is no doubt that an intelligent lad, with a good general knowledge in all the subjects of sea scouting, would be invaluable as a look-out and signaler on every liner mail boat, or tramp steamer, or tugboat, and would be a great help to the sea in war time. The intention is to have the Sea Scouts all along the coast equipped with wireless telegraphy, and, however it is for the future.

ERIN'S SOOTHING WEED

Tobacco was first smoked regularly in the British Isles by Sir Walter Raleigh at Myrtle Grove, Tynagh, and it seems only right that a good should now give promise of being a tobacco-producing country.

Important to Shippers.

In connection with the tracing of either carload or less than carload shipments the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has issued some important rules, which it is hoped will be exercised and thus facilitate in the work of tracing shipments. It is well-known that tracing of any shipment before it has had time to reach its destination does not hurry its movement, but on the other hand prevents prompt attention to legitimate tracing. The rules are as follows: 1. Tracers must not be started, or requests made, to trace freight, until the shipment has had a reasonable time in which to reach destination, and then only at the request of the shipper or consignee. 2. When tracing a shipment give the initials and the number of point of origin, route, date forwarded commodity and destination. 3. ULTIMATE VICTORY CLAIMED BY CITIZENS COMMITTEE

Say They Will Keep Their Organization Intact, so as to be Prepared for Greater Effort

The Times has been requested to publish the following statement of the Local Option Committee.

The temperance people entered into the local option campaign primarily because it was essentially a great moral issue. The fact that we lost on Monday does not alter the situation. The liquor interests in Peterborough have obtained a short reprieve, that is all. The fight will still go on. More than this, it will be conducted with greater vigor, more confidence and keener enthusiasm than ever before.

The fact pointed out during the campaign—that whereas at one time Peterborough county had 111 public places for the sale of liquor, whereas today there are only 17, means only one thing. It is only a matter of time—and we believe short time—before the remaining 94 houses will vanish as the other 97 have. The loss of yesterday's vote was only an incident. Preparations for the next campaign are already under way.

Had the vote been registered one week earlier, we believe that we would have won. We lost simply because influences over which we had no control entered into the campaign during the last few days of the struggle. These influences have nothing to do with the meetings held by our opponents. We saw their effect when the first returns were received, those from the South Ward.

While I have not had an opportunity as yet of discussing it with them, I feel that the officers of the Citizens' Committee have nothing to regret except the result. We put up a good fight, the best we knew how. So far, we see nothing about our method of conducting the campaign that we would change were a next campaign before us. Our organization on Monday was practically perfect. Every poll was fully and well manned, we had ample facilities for getting out our vote and we recorded our vote early. Our opposition polled only a few more votes than we expected they would. Our vote was between 100 and 200 less than we expected it would be. As the vote we had been given reason to count on was taken to the polls, it means, apparently, that many people who voted on other matters did not vote on local option. We will know more definitely about this when we receive the reports of our scrutineers.

I would like to say a word about the so-called three-fifths handicap. The term three-fifths is a misnomer. It might more properly be called the 50 per cent handicap, in as much as in order to win we must record 50 per cent more votes than our opponents do. This is shown by the fact that supposing in a local option campaign, the liquor interests had 500 votes, the temperance people would have to cast 750 votes in order to win. This is 50 per cent more than the liquor interests have to cast, making the handicap a too great, and that it is a hardship that after winning two campaigns, with an average majority of 100 or 200 votes, the temperance sentiment of the city should still be deprived of the fruits of victory.

We expect to keep our organization intact. It is probable, also, that we will unite with other districts in petitioning the Government to amend the law that it will not be possible to add names to the voters lists on an income basis under the conditions that now prevail. This provision of the law has been flagrantly abused in the past and needs revision.

I would like to express the thanks of our Committee to all those who worked so faithfully, especially to our canvassers, as well as to members of the clergy for their wholehearted, unflinching efforts on behalf of the cause.

H. B. COWAN,
President Citizens' Local Option Committee.

SIR WILFRID TURNS NATIONALIST

The Examiner rejoices that Monck (Nat.) will move an amendment to the House naval policy. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will vote for it and Monck will vote for Sir Wilfrid's motion of the same kind. Both demand that the House shall go to the people, both demand an emergency, both demand a vote on the Empire. Mr. Monck thought likewise. He had to leave the Conservative party. But Sir Wilfrid is still the Chief of the Liberal party. Monck, Mr. Wilfrid all beating the "tom-tom" together and crying out against the Empire. Anything to break off from the Empire. Last session Monck moved a Nationalist resolution and 17 out of the 24 who supported it were Liberals. Oh! Ve Liberal-Nationalists! But this year they go hand in hand, Nationalists and Liberal all one.

He was observed by some attendants, and he then tried to commit suicide, but he was caught and prevented as he was in the act of stabbing himself. He was arrested, and an investigation is now proceeding into the reason for his attempt.

Prince Yamagata was the Chief of General Staff during the Russo-Japanese War. He is well known in all the European countries.

BOARD OF EDUCATION HELD LAST MEETING FOR YEAR 1912

Full Reports of the Year's Work and Estimates for Next Year Will Appear in To-morrow's Issue

Last night the Board of Education held its last meeting of 1912. The meeting was held in the Board Room, and was presided over by Mr. John C. Gault, Chairman. A number of resolutions were read and confirmed. A letter from Mr. Keener was read, advocating the purchase of various text books for the schools. The Board decided to purchase the books recommended.

The supervision committee recommended by Mr. Morrison, chairman, that, with the consent of their donors, that three scholarships be open for competition to all city pupils who try the junior entrance exams here. The first scholarship of prize to be awarded to the pupils getting highest aggregate marks at entrance exam. The second and third scholarships to those who make highest rank at examination, next the first. That in addition to the above three, that five other scholarships be awarded, one to each of the public schools in the city. The pupils ranking highest in his school to be awarded the scholarship.

School Savings.
Mr. Eastwood, spoke on the penny savings bank system for the schools. No bank could, under ordinary circumstances, make money on this system. Still he advocated it. Deposits could be made with the teachers each Monday. The Principal is responsible.

Chairman Gault explained that a bank handling such an account did it simply as a philanthropic matter. Col. Miller brought up the matter of the escapes for the schools, and said it was out of the question to practice the children in fire in escaping down outside fire escapes. Mr. Fair thought there would be more danger in children taking the outside fire escapes in winter than going down the inside stairs and hallways.

Inspector Mowat, then explained One-half the Province of Ontario is now under local option. Openly put that over the success of the local option measures yesterday, prominent temperance workers this morning stated that the results was far more favorable than they had dared to expect. Twenty-five new places were carried from the "wet" column to the "dry" making the total number of dry municipalities in the province now 198. Five large towns, 6 villages and 13 townships, and 69 licenses in all are cut off.

COCHRANE MENTIONED FOR LIEUT-GOVERNOR

Minister of Railways to Give Up Portfolio to Succeed Sir John Gibson.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Hon. Frank Cochrane, it is understood, will be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario next autumn. The term of Lieutenant-Governor Gibson expires in September next. It is understood that Hon. Mr. Cochrane himself is a gregeable.

The departure of Hon. Mr. Cochrane from the Borden Government would be likely to result in another considerable shifting of portfolios. The railway portfolio will probably go to the province of Quebec, and be taken either by Hon. Mr. Pelletier or Hon. Mr. Cochrane. It is possible, however, that Hon. Mr. George Perley may be advanced to portfolio rank and be given the administration of railways. If this is not done a new man will be brought in from Northern Ontario to take the post office portfolios.

The Senate Vacancy

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—The name of Major Beattie, member for London, is being prominently mentioned as a possible successor of the late Senator Campbell to the upper chamber. Another man mentioned is that of James McLaughlin, of Owen Sound. The seat is certain to go to West-ern Ontario.

HEROIC LIFE-SAVERS FAILED, 20 DROWNED

Astoria, Oregon, Jan. 7.—The oil steamer Rose Crans went ashore on Pease Spit early today and owing to terrible seas and a fifty-five-mile gale, it is expected to be a total loss. Two tug boats with life-saving crew are endeavoring to rescue her crew of twenty men.

It is reported that the Rose Crans had disappeared when tug and life-savers went out to the rescue. Another dispatch contradicts this.

POWERS WILL INTERVENE IF THE PEACE CONFAB FAILS

Sir Edward Grey, Britain's Foreign Minister, Announces Plans With Hope of Settlement

London, Jan. 7.—If the Turks and the allies do not show a disposition to reopen negotiations immediately, the great powers of Europe will intervene.

This was stated today in the House of Commons by Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Questioned, the Foreign Minister admitted that the powers, through their London ambassadors, were considering joint action to bring about peace in the Balkans, but he declined to go into particulars, saying that the situation was too delicate.

ADRIANOPLE MUST GO TO BULGARIA, SAYS ALLIES

Greece Must Also Secure The Islands In Aegean Sea—Turkey Must Yield

New York, Jan. 7.—A cable from London to the Herald says:

The ambassadors of the powers held a long conference in the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon, and it is felt in diplomatic circles that in the end they will force Turkey to accept conditions that make for peace.

The newspapers this morning call upon the powers to prevent a resumption of war. All insist that Adrianople is bound to fall and should be given to the Bulgarians, adding that the islands of Greece should be restored to the Hellenic Kingdom.

The Standard voices the consensus of British press opinion, saying: "We look forward to united action by the powers, which will have the effect of removing the present block and affording the tripartite Government a necessary excuse for yielding to the inevitable."

BULGAR AVIATOR DOOMED KILLS TURKS WITH MACHINE

Paris, Jan. 7.—A cable from Paris today to the Tribune says: The death of the air scout, Lieut. Topakchieff of the Bulgarian army at Adrianople, which was the first occurrence of his kind in warfare, will occupy a place in history.

Eye witnesses say that he was ordered to fly over the besieged city and ascertain whether the Turks were preparing for a sortie. A division of Turkish infantry, supported by artillery and cavalry, was in readiness to march on him, and the Bulgarian, watching the machine with their glasses saw a jet of flame and a cloud of smoke enveloping the aviator. Turning around he volplaned like lightning into the middle of the Turkish cavalry, killing several.

Knowing that he was doomed, he had resolved to sell his life as dearly as possible. His body was recovered with a smoking revolver in his right hand. He had blown out his brains a second before the crash came.

ANCIENT MOORISH CITY

For Ten Centuries Marrakech Has Been a Capital, Now Rather Shabby

Marrakech, the thousand-year-old southern capital of the Moorish Empire which was captured by a French force recently, is described by an English visitor as one of the most picturesque places on the face of the earth. It is a city of countless mosques with forty towers of palaces with green tiled roofs, of spacious gardens, whose wealth of fruits and flowers peers alluringly over the edge of high city walls.

The city has, however, fallen from its high estate, the population has dwindled to a mere fifty thousand, but time was when it was four times as great.

A forest of date palms, nourished by the waters of the Tensift river and its many tributaries, girdles the city, the Atlas mountains, crowned with snows serve for background.

Marrakech does not improve as one penetrates beyond the walls of sun-dried brick that should but do not protect it. The streets have neither name nor pavement nor drainage, though some are roofed with palm branches against the sun, and their barren aspect is increased by the absence of windows on the sides of house walls that overlook them. If there were windows commanding the street his womanhood might look out and be seen, so the Moor builds bare walls to front the roadway.

The prosperity of the city has fluctuated in late years as Sultanate have come and gone. If "the Court Elevated by Allah" visits the southern capital trade is stimulated, and even the slave market can boast sixty or seventy victims against the dozen or score of normal times. But if the Sultan is at his other capitals, at Fez, Mequinez, or Rabat, the trade dwindles, and the caravans that come up from the south and from the east are quite small.

The first wedding ring to be made of Welsh gold was worn by Gladys May Evans, of Swansea, at her marriage. It was presented to her by Mr. O. Hall, the manager of the new Marionethshire gold mine.

Scientists Sympathize With Women Who Undertake "Hunger Strike"

Several members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science attended a suffragette meeting at Dundee, and condemned punishment of women prisoners. Dr. Wm. R. Halliburton, professor of physiology at King's College, London, said punishment, even of criminals, would not be tolerated if British statesmen knew what it was. Its horror and disgust apart from the physical injury the prisoner said, men it a punishment which recalled the worst days of medieval cruelty.

RECORD BATTLESHIP

Largest Guns Ever Carried to be Mounted on New British Vessel

A larger and more powerful battleship than any now afloat is the project of the British Admiralty. A characteristic feature of the new vessel which is to be built at Portsmouth will be special defenses against bombs dropped from aeroplanes. The ship's offensive power, too, will be very great.

The new ship will be 700 feet long, and her displacement will be 30,000 tons. Her guns will be of 14 inch calibre—the largest yet mounted on a British warship—and of these formidable weapons she will carry ten mounted in pairs in barbettes, so as to give an all-round fire action. For propulsion high-power geared turbines will give a nominal speed of about twenty-one knots.

Dandelion Salad and Coffee

Dandelion coffee after dinner was a suggestion put forward in a lecture at the Royal Photographic Society's Exhibition at London. Mr. Eusebio high Corks said the dandelion was a flower which ought to be far more highly esteemed than it was. It provided a good salad, and its dried roots, ground and roasted made an excellent coffee. The dandelion belonged, said Mr. Corks, to a tribe of plants which were probably the most highly evolved in botany.

PEACEMAKER UNDER ARREST

Shot Friend Whilst Latter Was Beating His Own Wife

New Orleans, Jan. 7.—Claiming that he shot in self-defense after making an effort to act as the peacemaker to bring husband and wife together, Charles Touro, aged 26, employed as electrician at the Lane Cotton Mills, positively denied that there was anything wrong in his visit to the home of S. J. Laporte, 823 North Carrollton avenue, where the shooting occurred shortly after 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

Laporte, who was shot through the left arm, and it is believed, through the left lung, is a well-known junk dealer, whose place of business is at 322 Conti street.

At the Laporte home nothing could be learned of the shooting or the cause leading up to it, the lady who answered the doorbell stating that Mrs. Laporte was ill, and that her husband could not be seen, as his condition was too serious. Touro, who surrendered to the police of the first precinct station about midnight, at first refused to make a statement, but ended by giving his version of the affair.

"Although I have known Laporte only two years, we were the best of friends. I have often visited him at his home and at his office. Last night I visited the Laporte home upon Laporte's invitation. I reached his home about 8 o'clock. He asked me to come and spend the evening with him and his family to celebrate the coming of the New Year.

"I followed Laporte to his home, and I found him and his wife in the dining-room playing the graphophone shortly after 11 o'clock, when we heard a commotion in the breakfast room adjoining. We then heard the screams of Mrs. Laporte. Young Laporte and I rushed into the room, and found Laporte beating his wife. His son tried to disengage his father, but the latter turned upon him and struck him. As Laporte continued to beat his wife, I thought I should interfere and endeavor to bring about peace. I asked him to desist, whereupon he turned on me, and with an oath, said: 'I'll get you, too.'

"Not wanting to get into trouble, I backed towards a side door, intending to leave the house, but Laporte, who grabbed up something, I don't know just what, and advanced upon me threateningly. It was either a pistol or a knife he had, and, believing my life was in danger, as he was bearing down upon me, I drew my revolver and fired one shot. I then backed out of the door and came to the first precinct and surrendered."

Upon the Application of Annie Morgan and upon reading the Affidavit of the said Annie Morgan filed heretofore whereby

NEARLY THREE TO ONE

Some Interesting Facts Shown in the Immigration Returns

According to the immigration returns for 1911 the proportion of male to female immigrants has been nearly three to one, while about one-fifth of the total arrivals have been children under sixteen years of age. Male adults arriving in Canada as new citizens during the past twelve months, have numbered a little over 20,000, as compared with a little less than 100,000 female adults, and about 50,000 children. The Immigration Department expects that fully 400,000 immigrants will arrive in Canada during the coming year.

Official figures given out in Winnipeg show that 120,000 settlers from the United States came to Canada last year, bringing property valued at $20,000,000.

WELLAND CANAL RECORD

Two Thousand Five Hundred and Seventy-Four Vessel Passages

Twenty-five hundred and seventy-four vessels of all kinds last year passed through the Welland Canal, up and down, breaking the record for any previous year in the history of the canal. The lockages total nearly four hundred more than last season. Perhaps fifty million bushels of wheat were brought down through the canal during the season. The fastest trip from the one end to the other was made by the steamer City of Montreal, which took just nine hours and twenty minutes to go through.

FIRST PAWNBROKER DIES

Toronto's first pawnbroker died at seventy-three years of age. He was Mr. David Ward, who was born on the island where his father settled in 1885, and was a brother of the late Captain William Ward, the Island Lifer. In 1862 he opened a pawnshop in Toronto near the postoffice.

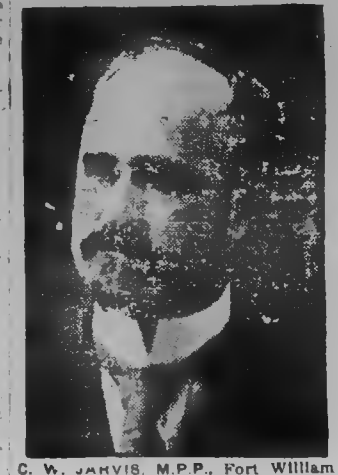

PRINCE RUPERT CUSTOMS.

Customs receipts at the town of Prince Rupert for the past year amounted to $101,558.85 an increase of $4,170.34 over 1910. The heaviest months were May and June when $11,112.64 and $11,231.04 were respectively received.

COST OF LIVING

Highest prices for a Generation—not yet Maximum.

That Canada will establish for herself a high water record for the general index in the cost of living is the opinion entertained after careful investigation and compilation of statistics by the Labor Department. In 1880 the Department collected 261 articles of representative character throughout the entire field of production and consumption, and divided them into thirteen groups. From the average cost of those a standard of 100 was set as the index figure. That index figure today stands at 131, which is the highest record since the standard was formed, and for many years previous to that time. As a simple indication of the rapid rise it is noted that the retail prices for the last year averaged 5 per cent. higher than for the previous year. In connection with the rise in prices of foods it is pointed out that the shortage in the world's crop last year on account of the drought is one cause. Imported foods are going up rapidly.

THE EDITORIAL VIEW

Prince Rupert Editor waxes eloquent over his city.

Evidently a very healthy spirit of rivalry is growing up between Vancouver and Prince Rupert. It's another young rival, as Pacific ports. "Why can't the truth be told about Prince Rupert's climate?" plaintively inquires the "Weekly Empire" of that place. If ever a city was maligned, misrepresented, and unfairly criticized from the standpoint of weather, that city is Prince Rupert. It's about time that "facts were told." It's time that people were made aware that here is a city where the mellow richness of Indian Summer lingers till after mid-winter and where the summer months are unsurpassed for beauty and salubrity. When in Vancouver it's a favorite and miserable sort of a jest to advise the traveller to Prince Rupert to be sure and take his mackintosh and umbrella. A thread bare and hollow jest. The other way round would be more appropriate.

PUSH FACTORY LIFE

Western Boards of Trade Want industrial Activity Stimulated

The people of Western Canada, particularly those in towns and cities, are alive to the necessity of developing activity in manufacturing in the West.

This subject was one of the chief topics of discussion at the convention in Moosejaw of the Associated Boards of Trade of Western Canada. A resolution was adopted calling upon the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to emphasize technical education as a means of stimulating industrial activity on the plains.

The resolution expressed the desire of the West to work up its own raw materials into manufactures for the local outside markets, thus conserving for the prairie most of the profits and by-products which now go to waste. The resolution re-iterated the fact that nine-tenths of the youths of Western Canada wish to go into industrial careers. If these are to be kept at home and not lost to the United States, the establishment of manufacturing industries beyond the Great Lakes must continue to be fostered by moderate protection. In supporting the resolution, Mr. A. J. Che-win of Moosejaw, declared that no country could become great without manufactures. "The cities," he said,
 "are crying for industries, and the whole (Western) country is in need of industries."

ANGLICANS AT KHARTUM

Great Crowds Will Attend the Consecration of the Cathedral

Plans for the consecration ceremony of the new Anglican Cathedral at Khartum on January 26 next are now completed, and invitations to witness the event are already being issued.
 As a large number of English Churchmen and their families are expected to go from London to Khartum for the occasion, the committee has arranged for special reduced-rate excursions for the traveler. In addition to the English pilgrims to the consecration of the cathedral, it is expected that Khartum will be filled with visitors from Cairo and the north, for at that season of the year there is usually a considerable exodus, due to the inclement weather of Egypt, to the warmth and sunshine of the Sudan.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this state is equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska, and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all of the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

PREDICTS RUIN OF WOOL TRADE

A Boston Authority Compares the Wool Tariff of Canada With That of United States.

In view of efforts to promote the raising of sheep in Alberta the following extract written by a well-known American authority on economic trade questions, Mr. T. O. Marvin of Boston, is significant as showing the very close relationship of interdependence of the manufacturers of woolen goods and the production of wool and sheep raising. He quotes figures to show that the number of sheep in Canada fell from 2,155,000 in 1871 to 2,100,000 in 1910, while the number in the United States increased from 27,788,000 in 1870 to 41,999,000 in 1910. He then goes on to say

"The decline of sheep raising and the decline of wool manufacturing in Canada have naturally and inevitably gone on hand in hand. The 2,645 wool en looms of 1899 have fallen to a nominal 2,034 in 1907; the number of spinners have shrunk from 194,080 to 155,254. Of this machinery in existence only a part was in actual operation. Many mills were entirely closed. Canadian mills manufactured a smaller quantity of Canadian wool in 1908 than they had consumed in 1871. The total consumption of foreign and domestic wool in Canadian wool manufacture in 1908 was only 13,000,000 pounds. In the United States the amount of domestic and foreign wool consumed in 1909 was 574, 000,000 pounds. That is the United States, with twelve times the population of Canada, consumed forty times as much wool in its native manufacturing.

The total value of the product of the woolen mills in Canada is far from $12,000,000 a year. Important factor is a foreign price of $21,400,000 supply about two-thirds the clothing of the Canadian wool.
 Fifty years ago, says the Canadian Textile Journal, the very reverse was the case as regards both the wool grower and the manufacturer, and the reverse is also the case in the United States today, where over three-fifths of the raw wool manufactured in that country is grown on the backs of the American sheep, and where out of 600,000 worth of woolen goods annually consumed, according to a report of 1902, $38,000,000 worth are manufactured in the country. The protection of the woolen industry in the United States, above the duty on raw wool, is 60 and 65 per cent. and a valorem. This is the rate of the Aldrich-Payne tariff law, preceding the protection given to cloths and dress goods in Canada is nominally 8 per cent.; that is, this is the general tariff rate. But the imperial preference to similar British goods has reduced this rate in practice to 20 per cent. This is the protection which Canadian mills receive against the mills of Yorkshire. It has proved to be totally inadequate. The Canadian wool manufacture is breaking down, although, to quote again the Canadian Textile Journal, the average Canadian mill is as well equipped as the average Yorkshire mill, except for its adaptability for the production of shoddy goods. A 50 per cent. protection does not bridge the difference in the cost of production between Canada and the United Kingdom—and because it does not do so it is almost equivalent in its consequences to downright free trade."

Ideal Protection Against Inroads of Catarrh

By Breathing the Rich, Balsamic Vapor of Catarrhose You Prevent and Cure All Head, Nose and Throat Disease.

Remember this: You don't take drugs when using Catarrhose; you simply inhale a healing vapor that cures every type of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, throat and nose soreness and irritation.

No medicine brings such prompt relief, exerts such an invigorating influence, or so thoroughly and speedily cures throat troubles as "Catarrhose."

Doctors, hospitals, sanitarians, all say that for those who suffer from changeable weather, for those who are predisposed to catarrh, lung trouble, deafness, or bronchitis, no treatment is so indispensable as "Catarrhose."

Victim of Chronic Catarrh Cured

I contracted a severe cold while following my occupation of fur trade, travelling, and eventually it developed into Catarrh. The desultory mode of life I was following gave me very little chance to attend to the Catarrh condition, and I became a victim of Chronic Catarrh. I bought a large package of Catarrhose, used it as per directions, and have never been bothered since. It will be only too glad to give any information I possess to any person suffering from the disease that was the bane of my life two years.

A. H. SWARTZ, Brockville, Ont.

For certain cure, for relief in an hour, use Catarrhose. The only direct, breathable medicine. Two months' treatment, guaranteed, price $1.00, smaller size 50c, at all drug stores, or the Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y., U.S.A.

TO WARD OFF WINTER COMPLEXION ILLS.

(From The Queen.)

To keep the face smooth, white, and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercurized wax. Rough, chapped or discolored skin, inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, freer skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning. Creams, powders and rouges on the other hand are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of attraction and expansion of the skin due to changing temperatures. I advise you to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercurized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably youthful and healthy. Winds and flying dust often cause skin irritation and eruptions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every wrinkle, however produced, by using a hairless face bath made by dissolving one ounce powdered salicylate in 1 pt. witch hazel.

PLANT THRIFTY BOER COLONY

Edmonton, Jan. 3. A syndicate of wealthy South Africans will, commencing next spring, establish settlements of Dutch farmers in Northern Alberta, is the statement made by Harries Smyman, who is in the city investigating conditions. Mr. Smyman is a Boer, and farmed in South Africa before going to New Mexico to engage in ranching a few years ago. He is at the head of the syndicate of Boer farmers, all of whom are owners of large estates in South Africa.

The syndicate proposes to settle its members in the district around Edmonton and in the Peace River country. Mr. Smyman intimates that the scheme will be the means of bringing a great number of sturdy and wealthy settlers into the Province. He is accompanied by a few associates and all are enthusiastic over the prospects.

THE BEST TEACHER

Old Experience Still Holds the Palm

For real practical reliability, something to swear by, experienced plain old experience is able to make a big head yet without getting, backed.

A Western woman found some thing about food from Old Experience — a good, reliable teacher, she writes — "I think I have used almost every breakfast food manufactured, but none equal Grape-Nuts in my estimation."

"I was greatly bothered with weak stomach and indigestion, with formation of gas after eating and tried many remedies for it, but did not find relief."

PETERBOROUGH POULTRY SHOW FORMALLY OPENED LAST NIGHT

Mr. Joe Bennett of Toronto Says Present Local Exhibit Surpasses Even That Shown at the Toronto Exhibition

Cock-a-doodle-do! Last night the splendid exhibition, presented by the Peterborough Poultry Association, opened in the Market Hall. Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., was to have delivered an opening address, however, that gentleman, on arrival, explained that another engagement at St. George's church, impelled him to forgo that honor. Mr. R. McGregor, in Mr. Burnham's place, in a short but well timed address, formally declared the show open. In his speech, Mr. McGregor paid a flattering tribute to a local chicken expert, Mr. Geo. Tassman and to Mr. Joe Kelly, the efficient secretary of the local association. He next referred to Miss Yates of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Miss Yates from a platform at the east end of the hall, on which stood a table, demonstrated to the exhibitors from outside the city how to dress a fowl, and later on how to carve a fowl. She explained every detail of how to accomplish both results.

HOPES PARTIES WILL GET TOGETHER TO ABOLISH BARS

Mr. Rowell Thinks Local Option Success Will Induce Sir James Whitney to Modify His Position in Regard to the Matter

Toronto, Jan. 8.—When asked to-day what he thought of the local option situation in Ontario, N. W. Rowell, K.C., leader of the opposition in the Ontario Legislature, made this statement:

"I consider the vote in favor of the local option by-laws most gratifying and one that indicates an increasing determination upon the part of the electors of this Province to get rid of the open bar. It is, however, very disappointing that cities and towns like Peterborough, Sarnia, Lindsay, St. Mary's, and others which have voted by substantial majorities against the bar, should be compelled to continue the open bar in their midst."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Carnegie is sure that war will come on earth at some time. It is good that the future looks brighter for the older man grows.

The new emperor of Japan is about to embark on a voyage for a voyage around the world. If he happens to be around these parts about the end of the summer he might have the honor of opening the Peterborough Central Exhibition.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

There are compulsory education laws in the following countries: Great Britain, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, France, Germany, Austria, Italy,
Spain, (1907), Portugal, Holland, Switzerland, Serbia, Bulgaria, Rou-mania, Greece, Montenegro, Turkey, Albania, Japan, Hungary, Australia,
Paraguay, Haiti, Guatemala, Uruguay, Venezuela, Salvador, Santo Domingo, Mexico, Argentine, Republic, South African Dominions, United States (except seven southern states). And yet Quebec will have none of it! Nor Manitoba!

A GREAT INCREASE.

Striking evidence of Canada's progress is shown in the customs returns for the year just closed. For the nine-months of the present fiscal year $85,286,039.00 were collected, compared with $63,670,059.00 for the corresponding period ending December 31, 1911. This gives an increase of $21, 615,989.00, which is a remarkable evidence of the wave of prosperity that is now sweeping Canada. At the present rate of progress the revenue from customs alone for the fiscal year ending March 31 next, will be in the neighborhood of $115,000,000.00, or in round figures an increase over the last fiscal year of $25,000,000.00.

For the month of December the customers receipts for the Dominion were $8,770,255.99, an increase over the corresponding month last year of $1, 565,990.

The renewed vigor and activity of the customs service during the time Hon. J. D. Reid has been heard of the Department is graphically shown in the above statement of figures, but it is not in the collections alone that striking progress has been made. The wards of thirty-five new outposts and customs offices have been opened in all parts of the Dominion, more particularly in the Western provinces, where the ever increasing tide of settlement has rendered these facilities imperative.
The Minister of Customs has fully recognized the necessity of meeting the wishes of the public by affording customers facilities in places neglected for many years by the former administration.

While the total trade figures for the nine months of the present fiscal year ending December 31, are not available, the figures for the eight months ending November 30th last show a surprisingly large increase in Canadian trade. For the eight months ending November 30th the total trade of Canada was $713,611,956.00. For the eight months of the preceding fiscal year the total Canadian trade was $700,614,632.00.

Cures Old Folk's Cough

Doesn't Disturb the Stomach, Eases at Once and Cures Thoroughly.

"CATARRHOZONE" A BOON TO MANY THOUSANDS.

Because you are old is no reason for suffering with everlasting coughing, those terrible chest troubles and difficult breathing can be thoroughly cured with Catarrhzone. You simply breathe the healing vapor of Catarrh-zone, and instantly its rich, balsamie fumes are carried by your breath into the inner recesses of the nose, throat, chest, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Just think of it a direct breathable medicine, full of soothing antiseptic pine essence that reaches every sore, congested membrane in two seconds. No drugs to take—nothing to harm or sicken the stomach, because Catarrhzone is the purest, safest cough, catarrh and cold remedy ever devised.

"For many years," writes Richard McCallum, Stirling, Ont., "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed, irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies
I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good."

"I heard Catarrhzone favorably spoken of, and tried it. Really it benefited me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so-called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit, I continued using Catarrhzone, and in a few weeks I was completely cured of Catarrh and throat trouble."

Get Catarrhzone today. Large size costs $1.00, and lasts two months. Smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c.

TO PROCEED WITH CASE
WITHOUT DR. NEBBIT

Not Necessary for Such Men to Appear to Plead Says Defence Counsel.

Toronto, Jan. 8. Somewhat better is the report of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt's condition today. Mr. H. H.
Dewart, K. C., his counsel has given his opinion that it will not be necessary for the doctor to appear personally to plead when the case against the ex-president of the Farmer's Bank is called at the Assizes, which opens this week. Mr.
Dewart will insist that he be allowed to enter a plea on behalf of Dr. Nesbitt in order that he may file a de-murrer which he thinks will dispel the grounds for the action. He maintains the right to have this matter disposed of first before a trial is proceeded with and feels positive that his demurrer will succeed.

BLACK JEWS' ORIGIN
STILL RACE ENIGMA

Jerusalem, Jan. 7. Doctor Jacob Fathovich, who has been investigating the black Jews of Abyssinia, writes that their claim of descent from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba is borne out by no evidence he can discover. He thinks these black Jews belong to one or more of the four tribes that were lost.

The doctor will submit a communication to the Palestine, as the black Jews call themselves, in religious, moral and religious respects. He has found no Hebrew literature among them, but they obey in every respect the laws of Moses. They kill animals in kosher fashion and the Sabbath is sacred to them. These black Jews are all farmers.

A STRANGE TRAGEDY
IN BRITISH PRISON

London, Jan. 7. An extraordinary, double tragedy in Madinet Prison was brought to light this week when the county coroner held an inquest on two convicts, both reported murderers who were found in one of the cells with their throats cut.

Their names were Henry Finch Southwell, aged 34, and Henry Bunyan, aged 25.
It is plain from messages which they left behind that they were determined to die rather than spend the rest of their lives in prison. The question is, how came they to be in the same cell?

DIED HERO TRYING TO SAVE FIANCEE

Vicksburg, Miss., Jan. 7. While details are lacking in the tragedy that claimed the life of Ninus Edward Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kline, of Bovina, Miss., at San Diego, Cal., they show that the young mustash-sailor lost his life in a fruitless attempt to save that of his fiancée, Miss Annie Hadden, who had fallen on the rocks while taking some photographs, and whose attempted rescue resulted in the double tragedy. Miss Hadden's body was recovered, but the remains of the young man, who, in addition to other relatives, has a brother, R. A. Kline, in this city, have not been found.

From his recent letters it is learned that Ninus Kline was engaged to marry Miss Hadden, who was from San Francisco, and was about to be married during the spring, following the date of Mr. Kline leaving the navy when his four years' service would have expired.

Young Kline was a musician on the cruiser "California," which left San Diego for Mare Island.

A TELEPHONE GIRL'S
SHORT LIVED ROMANCE

Boston, Mass., Jan. 7. Guests of this fashionable Copely Square Hotel, in the Back Bay, and other hotels where the dashing young Southern-born William Wilnot, stopped when in Boston last fall, and friends and relatives of his bride of a single day who was a telephone girl at the Copely Square when he first became a guest there, and remained at her post until she became the bride of the supposed millionaire, were not a little surprised today to learn that Wilnot had fallen into the hands of the law at Birmingham, Ala., where he is now under arrest charged with forgery.

Wilnot came from Kirbyville, La., and is said to have been connected with the Kirby Lumber Company, of Kirbyville. Wilnot is not only wanted in Birmingham for forgery, but in Boston and several other cities in the West and North, according to the Boston police, who have been looking up his career. Wilnot gave the Boston marriage license bureau the name of William Wallace Wilnot when he married Miss Dulonia on November 8.
Last, they were married by Edward Loni, clerk of the municipal court, a special permission being granted by the court so the marriage could be legalized before the expiration of five days of securing license as required in Massachusetts.

Had the young couple waited the five days required by law, the Boston police would not find herself in her present position.

DRAMA IN VILLAGES

How Germany Will Satisfy the Grains for the Dramatic

The constantly-growing craving for dramatic entertainment among the inhabitants of small country towns and villages in Germany is now to be appeared in a way worthy of imitation in other countries—namely by co-operation, under the auspices of the Ministry of the Interior groups of small municipalities are being formed in the various provinces, each group engaging to support financially, seasonally, a stock company of actors who will be sent from village to village during the winter and perform popular plays originated with the theatre.

being there, the Mark of Brandenburg, which was founded by a private bank, concentrated in popular education the expenses of inauguration, and the various, especially patronous, assistance, who also anticipated the cost of support; but this venture has proved so successful, that the Government has been obliged to interest on their capital. The high class nature of the performance given may be gathered from the names of the authors in the programme. Lessing, Goethe, Hauptmann, Bjornson, Möller, Schiller, Goethe, Kleist, and Hebel, are all constantly in the number of performers. The performance is a self-sufficient company, in which there are no "stars."

The Government is so impressed by the value of this kind of entertainment, that it has decided to subsidize the companies in the provinces of Posen and Silesia, subsidies being provided by the provincial authorities, and the towns of the provinces being visited by the companies in their districts. The municipalities are following the same example.

A ROYAL WEDDING

Princess Zitha, of Parma, Will Mar.
Archduke Charles Francis Joseph

As a wedding gift for Princess Zita of Parma, who is to marry Archduke Leopold Salvator, Joseph, his grandfather, bought the ancient castle at Brandels. The huge 16th-century estate with its extensive grounds is a picturesque ruin, on a hill overlooking the city. The castle is built of red brick and stands in a conspicuous position in the ancient historic Bohemian town of Brandels, thirteen miles north-east of Prague, on the banks of the Elbe. The castle has been restored, architecturally modern and the interior and handsomely furnished. It is to be the country residence of the young people. Princess Zita, who is a daughter of a small family name, who gathered recently at Schönbrunn Castle the Emperor's residence on the outskirts of Vienna, to celebrate Archduke Leopold's wedding to her fiancée, Princess Zita of Parma, is to be her lady-in-waiting.

THE SIZE OF RAINDROPS

Spencer C. Russel Gives the Details of His Experiments

Mr. Spencer C. Russel, at a meeting

the Royal Meteorological Society. The author has made a number of records of the actual size of raindrops. He said the experiments had led him to conclude that the most satisfactory method of determining the size of drops of rain is to place a thin layer of particles of the flour placed in a 3-inch shallow tray to a depth of 1/16 inch. Raindrops during a thunderstorm were allowed to fall on the tray, and a total of 48 drops divided up into the following sizes: Twenty-five of 4 millimetres, 10 of 4 millimetres, 48 of 3 millimetres, 2 of 2 millimetres, 15 of 1 millimetre. The largest drop occurred at the commencement of the storm, grading off as the storm progressed. The number of drops per inch increased in drop size was apparent. Grouping the drops collected, independent of rain type, he arrived at the following figures: 100 of 4 millimetres, hundred and fifty-seven of 3 millimetres, 222 of 3 millimetres, 156 of 2 millimetres, 107 less than 1 millimetre, 107 less than 1 millimetre, and 7 of 6 millimetres.

murdered man, was married to a young woman on whom he had settled an income of $7,000 a year, and in whose favor he had also taken out a life insurance policy. After an inquiry of two months, suspicion fell on the man, and now, she has had been arrested on evidence said to have been given by a lady friend, to whom she is reported to have confessed. The body of M. Guillotin was found on July 14 in a room of the hotel, about 10 o'clock, about 10 hours. This house had just been bought by M. Guillotin, and was being redecorated. Only one or two rooms were habitable, and these were occupied by M. Guillotin when he came to Paris to see his sister, Lolotte, who he has just married.

A January Butterfly.

There is a current expression saying "rare as angels' visits." Possibly just as rare of later, because there are on this mundane sphere, angels of mercy, charity and others that may wear hobbie skirts and ten inch, flat shoes, but still, however, are five butterflies here in January. Ex-Ald. Jos. Batten yesterday showed The Times a live and pretty yellow butterfly that he found soaring through the rooms of his residence that same morning. It is thought by the worthy ex-alderman that this butterfly had emerged from a chrysalis contained in the earth of some one of his house plants.

Notable Attraction Coming.

A notable attraction will be presented at the Grand Theatre on Saturday, Jan. 11th, Matinee and night, when "The Fatal Wedding" is produced by an excellent company. The play retains its popularity despite the fact that it was written some years ago. The play will be kept at the Grand Opera House. The author has made good use of the dramatic talents and interest, evolving a play that contains great dramatic strength, characterizations and situations, characterizations that will appeal with especial force to all audiences, and there is a wholesome humor that relieves the tense scenes. From pictorial view, the play is of a high order.

CIVIL LAW SUPREME ON THE MARRIAGE QUESTION

Official Report of The Supreme Court Makes the Matter Clear, and Shows That Canonical Laws Do Not Over-ride Civil Laws

The following statement is taken from the index of the last volume of Supreme Court of Canada Reports to hand. It will be noticed that under the heading of "Constitutional Law," reference is made to the late Marriage Law case which came up in Parliament and was referred to the Courts. It will be seen that the Lancaster Bill was decided by the Supreme Court (affirmed by the Privy Council) to be ultra vires. This Bill (the Lancaster Bill) was not voted on in Parliament at all, but was referred to the Courts. If it had been declared constitutional by the Privy Council or by the Supreme Court it would have been voted upon by Parliament after the reference. Then follow some remarks by Idington J., after which follows the judgment of the Court respecting the marriage of Catholics in Quebec, by Davies, Idington and Duff, who, being the majority of the Court expressing an opinion, give the decision of the Supreme Court in this respect. It will be noticed that Anglin J. opposed but the Chief Justice expressed no opinion. Then follows the decision of the Court (affirmed by the Privy Council) with reference to marriages in Quebec, where one party is a Roman Catholic (or mixed marriages) which is followed by a statement of Idington J. with respect thereto. It will be noticed that the law referred to throughout is the Civil Law, and that the Canonical Law is not cited. This establishes the supremacy of the Civil Law. It will be seen that the law in Quebec is different to that heretofore supposed.

The answers to Mr. Burnham's recent questions show, it will be remembered, that the Parliament of Canada has complete jurisdiction in its own territories, and that therefore marriages contracted under these laws are, as in the case of marriages contracted under the Provincial laws, valid everywhere; not, however, because the Parliament of Canada (or the Provinces) has said so, because it could not say so but by reason of international law which considers valid all marriages contracted legally in civilized countries.

It will be remembered that the late Government said that the Parliament of Canada had no power to validate a marriage, and yet Chap. 105 Revised Statutes of Canada declares by Special Act that marriage with deceased wife's sister is not invalid, or with a daughter of said sister. The late agitation was due to certain assumptions of canonical or ecclesiastical supremacy, which it will be noted have no place in the decisions of the Supreme Court or the Privy Council. All Marriage Laws therefore can be amended by the people without reference to canonical law. It was this strife between the canonical law and the civil law which produced the late unpleasantness and the establishment of the supremacy of the Civil Law is what has been obtained by the reference to the Courts by the Parliament of Canada of the question involved.

The supremacy of the Civil Law is the point that has been settled, and the various jurisdictions of the Provinces of Canada and of the Parliament of Canada as well. This enables parties complaining to go at once to the proper courts and have their differences settled according to the Civil Law. If the reference had not been made the old confusion would still exist and the various claims of the canonical and civil authorities would still be in conflict. This settlement of the difficulty by the Government at Ottawa must commend itself to all those who take an interest in the subject.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW.—"Marriage and divorce."—"Solemnization of marriage."—Jurisdiction of Parliament—Federal jurisdiction—Federal validating Act—Religious belief—Canonical decrees—Civil rights—"B.N.A. Act" (1867), s. 91 and 92—Arts. 27 et seq. C.E.A. The Parliament of Canada has no authority to enact a bill in the following form:—"The Marriage Act," chapter 105 of the Revised Statutes, 1906, is amended by adding thereto the following section—"3. Every ceremony or form of marriage heretofore or hereafter performed by any person authorized to perform any ceremony of marriage by the laws of the place where it is performed, and duly performed according to such laws, shall everywhere within Canada be deemed to be a valid marriage, notwithstanding any differences in the religious faith of the persons so married, and without regard to the religion of the person performing the ceremony."—"2. The rights and duties, as married people, of the respective persons married as aforesaid, and of the children of such marriage, shall be absolute and complete, and no law or canon or decree or custom of or in any province of Canada shall have any force or effect to invalidate or qualify any such marriage or any of the rights of the said persons or their children in any manner whatsoever." (Affirmed by Privy Council, 29th July, 1912.—Per Idington J.) The retrospective part would be good as part of a scheme for continuing legislation by Parliament and legislatures confirming past marriages which, probably, neither effectively can do. The prospective part, so far as possible to make it an effective prohibition of religious tests, may be good, but doubtful, and the probable purpose can be reached by a better bill. Per Davies, Idington and Duff J.J.—The law of the Province of Quebec does not render null and void, unless contracted before a Roman Catholic priest, a marriage in such province between two Roman Catholics that would otherwise be binding. Anglin J. contra. Fitzpatrick C.J. expressing no opinion. The law of Quebec does not render void, unless contracted before a Roman Catholic priest, a marriage otherwise valid where one party only is a Roman Catholic. The Parliament of Canada has no authority to enact that a marriage between Roman Catholics, or a "mixed marriage," not contracted before a Roman Catholic priest and whether heretofore or hereafter solemnized shall be valid and binding. (Affirmed by Privy Council, 29th July, 1912.) Per Idington J. Parliament has power to declare valid such a marriage heretofore solemnized or to be solemnized by the legislature of the province concerned, and the like power as to a marriage heretofore to be solemnized if and when the province fails to provide adequate means of solemnization. (See (1912) A.C. 850, S.C.R. Vol. XLV.)

ALD. GORDON SPEAKS TO THE COLL. INSTITUTE CLUB

Yesterday afternoon the Peterborough Collegiate Institute Club was addressed by Ald. Gordon, on the subject of the legal profession and the opportunities in the profession as regards the students.

The students of the Collegiate Institute are having the members of the different professions address the club, giving them their views on the various professions, as there will be some of the students entering the various professions, residing in the City of Peterborough. This is the first one of the series given so far this year, and it is proposed to continue this scheme this year, by having the members of her professions discuss their respective professions and the merits of em. with the students.

Ald. Gordon presented a long paper for the legal profession. The address was given in the Public Library, before a large audience.

The Board of Education met in inaugural session last night. There were present: Messrs. John Crane, N. A. Morrison, B. F. Ackerman, L. M. Hayes, W. H. Hill, Col. Miller, J. R. Morrison, Middleton and Burnham.

Chairman Appointed.

Dr. Morrison was elected chairman by ballot, without nomination, on a vote of seven to one.

Mr. Eastwood did not vote. The chairman, elect, thanked his colleagues for the dignity and honor bestowed upon him. In this important year, he said with two new schools to be opened in September, Peterborough will face ahead to an educational position second to none in the Province. This will involve much work to the Board, grounds will have to be laid out, furnishings secured for the new buildings and their structures disposed of. An important duty of the finance committee will consist in disposing of the old buildings for those new buildings to the best possible advantage. The Finance Committee will also probably be constituted this year, and we must inspect the schools and make a big step in advance would be obtained. The Board will be expected by the public to see to it that the best possible teachers at highest educational facilities for a little folk are maintained.

Messrs. Hill, Crane, Miller and Burnham were appointed a committee to strike the Standing Committee for the year.

The Committees.

STEAMER FOR AMERICA BATTLES WITH GALE

Queenstown, Ireland, Jan. 9.—A terrific battle with a gale is being fought off this port by the steamer Philadelphia which left Southampton yesterday for New York by way of Cherbourg and Queenstown. The Philadelphia arrived off Rock Point at eleven o'clock this morning and for over two hours unsuccessfully tried to enter the harbor.

A DISTURBING ELEMENT

In an article dealing with the Jesuit Order, our able contemporary, the Finance Sentinel, says that the Jesuits have always been a menace to civil government, but it is even a free hand in Canada than in any other part of the world. We believe it is in this country that the activities of the order are concentrated. The Dominion is a veritable happy hunting ground for the most dreaded of clerical orders, one that even the Pope has been compelled to place under the ban on more than one occasion.

Until recently the clerical party in Germany had the largest following of any of the numerous factions in the popular house. This is a striking proof of the inaccuracy of the belief prevalent in many quarters that Germany is the most Protestant of countries. That is true only in the sense that Protestantism is unadorned and fully convinced of the principles for which it stands.

But even in Germany, with factions baying for one another's support, the Jesuits are placed under legal restrictions. The Bavarian council of ministers a few months ago solemnly gave permission to the Jesuits to hold conferences in the Roman churches and administer the sacrament there. But even this privilege has been declared by the Bundestag (the upper house) to be a violation of the anti-Jesuit law. The limit of the Jesuits' operations, therefore, is to hold family masses in the homes, administer extreme unction and deliver scientific addresses which make no reference to religion.

Anglo-Saxon countries have not gone to the extremes resorted to by Roman Catholic countries. Portugal and France have expelled the Jesuits as undesirable. Italy has strictly hedged in the scope of their operations. Spain has declared war upon them. It has been left to Canada to welcome them to her shores and to place Dominion Government steamers at the disposal of Van Murell and Vaughan, the oath-bound prelates who came to tell us that Protestantism is a soulless religion. It is to be hoped that no such honors will await the Jesuits at the hands of the Dominion Government.

JOHN BULL—"Say, Sir Wilfrid, what kind of tobacco do you use, 'British Navy'?"

UNIONISTS NOW UNITED BODY AGREE ON EMPIRE RECIPROCITY

Preference on Existing Duties and Preference on New Moderate General Tariff—British Men and Money For Canada

London, Jan. 9.—Unionists are once more a united party, to-day both in Parliament and the country, and Bonar Law has withdrawn the intention to resign upon which he resolved some days ago.

This result was secured by a compromise which enables each side to claim a victory for tariff reform, and the preference will remain the first constructive plank in the Unionist platform and the first duty of a Unionist ministry on securing office. The fullest available expression will be given, in legislation and administration, to the principle of a co-partnership state of Empire, including a preference on existing duties and a preference on a new moderate general tariff.

The Motherland thus will be brought forthwith into line with the dominions on a basis of Empire reciprocity, both fiscal and non-fiscal; cooperative action to assist the dominions in their greatest needs, namely more British men and more British money, closer and cheaper steamship and cable connections would fall within this category of immediate Unionist action, but in order to win the next election and give time for the fullest consideration of further means of carrying out the Empire partnership the Unionist party pledges itself, after establishing the principle of preference, to allow a further, but prolonged interval.

This reservation enables the Unionists to fight the next election on a policy of Empire consolidation, freed from the taunt that they propose without further consultation of the electorate, to tax the people's food for the sweet sakes of Canadian and Australian farmers.

Most of the Party Signed.

For the first time in the history of the party since the initiation of Chamberlainism, the full policy of tariff reform and preference is made the subject of a definite united memorial commanding the assent of practically the whole party. Yesterday it received the signatures of all Unionist members in London, with two or three immaterial exceptions. One hundred and eighty signed, and one hundred remain, and probably not half a dozen of them will abstain from signing.

Acclaim Bonar Law as Leader.

The policy outlined has not only the approval of Bonar Law, whose leadership is enthusiastically acclaimed in the memorial, but Austen Chamberlain, Walter Long, Sir Edward Carson and other front bench men.

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS HAD A RESTLESS NIGHT BUT BETTER

Montreal, Jan. 10.—A bulletin issued at 2 p.m. says: "The Duchess of Connaught is now resting easier and an operation is not thought necessary." The exact condition of the patient has been cabled to King George.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—That the Duchess rushed to the Royal Victoria Hospital here from Ottawa, where her Royal Highness was taken ill with peritonitis, had not passed a good night, but was more comfortable this morning, was reported, obtained at noon to-day from doctors attending the distinguished patient. A bulletin issued at 11.15 a.m. told boys.

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught did not pass a very good night, but was restless and complained of considerable pain. This morning, however, the Duchess' condition showed improvement.

(Signed) E. S. Worthington, A. E. Garrow, M.D., W. W. Chipman, M.D.

The announcement that the Duchess had passed a bad night, caused much apprehension in the city, and the newspapers were besieged by inquiries.

FAMOUS LETTERS SOLD

Some Epistles by Oscar Wilde and Other Geniuses Go to Auction

Bernard Shaw admits he is a genius. Everybody has realized that for some time, but few people realize that Mr. Shaw once admitted there were limitations to his genius. The admission of this is found in a letter written by Shaw to Oscar Wilde, which was put up for sale at auction at Sotheby's in this letter Mr. Shaw says:

"I hope soon to send you my play, 'Widower's House,' which you will find tolerably amusing, considering that it is a farcical comedy. Unfortunately, I have no power of producing beauty, my genius is the genius of intellect."

Other letters written to Oscar Wilde, twenty-nine in all, were sold at the same time that Mr. Shaw's priceless admission was offered to the public. Among the letters are Swinburne, Shelley, Burne-Jones, Sargent, Miss Ellen Terry, Millais, Mrs. Langtry, and Whistler.

Whistler had evidently seen Wilde in his "aesthetic" period, walking in Chelsea wearing a coat "befogged and wonderfully befurred." He writes:

"Oscar, how dare you. What means this unseemly carnival in my Chelsea? Restore those things to Nathan, and never again let me see you masquerading the streets in the combined character of a degraded Kossov and Mr. Mantelini!"

Some of Oscar Wilde's most important manuscripts in prose and verse were offered at this sale. The manuscripts include "The Soul of Man," the picture of "Dorian Gray," "The Florence Tragedy," and "The Sphinx."

Manuscripts by Carlyle, Jane Welsh Carlyle, Swinburne, D. G. Rossetti, and Stevenson, were also sold. Besides some rare volumes of sixteenth and seventeenth century literature.

Morning Cap
The easiest and cheapest way to make a very pretty morning cap is this: Cut a circle 20 inches in diameter, out of dotted muslin, or any thin material. Put a three-inch hem all the way around the circle and sew lace, an inch or wider, straight on the outer edge of the hem. Run about 20 inches of elastic through the hem, and fasten. Put a small ribbon bow on one side, and you have finished. These caps may be made entirely by machine, and they launder easily when the elastic is removed, as they are then but a flat circle.

MONEY IN BASEBALL

Dickering in Big League Franchises is a Millionaire's Game

Baseball franchises, especially in the big leagues, are paying investments. The luck of the game and the wealth have a lot to do with the profits, but no matter what someone or other one really sees a franchise on the market.

A deep at the "price list" of the major league clubs, fairly startling. The New York National League franchise, for instance, could not be purchased for $3,000,000. It is estimated that the Giants in a good year make $250,000. Priced on a ten per cent profit basis for a sporting proposition, the club would be valued at $2,500,000.

There are only two other cities in the National League where the franchise price sum up into the millions. One is Chicago and the other is Pittsburgh. Both the Cubs and the Pirates play to enormous patronage and their holdings are about of equal value to those of the Giants. The franchise of the other five clubs are held well up in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

American League franchises are very valuable. Boston in the Red Sox circuit, is a big winner, and so are Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and New York.

In the International League Toronto is about the best proposition, and the Leafs' franchise is probably worth $150,000 if it could be purchased at all.

There is nothing in it harmful to the curtains, and it does not streak them. Yellow ochre can be obtained at any hardware store where paint is sold.

LUCK OF BEGINNERS

Scientist Explains It as "Far as It Pertains to Golf"

Most of us are familiar, by experience or hearsay, with the beginner's luck in games, especially golf. That is the reason why golf is so universally popular. The first time a man takes a creak in his hand and says: "Here is a little white ball on a small mound of sand, let me hit it a very hard blow," he suits the action to the word, lets fly, and sees his ball career into space in the desired direction. He walks after it, and perhaps finds it some few yards from a grassy parapet with some loose and lying in front of it.

"This is a bunker," he says, and he says, "This is a bunker. You had better take this masher," handing him a small and dejected iron club. The novice says, "Oh, a bunker!" swings the masher and lifts the ball on to the green. Another walk brings him to his ball lying three yards from a little hole with a tin to receive the ball. He is handed a putter, he looks from his ball to the hole, hits the ball sharply and decisively and sends it scuttling to the bottom of the tin. His mentor congratulates him, still with a cynical smile, and he says: "Why, that is nothing I could do that with an umbrella." His first progress around the links is triumphant. He goes home saying, "I shall take up golf. It is a pleasant game. Splendid exercise, fresh air, and all that. Quite easy, too."

That is beginner's luck. It has long been a mystery. But Colonel Melville, in a speech at the Royal Sanitary Institute Congress at York, England, has exploded it. In a beginning of a new muscular movement, "the executive muscles concerned at random, their antagonists being at the same time actively relaxed, whereas, later on, both executives and antagonists contract, destroying the initial freedom of movement. This is an interesting explanation but it is deprecating for it typifies the triumph of matter over mind."

THE CONQUEST OF TYPHOID

The latest report of the United States War Department on the use of typhoid fever inoculation confirms the faith of those who have advocated that method of conquering the disease. In the last ten months in the United States it appears that there have been only twelve cases, and only two deaths in the army of 57,000 men. Both deaths and most of the other cases occurred among men who had not been inoculated. As proof of the efficacy of the treatment the report points out that many of the soldiers have been in service under conditions which a few years ago would have produced about 150 cases and about twenty-five deaths.

The rate of typhoid in the army which was 5.66 a thousand in 1906, and 3.55 in 1907 was reduced to 2.32 in 1910, and has suddenly declined since the introduction of the serum to only .50 in 1911 and .15 in 1912. These figures show in a striking way what has been accomplished by the army surgeons, not only for the military men of the government, but for the whole country. The example they have set in proving the safety and efficacy of inoculation is sure to lead to its large use among civilians.

THE YEAR'S AVIATION

Of all the forms of stock-taking, that of the aviation industry, that take place during the first of each year, 1912 presents no branch of human activity which achieved greater advances during the year than the science of aviation.

The following estimates of the mileage of flying in each of the seven years from 1905 to 1912, show the progress of the industry. In 1905, 1,000,000 miles; in 1906, 2,000,000 miles; in 1907, 4,000,000 miles; in 1908, 8,000,000 miles; in 1909, 16,000,000 miles; in 1910, 32,000,000 miles; in 1911, 64,000,000 miles; in 1912, 128,000,000 miles.

The same periodical estimates that in 1908 there were five airmen, in 1909 fifty, in 1910, 500; in 1911, 1,500; in 1912, 5,000. The proportion of fatal accidents to the number of airmen has steadily declined. In 1908 it was 1 in 10; in 1909 it was 1 in 12; in 1910 it was 1 in 15; in 1911 it was 1 in 20; in 1912 it was 1 in 25. It is interesting to note that the percentage of deaths in aviation is higher than in any other industry. It is notable that the proportion of fatalities decreases as the number of aviators increases. In the United States there are 300 pilots, and the proportion of deaths has been 1 in 7. In France the number of pilots is 3,000, and the proportion is 1 to 11; in Germany many are 1,500 pilots, and a death rate of 1 to 20. The ratio of death in aviation is considerably lower than in motor racing.

Sergeant-Major Under General French

Veteran of Boer War. Who Lost Health on the Veldt Tells Experience.

Good Advice for All who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders

In his home at Waldergrove, N. S., no one is better known than Sergeant-Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill-effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergeant-Major writes: "I served under General French during the late Boer war, in the capacity of Sergeant-Major. It was, perhaps, owing to a continued diet of bully beef, hard tack, and hard water, but at any rate my stomach entirely gave out. I was in such a state that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion until he tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cured him. I confess I was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to others and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Quick, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, all dealers, or the Cataract Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

JOHN MULHALL SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS

Interfered With Police After Kicking His Wife With Very Serious Results.

At yesterday's police court, John Mulhall was sentenced to six months in Central prison. The trouble dates back to the time the young man Tivey, a blackster, got drunk at Mulhall's home on Dublin street. It seems Mulhall obstructed and interfered with Constable Sills when arresting Tivey on New Year's eve. It would seem that the same night, Mulhall kicked his wife in the abdomen. She was in a delicate state of health at the time and serious consequences followed the blow. The Worshipful told Mulhall, who, when sober, is a skilled mechanic, that there has been too much interference with the police when making arrests, and that even should an officer not be justified by making an arrest, it is equally illegal for outsiders to interfere. The court must settle whether arrests were justified or not. He then sentenced Mulhall for six months in the Central on each charge, that of obstructing the officer and for kicking his wife. The sentences run concurrently. Mulhall was next fined $25 for supplying Tivey with liquor. This he will have to pay when he leaves Toronto next June.

A somewhat sensational feature of the case was that Mrs. Mulhall collapsed and became almost black in the face when her husband was sentenced. She, on recovery became hysterical, screaming loudly "My God! My God!" Mrs. Mulhall is a decent, hardworking woman who has five young children.

THE POST OFFICE CLOCK

(Editor Morning Times.)

Sir, When is that post office clock going to do business again? This is a public utility paid for by the public. Some days ago the hands of this clock stuck for 48 hours, after Friday's blizzard at 4:50; that was partly excusable as the blizzard may have given the man responsible a chill. Still, the hands of the north face of the clock, have once again gone on for off 48 hours for several days at 5:30. Who this thimble is?

upon all paid up stock sold by the Company up to and including December 10th, 1912. This means that the Idaho-Bride Company is

Keeping Faith With Those Who Have Invested in These Shares

and will pay a dividend out of the proceeds derived from the sale of the one mine from the properties now being operated by them. A while back we announced the

IDAHO-BRIDE LOOKING BIG and shipping steadily; but we now want you to keep an eye to

which is now being operated by this Company. We expect big results from the Seaton Mine because it produced a fortune in the upper workings. We are 800 feet below these and will have an immense block of stope ground to work on and there can only be one result once this big mine is going good. A little more capital will do the work and we feel quite certain that we will all be well recompensed for our time, money and labor. By placing up-to-date machinery in the mill, we can add fully 20 per cent to our profits. This is what we want capital for and our reason for selling stock. We are preparing to make a big producing mine of this and your money will help us to do it.

DR. M. A. MORRISON ELECEED CHAIRMAN

Supervision Messrs. Crane, Hill, Hayes and Dr. Burgham. Mr. Crane, chairman.

Committee on Appointments—The whole Board. Mr. Hill, chairman.

Special Building Committee—Messrs. Ackerman, Miller, Turner and Dr. Middleton. Mr. Middleton, chairman. East City. Mr. Ackerman, chairman. West Ward.

A Protest.

Mr. Eastwood here explained why he had not voted for chairman. In past years, he said, it had been always unanimously recognized that the senior member should receive the chairmanship, which he would hold for two years. And during the past few days it had been intimated to him that that unwritten law would be adhered to this year as usual. Mr. Eastwood considered himself the Board's senior member although he had experienced a period of retirement, and he considered it rather disappointing that a man who had served the public faithfully for years on its educational body, should not have at least been tendered the chairmanship in his turn as senior member. While he could have appreciated such courtesy on the part of his colleagues, he would not have accepted the chairmanship, but declining in favor of Mr. Morrison, who he considered eminently qualified for the position, and to whom he would give his utmost support and loyal allegiance.

Mr. W. H. Hill, replied that since the inception of the Board's present policy in regard to its chairmanship for years past it had been understood that this appointment should fall to turn every two years to the senior member by continuous service. In fact he was the man who had practically introduced that principle when he accepted chairmanship on condition that it should be for two years only, and then go to the next senior member. This year both Mr. B. F. Ackerman and Dr. Morrison were equally senior by right of continuous service. Mr. Ackerman had positively refused to be a candidate for the chairmanship; hence the honor had fallen upon him to whom it is due, according to rule. Dr. Morrison, Mr. Dunbar had at one time been passed over on the continuous service principle although equally eldest. Trustee, but with a lapse of a term or two.

Mr. Eastwood could not see the point through Mr. Hill's eyes. "Mr. Ackerman thought the appointment of Dr. Morrison consistent with the Board's policy. Dr. Morrison, he said, will make a good chairman, and so would Mr. Eastwood."

Mr. John Crane, the retiring chairman, considered the Board's precedents in such cases had merely been followed this year in the usual way. He had no doubt that Mr. Eastwood would have made a capable chairman. Still, he had voted for Dr. Morrison because he considered him particularly needed in the chair this year. No man had done as much on the Board than Dr. Morrison, especially in connection with the building of the Collegiate Institute, and other educational institutions, and in connection with the East and West City schools now under construction. He had also borne in mind the fact that Dr. Morrison's seniority by continuous service. Mr.

Eastwood had, so to speak, fallen from grace by reason of his lapse of service for a year or two.

Mr. Eastwood here asked that no further discussion be indulged in. He had merely raised the question because he thought it due the Board that he should explain his reason for not casting his ballot for chairman, particularly as the Board's attention had been drawn to his omission.

MURDERER MAY LIVE AND BE PUT ON TRIAL

Walter Faxes Wrote a Letter Stating He Wouldn't Let Woman Run More Lives.

Winnipeg, Jan. 6.—There is today a strong probability that Walter Faxes, who yesterday murdered Mrs. Alfred Handcock, in Dr. Fletcher's office in the Somerset Block, and then shot himself, will recover. He recovered consciousness last night in the hospital. He is under arrest and not allowed to talk to anybody except the officers and immediately upon recovery will be charged with murder.

A letter written by Faxes addressed "To World" is in the hands of the police and will not be made public until the inquest. In it Faxes makes a bitter attack on the dead woman's character and says he did not intend to permit her to ruin any more lives.

SAW MUCH FIGHTING

Mr. William Green Served His Country in India and the Crimea

Major-General Sir William Henry Rhodes Green who died at Harrogate in his ninetieth year, was a soldier with a brilliant service record. He entered the Indian army as cornet in 1841 and was for years connected with the 2nd Regiment of Sind Irregular Horse, or as it is now called, the 88th Jacob's Horse.

During the Punjab campaign of 1848-49, he was present at the siege and surrender of Multan. In the battle of Gujarat and the pursuit and final surrender of the Sikh army and the occupation of Peshawar. For these services he received a medal and two clasps.

When the Crimean War broke out and the allied troops sailed from Varna, he joined her Majesty's ship Leander as a volunteer, and arrived in the Crimea in time to be present at the battles of Balaklava and Inkerman, after which he took part in the siege of Sebastopol. During the siege he was severely wounded in the head by a rifle bullet. At the close of the war he received orders to return to India.

Major Green arrived in India, when preparations were already in progress for the 1856-57 expedition to Persia. In which he was Assistant-Adjutant-General to the cavalry under the command of his old chief, General Jacob. and for his services he received a medal with clasp. He was not destined to take a direct part in the suppression of the Indian Mutiny, as his services were considered of greatest public value in the capacity of Political Agent in Baluchistan.

The Murree, who owed nominal allegiance to Khelat, were always giving trouble on the frontier. Green marched into their country at the head of the wild Baluch levies, and succeeded completely where Sir Charles Napier had failed with 12,000 men and twenty-four guns. Green had neither guns nor British soldiers, and it was generally admitted that he owed a brilliant success to good luck and sheer audacity. Sir William married, in 1868, Louisa, youngest daughter of the late Mr. John Henry Dunn, Receiver-General of Canada.

MEDALS FOR BRAVE MEN

Courageous Fishermen Signally Honored—Medals Presented by King

Thirteen fishermen who were instrumental in saving lives on the north and west of Scotland were honored by King George at Balmoral, whither they were summoned in order that His Majesty might, as he told them, "see them face to face."

Seven of the men belonged to Vidlin, Lunnasting, Shetland, four hailed from South Ronaldsay, Orkney, and two were from Cairnburg, Aberdeenshire. His Majesty, who was in Highland dress, received the fishermen in an extremely cordial and gracious manner, and congratulated them on their bravery in saving so many lives. The King placed the medals to the breasts of the men, and shook hands with each in the warmest manner. While doing one of the Cairnburg fishermen wished by Majesty long life, and the King smiled and thanked him. The party then withdrew, and were afterwards entertained to dinner in one of the rooms of the Castle. Before leaving they were shown round part of the beautiful grounds, and were photographed on one of the lawns.

In addition to receiving the medal, the men were each presented by the King with a silver-mounted pipe, in a case, and a pound of tobacco.

GRAND DUKE ALEXIS only son of Emperor Nicholas, and heir to the Russian throne.

KING AND LABORER

His Majesty Sent Gift of Money to Poor Old Irishman

Paddy Connors, an old farm laborer, living at Lisbane, near Bradford, county Clare, wrote a letter written direct to the King stating that when working as a young man with the late Mrs. Spaight, who resided in the district, he had planted a tree to commemorate the marriage of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert. The letter, which was an appeal for financial aid in Connors' old age, was duly signed "Paddy Connors." In reply to it the following communication was sent to the old man:

Privy Purse Office, Buckingham Palace

Lieut.-Colonel Sir William Carrington is commanded to acknowledge the receipt of Mr. Paddy Connors' letter, and to send him the enclosed post office order as a donation from His Majesty's Purse.

The order was for £10 which mightily pleased the recipient.

STORY IS DOUBTED

Norwegian Scientists Think White Eskimos Only Isolated Types

There is scepticism in the scientific circles of Christiania over Professor Ruge's discovery of white Eskimos on the Arctic coast. Norwegian explorer and ethnologist, including Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, long ago reported seeing Eskimos who possessed some of the characteristics of the North German type both in Arctic America and Greenland.

It is generally assumed that Norwegian emigrants mingled with the Eskimos and became amalgamated, but the existence of a whole tribe of a North European type is regarded as very improbable.

A Long-delayed Medal

George Whale, of Faversham, who served as a boy in the Navy at the Crimea, has just lately received the Crimean medal with Sebastopol clasp and awarded a Greenwich Hospital pension of 18 cents a day. Whale whose father was for many years gardener to the Dean of Winchester, ran away from home and joined the Navy at the time of the war.

JEWS PROMINENT IN PUBLIC LIFE

They Hold More Offices in Proportion to Their Numbers Than Members of Any Other Race

Official figures emphasize the remarkable extent to which Jews are beginning to dominate things in England. In proportion to their numbers the representatives of no other nationality owing allegiance to the Union Jack—not the English themselves, or even the Scots figure so prominently in Great Britain as those of the Jewish race.

According to the latest statistics the Jews in the British Isles represent just half of 1 per cent of the whole population, or one in 200. On this basis they should have among them only three members of Parliament, whereas they actually have 18, including some of the most brilliant members of that body. It is the same in the London County Council, the body that really governs the metropolis. In London there are two Jews in 100 of the population, and as the "L. C. C." has 118 members, one would expect only 2 Hebrews on its roll. There are no less than 13.

On the basis of population the Jews are entitled to only three members, and they actually have four, the Hebrew members of the House of Lords being Lord Rothschild, Lord Swaythling, Lord Michaelham, and Lord Wandsworth. The Privy Council numbers four Jewish members, among them Arthur Cohen, the King's councillor, and Sir Edgar Speyer, the banker, and there are 11 Jewish baronets, including two ex-Lord Mayors of London—Sir George Faudel-Phillips and Sir Marcus Samuel. Of Jewish knights perhaps the most famous are Sir Isidore Epstein, the art critic, and Sir Philip Magnus, the great authority on education. In the British army there are more than 400 Jews, and in the navy, 1,000. Twelve of whom are officers.

Leeds has comparatively the largest number of Jews in any British city, while Manchester comes next. There are 150,879 Jews in London while 14 cities in the United Kingdom each have a Jewish population in excess of 1,000.

AFECTIONATE CAESAR

Everybody knows the fondness of the Queen-mother for animals. But a pathetic interest attaches to her closest companion to-day. This is none other than Caesar, the late King Edward's favorite dog. For long the royal pet mourned his master, but he found solace in constant association with the bereaved Queen. He now refuses to leave her, night or day. Queen Alexandra has nothing in common with the society women who deck their canine pets in fine clothes and feed them on the choicest meats. Caesar's only ornament is the silver badge on his collar, bearing his name. Discipline and wholesome food are good for dogs as for children, says the Queen. Caesar feeds mainly on ordinary biscuits, but he has the privilege of sleeping in the apartments of his royal mistress.

ROCK RUINS A ROOM

Residents of a house in Harrow, before leaving their home for a visit asked a neighbor to go in and see if everything was all right during their absence. When he entered the drawingroom the first thing he did was to see a black shape dashed through the air with a squawk and disappeared through the front door. A rook had got down the chimney, and in its frantic efforts to escape had smashed everything breakable.

SILVER SEAL IN THE DEE

A splendid specimen of a silver grey seal, resembling a Labrador dog seal, 8 feet long, was found in the Dee estuary by Mr. Milner, a fisherman. It was alive when caught, but died shortly afterwards, having apparently been shot by some person on the bank. In all probability it had travelled with the icebergs into the Atlantic, and been carried into the Dee estuary.

REMARKABLE INVENTION FOR LOCATING FOG-HORNS AND OTHER SOUNDS

A successful demonstration was made in Liverpool of an invention for the use of ships, particularly in time of fog, to show the direction of sounds such as those of sirens of other ships. The apparatus, which is the invention of two brothers named Hodkinson, consists of a drum to receive the sound waves and an indicator. The drums, which measure nine feet by five feet, is placed aloft where it cannot be affected by sounds on deck and is connected electrically with an indicator, which is placed in such a position that it can readily be seen by the ship's officer on duty. The receiver consists of a number of units each of which receives sound waves from a particular direction. By means of the electrical device a sound wave from a particular direction causes an electric lamp in a particular position in the indicator to be lighted. The position of the lighted lamp shows the position of the ship.

Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing Power of Catarrh-one, Which are Breathed to the Furthest Reaches of the Bronchial Tubes, Being Quick Relief and Sure Cure.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at the source, dispenses the germ of disease, and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrh-one."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor issues with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through burning the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from Catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrh-one, and have been completely cured, and, in fact, have been well for some time. Catarrh-one is the only medicine
I have been able to find that would not only give temporary relief, but will always cure permanently."

What Did He Break Out of?
An esteemed evening contemporary in last night's issue, says that a re-busy. These typographical errors are enough to make J. D. Rockefeller

Last night the big show presented of those who carried it to so suc-

the present exhibition of poultry in Local Milk Is Good.

It would seem that the local milk vendors neither spend hours at the pump handle nor guiding a nozzle of a hose from the city water works, into their respective extracts de cow.
The last test shows that the butter fat is O.K. Between April and the end of 1912, 135 samples of milk have been taken and tested from 38 vendors, and the average shows 3.51 per cent butter fat. The by-law calls for a minimum of 3 per cent fat. Four milk tests averaged over four per cent fat; ten averaged between 3.5 and 4 per cent fat; twenty-four averaged between 3 and 3.5.

A Tea Cup

Contains

Over 11-2 Grains of Caffeine

A Cup of Coffee contains over 21-2 Grains.

Physicians recognize this drug to be of poisonous effect upon stomach, heart and nerves. Scientists employed by the U. S. Government found in the famous rabbit case, that an amount of cafefine equivalent to that contained in three and one-half average cups of tea or two cups of coffee killed a Rabbit.

What wonder then, if you are a tea or coffee drinker, that you suffer from indigestion, heart disturbance, headache and biliousness, sleeplessness, or nerve irritation?

Multiply 14 grains of Caffeine by the number of cups of tea, or 24 grains by the number of cups of coffee you drink each day and you will determine the amount of poison you give yourself daily.

Eminent physicians are protesting against the present use of tea and coffee. (Your family physician can vouch for this).

The aches and ills of your own body also protest when the burden becomes too heavy.
Doesn't your own common sense suggest that you quit tea and coffee NOW?

The New Food-drink,

INSTANT POSTUM

and stirring until dissolved. Add sugar and cream water upon a level teaspoonful of powder in the cup
It is made "quick as wink" by pouring hot to taste and you have a very fascinating beverage.

THEATRE MEN UP AT ASSIZES ST. CLAIR SUBPOENA NOT SERVED

Rev. Dr. Shearer Says on Stand That He Does Not Object to Horse Races or Dancing

Toronto, Jan. 10. Messrs F. W. Stair and Daniel Pierce were arraigned in the Criminal Court this morning, charged with allowing an immoral performance—the Darlings of Paris—to be presented at the Star Theatre in March, 1912, "contrary to the provisions of the Criminal Code." Mr. Stair is charged with being the lessee and Mr. Pierce the manager of the theatre.

The "Darlings of Paris" was a show put on by a travelling company, which is now in the United States.

When the case was called, Mr. T. Lennox, who is acting for Mr. Stair, asked that an adjournment be granted as some of the defence witnesses were not available.

"We have not been able to secure the attendance in court of the manager of the show and of one of the principal actors," said Mr. Lennox. "These gentlemen would know most as to the nature of the performance." The manager is in Boston, and the actor mentioned in another American city.

"The defendants would not be given a fair trial without the evidence of these men," declared Mr. Lennox.

Counsel admitted that the documentary evidence taken at the trial of Mr. R. B. St. Clair, out of which the present case has arisen, is available.

Court Refuses Delay.

"It includes a description of the whole performance, giving extracts from the beginning, the main part of the performance, and the court scene at the close, but it gives only about a quarter of what took place," said Mr. Lennox.

"I am not satisfied to let this case drag on," declared Mr. Justice Middleton.

"Eleven months dragged on before we heard anything about the case," replied Mr. Lennox.

His Lordship admitted that it would be advisable to get an impartial and unbiased description of the performance, but declared that "if it develops during the trial, that the defendants are not getting a fair trial, the case should be allowed to go over till the Fall Assizes."

VICTORY IS NOW SAID IN SIGHT

London Times Says Unionists Can Press Fiscal Reform

CHAMBERLAIN TO WIN

Whole Policy Assured—Unhindered By Food Taxes—Develop With Circumstances.

London, Jan. 10.—A Times editorial declares: "The fact will soon be realized that the cause of reciprocal preference has now certain victory within reach. The Unionist party is free to press the policy of fiscal reform and Imperial preference at the next election, unhindered by the fear of food duties. The principle of preference once established will be developed naturally with every development of the British tariff which circumstances advise, and the people approve. In that way the ultimate fulfilment of Chamberlain's whole policy is absolutely assured. An increased use of our own soil is an imperative necessity of our national life. Development by preference of inter-Imperial trade is an equally essential condition of any enduring form of Imperial partnership. The Unionist party, pledged with equal conviction to both aims can now renew the struggle for power with redoubled confidence and strength."

THE STEAMSHIP AMERICA, WHICH RAN AGROUND WITH 1,000 PASSENGERS ABOARD

With the great Hamburg American line steamship America fast aground in New York Harbor as the result of an extraordinarily low tide caused by the gale, many shipping disasters along the coast, telegraph and telephone wires jangled from Florida to Maine, the damage from the terrific wind storm is expected to mount into the millions.

One thousand passengers, bound from New York to German ports, were held temporary prisoners on board the America when the great steamship ran her bow on a low mud bank well within the main harbor channel of Stapleton, Staten Island, and came to a sudden stop.

The veering gale had driven the water from the harbor until it reached an unusually low level in the channel, and the result was that the America ran aground at a point where there would ordinarily have been several feet of water under her keel.

Captain Knuth, of the America, promptly sent wireless messages to the offices of the company, informing the officers of the line of the mishap.

In no wise alarmed by the accident, her 1,000 passengers patiently waited for the tide to rise and float the America. There were 400 of them in the cabins and 600 in the steerage. Among the first cabin were Count and Countess Candido Mendez de Almeida and their sons and daughters.

PRIEST SUES BISHOP FALLON FOR $100,000 DAMAGE BILL

Statement of Claim in Dispute With Father Gnam of Wyoming—Was Compared to John Knox, Luther and Calvin—Particulars Entered in Long Standing Dispute

Sarnia, Jan. 10.—The long standing dispute between Bishop Fallon and a former priest of the diocese, Father Gnam, has resulted in the filing of a claim by the latter for $100,000 damages. The statement of claim is based chiefly on incidents on or about September 10th, 1910, in connection with the visit of the Bishop to Father Gnam's parish of Wyoming, in the County of Lambton. Among the charges against Bishop Fallon is that he "falsely and maliciously made a violent attack upon the plaintiff before a large congregation, in which he accused the plaintiff of being a disobedient priest and opposed to the Church, and compared him to John Knox, Luther and Calvin, and cautioned the people not to continue him or associate with him, and that he was going to further degrade the Church by taking out himself a wife."

Another cause of complaint is that he was a "Dutchman."

BILINGUALISM AS PER PREMIER

Government Will Not Withdraw Any Regulations Now in Force

FRESH INSTRUCTIONS

Conference Will Be Held With Inspectors To Discuss Recommendations on Improvement.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—The Ontario Government stands firm by the bilingual regulations. The answer to the denunciation of Provincial Separate School Boards which waited upon Sir Sir James Whitney a few weeks ago to ask a change in legislation towards the revision of Separate School inspection, was made public this morning.

Late last evening the communication bearing the policy of the Premier and his colleagues was forwarded to the Ottawa delegates who headed the original petition.

No change in the regulations, but the consultation of the Minister with six of the English-French school inspectors at the end of the school year to consider the suggestions or recommendations was the substance of the reply which reads as follows:

"With reference to the petition or memorial presented to the Government of the 27th of December, 1912, by you and other gentlemen on behalf of certain of the English-French schools of Ontario, my colleagues and I feel convinced that much of whatever friction has occurred was caused by a misapprehension in some quarters of both the intention and effect of the new regulations.

"Cannot Withdraw.

"While the Government cannot withdraw any of the regulations now in force, nor assent to the other propositions and requests set out in the petition, I desire to make it clear that before entering upon his duties each inspector was notified that at the close of the present school year the Minister would consult with the six inspectors of the English-French schools as to the effectiveness of the instructions issued last June, and would consider any recommendations they might desire to make for the improvement of the schools under their charge."

PETS JR. WON GAME

Junior Petes Played Too Fast Hockey, At Brock Street, For Whitty

Last night the Brock street rink was filled almost to capacity, with a crowd of cheering hockey fans, who saw the Whitty team trimmed to a finish by the Petes. The local aggregation was not only too heavy for the visitors, but displayed better team work. At half-time the score stood, Petes 3-0, and at the ring of the last bell, 10-0. The puck was kept nearly all the game round the Whitty goal. Dave Rowan acted as referee. The line up was as follows:

PETERBOROUGH

"WILL O' THE WISP"

BY ST. PAUL'S JR. CHOIR

Local Boys and Girls Present Operetta Before Large and Delighted Audience.

Last night the big assembly hall of the Collegiate Institute was filled to capacity by a well amused audience. The occasion was a rendition of a clever, well staged and ably presented operetta entitled "Will o' the Wisp." This was given by the Junior Choir of St. Paul's Church. The entire proceeds are to be applied to St. Paul's Korean Mission fund. The music was bright and sparkling and the dialogue very clever. Organist Allan, of St. Paul's Church, deserves more than a passing notice for the excellent results attained by his persevering and untiring patience and skillful training of the boys and girls who took part.

Douglas McDonald presented his very clever collection of wax works. Duster in Chief, Lionel McIntosh. Twelve Bonnie Fishwives, in costumes, sang "Aller Herrin" twelve little maidens, suitably attired, rendered "When we were all little girls, you know," whilst another dozen girls sang, "I'm a Merry Little Jap." Solos and duets were effectively given by Wilma Nelson, Doris Cowan, Florine Harrison, Ella Horton, Agness Logan and Tom Pogue.

The proceedings were thoroughly enjoyed by all present and wound up with the National Anthem.

The cast was composed of the following: King of Utopia—Gordon McBride. Queen Heartseuse—Flora Mowat. Peter, Keesie, 2 children led astray by Will o' the Wisp, Stanley Anderson, Grace Thompson. Lord Chamberlain, Laillaw Anderson. Gold Stick—James Pogue. Silver Stick—Vernon Fisk. Herald—D. Carmichael. Will o' the Wisp—Gee Logan. Attendants, citizens, etc.

WOMAN PUT TO DEATH

For Opium Smoking Habit—She Persisted in Use of the Drug

Shanghai, China, Jan. 10. Death as a punishment for opium smoking was meted out yesterday to a woman of this city who persisted in the use of the drug despite the stringent manifesto issued by the Government on Christmas day, prohibiting the people from indulging in the habit.

By order of the Government of the province, the woman was taken to a public place and executed by shooting this afternoon in the presence of a large crowd of spectators.

The manifesto issued by the Chinese Government expressed the desire for the suppression of the evil in order to save the people from a life of degradation, but at the same time voiced the fear that although the Government was in earnest the people would try to evade the law.

The probable collapse of the opium trade was foreshadowed some time ago when it was found that Indian opium to the value of $40,000,000 was stacked in thousands of chests in Shanghai and Hong Kong warehouses without finding buyers. After the manifesto was issued by the Government it was virtually impossible to buy or sell opium in the coast provinces, or the Yangtze provinces, and it was known that the authorities had been ordered from Peking to enforce the prohibitory laws. To-day's execution, however, was the first instance in which they have been put into full effect.

IRELAND IS GIVEN STATUS OF A BRITISH COLONY

London, Jan. 10. During the consideration of the Irish Home Rule Bill in the House of Commons yesterday, Felix Cusack moved an amendment to omit clause twenty-eight, which states that the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council shall hereafter be the Appellate Court of Ireland, as in the case of the Dominions. Mr. Cusack denounced the provision as being openly and avowedly separatist, as a colony. Irish appeals, he said, should continue to go to the House of Lords.

Sir Rufus Isaacs, the Attorney General, opposed the amendment, which was eventually defeated by a majority of 127.

Augustine Birrell, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, moved to amend clause thirty-one by adding a declaration that the continuance in office of the Lord Lieutenant should not be affected by any change in the Ministry.

R. M. Neill proposed to add a provision that the Lord Lieutenant should conform to the practice of the governors of the overseas dominions.

SUICIDE OF LINDSAY MAN

Special to The Times.

BECKER CONFIDENT HE WILL GET A NEW TRIAL

New York, Jan. 10. Former Police Lieut. Charles Becker, under sentence of death for the murder of gambler Herman Rosenthal, continues in a hopeful frame of mind in his cell at Sing Sing Prison, according to one of his recent fellow inmates Lawrence J. Spohr, former corporal of the U. S. Army, who was condemned to die for the murder of his sweetheart, but who has just been sent from the death house to the jail at White Plains for a second time, tells the story of Becker's days at Sing Sing.

"Becker confidently expects that he will get a new trial and will be acquitted," said Spohr. He is the most religious man in the place, and every night reads the Bible and leads in the singing of two or three hymns, and sometimes popular songs in which Rosenthal's gunmen join.

COMMENDABLE PRIDE.

A GREAT ATTRACTION AT GRAND OPERA HOUSE

In a royal command production, "A Marriage of Convenience" Mr. Waller, the distinguished English player, will make his initial bow to Canada at the Grand Opera House Wednesday, Jan. 15th, and it is probably not too much to say that a better selection could not have been made, as the attraction for the holidays, for aside from the fact that Mr. Waller has his credit in England many distinct triumphs, the role of Comte de Candale is particularly fitted to him as an interpreter of romantic roles.

Social France, about the year 1750 is the setting of the story of a man and wife who have been married by the will of their parents, (which is an old custom in France), who have but a passing knowledge of each other, and the way in which these two apparently ill-mated young persons, during the first three days of their honeymoon, successfully fall in love with each other, fun-sh incidents, a musing in the extreme. Such a play with a player whose popularity in England during the past ten years requires no comment should prove an attraction to be recommended for Peterborough. Mr. Waller brings his own English company which includes the young London favorite, Miss Madge Titheradge. There will be but one performance.

BICYCLE TOUR

Interesting Details of a Trio of Two Travelers Through a Native District

Extremely interesting are the details of the bicycle and walking tour lately made in Central Africa by Messrs. F. H. Meland and E. N. Chalmers, of the Chartered Company's service, who have arrived in London. After crossing the Anglo-German boundary, the two travellers struck south-west to M'banza, in order to visit Lake Tanganyika. During their peregrinations in this neighborhood, they visited some very interesting and little known places, some of which are ruled by a family entirely distinct from the people. This ruling caste is known as the "Bak" and was founded by a man called Uduka, who came from the north 15 years ago. A chief named Uduka, who has just succeeded to the throne, now governs one section of the territory. He is a very formidable looking person, with a long, thin, pointed beard, and an old straw hat, she received the travellers with great ceremony. Another member of this ruling family has founded a religious home, and she, with three of her friends, are the only known cases of African native women taking the veil.

LOCAL INDUSTRIES

For Western Municipalities Are Not Willing to Give Financial Aid

Other towns and even incorporated villages throughout the West are giving much thought to the establishment of local industries. Winnipeg, already has fifteen thousand factory employees, whose annual wages amount to nine million dollars. There are few municipalities in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta but are willing to aid, financially, the establishment of some local industry. Brandon owns 140 acres, which will eventually be distributed as free sites for factories. Souris is completing a power plant, from which it is hoped to supply cheap power to factories. Deseronto proposes to pipe water for ten miles, partly, at least, for the encouragement of industries. The list might be extended indefinitely. Municipalities know that industrial development would very materially promote mixed farming, by establishing a home market for farm products, such as milk, cream, eggs and meat.

WAYS OF MAKING BUTTER
The Tartar's method of cooking his meat by using it as a saddle while galloping on horseback is matched by the Arabian method of making butter. The Arab puts his milk into a skin which he hangs over his camel, and proceeds on his journey. The swing of the camel does the rest, and turns the skin into an excellent churn. On the South American (tambo) the skin bottle is fastened by a rope to a saddle, and trailed along the ground behind a galloping horse, until the butter arrives.

LUCK OF BEGINNERS

Most of us are familiar, by experience or hearsay, with the beginner's luck in games, especially golf. That is the reason why golf is so universally popular. The first time a man takes a creak in his hand and says "Here is a little white ball on a small mound of sand, let me hit it a very hard blow," he suits the action to the word, lets fly, and sees his ball career into space in the desired direction. He walks after it, and, perhaps finds it some few yards from a grassy parapet with some loose sand lying in front of it. His mentor, with a cynical smile, says: "This is a bunker. You had better take this machine," handing him a small and deep-headed iron club. The novice says, "Oh, a bunker!" swings the mallet and lifts the ball on to the green. Another walk brings him to his ball lying three yards from a little hole with a tin to receive the ball. He is handed a putter, he looks from his ball to the hole, hits the ball sharply and decisively, and sends it scuttling to the bottom of the tin. His mentor congratulates him, still with a cynical smile, and he says: "Why, that is nothing. I could do that with an umbrella." His first progress around the links is triumphant. He goes home saying, "I shall 'take up golf.' It is a pleasant game. Splendid exercise, fresh air, and all that. Quite easy, too."
That is beginner's luck. It has long been a mystery. But Colonel Melville, in a speech at the Royal Sanitary Institute Congress at York, England, has explained it. In a beginning of a new muscular movement, the executive muscles concerned act at random, their antagonists being at the same time actively relaxed. Whereas, later on, both muscles antagonists contract, destroying the initial freedom of movement. That is an interesting explanation but it is depressing, for it typifies the triumph of matter over mind.

The pen men will see it finish when women secure the right to vote on questions which affect the house.
And it is coming, sure.

What is an optimist? asks the Examiner. The best definition this
g. l. can give is that an optimist is a man who says a little sunshine for a rainy day.

And now the United States' public health service condemns the restaurant finger bowl. The gate latch and the door must apprehensively await their turn.

After he got through shaking 7004 hands on New Year's Day, President Taft, no doubt, was sorry he could not shake his job at once instead of having to wait until March 4.

After March 4, thousands of Republicans will have ample time in which to "tremble" with fear for the future of the country, while the triumphant democrats "point with pride" to the pie counter.

A football game at Paris, between Scotchmen and Frenchmen ended in a free-for-all fight and eleven men were going to the hospital. The Scottish temperament is likely to make football an unpopular sport in La Belle France.

The game of "draw poker" now being played in London has reached the point where Turkey made a heavy alms. It now remains to be seen whether Turkey will call the bet or throw up his hand.

Somebody has assured the British Labor party that organized labor in Canada is solidly against any national expenditure for naval purposes of any sort. We don't believe it. It is hardly probable that organized workmen would tolerate itself from the great majority of the Canadian people.

Governor Sulzer insisted on simplicity in his inauguration. He walked to the State Capital in Albany, tied his horse not his hat, to the fence, and took the oath of office in a truly democratic fashion. Bully for Sulzer and may he fates long protect his favored hairs from the defiling touch of the hatter.

THE WARNING AT DELHI

In the bomb which was thrown at Lord Curzon at Delhi, the people of Great Britain generally see an ambiguous warning. While it is probable that the act was that of a fanatic, there is a lesson in it which tells that India is India for India.

The fact has long been recognized that Great Britain holds the great card. England, duly through the ran-dominance of the Anglo-Saxon and his greater governmental and military skill, but there is reason to believe that if a crisis similar to the Sepoy rebellion in 1857 were to arise now, the outcome would be extremely doubtful, because the millions of natives are now enlightened. A few years ago if anyone had declared that China would throw off the rule of the Manchu and become a Republic he would have been pronounced a visionary.

But if the Chinaman has been able to establish a Republic, it is reasonable that his brown brother of Hindustan is capable of doing the same.

That British statesmen are not unwilling of the growing unrest in India and wish to placate it was amply evidenced when King George and Queen Mary broke precedent and made a long journey to India to assume the Imperial crown. Another step was the form of the decree removing the capital from Calcutta to Delhi, the ancient stronghold of the Moguls. But these concessions, like those offered to the American people in 1775, may have come too late.

GERMAN PRESS COMMENT.
The Fackel Rundschau, which is devoted to being the organ of the German naval and military world, in discussing the Canadian contribution, hints that it is the result of a scheme deliberately conceived to persuade the colonies to bear their share in naval expenditure. The same allegation has been made in other quarters. To this it may be replied that in the case of Canada the contribution is a free gift from the people through the Parliament. There is no outside compulsion whatever.

The representatives of the people vote for it or against it according to the wishes of their constituents. The Tagliche Rundschau reaches the following conclusion:
"This development is the result of the enormous increase of British world-power, which brings us face to face with the question whether we can any longer be satisfied with the slow progress established in the last naval estimates. On the other hand, it should be some consolation to us that Canada has demanded a voice and a vote in the deliberations of the Imperial Government. This demand undoubtedly will be followed by that of other colonies."

"If the demand is granted, we shall then no more be concerned with England alone, whose half-anxious, half-threatening gaze across the North Sea has caused such a strain on the whole of Europe for many years. Instead, we shall have the participation of other and higher talents than the constant challenging of a continental power, which for more than forty years has given more than sufficient proofs of her love for peace."

There is no hostility in the foregoing remarks, but they are singularly like some that are made in the British newspapers concerning Germany.

Sometimes you wake up at night,
heart throbbing like a steam engine.
Your breathing is short and irregu-

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

Just read what happened to Isaac Malloux, of Belle River, Ont.:
"Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, I had sour risings and indigestion. At night I would often wake with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation.
I consulted my doctor and used remedies that my friends advised.
"One day I received a sample of no sign of indigestion. I feel younger

PUBLIC LIBRARY REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1912

Librarian F. M. Della Fasse Submits Comprehensive Statement of Year's Business--Interesting Report
From Curator T. A. S. Hay

At the annual meeting of the Public Library Board on Thursday evening, the following reports were heartily endorsed by the members present:
Gentlemen, I beg herewith to present my report of the work accomplished in the Library during the past year. That it has been a year of progress in every department, I think the facts and figures to be placed before you will sufficiently testify.

Owing to the difficulties that were encountered during the year preceding in the way of establishing the Library on a new basis it was found impossible to fully complete the cat-aloguing and in fact it was not until the middle of the year just closed that this feature of our work was finished. I am in a position to state now that not only the cataloguing of the stack room completed but the books in the Reference Room have also been catalogued as well as many valuable volumes, pamphlets and maps. Among these latter are many reports of the famous Smithsonian Institute as well as publications of the Ontario and Dominion Archives departments. The majority of these are especially valuable both from a scientific and geographical standpoint and relate to every province of Canada.

Many gifts of books from private individuals have been received and to Mrs. Dwyne the Library is especially indebted for a generous gift from the collection of the late Judge Weller, consisting of a rare edition of 18th century essays and many other volumes of an interesting and useful character. The gifts received from these various sources amount to 192 volumes and pamphlets entirely with subjects other than fiction.

BOOKS, MAGAZINES AND PERI-ODICALS.
During the past twelve months over thirteen hundred volumes have been added to the Library, of which about 100 per cent. are new. The necessity for so large an amount of new reading material was occasioned by the enormous demand and by the withdrawal from circulation of some 400 volumes which, through constant use had become worn out and worthless.

A certain amount of pilfering has been carried on at odd times both in the reading rooms and stack room, but it is pleasant to note that the value of the literature so taken has been of a nominal character, no especially valuable publication having been missed during the year. The number of periodicals and magazines purchased for the Library was seventy-five.

Several books have had to be destroyed on account of the outbreak of scarlet fever in the houses of book borrowers but none have been of a costly character, and the loss to the community from a literary standpoint was slight. Eight volumes were withdrawn from circulation in the advice or complaint of persons who considered them detrimental to the morals of the public. I may add in this connection that on examination of the volumes referred to I found ample cause for such action.
In four instances, where books had been lost by book borrowers restitution was made therefor and in only one instance was a book borrowed through the card system deliberately stolen. As the culprit departed without his whereabouts known, nothing further could be done and a fresh copy of the book was secured.

BOOKS PURCHASED.

ed is as follows:

Literature 59
Natural Science 113
History 81
Travel and description 81
Philosophy 132
Fine Arts 48
Useful Arts 45
Biography 53

BOOKS ISSUED DURING THE YEAR.
The classification of books issued during the year is as follows:
Fiction 46,226
Biography 1,067
History 499
Philosophy 458
Sociology 238
Natural Science 1,347
Useful Arts 801
Fine Arts 590
Literature 590
Travel 590
History 590
Total 92,327

BOOK CIRCULATION.
There has been an increase in circulation during the year, showing that interest in the Library is by no means on the wane. Last year the total circulation for forty-seven weeks was 12,737 and this year for fifty-two weeks the figure was close on 52,000. It has to be borne in mind that no account whatever is taken of the books used during this period in the Reference Room, which would certainly amount to many thousands more. As there is no means of arriving at a correct estimate, this phase of our work has had to be left out of the calculation, as the reference to maps and periodicals stored in the basement.

THE READING ROOMS.
The Reading Rooms have been extensively patronized, so much so in fact that it is really necessary to provide an extra table for the boys.
At present they are finding the accommodation they need in the Men's Reading Room, to the inconvenience of adult readers who sometimes cannot find seats when they enter the building.

THE ASSISTANT LIBRARIANS.
The work of the assistant Librarians, Miss Aylmer and Miss Sullivan, has been most satisfactory and they give me very great pleasure to testify to the efficient manner in which they have discharged the duties devolving upon them.

THE JANITOR.
The janitor, Mr. Matheson, has done excellent work both in and about the building. This has been clearly manifested in the appearance of the Library and the surrounding grounds. He is certainly deserving of very high commendation for the manner in which he has performed his duties.

THE JUVENILE DEPARTMENT.
The energetic Librarian, Mr. F. M.
Della Fasse, submitted the following report:
The number of juvenile tickets issued during the year was 108, and the number of books issued to juveniles amounted to 5,020 volumes. No trouble was experienced with any of them during the year. Their behaviour was excellent and is deserving of the highest praise.

FINES, &c.
The fines unpaid amount to $1.02.
In every case the borrower has been withheld till the obligations are im-mediated.

Eight hundred and fifty adult tickets were issued during the year, but of this number only six are country tickets. It does seem in the great degree disappointing that the Library does not receive more patronage from this source. Every advantage is afforded to dwellers at a distance, even to the extent of allowing them an extra week in which to return their books but either the fee of $2 or a fear that they will not reap advantages commensurate with their outlay prevents residents of the surrounding townships from taking that interest in the Library that might reasonably be expected from them.

THE MUSEUM.
As Mr. Hay, the curator, is sending in a report of the progress of the work in the Museum, I will here merely state that there is no question but that it has proved a great attraction and a source of interest to the Library, and its educational influence has been great.

BOOK REPAIRING.
The greatest problem in the Library work is undoubtedly that of book repairing. So far as our Library is concerned the Board has been the problem of reducing the cost to a minimum by the purchase of generous quantities of Gairdner mending material which has gone a very long way towards lengthening the life of books that were apparently doomed. During the year just closed about 4,300 volumes have been treated to first aid, methods and book repair work has been also been done to magazines, newspapers and periodicals.

In closing this report I desire to express my thanks to you, sir, to the members of the Board and to the Chairman of the various committees for their valuable encouragement and assistance throughout the year. The work shown has helped to make my work one of genuine pleasure.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT.
Gentlemen,--In presenting my Annual Report, I think I can say, to quote the words used by the Librarian in his Report,--"that the past year has been a year of progress in every department." The figures presented speak for themselves and I need dilate no further upon that subject. I feel that I am bound to say that they show that no apology is needed for the existence of a Library within these city limits. It is undoubtedly a long-felt want and is amply justified by the results obtained.

There are one or two matters, however, outside the realm of figures that I feel it necessary to bring before you for your consideration at this date as possible.
These are--
1. The establishment of a distinct children's department.
2. The advisability of otherwise establishing a course of lectures during the present winter.
The establishment of a children's department seems to be a simple enough matter and as the obstacles in the way of starting this phase of Library work have now been well nigh overcome it might be a good thing to get it under way as soon as possible. The main difficulty lies, as you are all well aware, in the finding of proper room space but this is a matter that may be very easily settled by the taking over of one of the upstairs rooms that is at present being used by the Medical Association. I understand that there is a feeling on the part of some of the physicians that it would be better to make an over to have over the medical works at present owned by them to the Library in order to be enabled to have access to them at less expense than they are at present experiencing and if this is their desire, it would be a very good way to settle the matter. They could always have a room on proper notice in advance.
For the Librarian and we would be in possession of the space that we now require without in any way disturbing their comfort.

You will notice by the Financial Statement that we expended on new books during the year $972.90, which is a very creditable showing and if an increasing amount is spent for this item each year, I think there will be no difficulty in keeping the Library in an up-to-date position. You will also notice that we closed the year with the substantial cash balance on hand of $310.93. I would like to say in conclusion that the Librarian and his assistants have given the

Great Phosphate and Mica Mines The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

CAPITALIZATION $500,000. (No Personal Liability) Divided into 500,000 shares, par value of $1 each; 400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

PROPERTIES.
The Company owns 527 acres of rich Phosphate, Mica and Asbestos Mines in the Townships
of Masham, Templeton and Portland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 40 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Porcupine Gold District.

As Phosphate and Mica Mining produces quick-
er and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining,
and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich Phosphate and Mica Mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY REQUIRED.
The Mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication.

Labor and provisions are much less expensive
than in Cobalt or Porcupine.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from Phosphate and Mica Mining.

Mining can be carried on all the year round.

A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHARE-
HOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE
THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a variety of other mines
to fall back upon.

The large acreage, the low capitalization, the
large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious
and honest enterprise and administration.

the years pass by.

CURATOR'S REPORT.
Gentlemen,--As Curator of the Museum I feel it necessary to submit my Annual Report.
In 1911 your Board having agreed to the amalgamation of Victoria Museum with the Public Library, the exhibits and furniture were removed from Inverlea to the new quarters in the upper story of the Library building during the winter of 1911-12. After being arranged the Museum was publicly opened on the evening of April 23rd, 1912, with an attendance of 600 people. Since that date it has been open on week days from 1 to 6 p.m., and on Saturday evenings from 7.30 to 10.

Since removal the Museum has been visited by hundreds of people.
Interesting and valuable exhibits are constantly being added to the collections, so that more space is urgently required. In September last the Board granted the use of the room at the North West corner. This room has been arranged with cases containing botanical and natural history exhibits.

The rapid growth of the Museum shows the great interest taken in it by the public, but it is necessary that additional cases should be provided, for which no funds are available.
Many persons have offered to donate or loan articles if there are cases to display them in and much material has been removed from this vicinity to Museums in other cities, which by right should be deposited here. Strong efforts are being made to retain what are left.

If the Board can see their way to making a grant for new cases it will be very much appreciated, as the Museum, even now, is the most comprehensive collection to be found outside of the large cities.

THE FAMOUS SEATON MINE

which is now being operated by this Company. We expect big results from the Seaton Mine because it produced a fortune in the upper workings. We are 800 feet below these and will have an immense block of toping ground to work on and there can only be one result once this big mine is going good. A little more capital will do the work and we feel quite certain that we will all be well recompensed for our time, money and labor. By placing up-to-date machinery in the mill, we can add fully 20 per cent to our profits. This is what we want capital for and our plan for selling stock. We are preparing to make a big producing mine of this and your money will help us to do it.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

TO REBUILD TEMPLE

World Scheme to Revive Solomon's Glories in the Holy Land

The Freemasons of the world propose to rebuild Solomon's Temple in Jerusalem. They have the consent of the Ottoman Government, and several leading Masons have applied for papers of incorporation as a company to take the matter in hand. The cost of the undertaking may run into millions but there will be no lack of money, as the Masonic lodges are contributing generously to the fund.

The overlaying of gold in the original Temple was an elaborate affair. The Temple and its courts occupied an area of 370 by 240 cubits—about 465 feet by 360 feet, and, according to the Bible, there were at work 70,000 men, who carried burdens, 80,000 bakers of stone, and 3,000 overseers. Three years were spent in preparing the materials for the building and seven more in the actual construction. The whole interior was trimmed with cedar, covering all the walls, while the floor was laid with planks of fir. The ceiling, walls, and floor, as well as the doors, were beautifully carved and richly adorned with sheathings of gold. The amount of gold used in building the Temple may be gathered from the following verses from the Book of Kings:—

"So Solomon overlaid the house within with pure gold, and he made a partition by the chains of gold before the oracle, and he overlaid it with gold until he had finished all the house; also the whole altar that was by the oracle he overlaid with gold. And the floor of the house he overlaid with gold, within and without."

SPELLING REFORM

Prominent British Educator Thinks the Present System is Absurd

A strong plea in favor of phonetic spelling was made at the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science by Sir James Donaldson, LL.D., vice-chancellor and principal of the University of St. Andrews and principal of the United College of St. Salvador and St. Leonard. Sir James told the association that spelling was a thing of no consequence and everybody ought to be allowed to spell as he liked, just as Shakespeare and our ancestors did. If the English spelling were phonetic, said Sir James, it would be easier for the whole population of China to learn the English language, but no foreigners now had a chance to learn easily. The English-speaking child taught to spell phonetically, he said, saved at least a year in the task of acquiring an education.

Sir James concluded his phonetic plea by scoring competitors in general. The present method of making up words, he charged, was the doing of compositors. "We are slaves of the printers," he asserted, "and if we do not spell according to their ways of thinking they change us over and over again. And there is no redress."

DAYLIGHT IMITATED

Marble in Thin Sheets Used Instead of Glass With Wonderful Results

One of the largest firms specializing in electric fittings in Berlin has taken out a patent for the substitution of marble for glass in the case of some styles of decorative house lighting.

After innumerable experiments with tinted and patterned types of glass, with the aim of producing a light from electric filament lamps that would scarcely be distinguishable from daylight, one of the staff decided to test the qualities of other material. His first essay was with marble. A sheet of white marble was placed down until so thin as to be semi-transparent, and then different intensities of light were shown from behind. The result was most satisfactory.

The firm then fitted a series of lights to the cornice of a room with such success that it was difficult to realize that it was artificially lighted.

NEW CIPHER LANGUAGE

For Written Communications Only. Not Easily Used in Conversation

Struck by the difficulty ordinary people have in learning Esperanto or other so-called "universal" languages, Joseph Orszag, official translator of the Paris Court of Appeals, devised a method of international correspondence that makes it possible for a Frenchman and a Chinese, an Englishman and a Russian, for example, to write to each other and understand what is written. The method is extremely simple. It consists of two parts. First, the national vocabulary of each language is arranged, with conjugations and declensions where these are necessary, confining the list to such words as are in common use, with what he calls a "universal number" opposite each word; second, the "universal numbers" in their numerical order, with the words they represent in the language in question placed opposite them. These "universal numbers" are those which represent the order of words in the French alphabetical dictionary. A German, an Italian, a Turk, or a Finlander would find opposite the same figures the corresponding words in his own language.

Lesson in Politeness

Australian Blacks Possessed of Innate Sense of Gentility

In the south of Australia the blacks are almost "civilized" out of existence, but up in the north, where white settlement is still sparse, they are pretty numerous and present an interesting study to anthropologists. The Hon. Josiah Thomas, Commonwealth Postmaster-General and ex-Cornwall tin miner paid them a visit and what particularly struck him was their natural politeness. At a distribution of tobacco, a luxury of which the blacks are especially fond, they all evinced admirable self-restraint. "There was none of that unseemly crushing or scuffling for the free-rooms and jam tarts such as I have witnessed more than once at vice-regal receptions," said the PMG in telling of the incident.

Caught Falling Man

The King awarded the Edward medal of the second class to Richard Brookes, pipe-fitter of Burlington Trent, for gallantry in saving the life of another workman. Brookes was passing down the yard where he was employed when Thomas Rogers fell from a ladder at a height of 40 feet. Brookes rushed to the spot and caught Rogers on his shoulders.

Library Without Books

The Wason Court Workmen's Social Club and Institute, Tonypandy, Wales, was raided and struck off the register. Of fifteen persons in the club at the time of the raid seven were under the influence of drink. In the library were thirty down bottles of beer and stout, but no books.

Heretic Chief Officer

Mr. George Holmes of Dublin, chief officer of the ss Heathmore, of the Johnston Line, was awarded the bronze medal and certificate of the Royal Humane Society for his gallant attempt to save the captain of the ship, who fell overboard and was drowned in the Danube.

HISTORIC PRISON CELLS

The Criminal Relics of London Will Be Stored Therein

The authorities of the new London Museum, at Kensington Palace, have secured possession of some historical prison cells, wherein will be housed the criminal relics of London. The relics were discovered in a common lodging house in Wellclose Square, St. George in the East, and are believed to date back to the times of Charles II, and to have been a frequently used in connection with the Whitechapel Police Court. In the walls, which are built of oak thick studded with strong iron bolts, were the original cells used for the condemned prisoners together with a plank bed upon which no doubt many a criminal spent his last night. The complete cells have been dismantled by experts acting under instructions from Mr. Trevelyan, and are being stored in the new museum and will be re-erected in their entirety in the annex at the museum at Kensington, where visitors will be able to pass in and out of them and inspect the many quaint inscriptions on the walls. An old oak staircase still stands in the house in Wellclose Square, but it will not be required.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION

Wayburn Correspondent would Inform the West on the Trade Question.

Considerable interest has been aroused in Eastern Canada by the Wayburn correspondent of The Toronto News in which he advocates strongly a vigorous campaign of education in the west which would explain the policy of reasonable and moderate protection under which manufacturer has made such enormous progress in the older parts of Canada in the last fifteen years. This Wayburn writer cites as the chief reason the West is out of touch with the East on the trade question as the inability of the western citizen to see the fruits of the policy of moderate protection. He refers to the fact that there is no medium in the West to explain how the development of diversified industry in Canada means prosperity not only for the manufacturers but for all classes of the community.

PENALTY OF FAT

Curious Story of the Tribulations of Man Who Amassed a Fortune

A curious story of an Englishman's captivity in the Andes mountains in Peru is told on the authority of a lady traveler who recently returned from South America. Some years ago the "captivity" and his brother left England for Peru in search of gold. They found a "Gold" in an isolated spot in the mountains. Year in and year out they worked at their mine with great success, one of them never leaving the spot. Now, having made a fortune, he wishes to return to England, but he is unable to do so. In the interval he has grown lean, agile and much stouter, and there is no path back to civilization along which he can venture with any degree of safety.

LESSON FROM TITANIC

Rules Regarding Boats and Lifeboats are Changed

New rules regarding life saving appliances on seagoing vessels issued by the British Board of Trade provide that foreign-going passenger steamers, emigrant ships and foreign-going sailing ships carrying passengers are in future to provide sufficient lifeboat accommodation for all on board. The number of boats is no longer to depend upon tonnage, but on the length of the ship, and all boats must be equipped throughout the voyage. As regards to boats, trade passenger ships including cross-channel and excursion vessels the lesser risk run by a half case is recognized, as well as the impracticability of their carrying lifeboat accommodation, or even buoyant apparatus, sufficient for all on board. In every case life-jackets for everyone must be provided and life boat or buoyant apparatus for a fixed time period must be provided.

FIRST TO CLIMB THE MATTERHORN

Haunted by Visions of Terrible Alpine Disaster.—Mr. Whympor, Famous Alpinist Dead.

Mr. Edward Whympor, the famous Alpinist and conqueror of the Matterhorn, died at Chamoni at the age of seventy-two, as the result of an apoplectic seizure. Mr. Whympor was a many-sided man—a brilliant writer, a good artist, and an admirable engraver on wood. But it was as a mountaineer that he was best known. He had climbed famous peaks in all parts of the world, but his name will be always remembered as that of the man who was the first to conquer the Matterhorn.

He began climbing in the Alps when he was twenty, and his first great ascent was that of Mont Pelee in Dauphiné during 1861. In the same year he first attempted the ascent of the Matterhorn, but was driven back by the want of resolution and guide. In 1865 and 1868 he made six more unsuccessful attempts, on one occasion narrowly escaping with his life. His eighth and successful ascent of the Matterhorn was made on July 18, 1868. He had six companions—three guides, Croz and the two Taugwalders, Lord Francis Douglas, and Messrs. Hudson and Hadow. The party reached the summit of the Matterhorn without misadventure, and thus dispelled the guide's belief that it was inaccessible and haunted by demons. They spent one hour on the top and then began the descent. It was terribly hard luck that the triumph after so many failures should have been marred by one of the saddest of Alpine tragedies. The party was passing a point near the top when Mr. Hadow slipped against Croz, the leading guide, and knocked him down. Both slid down the mountain face, and Mr. Hudson and Lord F. Douglas were dragged after them.

Mr. Whympor was roped between the Taugwalders, and was last but one in the party. He and his two guides braced themselves against the shock; they resisted it, but the rope broke midway between Taugwalder and Lord Douglas.

For a few seconds," says Mr. Whympor in his thrilling account of the catastrophe, "we saw our unfortunate companions sliding down wards on their backs and spreading out their hands endeavouring to save themselves. They passed from our sight unharmed, disappeared one by one, and then fell from precipitous precipices. All were killed on the spot."

The descent of the difficult part of the mountain had now to be achieved by Mr. Whympor and his two guides. "The two men, paralyzed by terror, cried like infants and trembled in such a manner as to threaten us with the fate of the others. The men were afraid to proceed, and several times old Peter Taugwalder turned with sad face and faltering lips and said with terrible emphasis, 'I cannot.'"

For many years after this fearful accident Mr. Whympor climbed no more in the Alps. In 1870 and 1872 he explored Greenland, in 1874-75 he climbed in the high mountains of Ecuador, and twice ascended the volcano of Chimborazo. Between 1901 and 1906 he surveyed many of the Canadian Rocky Mountains and explored and mapped the country of the "Great Divide."

But wherever he went the memory of that awful disaster on the Matterhorn was always before him. Only three days before his death he said: "I am seventy-two, and I am finished. Every night do you understand, I see my comrades of the Matterhorn disaster slipping on their backs, their arms outstretched, and after the other, in perfect order at equal distances—Croz, the guide, first, then Hadow, then Hudson, and lastly Douglas."

"Yes, I shall always see them slipping in order on their backs with their hands turned back, and I shall never see Zermatt again, where I spent my most ardent hours, nor my Matterhorn."

His prediction was a true one.

RAISING A TREASURE

The "Lutine," Sunk in 1799, had $6,000,000 in Gold

Good progress has been made by the treasure seekers at work on the wreck of H.M.S. Lutine, which sank off the Dutch coast in 1799 with bullion and gold worth $6,000,000 on board. The thirty-six feet of sand that covered the wreck have been removed and the divers can now walk along the lower hull forward. When the ship was wrecked, the after part collapsed and the treasure was buried by the cannon balls which fell from the magazine above. The cannon balls have been removed and the salt water into a solid mass of rust that many tons in weight. Investigation is being used to remove this mass, as each tier of cannon balls is removed and taken away, some and some gold are found. Recently the progress of the progress has been breaking through the iron with the impression that a lot of gold had been lost. Five grains of gold were taken from the "treasure" and the southern tale no doubt that they are signs in the pillage.

Ly and His Mother

There are two ways for boys to become successful men, the first by being rich and the second by becoming a champion of some branch of manly sport or athletic.

This is the philosophy of Mrs. W. H. Cobb, mother of "Ty" Cobb, the world's best famous baseball player. The little Southern woman, a childless widow, has been able to bring up her son to be a champion athlete, and a just now making good in the Western league with the Lincoln team. Mrs. Cobb is not too much of a mother, but she is a mother who knows the value of a good education, and she has made it a point to give her son a good education, as well as a good physique. "I am not in proud of 'Ty' for his name he has made for himself as I am that he grew up a champion athlete and met hundreds of new friends and always remembered me," said Mrs. Cobb. "Every opportunity that he gets he sends me some little greeting and he likes to run home whenever he gets a vacation."

Greatest Invention of Age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

Nothing So Far Discovered as Beneficial to Public Speakers,
Ministers, Singers and Teachers of Catarrhose

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhose cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes hoarseness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone.
Catarrhose keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety—hoarseness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhose, and credit is no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

Singer Recommends Catarrhose
"For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as CATARRH.

"Belief a professional singer, you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill."

"One year ago I read in the 'Progress' a convincing testimonial from one who had been cured of this disease through using your God-sent invention, Catarrhose."

"Believing in the merit of Catarrh-hose, I tried it."

"Catarrhose cured me and has been the means of my success."

"You are at liberty to use my name if it will help relieve some from suffering, and I will always remain."

"Bob Bixley, New Glasgow, N.B."

Mr. Bixley is one of the best known singers and entertainers in the Maritime Provinces. Everyone knows him, and his testimonial for Catarrh-hose is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhose is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh.

A County Police Court Case.

Yesterday morning the Worship County Magistrate Edmison held court to the County Council Chamber. The only case tried was that of Bettie Evans versus Herbert Willer of Keene, for assault. It seems that Evans had been working for and boarding with Miller. Some days ago Evans decided to quit the job.
He took his grip and was leaving the house, when Miller stopped him, saying he could not take his baggage until he settled a small board bill.

An altercation took place during which Miller grabbed him by the throat and choked him so badly he Evans, had to consult Dr. McWilliams. Miller held the grip after having given the grip to Evans. His Worship imposed a fine of $2 with $15.00 expenses. He also issued an order for the grip to be returned to Evans. Ald. G. N. Gordon for the plaintiff, and Mr. W. H. Moore for defendant.

It is a stern fact that no truly beautiful complexion ever came out of jars or bottles, and the longer one uses cosmetics the worse the complexion becomes. Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must expel, through the pores, its share of the body's effete material. Creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-inflicted complexions. If they would use ordinary merchandise instead of cosmetics, they would have natural, healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result:
The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. An exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Get like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings.

I Will Stake This Medicine Against Your Time

A Few Days Will Be Sufficient to Prove That You Are Curable

A few minutes of your time for a few days and I will demonstrate to you, without expense to yourself, that I have a medicine that drives Uric Acid poison from the system and by so doing cures kidney trouble, bladder trouble and rheumatism.
I don't ask you to take my word for it, but simply want you to let me send you some of this medicine so that you can use it personally.

I am trying to convince sufferers from these diseases that I have something far better than the usual run of the medicine that is sold in each drug store and the only way I can demonstrate that fact is to go to the expense of sending the medicine and sending it out free of charge. This I am glad to do for any sufferer who will take the time to write me. Understand, I will not send you a "sample" simply proof or test treatment, nor will I send you a package of medicine and say that you can use some of it and pay for the rest, but I will send you a supply free of charge, and my promise be asked to pay for this gift nor will you be under any obligation.

All I want to know is that you have a disease for which my medicine is indicated. It is not a "sure-kill," and I give herewith some of the leading symptoms of kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles. If you notice one or more of these symptoms you need this medicine and I will be glad to send you some of it if you will write me the name of the symptoms you have, give your age, and your name and address. My address is Dr. Frank Lynott,
No. 44 Franklin Building, Toronto.
Ont. You promise me nothing; you pay me nothing for it. All I ask is that you take the medicine according to the directions I send you. It is my way of getting publicity for my medicine so that it will become widely known.

You will agree when you have used it that it dissolves and drives out uric acid poison, which tones the kidneys so that they work in harmony with the bladder. It strengthens the bladder so that frequent desire to urinate and other urinary disorders are banished.
It stops rheumatic aches and pains immediately. It dissolves uric acid crystals, breaks down uric acid no longer ache and crooked joints quickly straighten out. It reconstructs the blood and nerves so that you soon feel healthier and more vigorous, sleep better and eat better. It gives energy throughout the day. It does all this, and contains no harmful drugs. It is absolutely safe for according to law.

Sufferers from these dreadful and dangerous diseases can surely afford to spend a few minutes each day for a few days to demonstrate to their own satisfaction if they are curable, especially when you consider no expense is involved and I will send you my time and my medicine. All my familiar afflicted persons want to know if a certain thing will cure HIM or HER, and here is an opportunity to find out without cost, obligation or important loss of time. THESE FEW DAYS may be the turning point in your life.

All who are interested enough to write me for the free medicine will receive a copy of my new and complicated medical book which describes these diseases thoroughly. It is the largest book of the kind ever written for free distribution, and a new edition is just being printed and will be sent you a letter of diagnosis and medical advice that should be of great help to you; but in order to do this I must know that the turning point in your life will be the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your age, and I will promptly carry out my promise. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

These Are the Symptoms:

1-Pain in the back.
2-Frequent desire to urinate.
3-Burning or obstruction of urate.
4-Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5-Troublesome uric acid.
6-Cold or pain in the stomach.
7-Debility, weakness, dizziness.
8-Pain or soreness under right rib
9-Pain in any part of the body.
10-Constipation or loss of sleep.
11-Palpitation or pain under the heart.
12-Pain in the hip joint.
13-Pain in the neck or head.
14-Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
15-Pain or swelling of the joints.
16-Pain or swelling of the joints.
17-Pain and soreness in nerve.
18-Acute or chronic rheumatism.

the trotting turf. Reinsman, J.B.
Doble, Spian, Murphy, Goldsmith, Hickok, Bain, McHenry, etc., if the old school, were popular in their day, and Tommy Murphy and Walter the leaders among the younger gen-but Edward J. Geers is undoubtedly the dandy of them all in the public's estimation.

No matter where the track is held, whenever Geers wins a heat he is given an ovation by the grand stand

TWO HUNDRED UNIONISTS APPEALED TO BONAR LAW

Begged Their Leader to Abandon Food Taxes for the Present--Submit Them to the People After Getting Into Power--Law to Consult Lansdowne

London, Jan. 11.—Every effort is being made by the Unionist writers to minimize and obscure the real significance of the fierce party quarrel. Its real import may be briefly summed up. Food taxes have been removed from the field of practical politics, and henceforth become purely authority a matter of academic interest. Imperial preference has suffered a serious blow. Mr. Bonar Law's authority has been undermined, and despite the temporary truce his future is overcast.

Lord Lansdowne's speech repudiating the Unionist pledge to submit the question of preferential taxation to a referendum aroused a storm. Mr. Law's Ashton speech on food taxes turned the storm to a hurricane. For a long time the Unionist members representing manufacturing centers have chafed under the opposition caused by their food tax proposals. They made their voices heard supported by the Times, the Liverpool Courier, and later by the Daily Telegraph. They demanded the removal of food taxes from the immediate Unionist programme. Mr. Bonar Law thereupon threatened to resign. Lord Lansdowne agreeing to follow him. Mediators arose, a memorial was hastily prepared, declaring confidence in Bonar Law, but suggesting the postponement of food taxes until after they have been submitted by the Unionist party when in power to a direct vote of the constituencies. Over two hundred members signed this memorial, which was presented to Mr. Law Friday afternoon. Mr. Law promised to reply, later, after consulting Lord Lansdowne. It is significant that the Unionists refuse to publish the exact text of the memorial or the names of the members subscribing. This means that many important members of their party have refused to sign.

SEPARATE SCHOOL TROUBLES

The iniquitous Separate School system of the Northwest, forced on the provinces by the Roman Catholic Church and the Laurier Government, is already breeding much trouble. A few days ago a deputation waited on the Premier requesting a repeal of the amendment to the Saskatchewan school law, passed last session, which enunciated the principle that where separate schools exist they must be supported by taxpayers of the religious denomination served. The deputation urged the law was ultra vires, as under the British North America Act a man could support what school he chose, and suggested a test case to the privy council. The Premier replied that the act would stand as quite within provincial jurisdiction.

IS SIR WILFRED NOW READY TO UNDERTAKE THE BATTLE?

Liberal Paper Says Campaign Funds Are Low and He is Not Sure of Winning Even in Quebec--Besides There is Reciprocity

Montreal, Jan. 12.—Le Pays, the vigorous Liberal paper, edited by Mr. Godfray Langlois, M.L.A., is strongly of the impression that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will hesitate before taking the advice of the Globe by endeavoring to force the Borden government to dissolve the house and bring on an election.

"The Old Chief," says Le Pays, "knows that our party is not ready to undertake a campaign. In the first place, funds are needed for the election, and the committee of organization is so poor that it could not even organize revision of the lists in the district of Montreal, and we all know that elections are not won by prayers."

"Is the Liberal party, in fact, in a state to undertake a heavy electoral battle just now, even on the naval question? Since the day Sir Wilfrid Laurier went one better than Mr. Borden and offered to spend not only that amount, but at least three times as much, in the Province of Quebec as they were formerly?"

"That is the question, and then we have the reciprocity problem. If we should abandon that plank in our program we would perhaps improve our position in Ontario but we might lose in the west."

"In a word, Sir Wilfrid will do well to reflect, before making the tactics asking that a policy of ob-

WORLD AWAITS FINAL FALL OF FORTRESS OF ADRIANOPLE

Watching With Close Interest Effect of Collective Note to Be Handed to Turkey

London, Jan. 11.—No sign of a loosening of the deadlock in the Balkan situation is yet in evidence. In the meantime the world awaits the fall of the long beleaguered fortress of Adrianople and is watching with close interest for the effect which the collective note to be handed to Turkey by the ambassadors at Constantinople of the European powers will have on the Turkish Government.

Contrary to the general belief that the ambassadors during their "conversations" at the British foreign office have not discussed the question of the future of the islands in the Aegean Sea, in regard to which no decision has yet been taken, it was at an earlier meeting that Adrianople and the islands were pointed out as two of the chief difficulties in the way of the conclusion of peace.

Must Concede Something

The Marquis Guglielmo, Imperiali Di Francavilla, the Italian ambassador in London, who besides Paul Cambon, French ambassador to Great Britain, is the only ambassador here who has spent years in Constantinople and knows Turkey well, remarked to day that if the powers were about to press Turkey to cede Adrianople, some concession would be necessary concerning the Aegean islands. Otherwise, he said, the Ottomans in their despair would become a kind of wild animals capable of any excess.

The Turkish delegates confirm the reports that they will leave London next week for Constantinople if the allies do not change their minds. One of the Turkish envoys said:

"We are rather glad that Europe has now experienced what sort of swine herds these Balkan peoples are. We know them of old."

Despite the "Made in Vienna" reports that Roumania is mobilizing, and that an ultimatum has been sent to Bulgaria demanding the cession of Silistra within a fortnight, and accompanied by a threat that Roumanian troops will occupy the coveted territory if the demand is not granted. The Standard this morning, voicing the views of cool-headed observers here says:

"Though the task of the ambassadors of the great powers has been rendered more difficult by the large crop of unfounded rumors concerning the Balkan situation, it is certain that the united judgment of Europe must in the end conquer."

Must Apply Pressure

To insure peace the opinion in general, however, is that the ambassadors must not delay too long in applying adequate pressure at Constantinople and if the daily dallying which marked the procedure of the powers before the war began, when intervention on behalf of the Christians in Macedonia and Thrace would have asserted the sacrifice of many thousands of lives on the battlefield, is to be the policy here, the situation will become so serious that a military and naval demonstration will be necessary to convince Turkey that she can no longer defy civilization.

HUGE COST OF PARTY ELECTIONS SAPS INDEPENDENCE OF M.P.'S

Ottawa, Can. 11.—What does it cost to run an election, and who puts up the money?

It is said that $5000 is needed for legitimate expenses in a riding at election, because some independent Liberal candidate might take the field. In Moncton, after the death of Raymond Desautels, the Government candidate was badly beaten by the Labor leader, Alphonse Verreault, who has held the seat ever since.

PETERBOROUGH WOMEN'S SISTER IS ROBBED WHILE IN TORONTO

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Some sick thief whose nerve knows no bounds did a neat job in the crowds on the Union Station platform yesterday morning, and Miss Minnie Manley of Saskatoon is bemoaning the loss of a silver chain, valued at $20, and a return ticket to Saskatoon. Miss Manley, who came down from the west to visit her sister in Peterborough, got off the Sudbury train with the chain swinging on her arm. She crossed over to get on the C.P.R. Montreal train when the conductor asked her for her ticket before she boarded the train. It was then she discovered her loss. Miss Manley reported the matter to the police, but as she did not know how she lost it or who cut it away from her arm the chance of locating the man is slim.

The woman was not left stranded for Mr. Wm. Corbett, of the passenger department of the C.P.R., went down in his own pocket and bought her a ticket to Peterborough. She was anxious to get to the bedside of her sister, who is seriously ill.

North Parties in Saskatchewan Ask That Conduct of Interior Department Be Investigated.

Regina, Sask., Jan. 12.—The final debate in the legislature on the Saskatchewan election charges came on yesterday and it was a lively one. Each side vehemently accused the other of reprehensible conduct in the recent campaign, unting nevertheless, in a resolution calling the attention of the Dominion Government to the "bribery, corruption and intimidation" said to have been practised by the officials of the department of the interior.

THE ORILLIA BANQUET

On Friday night of last week 175 people sat down to a banquet given by the Orillia Board of Trade in honor of the Minister of Railways and Canals, the Minister of Forests and Mines and the Chief Transportation Agents of the C.P.R., Messrs. Murphy, Stitt, Macdonald, Ham and Russell, who had all arrived during the day in their official coaches from the east. The most notable event of the evening was the pronouncement of Hon. F. Cochrane in favour of an early completion of the Trent Valley Canal. The banquet began at 8.45 and lasted till 2.15 and was without exception the most ambitious efforts yet attempted of this kind in the Midland district. Ald. Buller, of Peterborough, responded to the toast of Sister Municipalities, and Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., to that of the House of Parliament. The Peterborough Board of Trade was unable to send a representative. The visitors inspected the factories and had a royal time.

FRENCH EDITOR TO BE HELD AT N. YORK

E. H. James, Who Printed Libelous
Story of the King's Marriage,
Will Be Detained.

New York, Jan. 12.—E. H. James, editor of the Paris Liberator, which printed the libelous story of a marriage of King George to a daughter of Admiral (Glen-Seymour) before he became King will probably be detained when he arrives in New York late today or early tomorrow on La Province of the French Line. It was said to-day that orders had been received for his detention, and that if James acknowledged the authenticity of the statements attributed to him before he sailed from France that efforts will be made to deport him.

James is on his way to this country with the announced intention of defending Edward Mylius, who was imprisoned in England for uttering the libel as author of the story. Mylius is being detained at Ellis Island as a convict, and therefore an undesirable alien. A lengthy brief in Mylius case is now in the hands of Secretary of Commerce Nagel, counsel for the writer, claiming that the crime of which he was judged guilty in England, did not involve moral turpitude.

Arrangements were completed with the Y.W.C.A. to give four performances of "Alice in Wonderland" at the Grand Opera House.

The costumes and properties are supplied by Col. Brax and the stage is personally supervised by Miss D. Hope Leonard and her corps of assistants. It seems superfluous to enumerate the characters in the production as we are informed that all are introduced as portrayed by Lewis Carroll in his book, which are known to almost every man, woman and child. The Y.W.C.A. will doubtless realize a substantial sum to add to its treasury.

Among the many captivating stories for children, none is so popular as the beautiful fairy tale of "Alice in Wonderland" by Lewis Carroll; so popular has this become that it is now installed as a reader in most of the public schools throughout the land. Almost every mother and every child is now familiar with the strange and beautiful dream of "Alice in Wonderland," but it is not until recently that this charming story has been set to music and dramatized. The operetta seems destined to become as famous as the story under the skillful direction of the dramatizer, Miss D. Hope Leonard, and the able management of Col. John F. Brax, of New York City, who have been engaged in presenting the grand spectacular production in the principal cities and theatres during the past eight seasons. The production is magnificently staged and requires from one hundred and fifty to two hundred and fifty people to achieve the various scenes portrayed by the author. The Hatter, Cat, Rabbit, Fish, Frog, Mouse and other numerous animals are introduced, as well as King, Queen, Duchess, etc., etc., accompanied by fairies, attendants, elves, junks, judges, march and flag girls, Columbia, Uncle Sam, etc.

It is in consequence thereof. This could be remedied in part by barring from certain races horses against which others could not win. In gym crack's day the height of the animal determined the weight it should carry, conditions being give and take; that is, the contenders carried weight for inches as well as weight for age.

The minimum, 34 pounds, was for horses under fifteen hands in height, those higher being required to carry fourteen ounces more for every eighth of an inch. No young horses were raced in those days, the scale being that horses older than seven allowed four pounds to six-year-olds, twelve to five-year-olds and twenty pounds to four-year-olds. Allowances and penalties for height passed into disuse toward the end of the century, when it became apparent that the height at the withers is no criterion of the individual's racing ability.

Union Jack That Came Here After The Union of England and Ireland

A walk through the rooms of Mr. McCord's home on the Côte des Neiges road, Montreal, is a walk back through the troubled history of early Canada. With Mr. McCord as clear one, one hears many interesting things about the history of Canada that he never heard before and standing before the battle-scarred weapons and blood-stained uniforms of early Canadian heroes, gain some appreciation of the bravery of his forefathers.

A catalogue of the interesting and rare things which the museum contains it would be impossible to give, but some idea of what it contains may be gained from the following list of some of its treasures:—

The scarlet tunic and sword of General Brock, the hero of Queenston Heights; General Wolfe's pig's hair; De Salaberry's battle flag, the first Union Jack that came to Canada after the union of England and Ireland; a piece of oak from "La Petite Herminette," one of Jacques Cartier's ships; letters signed by de Vimont, Dollard de LaPatrie and Tavernier, Nelson and the Duke of Wellington, Queen Elizabeth, Charles the First, and Second George Washington, Henry the Fourth of France, a piece of the coin given by the Indians who were living on the site of the city of Montreal when Jacques Cartier landed.

It is a collection in Mr. McCord's opinion which the British Museum would be glad to get.
